God has been thought of as some external power, whose kingdom was not of this earth. But now we realize that the kingdom of God is of the stuff now apparent, the proper correlation of our desires, affections, and actions. Salvation is not a matter of saving human atoms, but of ushering in the harmony of the common life.

In explaining this, Christ constantly used illustrations of organic life--the vine and branches, planting seed. The kingdom of God is the organic relationship between men and the spiritual forces.

Organic life has three tests: First, there is an intrinsic relationship whereby the past gets its meaning from the whole. We see this in the plant--we recognize a twig when we understand the plant from which it cames. The same is true of the mental life--character is unity: if a man's act does not show this relation to his character, we say that he was not himself when he did it. Likewise with society, the individual is connected with the social group; and the individual, as a part, gets his meaning from the whole. The second test of this organic relation is that there shall be growth from within. And the third test is that this growth shall be toward ends manifested in the organism itself. These last two tests, as well as the first, apply to the life of the plant, of the individual, and of society. Social progress must come from within; it cannot be superimposed from without.

These tests of organic life enable us to understand the nature of the Kingdom of God, the organic common life. Here, the individual gets his meaning from the whole; the kingdom grows from within; and it manifests the ends of its own progress.

The social vision is the appreciation of this organic common life. To play his part, the individual must preserve and develop his individual endowment; he must expand his self into his largest self, and realize his organic connection with the common life, the Kingdom of God.

Dr. J. F. Royster spoke before the Fortnightly chapter of Sigma Upsilon of Trinity Friday night. The Odd Number chapter of the University and the Trinity have arranged for an exchange of professors. Dr. Royster took as his subject, "The Modern Drama." He stated that the destinctive and encouraging feature of the modern play was its wide range of subject matter and its daring experimentation.

MONDAY—GREENSBORO

After a heavy April shower had soaked the diamond at Cone Park in Greensboro Monday and had almost made impossible the playing of the second game of the Virginia series the game was played in a pond of mud before a crowd of two thousand people a great many of whom were the happy and gayly clad girls from the State Normal and Greensboro College for Women. The crowd was late arriving on account of the bad weather but they were eager for the game as was evidenced by the rustle and chatting in the grandstand.

After the first few innings the game was all Virginia's way since her heavy artillery just pounded the ball almost at will after once getting the bang of Aycock's curves. White and Neff did the heavy hitting for the Virginians and they were ably aided by their teammates who also hit the ball on the nose. Some misplays on the part of Carolina aided some in the scoring.

Carolina started the run column in the second inning when Capt. Bailey singled, went to second on a sacrifice and rode home on a slashing single by Aycock. But sad to relate our runs had been used up in this one inning. Capt. Neff wisely retired from the mound in the third inning after the bombardment of the Tar Heels. James replaced him and was quite effective, no more runs being secured thereafter and only a very few lonesome hits, Hardison singled twice.

Watkins relieved Aycock in the eighth with the bases full and did excellent pitching. The inability of the team to hit is the obvious cause of the several defeats.

TUESDAY—CHARLOTTE

Before a frantic crowd of Davidson students and a good assembly of Charlotte citizens Carolina lost the game Tuesday to Davidson 5 to 0. Lack of pep, the presence of good, genuine ivory, and the loss of our hitting shoes was all the matter with Carolina, and the way the Davidson bunch did wield the stick and run bases brought home a hard struggle to the Presbyterians.

Williams started for Carolina but was rather ineffective. Davidson scored at times by timely hits after bases on balls and Tar Heel errors had put men on the bags. Watkins pitched the last three innings and did well except for the final frame when Kluttz tripled with two on. This hit would have been an easy out had Long been playing in his proper position for the batter.

But the stars of the game were Osteen who held the University boys to three scattered hits and Witherington who handled cleanly and accurately his chances at third. Osteen's benders were a puzzle, for the University boys could not manage to hit him well. Davidson, in contrast to Carolina, possessed the old pepperine and was on the job from start to end. Some of the Carolina men seemed to take advantage of the beautiful warm afternoon to make up for the loss of sleep of the night before.

CAROLINA LOSES TO VIRGINIA. WINS FROM VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE

Watkins Pitches Good Game. Southpaw Gammon Gives Carolina Four Scattered Hits. Woodall Secures Two Triples.

In the third and last game of the series, Carolina lost to Virginia at Charlottesville Saturday by a score of 6 to 1. Virginia has a little something to boast of now, having won three straight from Carolina and eight victories in a row. That the blue and white put up a game struggle goes without saying. Woodall got two triples, and Watkins pitched better than his usual good game. Southpaw Gammon the Virginia twirler, allowed the visitors four scattered hits. Virginia bunched her hits in the fifth inning. Paschall was safe on Shield's fumble and Phillips walked. Neff drove a single to right field scoring Paschal, and White's single to left registered Phillips and Neff. In the sixth Stickley doubled and counted on Paschall's single over second. The feature was Neff's relay from deep center, nailing Woodall at the home plate. The box score was:

V. M. I. GAME.

Carolina and The Virginia Military Institute had quite a hard fought battle Monday when the blue and white won 5 to 4. The score came very near being tied in the ninth inning when Gallagher, bent on gettiug home, cut third after sliding under Woodall, and was called out. The whole game was intensely interesting. Carolina scored on Woodall's homer in the fourth, Nance's triple, and Shield's double in the third. Carolina rooters saw her add one point to her score on each of Bailey's doubles, and Hardison's, Long's and Woodall's singles in the fifth, and Woodall's triple in the eighth The soldiers got in some good work while Carolina wasn't watching and scored on Pitt's double, Shield's error in the third, Pitt's single, Bulcher's walk, and Gallagher's round trip in the fifth,

CATHOLIC UNI. GAME

The Catholic Vniversity won a 3 to 1 victory over the Varsity Tuesday by a hitting rally in the fifth. Four singles and an error turned the trick in what amounted to almost a pitcher's duel with Aycock getting a little the worst of it.

Karl Bailey's walk and Hardison's hit gave the Varsity its lone run in the first.

Woodall showed his peg by foiling four attempted steals. Everyone was right there but "Red", who was left out.

TENNIS TEAM GOES SOUTH

Charlotte Gets Intercollegiate Tournament.

The Varsity Tennis Team, which is to say Oates and Chambers, who are serving their third term in that capacity, will leave for Charlotte Saturday to represent Carolina in the Southern Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament to be held in that city May 4th and following days. For the first time in several years this annual tournament, which is of course the biggist event in Southern intercollegiate tennis, is being held in a North Carolina city. In 1911 and 1912 Atlanta had it and in 1913 Columbia. This year Oates, who is vice-president of the Sothern Association, has made arrangements for the the tournament to be held under the auspices of the Mecklenburg County Club at Charlotte. This has the advantage of being near enough to the colleges farther south, and at the same time far enough north to be accesible to institutions in North Carolina and Virginia. For this reason teams are expected from a number of colleges that have heretofore been unable to participate; and an unusually good tournament is anticipated. Besides Carolina, Trinity, Davidson, South Carolina, Clemson, and Georgia are certain to be represented, and there is a strong possibility that Alabama, Auburn, Georgia Tech., and several Virginia colleges may send teams.

The outcome of the tournament is decidedly conjectural, probably more so than usual. Last year Clemson took first place and Carolina second. Both are expected to bid strongly for honors this year. But South Carolina and Georgia both return there, and Trinity has a three year team. Then, too, new entries may complicate the contest. Virginia is known to have a good team and in the event of its entering might develop into a formidable contestant. At any rate, the weather permitting, there will be some good tennis at Charlotte next week and the winner of the championship will claim no mean title.

Dr. Charles L. Parsons

Dr Charles L. Parsons, chief chemist of the U. S. Bureau of Mines and general secretary of the American Chemical Society, will deliver an interesting lecture on "The Radium Situation" before the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society on Saturday night, May 2, at 8 p. m. in Chemistry Hall. Numerous specimens are to be shown. The public is invited to attend this lecture.

Red Litchfield Sick.

The Carolina team had to leave one of its best players, Red Litchfield, left fielder, in Lexington on account of fever. Nothing more detailed has yet been learned.

ANNUAL OUTDOOR PLAYERS

Unusual Attraction Here on May 8.

Mr. C. T. Woollen has secured an unique dramatic treat in the Frank Lea Short Company for May 8, when that organization will present two of the most charming comedies of the present day In the evening they will present Edmond Rostand's "The Romancers" and Louis N. Parker "Pomander Walk" in the afternoon.

These two playrights represent what all critics please to term the last word in dramatics. And while their comedies are in every sense of the word academic, they are also more entertaining than any productions from the pens of any other two living dramatists. This is evidenced by the fact that "Pomander Walk" played to capacity houses at Wallack's Theatre in New York for two long seasons, and "The Romancers" which came from the pen of Rostand was played by the famous French comedian Coquelin and Madame Sarah Bernhardt in Paris and by Mrs. Campbell, Royalty Theatre, London. The translation used by Mr. Short of "The Romancers" is the one that Mrs. Campbell used. This latter comedy was brought to America by Mr. Short and has been exceptionally well received at the leading Universities in the United States.

Mr. Short, the director of this company, has been dramatic coach at Yale for the past twelve years and has played a large part in the social advancement of the stage in America. He is a young man but has already become famous for the high calibre of the dramatic sense of his productions and unerring detail of construction.

He has gathered together a strong cast made up of the best actors that could be secured from the winter successes on Broadway Every member of his company ranks high in the profession and several of them are noted for character creations they have appeared in.

Tickets for the engagement may be secured at Eubank's Drug Store, at $1 each or at $1 75 for the two performances.

TENNIS TEAM SUCCESSFUL

Doubles Played Off Wednesday at Trinity.

On Wednesday afternoon Malcolm Oates and Lenoir Chambers the Varsity tennis team, went over to Durham and defeated Trinity in doubles. This afternoon they are there again playin the two singles matches which will decide the meet; Trinity must win both to be the victor.

The doubles match went to four sets, Carolina winning by the scores, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2. The Trinity representatives, Anderson and White, who were defeated by Carolina last year, put up a stubburn fight, and aided by familiarity with the court, threatened more than once to have things their own way. But the superior team work of the Carolinians and greater all-round steadiness won out. Neither Oates nor Chambers played up to form and it was only in the last set that they played as they are expected to next week in Charlotte. Trinity lead in both the first and third set, and it was only after many long dunce games that Carolina won.

TRACK TEAM GOES AFTER BIG GAME

S. A. I. A. A. Meet to be Held in Baltimore

STUDENT CONTRIBUTIONS ARE LIBERAL

With the aid of contributions from the students and faculty, Carolina sent her track team this morning to the 1914 South Atlantic Intercollegiate Meet at Baltimore. At a late hour yesterday the number of men going was still untertain, owing to the incomplete funds.

Monday morning in Chapel Dr. Mangum laid before the students the condition of their athletic treasury and their track team. He pointed out that the Association could furnish only $125, while $300 was necessary to send even a small team. He left it to the students to attend to raising the necessary funds. On Monday and Tuesday nights canvassers were out collecting. About $75 was received in contributions. This necessitated a sharp restriction on the number of men taken.

The team left Thursday morning. Friday is the day of preliminairies in the big meet. And on Saturday, May 2nd the final contests take place. The S. A. I. A. A. is composed of Johns Hopkins, Georgetown, Virginia, V. P. I., Washington & Lee, N. C. A. & M., and Carolina.

DI VICTORIOUS AGAIN

Wins Fresh-Soph Debate After Hot Contest.

In the Fresh-Soph debate held Tuesday night the Di Society won by a two to one vote of the judges Query: Resolved, That the true solution of the trust problem lies in the regulation of combinations rather than in the breaking up of combinations and the restoring of competition.

The Phi Society, represented by V. F. Williams and W. O. Smith, held the affirmative. On the negative were J. F. Hackler and R. M. Ross, of the Di. A. R. Newsom, Di, acted as presiding officer; and Hugh Hester, Phi, was secretary. The judges were Prof. Stacy, Dr. Greenlaw, and Prof. McGehee.

This contest was well up to the standard of the Fresh-Soph debates. A large audience was held interested throughout by the good arguments and the effective presetation, the two sides running exceedingly close for the decision.

STAY TO COMMENCEMENT.

Next to a decent athletic field and a winning football team the thing the Tar Heel dreams of most is a representative crowd of students at Commencement. Candidates for degrees have been present at past Commencements and many of the dancing men, but the large majority of these nine hundred Tar Heels turn their backs on the most interesting feature of the entire year and fight to reach home several days sooner than they otherwise would. This year the authorities have tried to arrange a program that will attract the whole student body. We hope it will; there are numerous interesting events and speakers, and something to suit everyone's taste.

But the most interesting feature of Commencement, the biggest thing you will get out of staying here, the overwhelming reason that makes it worth while, is not to be found in any formal meeting or on any program. What makes Commencement is the Alumni. Stay to Commencement and you will see these sons of the University come swarming back, score by score, for their class reunions, aggressive, enthusiastic, fired with love for the Mother, eager for opportunity to serve. You who think that a nine month's stay in Chapel Hill will make you acquainted with the University of North Carolina are vastly mistaken. The University extends everywhere, and she has no worthier temple than the hearts of her sons. Stay to Commencement and see the Alumni, and you will catch the true University spirit, you will realize the role she plays in the state, you will feel yourself growing larger and bigger and nobler. You will come back next year with a new conception of the University, of your future, of yourself. Stay to Commencement and next year you will thank your stars for the oppotunity to stay.

HELP THE TRACK TEAM.

No more worthy movement can be helped than the track team in its endeavors to get to Baltimore. Here is a team that in the past six years has lost exactly one dual meet, that has always worked hard, and that is in better shape now than it has ever been. It has had only one opportunity to show its worth this year, and by all that's fair, it should be given a chance to prove its mettle alongside of the best teams in this section. The coach, captain, and manager all unite in saying that wonderful improvement has been shown of late and that Carolina has a great chance to redeem an athletic year that has not ranked any too high—if the student body will rise to the occasion.

Help the track team, even if you never helped any other cause, and thereby help yourself

WHERE IS SPRING PRACTICE?

What has become of spring practice? It started out bravely enough some weeks ago, but the first touch of warm weather has seemingly driven it to cover. Are Football men so easily daunted? If they break before the work now, what will they do next fall? There is no question as to the value of the practice. A man who ought to know has said publicly that last year's spring practice enabled three men to make the team who otherwise would not have done so; and other experts agree to the wisdom of the policy. Carolina men who want a winning team next fall more than anything else in the world are not setting out in the right fashion to get it. Let's have something doing in the football line.

IMPORTANT ELECTIONS.

Within the next two weeks elections will come up for nearly all the important offices in the gift of the student body. Class officers, Athletic Association officers, baseball, basketball, and track managers and assistants, Tar Heel, Magazine, and Yackety Yack editors—all will be decided before May 19 when exams begin. The Tar Heel calls attention to these elections in the hope that the student body will reflect seriously upon them. Too often in the past University affairs have been mismanaged as a result of an over-hasty election. Every one of these offices demands some sort of ability; some of the men here have the needed ability and some have not. This student body must decide which is which, and the decision cannot be made on the spur of the moment. Let's think of the future of the University.

The 1914 Summer School.

The University Summer School announcement is out, and one of its chief features is the fact that it is now possible to get a degree by work in the summer school. Math., Physics, Chemistry, Geology, Botany, Education, English, German, Greek, History, Latin, and Library Science are offered during the summer session, which may be counted toward a regular university course. Barring the co-eds there would be a lot of good to be gotten from summer study. With them it is very doubtful.

"SHAG" MAKES IMPRESSION

Coached Winning High School Team at Pikeville.

"Shag" Thompson left college three weeks ago declaring that he was going to put Pikeville on the baseball map with capital black face letters, and he did it. His team has not lost a game as yet and stands a good chance to be one of the two teams here in the High School contest. The The Freshmen play Pikeville there Monday and will receive a return game when Pikeville goes ou it western trip, taking in Raleigh, the University and Greensboro.

Thompson returned to Raleigh in time to take part in the game between Raleigh and the Athletic Yannigans. Out of five trips to the bat he hit safely four times, and on the field left a clean 1000. A Philadelphia paper says the following concerning him:

"'Shag' Thompsom, Connie's latest outfielder recruit, was seen in action both at the bat and in the field. Thompson, the University of North Carolina star and near leader of the North Carolina League last year, is the likeliest looking aspirant for outer-garden honors who has donned a Mack uniform for several years. He has an ideal stature for the job, standing 5 feet 9 inches and weighing 160 pounds. He bats from the left side and has free, easy swing. He gets away from the plate fast and can sprint like a champion in the dashes. All hands were impressed with his actions.

"Thompson starred with the University team in 1912 and 1913, and last year, starting in June, played with Durham, in the North Carolina League. In 48 games he banged out 87 hits, 12 being good for two bases, three for triples and two for the circuit. He laid down 16 sacrifice hits and stole 16 bases. The recruit is only 20 years old. He will not join the team until June, having permission from Manager Mack to finish his studies at college."

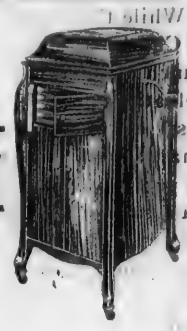
A RAILROAD BOND ISSUE

Something Definite at Last About a Railroad.



Saturday, April 18, Chapel Hill Township and Bingham Township voted on the question of bonding to contribute to the proposed Greensboro, Southern and Atlantic Railroad. Chapel Hill voted favorably by 65 majority and Bingham by 3. Chapel Hill will therefore issue $35,000 worth of bonds and Bingham $15,000, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the railroad provided it is constructed and in operation within three years from date of the vote.

The proposed road up to this time has made arrangements for a line direct from Greensboro to Durham, but this will probably be extended.

Lewis Graves '08 has an article in The Evening Post Saturday Magazine entitled "Treasonable Thoughts in Baseball".

CLASS TEAMS CONTEST

Rivalry Between Classes Waxes Warm.

While the Varsity was battling at Charlottesville, Captain Angel's bunch of doughty warriors were defeating the Sophomores in the best class game ever played in Chapel Hill. The Seniors fielded perfectly, while only one error was chalked up against the Sophomores. Bourne, slab artist for the Sophs, mowed down batters for three innings, mostly via the strike-out-route. Then the Seniors pounded his offerings to all corners of the lot. Angel opened the fourth with a double; Allen and Sloan followed with singles, netting two runs. In the fifth with Darden out, Ransom drove a liner between center and right for the circuit. A hit by Sloan, a stolen base, and a single by Allen brought in the last run of the game. Bourne was hammered for a total of nine hits, while the Sophomores were able to get only three off of Ranson's delivery. Prevatt did stellar work in left field. A few exhibitions of this sort will land the championship. Freshmen! Juniors! Get ready.

Score:	R.	H.	E.

JUNIOR-FRESH.

It didn't take Ratty to beat the Freshmen Monday afternoon. The Juniors actually beat them by the close score of 6 to 5. Though the contest was slow, at times it was very exciting and was characterized by some heavy hitting. A rally by the Freshmen toward the last came to naught, but it kept the game from being a walk-over. The hitting of Woltz, who secured three hits driving in four runs, and the work of Whitaker at short featured for the Juniors, while the particular features for the Freshmen were the three-baggers by Cagle and Goodson, each coming with two on. The outcome of the contest gives evidence of a close championship race.

The Junior line-up was: Manning, 1b., Dowd, 3b., E. Edgerton 2b.; Whitaker, ss., Gilman, rf., G. Edgerton, cf., Woltz, c., McCall, lf., Mebane, p. The Freshmen: Allen, 2b., Goodson, lf., Coleman, p., Groom, 3b., Bob Burnette, 1b., Valley, ss., Cowell f., Alderman, cf., Tate, c.. The Freshmen later substituted Burnette, c., Proctor, rf., Cagle, p., and Ranson, 2b.

SOPH-FRESH.

Hoopee Girls! Did you see those Freshmen hit Wednesday? Some game! See below.

With Bourne in the box and Joyner receiving, the stouch upholders of the glory of the green seemed to connect with the pill ever so often. The fact is, Bourne was compelled to retire and give Lochran a chance.

Kagle and C. Burnette upheld the Freshmen end of the line until their services were no longer needed. Then Ratty, the younger, did the wind-up which makes the Ranson's famous.

The Freshmen showed up well on bases. Fact is, they were regular thieves.

The score:	R.	H.	E.

JUNIOR-SENIOR.

Did you see the game Tuesday? Well, the Juniors beat the Seniors 12 to 8. That, however, does not complete the story for it must be admitted that the contest was really entertaining. Captain Angel's twirler was not as effective as usual and this, combined with the extremely poor fielding support of his teammates was the real cause of the defeat. Left fielder Peel made the feature catch of the day, pulling down a long line drive with his bare hand. Things were made equal though by the playing of Cy Long in right field. Both sides made some exceedingly difficult plays and their efiorts are greatly to be commended.

The line-up was: Juniors—Manning, 1b., Fields, 2b., Edgerton, 3b., Whitaker, ss, Woltz, c Dowd, p., McCall, lf., Edgerton G., cf., Mebane, rf. Seniors—Lord, 1b., Allen, 2b., Sloan, 3b., Darden, ss., Angel, c., Ranson, p., Prevatt, lf., Love, cf., Cy Long, rf.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

It is about time for the man who at the beginning of the Mexican trouble, wanted "to trade an excellent army rifle for a good pair of running shoes" to swap back; for it looks like he will have no further use of the running shoes.

And to think that all that Red Cross exercise was in vain! The feat of carrying General Bacot across the field of battle will probably never be executed on a field. Nor, when the shells are bursting, and hissing bullets are sending thousands to eternity, will Doctor Dey (Three months in the county jail!)

Junior Week was a peach, doubtless. And weren't there a lot of them here. They have a right to think that Chapel Hill is the best place in the world. It is when they are here; and that's the only time they see it. But perhaps they don't like themselves as well as we like them. But that's where they should worry.

If the faculty would only teach us in the same way they play baseball there would be a great many less failures on examinations. Perhaps this is the solution to the problem. At any rate, we submit this to the consideration of all dishonest people.

But look what's ahead of us. Everybody better start working right now. Two weeks steady, hard working on the reviews will keep many a man from failing. Two weeks work now is better than a terms work next fall. The inference is obvious, as the mother said to her little boy as she pointed with a hickory switch to a wood pile in the yard and an empty wood box in the kitchen.

R. T. Bryan '15, who has lived much of his life in China, spoke in the Presbyterian church Sunday night on that country.

P. W. Fetzer of Reidsville, who is a member of the second year med class, was initiated into the K. S. fraternity Saturday.

Prof. H. H. Williams delivered the commencement address at the Gatesville High School Friday.

COMMENCEMENT, THE GALA WEEK OF THE COLLEGE YEAR, WILL BEGIN MAY 31

Class Day Exercises, Society Banquet, Class Reunions, Promise to be Most Enjoyable Yet. William C. Redfield and Agustus Van Wyck to Speak

PLANS FOR DANCES ARE YET UNCERTAIN. ALUMNI BALL GAME WILL BE A FEATURE.

The Commencement exercises this year show every indication of being among the best ever held at The University. The exercises have been planned so as to be of interest to both alumni and to students. They will be entirely different from any exercises held at The University during the year, and it will be worth while to, stay and see them. As the programme shows, the faculty have not let a chance go by to get good speakers. Rev. Edgar P. Hill, D. D., who is to deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon is a noted clergyman of Chicago. The Rev. O. Brown, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn. was to have preached the sermon before the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday evening, but is unable to fill the engagement on account of the serious illness of his wife, This place will be fille however, by R. W. Hogue, St. Johns Episcopal church, Baltimore, formerly Rector of the Chapel of the Cross of Chapel Hill.

Who wouldn't like to be present when the Seniors in caps and gowns line up in front of Memorial Hall to march to chapel for prayers, and then to follow them in Chapel wher the class day exercises are to be held? There will be heard President Leach's farewell address to his classmates, the class orators speech in presenting the class present to The University, and the vociferations of the contestants for the Mangum Medal. Then at five o'clock when the shadows on the campus are beginning to grow longer the Seniors will assemble under the Davie Poplar to read the last will and testament, the history, and the prophecy, and to smoke the pipe of peace. Everybody will then have to hurry home to supper to get ready for the annual joint banquet of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies in the Dining Hall. This is always one of the most enjoyable events of Commencement, and with Kornegay and Boushall representing the Phi, and Eutsler and Martin representing the Di there will certainly be no lack of good speakers. After the banquet the societies will hold anniversary meetings in their respective halls. To hear the Alumni tell about their college days, and the other interesting things they always tell on this occasion will alone make it worth while to stay for Commencement.

On Tuesday 2, Judge Augustus Van Wyck, one of Carolina's most distinguished Alumni, will make the alumni address. Judge Van Wyck was the third honor man of the class of 1864 in which only ten men graduated. In his Sophomore year he was class declaimer, and in his Junior year was a marshall. At commencement of his senior year he was to have delivered the Senior oration, but at that time he was delivering something hotter than a class oration in June to the Union army at some point in Virginia, possibly Bull Run or Appomattox. The reunion exercises of the classes of 1864, 1889, 1894, 1904, 1909, will then follow, together with the Alumni luncheon and Alumni baseball games in the afternoon, Tuesday night the debate between the two societies and the Faculty Reception in the library will be held, Wednesday morning the Faculty and graduates line up in front of the Alumni building and march with the band to Memorial Hall. The exercises there will be begun with the commencement address by Secoetary of Commerce William C. Redfield, the tariff specialist, who, however, will not speak on the tariff. Then the President will announce the winners of the various prizes, the degrees conferred and the Bibles presented, Then everything will be over but the dances, which will start Wednesday night. As yet nothing definite is known about the dances; where they will be held, where the music will come from is all conjecture, but they will be fine. The details can not be given here, but every man who stays to commencement is guaranteed a good time that he will long remember.

The following averages are for the entire season of 1914.

CAROLINA TAKES THE FOURTH PLACE

Annual S. A. I. A. A. Track Meet at Hopkins with Eight Colleges.

CAROLINA SCORES THIRTEEN POINTS.

Due to the decisive enthusiasm of Manager "Pap" Whitaker, the valuable assistance of Coach Kent J. Brown, and the sympathetic support of the student body, manifested by financial contributions, Carolina was represented by ten men in the South Atlantic Intercollegiate Track Meet at Baltimore, May 2 and 3, winning 13 points, and fourth place in the list of eight competing colleges.

On the first day of the meet, Friday, May 2, the preliminaries to all events except the mile and two miles were run off. Carolina had the following men to qualify: Sears, 100 yards; Smith, 220 yards; Patterson, quarter; Whiting, half; Woolcott, broad jump; and Strong and Homewood, pole vault.

Scores in the finals on the next day were made as follows:

Strong, tied for first in the pole vault	4 points
Sears, third in 100	2 "
Smith, third in 220	2 "
Cobb, third in 2 miles	2 "
Woollcott, fourth in broad jump	1 "
Patterson, fourth quarter	1 "
Whiting, fourth in half	1 "
Total	13 "

This gave Carolina fourth place among the eight competitors:

Virginia	57 points
Georgetown	31 "
Hopkins	30 "
Carolina	13 "
V. P. I.	10 "
W. & L.	1 "
St. Johns	0 "
Total	142 "

This was the third annual S. A. I. A. A. meet, all three having been held on the superb field of Johns Hopkins University, Homewood Athletic Park. The meet was well directed by the officials, and all the events were hotly contested by the concentrated rivalry of the many big institutions. Carolina's part in the contest, while not victorious, was at least a creditable one. Our representation there must be continued, if we expect to claim recognition in South Atlantic Track Athletics, and if we expect our track team to grow with the teams of our sister institutions.

"Red" Back on the Job.

"Red" Litchfield who was left in the V. M. I. hospital when the team played at Lexington returned Saturday after a week's tussle with fever. He is feeling tip-top now. His absence from the team for the trip further north was felt both in the playing and in the social way.

Frank Graham has been in attendance at the John R. Mott campaign at Washington and Lee University.

CLASSES ELECT OFFICERS

Exciting Campaign Offers Keen Suprises.

The rising senior class Thursday afternoon elected officers for their last year as follows: George Eutsler over B. L. Field, President, O. C. Nance, Vice-President, J. T. Day, Sec. and Treas., W. P. Fuller, Historian, D. H. Killeffer, Poet, B. L. Field, Representative on the Greater Council. R. G. Fitzgerald, Prophet, Paty, Orator, Boushall, Last Will and Testament The class voted to declare the vice-president a member of the Greater Council, thereby making this office one of trust as well as honor.

The rising juniors elected McDaniel Lewis, President, F. F. Bradshaw, Vice-President, J. M. Parker, Secretary, F. H. Cooper, Treasurer, W. B. Umstead, Historian, R. B. House, Orator, Thorpe, Poet, Meb Long, Greater Council.

The Freshmen elected E. S. Mackie, President, W. L. Polk, Vice-President, E. S. Booth Secretary, Graham Ramsay, Treasurer, O. Rand and W. R. Allen, Greater Council, C. C. Daniels, Historian, Moses Rountree, Poet, S. C. Hodgin, Orator.

Track Captain Elected.

Phil Woolcott has been elected captain of the Track team for next year. Phil has been a varsity track man for three years and eminently deserves the place. In fact there was no contest for the election, In his Freshman year Woolcott sprang into fame first in the class meet when he copped 20 1-2 points for the Fresh men, getting first on the two hurdles, high jump, and broad jump. He raised the high jump record for the University from 5.6 to 5.8. The latter is a state record.

In the state meet he got in his first year a first and second, and last year two firsts. At V. P. I. in a dual meet with that college he got two first places and one second place. Since the beginning of his track career he has scored 64 points in seven meets for Carolina which makes him without a doubt Carolina's biggest point getter for this period.

The Athletic Council has made the following awards, Claidorne Smith, a sweater; Sears, Spence, Patterson, Whiting, Woollcott, Strong, Cobb, stars. Whitaker received a managers sweater.

Dr. Henderson was taken into Omega Delta Saturday.

THE LAST WORD.

The simplest and wisest thing to do when you have come to the end of your row is to wipe the perspiration from your brow, store your tools in the proper place, take up the next job at hand, and keep your mouth shut. With this issue of The Tar Heel the present board of editors turns in its last bunch of copy, corrects its last proof, ceases to worry about that meeting of the Elisha or that baseball game, and turns to thoughts of exams and commencement. But unsimply and unwisely though it be, we refuse to give up the ghost without one final fling. The feminist movement has left enough of impress to show the value of the last word.

And having said that much and having considered the proposition a little more, we are forced to the conclusion that when you come right down to faets, there is not much more that we can say. We were given a piece of work to do; we have done it, in some fashion at least, and if there is anything more, why, the burden of proof is upon our paymasters, our sovereign lords, the people, the Athletic Association of the University of North Carolina. That august body is the final judge; its word counts more with us than anyone else's, though sometimes that is not so much after all. To the Athletic Association, then, we respectfully lift our hats and hereby sincerely express our thanks for all the fun and all the worry that the year has brought. There have been enough of both, goodness knows. When things do go right in a newspaper office, it is the prettiest, smoothest business in the world; but when they do go wrong, when your reporters chase off to Durham and leave an important assignment uncovered, when the typesetter slips in an extra s and changes LIGHTS to BLIGHTS, when the belt on the press breaks thirty minutes before mail time, all of which things have happened, why, running a newspaper, even a college weekly, takes its honored place with the immortals as a provoker of profanity. But the fun we have had wouldn't be of much good without the worry and so we suppose the accounts must balance.

At least that's the way it looks now. Running back over the year leads only to pleasant reflections. The dark spots can be seen if we look for them, but on the whole the view is clear and though not entirely satisfying (what plans and hopes we had!), we shall not here apologize for short-comings. Our record is open to be judged. The public knows everything that we have done and everything that we have left undone; there have been no secrets with our trust. It has been a big experience, any way you look at it, and we miss our guess if the whole board has not come out of the fray with a larger view of life in general, and of the University of North Carolina in particular.

The University of North Carolina—there you hit the mark. The Tar Heel is The Tar Heel and its editors are its editors, but through every word that has been published in this paper by these men, through the big majority of the thoughts that have run through our heads this year has been the overwhelming idea of the University. Whatever we have done, we have done because we thought it would benefit the University; whatever we have left undone, we have left undone because we thought it would not benefit the University. The good of the University has been our aim this year and shall be our aim, please God, for many a long year to come.

Well, it's all over. As a very distinguished American has said "with malice toward none, with charity to all" the Tar Heel for 1913-1914 slips quietly into the record of the ages. Gentlemen all, good bye and God bless you.

The class of 1909 has undertaken to have a real reunion this commencement. Heretofore at the class reunions there have been a handful or two of old men back for the occasion, but this year the students will see a real, live class reunion. Frank Graham and Charlie Tillett of Charlotte have been working steadily on the reunion throughout the year and have reached or have arranged to come in touch with every member of the class. The good to the University to be derived from these class reunions is incalculable. The alumni come back to the University, once more into the real college spirit, come into an understanding of the real changes in college, and the real needs of the University. It is through this kindly sympathy and interest on the part of the alumni that the University can accomplish great things.

The Dramactic Club held elections last week with the result that Marmaduke Cox is now President; J. S. Bryan, vice-President; F. O. Clarkson, Manager; H B. Black, Assistant Manager; and Oliver Smith, Sec. & Treas. The association decided to pay its Yackety Yack bill out of its $153.22 surplus and then blow the rest on a feed for all its members. Some dividends!

WOODALL 1915 CAPTAIN

Popular Backstop Chosen at Princeton.

Lawrence Woodall was elected captain of the 1915 Carolina base ball team at the dinner given at Nassau Inn in Princeton, N. J. just after Carolina had ended her 1914 season with a hard battle against the Tigers.

The Carolina team could have made no better choice for a field leader than "Woody". He is the best college catcher in the state caught every inning of the past season, a record which few college catchers can claim for a season's work. He has been the mainstay of the team and used his good baseball talent in developing and supervising the pitchers. Our pitchers speak in highest terms of the excellent backstop.

Larry has had much experience in the baseball world. He had played for two years with Wake Forest as catcher and outfielder and last year led his team in hitting. The past season was his third year of college baseball and his selection as captain of the fourth and last college team he shall be eligible to play on is certainly a fitting climax to his glorious career. "Woody" is still a youngster but is a steady and dependable player. He was the was the hardest hitter on the though he did not lead in the actual per cent of hits.

MONOGRAMS AWARDED

Eleven Baseball Men Given Sweaters or Stars.

The Athletic Council met Tuesday and awarded Baseball Varsity Honors. Those receiving sweaters were Woodall, Long Hardison, Shields, Lewis, Litchfield, Williams, and Watkins. Those receiving stars are Capt. Bailey, Hubert Bailey, and Ben Aycock. For the first time in the history of the University the Manager of the team receives a N. C. sweater also. This differs from the regular monogram only in that a small "M" is placed on the lower end of the monogram.

Of the men on this year's team the following men will in all probability be in the University next year: Woodall, Williams, Watkin Hardison, Shields, Lewis, Litchfield, and Bailey. The only two who are not intending to return are right fielder Long, who batted .364, and Capt. "Rabbit" Bailey, who finishes his fourth year of Varsity ball.

Society Elects Officers.

Saturday night the Di Society elected its representatives on The Magazine and Tar Heel boards for the coming year. The University Magazine is published by the two literary societies alone, and each of them elect three associate editors each year, electing on alternate years the editor-in-chief and the business manager. The Yackety Yack is published by the two societies and the fraternities and the editors are elected by these three organizations as The Magazine editors are elected by the two societies. The men elected to The Magazine board were: George Eutzler, Editor-in-chief; Associates, G. A. Martin, T. C. Linn, Jr., and J. A. Capps; assistant business managers, F. H. Deaton and W. R. Hunter. The men elected to The Yackety Yack board were: associates, J. F. Hackler, W. Doub Kerr, and B. D. Field; business manager, O. C. Nance.

Velvet
THE SMOOTHEST TOBACCO

Like the Lawford stroke, the more you try it the more fascinating is Velvet, the tobacco. The best leaf aged over 2 years—time is the only process. Tobacco matured in this fashion is rare—it's too smooth to irritate or "bite." It's a pleasure to carry such a smoke as Velvet in your pocket—it's extremely companionable! You need it! Coach Trenchard Will Have Football Men at Lake Kanuga

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES ARE ARRANGED

Members of varsity squad, class teams, and athletes intending to enter the University next fall who are or may become eligible for our teams may report at camp Kanuga on July 15, or as soon afterwards as possible until September 1st, when camp will break Mr. George Stephens, Charlotte, N. C., one of our prominent alumni has very generously provided living and training quarters, the use of the lake and grounds for our athletes, which reduces each man's expense to transportation each way, and his share of the expense of cost of food and a cook and helper, which will not exceed $5 a week. Lake Kanuga is situated five miles south of Hendersonville, N. C. on a beautiful mountain lake of the same name. It is one of the most beautiful resorts in the "Land of the Sky", and is equipped with all modern conveniences, local and long distance telephones, electric lights, water system, and pure drinking water. The Lake is well stocked and the fishing is very good good. An automobile line is run at regular intervals from Hendersonville to the Kanuga.

The camp will be under the supervision of Dr. Charles Mangum, U. N. C. Medical Faculty, who is an alumnus, a member of the Faculty Committee on Athletics, and the General Alumni Athletic Committee, and who will act as Camp Physician; Mr. George Stephens, Member of the Board of Trustees, Chairman of the General Alumni Athletic Committee; and Chairman of the Residence Committee; and Head Coach T. G. Trenchard. This Committee will insist upon orderly and gentlemanly conduct at all times.

Men who are deficient in their entrance or University work will have an opportunity to get up this work under experienced alumni teachers, who have offered their services, and that too without salary.

The daily grogram will be:

7:30—Rise and take plunge in lake.
8:00—Breakfast.
8:30-9:30—Work on football rules plays, strategy, and tactics.
9:30-11:30—Scholastic work.
12:30—Dinner.
1:00-3:00—Free period,
3:00-5:00—Football practice on field.
5:00-6:00—Free period.
6:00-6:30—Swimming.
6:45—Supper.
Retiring not later than midnight.

The football work will take the place of Spring Football Practice this year, which has been greatly handicapped by inadequate grounds, because of many athletes engaging in other sports, and doiug class work. It will consist of punting, drop kicking, place kicking, forward passing, catching kicks and forward passes, tackling, short sprints, signal practice, and running through plays, blocking and interfering, how to play the different positions, study of plays, strategy and tactics of the game, and the rules for 1914. The summer training camp will give the coaches greater time to study their next season's material and develop them, and to get them into better condition for the early games. There will be no attempt to train the men strictly, or diet them, only by the exercise they get, which will give them a better foundation for harder training as the season advances.

The alumni are invited to visit us, and the alumni players to help us with the coaching when ever they can.

In addition to ordinary summer wear, the men should bring along with them their uniforms and equipment for football, baseball, basketball, tennis, and swimming, khaki or duck trousers, sweater, flannel shirts, pair of heavy walking shoes, rubber coat, two or three pairs of blankets, pillow, towels, fishing tackle, and the class books they desire coaching on.

All athletes desiring to go to the camp should let Coach Trenchard know as soon as possible, and state time of arrival rnd length of stay.

The Coaching School.

Messrs. G. K. G. Henry and W. W. Rankin, Jr. will extend the lamp of learning this summer to anybody who desires enlightenment along the dark path of education. They intend to conduct a coaching school from July 28 to September 9 by attending which students will be prepared to do better work during the collegiate year. The University will accept certificates of the coaching school.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

Business before pleasure, always; even in the dictionary. To take light away from the subject, mankind probably, works in the first part of the day and leaves his festivities for the secondary part, thus placing his business before his pleasure. The cannibals of the adventure book always used to perform the business of boiling our ancestors (though some of our ancestors may have had the subjective role instead of the objective, in that process) before they took the pleasure and delight of eating them. This axiom is observed, however, only by people of reason and maturity. The little boy, for instance, (who has reasoning ability just like a joggle-board: one end up, then the other) generally places his pleasure first. He enjoys the extreme pleasure of eating a large quanity of green apples. There is pleasure; the real business follows later. A mule, as every one will vouch for, is an animal without reasoning; his business end always comes behind. Si, in the funny paper, used to always get mixed up in the mule's business. Even in a circus parade the business part of the circus, the manager, always marches in the van. So we, the editors of that perfect periodical, The Tar Heel, drop our business of editing, and give way ,o the pleasure of examinations. May they be a joy to us, at any rate until the report is received in June! Then there will probably be beefing and lashing of tongues.

Y. M. C. A. HOLDS PICNIC

Prof. Noble Presents "Rally Day" to Community.

A recent event of wide interest in the county was the union Sunday School picnic given under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. at Purefoy's Mill. An address was made by Prof. M. C. S. Noble who brought before the people the plan and purpose of Rally Day which will be held at the University in the fall. Prof. Noble is very close to the people in the country around Chapel Hill and they have expressed the purpose to join more heartily in the movement to have the country people spend a day at the University this fall. From exhibits, moving picture shows, singing contests, information addresses, will constitute a part of the Rally Day program.

Mr. A. O. Brown of the Corn Club division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture made a common sence talk on farming methods and the value of the corn clubs and tomato clubs.

Fried chicken, country ham, pies and cakes in abundance were spread in the shade under the trees for the happy crowd.

In the baseball game the Sunday School boys defeated the student teachers by the score of 5 to 4. Hancock and Sparrow out-batterred Parker and Reasoner.

BARNETT FUND TO DATE

R. B. House Has Done Good Work on the Fund.

The following is an account of the Barnett Mission Fund donated by the students and faculty of the University to the support of a Carolina man, Eugene E. Barnett, now secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in the student centre at Hangchaw, China. R. B. House, chairman of the Barnett fund, has made the following summary from his account book separating the amount by buildings and collectors.

Building and Collector	A'mt
Uni. Inn, C. A. Sloan	$ 5.60
Main Street, J. F. Jarrell	8.70
Smith, F. F. Bradshaw	10.70
Old West, C. W. Beckwith	11.30
Carr, McD. Lewis and J. M. Parker	12.25
New West, L. H. Edwards	16.95
Old East, F. W. Norris and F. O. Clarkson	18.65
South, J. S. Huske and F. Wood.	38.45
New Dormitories, A. O. Bryan	44.20
Faculty, by Dr. Herty, agent and per se	35.00
Faculty, Collier Cobb, Jr.	23.00
Alumi, E. W. Turlington and W. L. Cooper,	8.00
Miscellaneous,	41,05
Total	$273.85
Paid to E. T. Colton, Internation Committee New York toward Barnett's support	$205.00
Remainder	$ 68.00

Robert House expects to send in another check of over a hundred dollars in a few days and close out the Barnett account for the year 1913-1914. This will be possible provided the men who have subscribed will realize their obligation and make prompt payment.

Carolina takes pride in the great work of her own representative at a point of urgent need in the heart of awakened China.

Community Club Extends Activity.

Coincident with her visit to the Community Club of Chapel Hill last week, Mrs. Maude VanBuren, of Wisconsin, who is identified with the International Civic Clubs organization, spoke to an audience of two hundred negroes last Thursday night on civic cleanliness. She laid special emphasis upon home sanitation and community beautifying, showing what part the negro boys and girls might have in making their homes and communities airy and healthy. Mrs. VanBuren's talk, given under the auspices of the Community Club and the Y. M. C. A., supplements the work of Dr. J. M. Bell, Dr. W. C. Coker and Dr. W. B. McNider who recently spoke on health and hygienic welfare to good sized audiences in the three negro churches.

Commencement Invitations.

Chief Marshall, Little, has received the commencement invitations. The design is the "latest" from Tiffany, New York. The style is attractively simple and up-to-date in every detail. They can be obtained from R. E. Little, C. E. Ervin or B. L. Field. Prices are as usual, ten cents each, three for a quarter, a dollar a dozen. As usual, the supply is limited, of course.

J. A. Capps and H. M. Blalock have been initiated recently into the Dramatic order of Satyrs.

STRONG END TO A WEAK SEASON

Carolina Drops an Easy One to Navy and Fights Princeton Hard

WATKINS AND WILLIAMS DO THE TWIRLING

The Navy took a big lead on Carolina in the first inning of the game at Annapolis April 29, and before Carolina's youthful infield could gather itself together the Middies had scored five runs with only one hit, a scratch. The pitching of Watkins deserved better support for with a wet ball he pitched up to his usual high standard. Only a few hits were made off of him in the five innings that were played. The game was called at the end of the fifth on account of a heavy shower. But for loose playing in the first inning the many Middies out would have seen a hot contest, Carolina men were hitting hard and had scored one run in the first round.

PRINCETON, APRIL 30.

The game at Princeton April 30, was a strong ending for a weak season. Carolina had the game won by 2 to 2 count until in the eighth with two out Williams walked two men. The next man was struck out but the umpire thought differently. Then after fouling a half dozen strikes the batter lifted a high fly to right field. Nance misjudged the ball and two men scored. In the ninth an error and a hit put two men on for Carolina. With two out Karl Bailey wrestled with Copeland's curves and managed only to fly out to left field.

Williams pitching was again a feature, for he allowed only four bingles. He also secured a single. Shields made a pretty pick-up near second and threw out his man. Hubert Bailey stabbed one in right center after a hard sprint. Long and Hardison each found two hits while Hardison stole two bases. The team worked brilliantly on the unaccustomed grass diamond and showed extra measures of pep. The game was ours from one point of view—but from another—the same old story.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL SERIES NARROWS DOWN. EIGHT SERVICE

Championship Game to be Played in Chapel Hill May 16. One Team from East and One from the West. Semi Finals 9th.

The grand series between all the high school baseball teams in North Carolina, which has been conducted under the supervision of the University has been sifted down until only eight teams are left in the contest. Practically every high school in the state has been a participant in this state-wide contest and great credit is due the eight teams surviving. These eight teams are the only ones out of the whole state which have won seventy-five per cent of their games with other high schools of the state, and are therefore the only ones eligible to play in the final series. This final series begins Saturday, May 9, with games in four of the eight successful towns, two games in the Eastern section and two in the Western. The two winning teams in each section of the state play on Wednesday, May 13, to decide which teams come to Chapel Hill on May 16 for the final game which determines the championship of the state.

At the beginning of the base ball season letters were sent to practically every high school in North Carolina notifying them of the conditions of the contest. Of course no games were arranged for any of the schools. Each high school played its own schedule, and in determining each school's eligibility for the finals only the games played with other high schools of this state were considered. The teams which won seventy-five per cent of their schedule, or won four high school games and lost none were declared eligible for the final series.

The four teams from the east who play are Kinston at NewBern Pikeville at Rocky Mount, May 9. From the west Asheville at Gastonia, and Sylvan at Huntersville.

The two winners in each section play on May 13. Then on May 16 the winners of these games, one team from the east, one from the west, come to Chapel Hill and play the final game.

DR. CHNRLES L. PARSONS

Talks on Radium Situation in America.

Dr. Charles L. Parsons, chief chemist of the Bureau of Mines, and general secretary of the American Chemical Society, lectured before a large gathering of students and faculty on the Radium Situation Saturday night in Chemistry Hall.

He began by giving a list of statistics which gave place to a lecture which no one could fail to understand.

The richest deposits of radium are located in America in Utah and Colorado. The great scarcity of of the material and difficulty of extracting it from its ore has made it the most expensive substance known, one milligram of radium bromide being valued at $120. It is so slowly produced from the ore that the total production of this country last year amounted to only about fifteen grams most of which was exported to Europe. The difficulty of production may be realized when one considers that one ton of the ore contains less than about a milligram of radium.

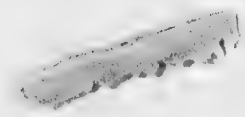
After a more or less superficial survey of the properties of metal, Dr. Parsons went into considerable detail about its remarkable cures of the dreaded disease, cancer. He believes that almost any cancer can be cured by radium treatment, provided the treatment is applied early enough in the disease. However, he made it very clear that no claims were made that it would cure a case in the very last stages of its growth or that it could in any way restore life. To illustrate his point, he showed many illustrations of cases which had and which had not been cured by radium application.

He finished by speaking of the radium institutes, of which there are four in the world, and of the projected one to be erected at Denver to supply the rapidly increasing demand for the substance.

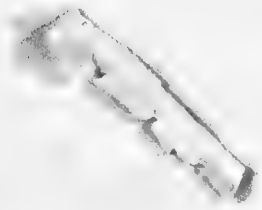
NEXT YEARS STAR COURSE

Five Numbers at Higher Cost Than Six Before.

Tired of minor league attractions at Carolina, the Y.M. C. A. expressing the sentiment of students and faculty has signed up with "The Big League" for five of the biggest and costliest attractions that they—, the Alkahest System—, has to offer for the year 1914-15. The five numbers that they have booked cost a whole lot more than six numbers that have ever appeared on Gerrard platform before. And as compared with past numbers in talent? Oh, well that goes without saying.



First in popularity, humor, and originality and first on the program is the Edwin R Weeks Company. The "Weeks Trio" number three years ago captured the whole community. And the song on "Immortal Jug Whitaker" will be remembered by all the old heads on the campus. Mr. Weeks enters into the life of the campus and gives expression to it on the platform.



The next number brings four of the best looking girls that ever hit the Hill—"The Mendelssohns coached by Louis R. Runner in music and coquetry.

For the high esthetic natures and society fliers comes "The Riheldoffer—Shibinsky Company" Grand Opera mind you; and the highest paid number on the program.

The novelty number, if anyone can be singled out as such, is "Ross Crane". "Ross" has been here before and he made a palpable hit, for he has got the stuff. Crane, the cartoonist, the painter, the sculptor, the humorist, the philosopher.

The last and therefore the best will be "The Dunaway Concert Company" presenting "The Lady of the Decoration". We get ten changes of costumes in this presentation and a whole lot more other stuff. You see the curtain on the last act has got to fall on something good.

VOL. 23 UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1914 NO. 1

BRIGHTEST PROSPECTS MARK OPENING OF THE UNIVERSITY

President Graham and Dean Stacy Talk to Students Changes in The Faculty Campus Changes

President E. K. Graham officially opened the 120th session of the University of North Carolina and his administration as President in Memorial Hall before 1,000 students and faculty on noon Thursday. The seven Deans of the Departments, Ex-President Battle, Rev. Moss of the Presbyterian church, and President Graham occupied the platform.

After an opening prayer by Rev. Moss the student body sang the University Hymn. President Graham then made the announcements regarding faculty changes, physical changes and improvements and the enrollment to date. He then introduced Prof. Stacy, newly appointed Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, who addressed the audience on the subject of Regulations. President Graham made a speech in which he touched on the influence of the great European war on Southern education. He said, "The war will result in the greatest opportunity ever given to college men for service."

"Hail to Carolina" was sung by the student body who were then dismissed with prayer by Rev. Moss. A student rally, which immediately formed outside, gave college yells, prominent among them being one for the "New men" which shows the splendid spirit which has grown up in regard to the freshmen.

President Graham in his speech upset all fears of a subnormal registration by announcing that the latest registration figures showed 855 students registered, which is almost a hundred more than at this time last year. Last year was the University's banner year in the question of attendance. It is probable that the final figures for the year will total close to the 1,000 mark as a large number will register today and in fact the rest of the week. The announcement of the registration figures was greeted with applause.

The changes in the faculty are small. Dr. Venable enters the chemical department after fourteen years in the president's chair which was in turn preceeded by sixteen years in the chemical department. Other additions are Prof. E. C. Branson, Prof. Z. B. Judd, Prof. J. H. Hanford, Prof. Foester and Instructors Dargon and Thornton.

There have been three important changes in the physical equipment of the University. The modern filtration plant is in operation. The new cooperative Dining Hall is open to students. In the matter of food this marks epoch in the history of the college. President Graham also announced that the proposed Emerson Athletic field would probably be finished by the end of the year. This field was promised at last commencement by Dr. Emerson of Baltimore, an alumnus. He is at present in Europe and construction is awaiting his return.

Prof. Stacy explained the spirit of the regulations made by the faculty for the government of the college. There are two conceptions of a college community, declared the Dean, one being that it is a case of the faculty versus the students; the other that the work of the University is a unit.

"The difference between the faculty and the students is largely a matter of age--the hopes, ideals and aims are the same. The great work of the University is the self-development of every individual element. Therefore the only regulations needed are those necessary to ensure the greatest effeciency.

President Graham made an appeal for the larger view and the higher standard of conduct. He declared the student's life here could be made what he wanted it to be. He can either merit the statement that "He lives in a spade wide" or he can live on the "road that leads to the end of the world."

President Graham believes that one good result of the war is making the world realize that it is concerned how the other half lives. The fact that men in North Carolina suffer because of a declaration of war on the other side of the world will eventually hasten the brotherhood of man.

"The opportunity for civilization in the United States will be matchless," he declared. "That will result in the greatest opportunity ever given to college men."

"As to whether you will lead in Southern education will be denermined largely this year" he said, addressing the students.

DR. WEATHERFORD HERE

Speaks to Students To-night at Gerrard Hall

Dr. Weatherford of Vanderbilt, International Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. will speak to the students in Gerrard Hall to-night. Dr. Weatherford is one of the foremost students of negro life in the South and is an orator of no uncertain reputation. He was in his college days a renowned athlete at Vanderbilt. He was here last year for a few days. Dr. Weatherford has a message for all college students.

Monday the football squad was put on the usual pledge of abstinence. About October the first the training table for the boys will be started at Swain Hall.

FOOTBALL SQUAD OFF IN MID SEASON FORM. COACHES BEST IN SOUTH.

Team is Already Far Advanced in Knowledge of the Game. Work of Training Camp at Lake Kanuga Successful.

Led by Head Coach "Doggie" Trenchard and coaches Cunningham and Bluethenthal a squad of more than sixty men have answered the call for fall practice. And have you noticed the appearance of the squad this year? The fellows have a knowledge of the game. They look like veterans.

The preliminary work, such as blocking, punting, falling on the ball, receiving punts, making and receiving passes, is under way. The men are not only being instructed on the field, but at night, talks are given by the coaches, rules are being learned and discussed. Sure, rule books are made to study as well as to contain photographs.

For the first signal practise the team lined up as follows: quarter, Allen; halves, Capt. Tayloe and Fuller; Ervin, Full; ends, Homewood and Grimsley; tackles, Ramsey and Jones; guards, Cowell and Foust; centre, Tandy. All save Grimsley and Jones were from last year's varsity, and Jones was varsity centre two years ago.

Competition? Well, yes. There is a group of men fighting for every position. Among those who are trying to supplant Homewood and Huske as ends are Harry Grimsley, Meb Long, "Icky" Bourne, Love, and Wright of last year's scrubs; Nicholson an ex '11 man, "Babe" Williamson, Coleman; Erwin, a prep man. Williamson starred on the class field last year, while Coleman is one of the best punters on the field.

Red Allen, last year's quarter, will have opposition in Bridges, a star from Castle Heights, and in Valley from last year's A. & M. squad. Bridges is the heaviest, passes well, and is fast.

Capt. Dave Tayloe, "Pling" Fuller, Ervin, and Parker of last year's varsity backfield are back again. Reid, Tennant, Bill Pope, and "Scipio" Burnett were scrubs last year. Promising new men are Blount, Tanner, Black, Pierson, and Denning.

Cowell and Foust, (He of the twinkling toe) have strong opposition at guard. Andrews, Bullock, and Proctor were here last year. Holding C., Price, Nelson, a Fishburne Academy boy, John Tayloe, Capt. Dave's brother, Stucey, Hatsell, and Burgess are promising.

Big Ab's absense leaves a vacancy at tackle. Ramsay, according to Coach Wilson, "the best seventeen year old tackle I ever saw", is again in his position. Among those who are trying for "Capt. Ab's" place are Jim Pritchett, a scrub two years ago, Hambley of Asheville School, Holding, G.; Marsh, Spain, Hogan, Perry, and Wilson.

At centre, Yank Tandy, star linesman of last year's varsity, will find Higgins, of last year's scrubs, Jones, and several others opposed to him.

Doggie says that the team is two weeks ahead of that of last year's in knowledge of the game in experience, and condition. That is directly traceable to three things, spring practice, the summer camp, and organized class and High School ball.

Added to the good material, Carolina has the best coaching staff in the South—even better than that of last year if such a thing is possible. As backfield coach Pendleton's place is taken by Cunningham, Princeton '11. Cunningham is rated as one of the four best coaches in the country—the others being Haughton of Harvard, "Hurry Up" Yost of Michigan, and Williams of Minnesota. Instead of Wilson, line coach, we have Bluthenthal a native of Wilmington and conceded to be one of the best centres that Princeton ever had. Doggie will take care of the ends. 'Nuff said.

On account of the Summer Training Camp at Kannuga Lake in August the team is far ahead of last year's at this same time. The boys are well trained even now in the fine points of the game and are ready sor scrimmaging. The scrimmaging has already begun and the boys are only too glad to get in there and scrap. Come out and watch them fight.

THE STAR COURSE

It Stars of Course!

The season tickets for the Star Course are now being sold at Patterson's Drug Store. They are going at a pretty good pace at present.

As outlined in the Chapel Monday morning there will be five cracking good shows put over this season. Edwin Weeks leads off and the Dunaway Company presenting "The Lady of the Decoration" closes. The Hall-Riheldoffer-Skibinsky Company Grand Opera, is the Star Attraction, it being secured at quite a sacrifice.

The general opinion is that this season's shows will be the best ever given and students are are rapidly taking on to the new season ticket arrangement. The faculty will have a central portion of the downstairs set aside for them.

Alumni Review Will Appear October 1st

The first Fall nnmber of the Alumni Review will appear about October the first, and thereafter about the middle of each month until June. It will come out earlier in October than the usual time in order to announce to the Alumni the plans for University Day on October 12th.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

President Graham begins his administration under the most favorable circumstances. Extension is making itself felt; athletics are on the upgrade; the student bodyspirit is unsurpassed; the Faculty is practically intact.

In the face of a war which has upset the finances of the world and which has been especially severely felt in the cotton Southland, the registration has passed all previous records. High School debates and athletics and other parts of the Extension Bureau are undoubtedly largely responsible.

Never has there been such a quiet, orderly, gentlemanly opening of college. No rowdysim of any kind has marred the general reunion and reorganization of our little Republic.

President Graham, we are all behind you to help fulfill your hopes that "out of this condition comes our great opportunity to mould a University, and a University standard, and a University student-citizenship that will not only command the admiration of all our own people, but will set a standard for the colleges of the whole nation."

THE NEW MEN.

There are three hundred odd hopeful, ambitious boys, the pick of the State, who have entered the University for the first time. If the past experiences hold true, in the future only about a hundred of these men will graduate. Of the other two hundred, scores will follow definite plans which donot include graduation. They are planning one, two or even three years preparation before special training or business. But the great tragedy is the other scores who drop out for preventable reasons.

There is not a single man of the new class who does not at the start dream out a successful college career for himself. But many will fail. The two main reasons why so many men will drop by the wayside in the four years journey. These reasons are; the making of the wrong kind of friends, and not going out for things.

New man, make the right kind of friends. This does not mean the Fraternity man, the non-fraternity man, the man high in student undergraduate life nor any other class necessarily. It meams the steady fellows whose chief interests are centered in their class room work and one or more extra-curriculum activities. It means the fellows who have regular habits, clean habits; it means the fellow you would be anxious for your family to know.

Then New man, go out for something. Try for the varsity or class football team, begin working on the Freshman debate, pick out an editorship you want and work for it, go in Y. M. C. A. work, join a county club, join the Dramatic club. Do something. Don't make the mistake hundreds have made and think you haven't time. Make yourself belong to something. Make yourself a necessity. Tie up with something so that when the time of trial comes you will be prepared. Be missed if you do leave and the probabilities are you wont leave.

FOOTBALL.

"What's the prospects?" is the first question asked by the returning students.

Briefly stated our prospects are as follows:

We have the best coaching staff in the South. Coach Bluthenthal is a "Wilmington boy and a Princeton man." Coach Cunningham is a Princeton man also and is rated as one of the four leading coaches in the East. We had the best coaches in the South last year. This year we have the men that taught our coaches of last year.

Our supply of material is unequaled by any college in the South. We have eleven letter men on the field today with the possibility of one more reporting. We have every scrub of promise from last year back and on the field. We have half a dozen men coming up from Kluttz's class teams. Besides all that we have twenty or more good prep men and the beauty of it is that a large majority of them are products of Carolina's system of athletics as promulgated by Head Coach, "Doggie" Trenchard.

A glance at our rivals gives further encouragement.

South Carolina, who will give us our biggest home game on our most important University occasion before Thanksgiving, is in unusually poor circumstances. "Football prospects at the University of South Carolina are the worst in years declares Dr. N. B. Edgerton, Head Coach."

Georgia loses McWhorter, their mainstay for four years.

Vanderbilt has a scarcity of material and is admittedly worrying. She is especially short on heavy men.

Davidson, with a field full of good coaches, is short of men.

Wake Forest has practically all of last year's men and must build a new team out of material largely inexperienced.

Now Virginia. "A hard job lies ahead of the University of Virginia coaches for the coming gridiron season. The loss of nine regular letter men from the eleven is what they will have to face. It has been five or six years since any team at the University has sustained such a severe loss."

Jett, Wolfolk, and Gooch, last year's stars, are gone. The only two regulars returning are the ends.

Carolina apparently is the most fortunate team in the South. Whether or not this probability becomes a fact depends very largely on you. You and the rest of the student body form the third factor in an irresistable trinity—good coaches, good material, patriotic student body.

Swain Hall in Operation.

Swain Hall, the $55,000 dining hall completed last spring was opened to students at the beginning of this year. Swain Hall is quite an improvement over old Commons Hall both in and externally. Every modern equipment to be had has been placed in the new dining hall. 400 students are taking their meals there where as last year about 150 boarded at Commons. and every one is highly pleased with the board offered. Board is $12.50 per month.

The filter that was started last year has also been completed, and clear, pure water is now accessible in every dormitory on the campus. This is a great improvement over the old plan of carrying water from the well.

1914 Returns.

Eighteen of last year's Senior Class have returned to college. Of this number eight are taking law—R. T. Allen, Ben Aycock, John Cansler, Harry Grimsley, George Holton, Oscar Leach, Jim Pritchett, and Seymour Whiting. Knowles and Spence are taking medicine; Collier Cobb Jr., Mike Dunnagan, Millender, Oates, and Rea Parker are taking graduate work leading to higher degrees. Brownson is Assistant in Geology; Hubert Collins is teaching first Math, and Billy Pritchard is an Assistant of Chemistry.

Athletic Registration.

Again Doggie has come to the front with a new idea for the enlargement and betterment of Carolina athletics. His scheme of having all new men register their post athletic records has brought to light an amazing amount of material for football, baseball, track, basketball, and tennis. Something like two hundred men have done a little or a great deal in high school or prep school athletics have been brought to the attention of the eternal head coach and his assistants. This increase in the number of candidates for our various teams will undoubtedly go a long way toward strengthening our teams of this year and the years to come.

To the County Clubs.

The management of the Tar Heel wishes to state that to those county clubs who desire to have the paper sent to their home schools, a special subscription rate of $1.00 is offered instead of the regular $1.50. During last year the county clubs sent the Tar Heel to nearly 100 secondary schools throughout the State, and if we were not too modest, we would not hesitate to say that this movement was responsible in a large measure for the increased interest shown by these schools in the Interscholastic Debating and Athletic contests held here in the spring. It is an admirable way of connecting the University with the State, and the plan might profitably be adopted this year by every county club.

BOOMING SUMMER SCHOOL

596 Students Here

When we were away from Chapel Hill this summer the campus was alive with hundreds of ladies. There were 442 ladies and 154 men in attendance this summer, or a total of 596. This was in addition to the law school in which about 35 were enrolled.

Last year there were only 500 students enrolled in the summer school. This year there was not only an increase of about 100, but the curriculum included work for which college credit was given. Nearly one hundred students availed themselves of this opportunity to do college work. The curriculum was comprised of courses in Greek, Latin, French, German, English, History, Math, Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Geology, Education, library science, besides courses in Drawing, Writing and Music.

But in order that the Jacks and Jills should not become dull, there were many entertainments provided. The most notable was the Fourth of July celebration. There was a parade of three hundred and sixty-five people representing forty-three colleges and fifteen high schools. There followed an excellent program of stunts given by the students of different colleges. There were eight colleges competing for the distinction of having rendered the best performance. The University boys won by staging "The Mediation Conference at Niagara Falls." The Davenport College obtained second place with "The Trial Alliance." The Independents, who represented thirty colleges, eight states and eighteen high schools closed the program.

The plans for next year have not yet thoroughly developed. It is expected, however, that there will be a two months school, and seven hundred students seems to be a reasonable hope.

University Coaching School.

The University Coaching School started its first session with an enrollment of some 35 students. The success of the session was such that the continuance of the school is assured. It will be under the same management next year, when additional instructors will very likely be added to the teaching force.

Instruction was given in the following subjects:

Latin: Cicero, Vergil, Latin 1 and 2, Greek A.

Mathematics: Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry, Trigonometry, Physics A and 1.

French A, German A, History: American and Roman.

Eighty-five per cent of the students enrolled successfully completed their courses and removed either their entrance conditions or fives standing against them.

It is quite generally felt that the Coaching School fills a need in helping men who are backward in their work.

M. R. Dunnagan, '14, is spending a few days on the Hill. Mike will always receive the glad hand on this campus.

COLLEGE NIGHT A GREAT SUCCESS.

New Men Introduced Into College Life. Rousing Meeting in Gerrard Hall. Reception in Library.

"College Night", the mass meeting held by the Y. M. C. A. each year to initiate the new men into the ways of the University. served as a climax Thursday night to the most orderly opening the University has ever witnessed. The mass meeting was followed by a reception in the Library.

Walter Stokes, President of his class of '13, presided. He is visiting the Hill for a few days.

Mr. Geo. Eutsler, president of the present Senior class explained the Honor system to the new men. He showed how this honor system is growing to be a constructive force as well as a regulating force. That practical reforms and improvements come as a result of the work of the Greater Student Council, which is at the head of the student government here.

Phil Woolcott, of Raleigh and captain of the Track taam and holder of the State Record in the high jump, discussed Athletics. He declared that the ideal of Carolina athletics was to have as many men as possible engaged in athletic sports.

Tom Boushall, also from Raleigh and vice Presideet of the Y, M C. A, discussed the position of the Y. M. C. A. in college life. Besides being a force in the strictly religious life of the campus it is "the clearing house for all student activities."

Mr. J. F. Hackler presented the Literary Societies; Mr. W. P. Fuller the Publications of the students; and Marmaduke Cox the Dramatic club.

The last speech of the evening was by Head Coach "Doggie" Trenchard. He was greeted with a perfect outburst of cheers. His first words to the students were, "Boys, never cut your classes." He then went on to explain how the "cutting" spirit usually led to the student's withdrawal or failure. The success of Carolina Athletics depends upon the "four year student." He expressed his complete satisfaction with the great abundance of experienced material that has reported thus far.

The reception was a decided success. Each new man as he entered was asked to write his name on a furnished piece of paper and pin it to his coat. The receiving line consisted of the Y. M. C. A. Advisory Committee and their wives. The old men circulated around among the new men and continually saw to it that they met the old men and also the members of their own class.

The Library was tastefully drcorated with green leaves and Carolina colors, White and Blue, wound around the pillars and stretched overhead.

Lenoir Chambers, former Editor-in-Chief of the Tar Heel, is spending a few days on the campus.

THE PICKWICK

IF you're feeling tired of life,
Go to The Pickwick.
If you're sick of troubles rife,
Go to The Pickwick.
You'll forget your unpaid bills,
Rheumatiz, and other ills,
If you'll stow away your pills,
And go to The Pickwick!

The Charge of the Fresh Brigade.

Each year an army advances
Like hordes of heathen Huns.
They capture and fill old Chapel Hill
Unaided by swords or guns.
Their attack is fierce and horrible,
The natives tremble afraid,
They shiver and shake, they qualm and quake
'Fore the charge of the Fresh Brigade.

O the charge of the Fresh Brigade!
O the charge of the Fresh Brigade!
The Sophomores fade,
The town is afraid,
'Fore the charge of the Fresh Brigade.

Fierce as the bloody vandals
They swoop on their innocent prey.
The Carrboro Flier sets the town on fire
With two loads every day,
While over the hill from Durham,
Prepared for merciless raid,
They spin and scoot with honk and toot
In the charge of the Fresh Brigade.

The summits of breezy Buncombe
Their proud detachments send,
While whoop and screech from Wrightsville Beach
Pristine exuberance blend.
So the natty kid from Newbern
And Charlotte's custom made,
Join hand in hand with the Twin-City band
In the charge of the Fresh Brigade.

The pride of Yadkin's cornfields,
And Robinson's rustic swains,
All nature picks such rubes from the Styx
And ships them in by trains.
So with carpet bag and hayseed,
And in rural styles arrayed,
Rough neck uncouth joins gay city youth
In the charge of the Fresh Brigade.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

If Adam had only been sensible and look a hundred thousand years into the future, he would have seen all the worry and complexity he was to cause. This life is becoming more complex every day by the clock: something new develops every day, and adds to the task of study and development placed before every man. Now, if Adam had been content to sit out in the shade of the fruit trees, and wait for the coming of Eve and the glorious sunset, and not burden his mind with thoughts of his flower garden, or his new house, or his new Fall leaf, what would have been the result? In the first place we would never have to take up duties in college again; there would be no trusts; there would be no tailoring agents always at your heals (you would pick your new suit off the Davie Poplar!); the European war wouldn't be; in fact all our duties would be pleasures. A man's education would consist of a real efficiency in sitting about over the lawns and telling good jokes, and eating goood meals that grew on the trees and in the ground, (a great many of us educate ourselves, seemingly, under the impression that Adam really acted that way.) But old Adam was alright (not Adam Applejack; we know him to well); he's the guy that didn't put his foot on football. For, if he had been contented, he would never have progressed any, and football is a game of progressive qualities. So we may be thankful to Adam after all; for, without the duties and complexities of our lives, we would also be without the pleasures and diversions resulting from such complexities.

But, "if Carolina doesn't beat Virginia this year, God is a Virginian," so some scientist has said it, reminding us of the words of the suffragette: "Trust in God; she will carry you through."

Everybopy get your coin ready and go to Richmond this Thanksgiving. Stir up a little spirits, preferably before you get there.

It is understood that on account of the war the price of radiators, fancy colored ceilings, cement fireplaces, and Chapel seats have advanced.

The exact assignment for the examination of new men on the Catalogue has not been fixed. The committee will make an announcement as soon as the wash comes in!

Thoughts from a shallow brain afford easy wading, but this is really gook stuff that you are reading.

Doggie Takes Law.

Doggie Trenchard is taking law as a side line. He says he wants to know law and might as well make good use of his extra morning hours by taking the University course. He is starting at the bottom and intends to get his license to practice, but he does not know that he will ever make use of his license.

Class Football.

The class football teams will start work in a few days. DeWitt Kluttz will again coach the freshmen and the sophs. Frank Graham has been asked to take care of the seniors. It has not been determined yet who the coach for the juniors will be. It is noticeable how many of the class men of last year are out for the varsity and are fast making good. When the call is made for the class men to report a hundred or more freshmen are expected on the field with the other classmen.

TRACK.

Work Begins For Fall Meet Between Classes.

The various classes have started work in earnest for the track meet which will take place some time this fall, probably just before Thanksgiving. About fifty new men have been enlisted for this contest of running, jumping and weight throwing. The Freshmen, with such a large number of men to pick from, should put out a team that will make the upperclassmen run their best. There are already more High School trained athletes in 1918 than in any of the other classes. These, together with the men who will develop rapidly under coach Brown, should put out the best Freshman team we have ever had here. This team in all probability will show the beginnings of the value and success of the High School track meets of the last few years.

The new man should understand this; varsity men, those who have made their letters, are not allowed to enter the class meets. Only those who are not N. C. men may take part in this inter-class track contest. In this way every new man will have a good chance to show what he's got in the way of speed, form, and endurance.

All you new men who have done the least thing in running, jumping, hurdling, or throwing the hammer, come out at once. The sooner you get to work, the sooner you will get into good condition. The sooner you get over that preliminary soreness, the sooner will the coach be able to put you in good shape for the coming meet. Come out now. There's room for all.

This call is to you old men as well as to the new men. Do you want the Freshmen to walk off with the fall meet? If you don't, you'd better get to work immediately.

Dramatics.

The Dramatic Association this afternoon held its first meeting under the lead of Pres. Marmaduke Cox. It is planned to start immediately on selecting the cast for the play which the coaches, Dr. Booker and Prof. McKie will announce later. It is also proposed to put on the stage this year two plays instead of one as last year. Therefore two trips will be taken. Everybody has a chance to make a part in the play. The preliminary try out will soon be held and it is hoped that many will respond, and make Dramatics this year the biggest success. Join the Dramatic Association and get interested!

The Query for Debate.

As soon as the committee decides on the query for the High School Ttiangular Debate, announcement of it will be made by Mr. E. R. Rankin, one of the committee. It is already evident how much good has been done by the Debating Union in getting the high school boys interesred in getting a University education. More students have registered this fall than ever before, the number having already gone to the nine hundred and fifty mark. Just how many more will come is rather hard to say. Probably fifty more will have registered before long.

Football Schedule a Heavy One—Nine Games.

Carolina has the heaviest football schedule she has had in years. One of the features of this year's schedule is the game to be played on University Day, with the University of South Carolina. University Day is always celebrated here as a gala day, but the football game in the afternoon is a new feature.

The schedule follows:

University of North Carolina

VS.

Richmond College	Chapel Hill
September 26
Virginia Medical College	Chapel Hill
October 3
South Carolina	Chapel Hill
October 12
University of Georgia	Atlanta
October 17
Vanderbilt	Nashville
October 24
Davidson	Winston
October 31
V. M. I	Charlotte
November 7
Wake Forest	Raleigh
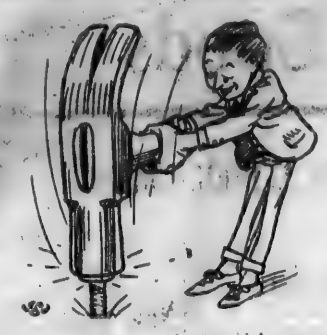
November 26



We open with Richmond College here on Saturday of next week and it is certain that the team will be working in as good form as it did last year in the middle of the season. The first three games are to be played at Chapel Hill, while the last six will be played on foreign field. The first big game will be with South Carolina. Following that, two of the hardest games of the schedule will be played, Georgia and Vanderbilt will be met. The fact that long trips are to be taken to meet these teams makes these two games the hard part of the season. The trips to Atlanta and Nashville are too long to arrive there with every man in prime condition.

The next three games will be played on North Carolina ground and should arouse interest in the Virginia game on Thanksgiving Day which will immediately follow these three games. We meet two North Carolina colleges, Davidson at Winston-Salem, instead of at Greensboro as last year, and Wake Forest at Raleigh changed from Durham where the game last year was played.

Twelve days will remain between the Wake Forest game and the final game with Virginia at Richmond, during which time the team will be thoroughly drilled and will make preparations for the biggest game of the season on Thanksgiving Day.

County Clubs.

The county clubs are rapidly organizing. After a large number of the counties have organized their clubs, the whole number will be consolidated for the purpose of intelligently and success-carrying on improvements and making suggestions which will be of the greatest benefit to the counties. All counties that have not done so are urged to organize as soon as possible so as to start at the beginning with those who have already made their plans.

May we hammer home this news?

PRESIDENT GRAHAM BEFORE Y. M. C. A.

Speaks on the "Challenge of Freedom" to Crowded Hall.

FIRST MEETING OF Y. M. C. A.

Two Ideas of Freedom—One Defying Law—the Other Acting in Harmony With It.

The first meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held in Gerrard Hall Tuesday night with President Graham on the platform. The meeting was conducted by W. P. Fuller After the devotional meeting, William C. Wright played a violin solo which seemed very much appreciated.

President Graham's subject was the "Challenge of Freedom." In the beginning of his speech he gave a very clear discussion of what true freedom is, and the proper use of freedom; saying that in freedom there is an abundance of opportunities and inspiration, especially to the college man. This he says is based on a paragraph which he read from Galatians: "You have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion of the flesh."

There are two ideas that men have had and do have of freedom and these two ideas are in strong contrast. The first is that "Law is an external restrictiod," and that "freedom consists in defying it." The second idea is that "Law is internal" and that "freedom consists in acting in harmony with it." Pres. Graham then showed how efficiency and happiness, the result and the mood of success, would come from following this deepest standard.

In continuing he said that the development of this second idea marks the course of the progress of civilization and our own personal progress. It illustrated in every phase of activity, in nature, business, mechanics, athletics and government.

Each idea produces its type of man in doing the work of the world, and the world gets its work done under the law either by slaves, controlled externally by statutes, fines, punishment, jails, repression—and it is perfunctory or bad work.

Or the world gets its work done by free men, who have discovered that law is first of all internal. The result is freedom, power, happiness, truly creative work. It is the God in us that we discover, and we come to know that the most fatal of sins is to fight against our best selves.

The effort of University government and the true Honor System were shown to be based on the second idea of freedom. In conclusion Pres. Graham said that the development of student standards to their high state of efficiency is splendid justification of this idea.

J. F. Hackler and T. C. Linn were initiated into Amphoterothen at the last meeting of that organization last spring.

STUDENT COUNCIL FORMS

Greater Council Soon to Get Together. Coach Trenchard a Member.

Wednesday night the members of the Student Council met and organized. This was a rather late organization, but it was not necessary for any action on the part of the council because of the peaceful and encouraging opening of the University.

A. R. Newsome was elected by the student body to the council. The representative from the Law class, is B. C. Trotter; from the Medical class, G. C. Singletary; from the Pharmacy school, Roger McDuffy. George W. Eutsler, President of the Senior class is President of the council; McDaniel Lewis, President of the Junior class is Secretary; and E. L. Mackie, President of the Sophomore class is the representative from the second year men. At the meeting last night W. P. Fuller, a member of the council last year, was elected to complete the council.

The Greater Council will soon be organized. This Greater Council consists of the members of the Student Council with other representatives of the various classes in the Academic department and the professional schools. Other members besides those on the Student Council are Dewitt Kluttz of the Medical school, T. G. Trenchard of the Law school, Fred Patterson of the school of Pharmacy, O. C. Nance, and B. L. Field, both of the Senior class, Mebane Long and Francis F. Bradshaw of the Junior class, and Oliver Rand and William R. Allen, Jr., of the Sophomore class. There will be three representatives from the Freshman class. As the Freshmen have not yet held an election, announcement of their choices will be made later.

Varsity Baseball.

Varsity baseball men returned to the Hill are Captain Woodall, catcher; pitchers Watkins, Williams and Aycock; infielders Patterson, Lewis and Hardison; and outfielder Hubert Bailey. All of the boys have spent a good part of the summer playing ball and are now in good shape. Most every afternoon some of them are out getting some final practice before the cold weather begins.

The prospects for new men are very encouraging, there being men here from Guilford, Oak Ridge, and many other schools in the state. There are two vacancies in the outfield to be filled caused by the absence of Red Litchfield and Long. Captain Bailey of last year and Shields at short will also be missed.

Cuthrell and Daniels, the star battery of the Wake Forest team last year, are in school here now but will not be eligible because of the one year rule.

Do you play a musical instrument? Come out and help the Band.

QUERY FOR HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

Committee Decides on Merchant Marine Question.

COMMITTEE AT WORK.

The query that will be discussed this year by the schools having membership in the High School Debating Union of North Carolina is: Resolved, That the United States should adopt the policy of subsidizing its merchant marines engaged in the foreign trade". This query was decided upon after considerable deliberation by the committee from the University, and it is thought that wide-spread interest throughout the State will attend its discussion by the school boys and girls. This interest will no doubt be heightened because of the fact that the European war has focused the attention of the United States upon foreign trade prospects, and the need and possibilities for an effective American merchant marine.

The High School Debating Union is carried on under the auspicies of the Di and Phi Literary societies and the bureau of extension of the University. Since its inauguration two years ago it has met with splendid success. Two comprehensive State-wide contest were participated in by one hundred and fifty schools and six hundred student debaters, and it is a safe estimate that fully thirty thousand people heard the discussions over the State on the question of the initiative and referendum ror North Carolina. It is expected that the enrollment of the schools will be larger this year than last and the general results of the debate greater.

Every secondary and high school in the State is eligible to become a member of the Union and participate in the debate. The method of procedure will be the same as that for the past years. Every school that enrolls will be grouped with two others for a triangalar debate, each school putting out two teams, one on the affirmative and the other on the negative. Every school which wins both of its triangular debates will send both teams to Chapel Hill to contest for the State championship and the Aycock Memorial Cup. The triangular debates will be held throughout the State the latter part of next March and the final contest at Chapel Hill early in April.

The committee which has charge of this work for the literary societies and bureau of extension of the University is composed of: N. W. Walker, of Chapel Hill, Chairman; E. R. Rankin, of Gastonia, Secretary; Dr. L. R. Wilson, director of the bureau of extension, Chapel Hill; B. L. Field, of Pleasant Garden; C. B. Woltz, of Dobson; G. A. Mebane, Jr., of Spray; Phil Woolcott, of Raleigh; Wade Kornegay, of Chapel Hill; and R. B. House, of Thelma, N. C. This committee is now engaged in notifying the different schools throughout the State of the query, and in working up a comprehensive bulletin of arguments, outlines, and references for the use of the schools in the preparation of the debates. This bulletin will be ready for publication and distribution at an early date.

BAND ORGANIZES.

Charlie Coggins the Moving Spirit in the Movement for a Band.

Wednesday afternoon a number of students met to organize a band for the coming year. Charley Coggins is the leading spirit in the movement. He says the outlook for a good band is very good, that there is lots of good band material now in college, and that the main thing to do now is to get the boys interested and have them come out for practice. In about a week or more a canvas of the campus will be made for the purpose of getting student subscriptions for the pecuniary support of the tooting tumult.

The band is trying to get Mr. Wilbur Royster to instruct them and help in the entire organization and playing. Mr. Royster has led the Carolina band before. He is the best college band instructor in the South. We need a good band, especially at the football games which will be played here during the next few weeks. During the University Day celebration the band will come in very handy.

At the first meeting there were twenty-five candidates. There were six or seven cornets, five clarionets, three basses, four piccolos, three trombones, five drummers, and some altos.

Tennis Association Elects Officers.

At a meeting of the Tennis Association held Monday, W. T. Ragland was elected President, and E. Y. Keesler, Treasurer. A campaign was started for a larger membership partly, and indeed largely, on account of needed improvements. The fee is $1.50, payable in advance. The proceeds of fees to go to improvements, preparation of new courts, if necessary, and to having the courts marked off daily. A list of those who have paid their dues will be posted in the gym and only those on the list will be allowed the use of the courts.

Lost and Found.

The Y. M. C. A. has established a lost and found bureau under the direction of J. A. Jones, Jr, He will be at the Y. M. C. A. every afternoon from 2.10 to 2:25 to receive found articles, to take account of reported losses, and to return lost articles which have been found. The hearty co-operation of the entire student body is requested to make this bureau fill a great distinct need here. A pair of gloves, a knife, and a bunch of keys are now listed.

RICHMOND COLLEGE HERE SATURDAY

Carolina Opens Season With Game With Richmond Boys. Expect to Win.

PROBABLE LINE-UP.

Last Year's Team Will Start off, but There is a Probability of Many Changes. Team in Good Shape.

Carolina opens her football season Saturday with a game with Richmond College. The team is in fairly good shape and should run up a considerable score on the boys from Richmond. It is said that the team from Richmond College this year is a lighter one than usual, while to offset this disadvantage in weight they have a faster bunch of players. Carolina considers this a practice game but will make sure that she does her best to come out on again.

The boys have been scrimmaging daily in spite of the hot weather and some of them have shown the wear and tear of the hot contests of every afternoon Long scrimmages have not been undertaken yet on account of the heat.

The coaches are strong believers in the open style of play and are working steadily trying to find good passers and develop men who can handle passes. Long and short forward passes have marked the scrimmages so far and some spectacular runs around the ends have been made, due in part to the good interference of the backfield.

As yet no regular kicker has been decided upon. Foust is yet indisposed because of sciatica rheumatism in his leg and is not kicking as accurately nor as far as he is accustomed to. Big Jones is still improving in punting. Coleman gets off the best punts on the field but is really too light for a regular position in the backfield where he is trying out.

The probable lineup for the opening game will be as follows:

Centre—Tandy.
Right guard—Foust or Jones.
Right Tackle—John Jones, Gay, Tennant, or Hambley.
Quarterback—Allen.
Full back—Ervin.

These men will in all probability start the game, the coaches starting last year's varsity men in every position possible. But there will be many changes during the game because some of the new men are showing much better class of football than the old ones.

THE UPTURNED FACES.

There is one moment at chapel that is thrilling- When a speaker is introduced and rises to speak every face is turned to him. This sight viewed from above is thrilling. One gets the sensation of countless eager men pressing eagerly to the front to battle for the better things, They are all strong clean eager faces shining with the desire and ambitions of useful lives.

The tragedy will cmoe when the ranks begin to be broken, when an unbroken front will no longer be presented and when the troops still in service become discouraged.

There are only one or two reasons why men lose out in the battle of the campus and leave college; and probably the most important is the choice of poor companions.

One of the most vital companions a man selects is composed of the pictures he puts on his walls and looks at a hundred times a day. Your pictures either reflect your character or mold it.

Surround yourself with suggestive, vulgar and indecent pictures and you cannot cultivate a good taste for books, habits or avocations to save your life.

Your mother's picture, your sweetheart's picture, enlarged kodak pictures of home scenes, prints of famous good pictures ought to be on your walls along with the pennants and other college insignia. A picture of the Christ above every man's desk in college would do more good than ten additional councilmen. Let your walls be friends to which you can turn in times of discouragement and low vitality.

THE FIRST KICK OFF.

Start the football season by saying, thinking, and feeling "our team". A freshman asked one of the football men last week if "they had picked your team." The quicker the new men realize that they collectively are as vital factors in Carolina victories as the eleven sweating men on the gridiron, the better it will be. This statement is made after three years experience on both sides of the fence; spectator and player.

The mental attitude of every individual on the Campus has its effect on the team. Cultivate a winning attitude. Make that attitude so apparent that it will become a permanent "spirit" on the Campus breathing its fire into every situation.

The winning attitude is easy to cultivate this fall. Carolina probably has the best early season prospects of any team in the South. There are more old men back, more new material to draw from, and fewer vital weaknesses in the team than in any other college.

Remembering, Mr. Student Body, that with the best coaches in the South and as good material as any, you must realize that victory largely rests with you.

NUMBERS AND EFFICIENCY.

The total number of initiates into the two Societies of last Saturday night and the coming Saturday night will probably reach one hundred and seventy-five men. The total membership of the Societies will then be considerably over four hundred men. Every effort is being made to increase the number of initiates.

The condition of the two societies is far from satisfactory. It is worth considering as to whether this large membership has not something to do with the matter.

It is an open secret that modern student life is very highly organized. Some think it is overorganized. Efficiency is the keynote of interest. As a usual thing Campus life finds that a limited membership produces best results; not because there is any virtue in smallness of numbers in itself, but because there is a greater probability of interest.

It is a self evident fact that a man gives his best energies to the things he is interested in. In the feverish multisided activities of college life, it is doubtful if a hundred men are vitally interested in debating. Conditions have changed radically since the days when the Literary Societies were the only extra curriculum activities.

In view of the above facts the Tar Heel respectfully submits its belief that membership in the Literary Societies should be reduced very radically. By the term "radically" it does not mean that an arbitrary limit be set but that conditions be so arranged that only those vitally interested in debating work will join the Literary Societies. To secure this result the Tar Heel suggests that initiations be in the Spring after the Freshmen have found themselves; and that the fees and so forth be announced openly.

THE CAROLINA COTTAGE.

The students of this University are asked to contribute three tenths of one per cent toward a $200,000 plant, every dollar of which any one of them who wish can use.

The State Normal and the University are asked to contribute $1,100 to erect a cottage at the Blue Ridge Association located at Black Mountain. John R. Mott says this is the "best conceived and best developed plan of its kind to be found in the world." He has been around the world seven times making a special study of Religion. He ought to know.

The Normal girls say they believe they can raise the money. Queens College at Charlotte with less than 200 students and Davidson with a little over 300 think they together can raise $1,100.

Business men believe strongly enough in the proposition to put thousands into the plan with no prospects of ever getting any direct benefit. With college students of this generation it is different. Any improvement there means a betterment on this campus. With the business man it is a gift; with the college man it is an investment. If the business man is philanthropic enough to give his thousands the student should be business man enough to invest his cents.

COLLEGE SPIRIT.

College spirit is hard to define but it is easy to recognize. A group of good college citizens have organized a University Band. Over forty came out to the first call for candidates.

A football game without a band is a lopsided affair. The entire student body wants the Band; but good wishes will not buy Band music. The promoters must have some funds.

In the normal course of events the Athletic Association ought to maintain and direct the Band. It is unable to do so. The students are to be called on to contribute. This is a practical way to help make successful athletics at Chapel Hill.

Sigma Upsilon Initiate.

Last Friday night the Odd Number Chapter of Sigma Upsilon National Literary Fraternity took in Dr. Edwin Greenlaw of the English Department, W. T. Polk '17, of Warrenton and McDaniel Lewis '16, of Kinston were initiated.

Eldridge-Cheek.

On Tuesday evening the 15th at 9 o'clock in the Baptist Church was solemnized a wedding beautiful in its brilliancy and simplicity, when James Eldridge of Dunn received as his bride Miss Josephine Cheek, of Chapel Hill. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. R. L. Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church.

A Noted Visitor.

Chapel Hill had an interesting visitor the past week in the person of Mrs. B. V. Wright, of Sampson county. Mrs. Wright is very closely identified with the University. Three of her sons are graduates of the University. One of them, President Robert Wright, of the E. C. T. T. School, is one of the State's greatest educators. The other two are leaders in their professions. Three of Mrs. Wright's daughters married University graduates.

A Carolina Cottage at Black Mountain.

Our Sister College, the State Normal, has challenged the University to unite with it and make up enough money to build a Carolina cottage at Black Mountain. At Black Mountain is situated the Robt. E. Lee Hall and other buildings, comprising the Capitol, so to speak, of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. organizations of the South. Each year representatives of these organizations in the various colleges of the South gather together and with able instructors, study the problems of these organizations. Last year eleven states sent representatives amounting to a total number of 2100 students.

The great difficulty now at Black Mountain is the lack of sufficient buildings to accommodate the representatives that each year go there. To remedy this condition the Southern Colleges haue taken it upon themselves to unite two together and build cottages. Washington and Lee has united with Randolph-Macon, Queen's with Davidson and so on. The Normal has asked the University to unite with it and build a Carolina Cottage to be used by these two colleges at their respective conventions. The University Y. M. C. A. immediately accepted the invitation and a successful campaign is now being waged to raise $550, half the cost of the cottage.

Law Classes Elect Officers.

For the first time the two law classes of the law school have organized and elected officers separately. The senior class officers are as follows:

J. M. Turbyfill, President.

M. T. Ham, Vice-President

M. T. Spears, Secretary and Treasurer.

B. C. Trotter, Member of Student Council.

Doggie Trenchard, Member of Greater Council.

There are 35 in the senior law class with 15 candidates for LL. B. degrees, the largest number that has ever been candidates for law degrees.

The junior law class officers are:

Oscar Leach President.

B. F. Aycock, Vice-President.

C. L. Coggin, Secretary and Treasurer.

"Ninety Six", Orator.

There are 41 members in the class, which is a material increase over last year.

Address by Dean Cranford.

Dean W. I. Cranford of Trinity College will deliver an address in Gerrard Hall Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. The occasion of this address is the annual Bible Study Rally of the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr Cranford is a speaker of reputation and power. His theme will be The College Man and the Bible. He has a strong message for college men.

Hugh Hester, Manager Junior Football Team.

The Juniors met Tuesday and elected Hugh Hester manager for the class football team. Work in earnest on the class teams will be begun Monday after the coaches will have decided on which men to retain on the varsity field. A considerable number of class men are now on the varsity field and are doing excellent work.

Richmond College here Saturday.

Concluded from first page

Tandy will likely hold his position at centre, but in case he should be removed during the game Pritchett or Higgins will be there ready with the goods also. Tandy shows up well and will very likely make even a greater record than he did last year. With his left hoof he kicks the best drop kicks and field goals of any man on the field. He can punt very well too and in an emergency can be shifted for the service of kicking. He will likely be depended on for the goal kicking, for he is accurate in his shots and makes better distance than any other kicker. Tandy is always there on the defense and can break up plays better than any other linesman.

Foust will likely start the game at right guard but is not expected to stay in long. Big Jones is one of the steadiest workers on the field and the play that gets by him will certainly be some play. He will take the position at guard in the absence of Foust. He is one of the biggest men on the field and has the strength of any of them.

At left guard Cowell will be found working in his usual steady style. Last year Cowell gave his opponent a hot time all during his stay in the game and is counted on for better work this year. Fatty has full control of all his two hundred pounds and is a mainstay there next to Tandy. Price, Proctor, Nelson, and Burgess are out for this position, and will likely be given a trial if the score of the game will permit a new man going in this important position.

Right tackle is still a question to be decided. Johnnie Jones is showing up very well, and so are Gay, Hambly, and Tennant. This is one of the positions open for a new man and the coaches are undecided yet. Jones will likely start.

Ramsay at left tackle may be counted a fixture. Last year Ramsay's record was sensational and this year with more experience he will tear up things.

Homewood has played two years at right end with a remarkable record and will be there with his hard tackle again this year. Greater things are expected of him. Love is a substitute for right end.

There are many fighting for the position at left end vacant because of the absence of Huske. Grimsley of last year's scrubs will most likely start, but there is a possibility that Nicholson who played two years ago will be started. Bourne and Williamson are also showing up well.

At quarter Allen will most likely start with the team. Bridges is doing better work though and will surely get a chance. He drew the first applause from the spectators in Tuesday's scrimmage by making a long end run through a broken field. Both Allen and Bridges pass well but Bridges is much the better. Valley is also out for the position.

Captain Tayloe will start at left half. Tayloe has not been working so hard lately but in the little fight Tuesday afternoon he made some very good runs. Bob Burnette is back with the old pep and will serve as a good substitute if Capt. Dave is taken out. Meb Long will likely get in the game at half also. Pope and Black are working hard for this position.

Walter Fuller, famous for his long run against Virginia last year, will be the hardest man to beat out for his position. He is faster than ever and is remarkable in his handling of the ball in making and receiving passes. As an open field runner he is about our best. He will start at half. Hines and Reid will be likely substitutes. Hines is fast and has made some dashing long runs with the ball and in Tuesday's scrimmage scored a touchdown on the varsity by a long run around left end. Ed Reid plunges the line in fine style. It is a questisn yet whether to play him at full back or half when he is needed.

Ervin will be the probable starter at full back. Parker will undoubtedly get in the game at this position too. Both are good men from last year's team.

There are other players yet in reserve who may be called to action. The squad has not been thinned out yet. Head Coach Trenchard says that absolute fairness in all cases will be shown and that as soon as a new man shows better ability than the old one he will get the job.

The Satyrs Initiate.

John Calhoun Busby '13, now of the Harvard Law School was Monday night initiated into the Dramatic Order of Satyrs. Busby was Manager of the Dramatic Club during his senior year here and carried the Club through a successful year with "What Happened to Jones." He left Tuesday night for Harvard.

for next year's expenses

The man who earns his own way through college has accomplished something to be proud of. He has built strength into his character and added something to his experience that must be of value to him in after life. We want to help one of these energetic, self-reliant fellows to earn his own way next year. So we are going to pay $500 in gold to the student who prepares and sends to us the best original ad for Fatima Cigarettes before June 1, 1915.

Any student of any college may compete for this $500

There are no restrictions, whatever, no strings of any kind on this offer, other than this—every contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in an American College. We want a student—not a professional ad writer—to benefit from this offer.

Three prominent business men, whose names will be announced later, will act as judges.

$500 for the best one submitted

The $500 will be awarded June 1, 1915. In the meantime, some of the ads submitted will be published each month in college publications, together with the name and photograph of the writer—provided the writer will give permission for such publication.

For each ad so published we will pay the writer $5. But, the publication of any ad must not be taken to signify that it stands any better chance to win the $500 than the ads that are not published.

Those who try to earn this $500 should remember that the supreme test of any advertisement is its selling power. Whether your ad consists of only ten words—or runs to a thousand—it should be interesting, truthful, convincing—it should give to the reader the buying impulse. To write such advertisements, that will pass the test of performance, the writer must believe in the product he is writing about.

PROVERBS CHAP. XXXXXX.

Verily, my brethern, wide is the gate and broad is the way that leadeth to Pickwick, and many there be that enter in thereat; 1. But straight is the gate and narrow is way that leadeth from Ice-tea to Study, and few there be that find it.

2. Enter ye in at the straight gate for the day of judgement approacheth;

3. And in that day there shall be weeping and wailing and more gnashing of teeth than Commons can boast:

4. And the unprofitable servant who hath hidden his light under a bushel---

5. Of Pickwick peanuts or buried his one talent in front of the Post Office, verily he shall get his, in the neck.

6. My son, tho thou bloom fourth like the lilies of the field in thy Palm Beach, yet what profiteth it?

7. She beholdeth thee not, for she is far distant and what it taketh to forget thee she hath t--yea, abundantly.

8. Boast not thou of thy boot or behold, often a boot goeth gone before a fall. (deep, deep!)

9. Lo, a mystery! The study on which the young man pulleth a 1,—that saith he, is a Hard subject;

10. But the study which he hath flunked was in truth too much ef a pud for his colossal intellect.

11. Ye have heard it said, my friends, that a girl in the arm is worth twelve in the class-room.

12. But I say unto you that even a theme tablet at Adam Applejack's is worth the treasures of the Queen of Sheba--its price is above rubies.

Ah, Boys, could we with great E. K. conspire
To grasp this sorry scheme of studies dire
Would we not shoot up Language, Med. and Law;
And lay all Science on the funeral pyre!

Sophomores Meet.

At the Sophomore Class Meeting held on Friday, F. C. Jordan was unanimously elected manager of the Soph foot-ball team. Jim Hoover was chosen as cheerleader for the class.

A resolution was passed to attempt to check rowdyism in the Pickwick. As a committee to see to the carrying out of this resolution, Capps, Roundtree, and Earl Harris were appointed.

The meeting was ended by a talk from Coach Kluttz, who informed the class that its foot-ball management would have to depend almost entirely upon the resources of the class, especially in arranging trips and return trips.

Y. M. C. A. Membership.

Up the present time only 315 men have joined the Y. M C. A. Last year at this time 310 had joined it and there are 150 more students here this year than last. L. H. Edwards, chairman of the Committee on Membership is working every night for new members and is trying to reach a high water mark for this year.

Let's have a big Band this year.

REGISTRATION

Large Number of Men Returned to College

Though the registration mark has reached 953, a number greater than for any previous year, it will be surprising to most everyone to learn that this year's freshmen class is yet a smaller one than that of last year, there being hardly 300 freshmen registered.

The increase this year is in the professional schools, all of them having a larger number than usual in attendance. In the Medical School there are about 80 registered, in the Law School there are about ninety six, and in the School of Pharmacy there are more than fifty.

It is a very pleasing fact to note that the increase is really in the return of the old men to college and such a fact is also encouraging to the University. There are many graduates returned for higher work, and besides there are others taking medicine. A large per cent of this year's seniors has returned and the same is true of the two other classes from cast year. The usual falling off in the number of men in the classes to return is this year is not so noticeable.

Dr. Branson's County Club Work.

In discussing the County Club work, Dr. Branson says that he wants "to toot a mighty small horn" until he begins to get some results. At present his outline for the studies is ready for the press. Nine of the county clubs have organized so far: Cleveland, Beaufort, Johnston, Catawba-Gaston-Burke, Rowan, Granville, Wayne, Pender-Sampson, and Buncombe. The first meeting of the united North Carolina Club is called for tomorrow night.

Everyone is anxiously awaiting the outcome of this project in which "North Carolina is leading the universities of the world." Organize your county now and get in on the ground floor.

Phi Beta Kappa Men.

The men who were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa last spring were, in the order of their standing—Newsome, Taylor, Keesler Fitzgerald, Boseman, Weeks, and Field. Newsom's average was an even "one".

There are only seven Phi Beta Kappa men as compared with thirteen of last year. The grades, however, are higher. There is no man in the seven with a grade less than 93.

The Phi Beta Kappa fraternity is the fraternity of scholarship. In order to be admitted a student must average at least 92½ on the work of his first three college years.

Preparation for University Day.

All over the state and in other states of the union the alumni of the University are preparing to celebrate University Day, October 12th. Some will hold banquets the 10th since it has become the custom among some of the alumni to have the celebration the night before the 12th. The 11th is Sunday therefore the evening of the 10th will be used by some for this annual event.

Dr. Herty held a "get-together" meeting of the first year Chemical Engineers in the laboratory Monday morning. We hear that it was quite a success.

FIRST GAME OF SEASON ENDS IN OVERWHELMING VICTORY FOR CAROLINA

Tar Heels Have no Difficulty in Piling up 41 Points--Richmond College Fails to Score.

As was expected, Carolina opened the season with a complete victory over Richmond College Saturday afternoon. The Richmond boys were unable to successfully resist the powerful machine that Carolina has working on the varsity field, and when the game ended the Tar Heels had piled up six touchdowns, the score being 41——0. There was not a stage in the game when Richmond seemed to threaten. To begin with, she was out weighed by Carolina, and the whole contest showed marked superiority of the latter team in every respect.

It was not until the last of the second quarter that Carolina was forced to punt. Richmond made only two first downs, and almost every rush she made was formidably resisted by Carolina's impregnable line. Carolina could have made the score much larger but the coaches preferred giving experience to the second and third string men after the beginning of the third qnarter.

It was on Carolina's fourth play in the first quarter that her first touchdown was made. A beautiful pass from Bridges was gathered in by Fuller over his head while on a dead run, the ball being carried over with ease after the catching of the pass. Tandy missed his first goal after a touchdown on this play, but booted the ball successfully after the other scores were made. Last year Tandy did not miss a goal.

End runs by Bridges, plays over tackle by Fuller and Tayloe, and line plunging by Parker and Reid were features. A number of forward passes were tried by both teams, most of them amounting to nothing. In the last quarter Richmond broke loose some passes in desperation, but availed nothing. Bruce intercepted a Carolina pass but made no gain. Logan did the best backfield work for the Richmond team. The punting of neither side was noticeably good. Carolina, unlike her opponents, made not a fumble during the game.

The day was fair and cool, and a large crowd saw the game. Many came from Raleigh and Durham in cars to be witnesses.

The game by plays:

Tandy kicks off; ball returned Richmond's 30 yard line. Richmond gains 4 yards, then nothing, then 2 yards, Privatt then kicks to Harker. Ball on 50 yard line; Fuller gains 10 yards, then 2, Parker 9 yards, Bridges passes to Fuller who runs 30 yards for first touchdown. Tandy misses goal; score, Carolina 6, Richmond 0. Fuller receives kick and returns to Carolina's 35 yard line; Bridges gains 4 through guard, Tayloe 15 over left tackle, Parker 3, Bridges 3. Pass to Fuller fails. Richmond's ball. Privatt fails to gain, again no gain, Homewood downs Bruce on his 10 yard line, Privatt fails to gain. Carolina's ball. Parker gains 9, then over for second touchdown. Tandy kicks goal; total 13—0. Tayloe returns kick off 20 yards. Bridges gains 15, Privatt catches pass meant for Homewood; no gain.

Second quarter:

On Richomond's 32 yard line, forward pass fails, centre passes ball over head of kicker and the back thrown to his five yard line, on bad pass Homewood finds ball on 1 yard line. Bridges passes to Cowell over left end for touchdown. Tandy kicks goal, total 20—0.

Richmond kicks to Jones. Ball on Carolina's 40 yard line, Fuller gets 8, Bridges 4, Parker 10, Tayloe 8, Bridges 22, Parker 4, Tay-

NEW STYLES INTRODUCED

Chemical Club Enjoys Old Diet Served in New Dishes.

The Chemical Journal Club held its "get-together" meeting Monday night. Thirty-six chemists and chemists-to be, all properly labeled and guaranteed, assembled in the Chemistry work shop, properly transformed into a banquet hall, at nine o'clock.

Dr. Herty presided over the rather informal meeting and gave a resume of the various improvements in the laboratory, the positions held by the men who left the department in June, the recent deaths in the field of chemistry, and the effects of the war situation on this laboratory.

After this short discussion the meeting was turned over to Mr. Jeffries, the chef, who proceeded to serve up the fatted calf, as it were. The menu consisted of coffee in beakers, with stirring rods instead of spoons, sandwiches in clock glasses, cheese in porous plates, apples in ice baths, crackers in evaporating dishes, all served with a delightful sauce of good fellowship. Several flashlights were made by way of finale.

Glee Club Begins Practice.

The Glee Club continues to grow more harmonious as the season advances. Although Mr Sneath, last year's director, and Henry Meeks, the tenor who last year captured his hearers through out the state, are not in college this year, there is an abundance of promising new material. Mallett and Harris at the piano, and Wright with his violin are all back. Preston Epps, Carolina's unequaled baritone, will probably conduct the club this year.

OLD VARSITY MEN HELP COACH TRACK

PREPARATIONS FOR FALL TRACK MEET.

In answer to the need and call of Carolina track athletics three of last year's stars have volunteered to help the varsity in bringing the new material into shape for the fall class meet, which comes off just before Thanksgiving. Spence, after three years bloody work in the mile and the half mile under the universally noted Nat Cartmell and one year's work under Nat's one-time team-mate, Dr. Kent J. Brown, together with Skeet Cobb, also of four year's fame under the same two efficient coaches in the two mile and the mile, should be as able as any young coach in the country to train and whip into condition any material that may come out. Price, with two year's experience on the low hurdles, is willing to give all the help his time will permit.

Besides these men who are not eligible to run on the team this year there are the men of last year's squad who are also well able to assist these older men in the early coaching. Wright, our 22 ft. 10 in. broad jumper, and Homewood, in the pole vault will have to be absent from the track during the football season; but Woollcott will take charge of these events together with the high jump and the hurdles. Harrison, Whiting and Rand will run with the new men in the distances, and Patterson and McDuffie will hely the quarter men. Smith will be on the job to show how it is done in the hundred and the two twenty.

In order to simplify this scheme, the new men are requested to come out at the times most convenient to the busy old men. The following schedule of the different events will make things move along smoothly.

All men trying for high jump, broad jump, vault, weights or hurdles come out at 4:00.

Those trying for the dashes be on hand at 4:45.

Two mile, ane mile, and half mile men come out at 5:15.

Quarter men be out at 5:30, sharp.

The above times suit the schedules of the older men best. If you find it impossible to come out at the above times, don't let that keep you away. If you can't come out then do so whenever you can; you will always find somebody out to work with you.

The class meet is barely a month away, and it is time for everybody to be out. Don't let a little thing like the lack of a suit trouble you; put on anything, and come out.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO TAKE PLACE IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

Old Courts Being Repaired and New Ones Made Ready for Immediate Use.

The tournament for the selection of the Carolina Tennis team for 1914-15 will probably begin Monday, October 5. With the graduation last year of Lenoir Chambers, the team which has represented the University for the past three years was broken up It will be a difficult matter for anyone to beat out Malcom Oates for his old place on the team, but it is up to somebody to fill the other vacancy. It is a hard matter to predict what the personnel of the varsity will be. So far only fifteen names have been entered for the contest. The students as a whole do not seem to realize that tennis, as much as football or baseball, is a form of intercollegiate athletics. Somebody is going to make the team, somebody is going to fight for Carolina in tennis against other institutions, somebody is going to wear and N. C. monogram. All those wishing to enter the tournament should see W. T. Ragland or E. Y. Keesler before Monday.

Many fellows do not seem to realize that the Tennis Association is an organization entirely separate and distinct from anything else. Lots of fellows think that when they enter college they are entitled to use the tennis courts without additional expense. Though this is true of many institutions, it does not hold good at Carolina. Not one penny is given by the University or by the Athletic Association for the upkeep of the courts. There is but one source of funds for this purpose—the yearly dues of the members of the Tennis Association. These dues are a dollar and a half a year, payable at the beginning of the year. Since only members of the associatian contribute to the upkeep of the courts it is only natural and just that all non-members should be prohibited from playing.

Every year at the beginning of the season the tennis courts are in more or less bad condition. Some of the posts are usually down, reels are missing, wire backstops are broken through, the corner stakes of the courts are gone, and half the courts are altogether covered with grass. Such has been the case this year. At present only four or five courts are in condition to be used. However, new posts and new reels have been ordered, the backstops and the courts are being laid off once more and the grass scraped off. The delay in putting the courts in shape has been due to the inability on the part of the association officers to secure labor.

For the past several years, at least, the number of courts has been inadequate during the height of the season. There have been more players than all the courts used twice a day could accomodate. In order to remedy this condition four courts northeast of the old ones were graded and backstops were erected. Nothing more was done, however. Posts were never fixed, the courts never laid off, grass grew up everywhere. This year it is the purpose of the association to prepare these four additional courts together with the old ones.

The officers of the association say they are going to make this the best year for tennis that Carolina has ever known. Help them achieve this end. You can do it by paving your dues to one of the following: Red Martin, Ed Keesler, John Wilson, Trent Ragland, or Henry Edwards.

A NEW ENTERPRISE BEGUN

Enthusiaism Characterizes the First Meeting.

Two hundred people were present Friday night at the first meeting of the North Carolina Club held in the chapel. Two hundred people had a new supply of "pep" and interest in their own homes injected into them by the speeches of President Graham and Prof. Branson. The officers, Prof. Branson, president, and F. P. Graham, secretary, were unanimously elected. Two committees, the steering and the promotion and publicity, were appointed by President Graham as follows: Steering Committee: Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilon, G. W. Eutsler, J. A. Capps, L. B. Gunter and F. F. Bradshaw. Promotion and Publicity Committee: W. P. Fuller, S. R. Winters, Fred Yoder, and H. B. Hester.

President Graham characterized the meeting by saying, "I believe that this is the most significant meeting of students ever held in North Carolina." All universites have their department of Economics, but this is the first to have a separate and distinct department for the study of the territory it reaches directly. He expressed the "hope that every university student will have burned into his consciousness NORTH CAROLINA as the result of this club," and that it would engender in him "a larger curosity and a larger horizon."

Prof. Branson was introduced by the President as the "Professor of North Carolina," and he proceeded to enject the "pep" he felt for the club's work into its members. "Get first knowledge about your own county" is his idea, "know your county," his slogan.

EARLY BASKETBALL.

Carolina has never put out as good a basketball team as she was potentially capableof putting out. This is due tolack of preparation. That evil should be remedied as far as possible this year. Practically all of the varsity men are just now engaged in football. Captain Long, centre Tandy, forwards Teunent and Davis, and guard Homewood are all on the gridiron. Now is the time, therefore, to start a class series.

Last year witnessed the first class basketball on the Hill. This came as the result of a suggestion by the Greater Council. It came too late in the year to accomplish more than show its possibilities. What is needed is a man with push and enthusiasm to take charge of the arrangements. Most of the class managers have been elected. We respectfully call it to the attention of Captain Long that he will increase his chances of a winning team by seeing that such a man is found. There is no excuse for the development of the team to be hindered by a too small squad as it was last year.

THE FIRST STAGE.

The first stage of the 1914 football season is passed. The preliminary game has been played with highly satisfactory results so far as the score is concerned. The coaches are now working on definite defects in the machine instead of emphasizing general results. It may appear at first to the new man and the scrub man that his chances of making the team are now rather slim. On the contrary, he is now receiving more consideration than at any time so far this year. Men are wanted to do certain definite things. The coaches are looking for the man who can do those things best and second and third best.

Of the eleven men who started the first game last year, four started the last game. Now is the time to redouble your efforts.

BIBLE STUDY.

Last year one hundred and forty-seven men signed up to study the Bible on the first night of the canvas. This year three hundred and seven signed under similar circumstances. With an initial enrollment of one hundred and forty-seven and an initial attendance of one hundred and fifty-four the Bible Study groups met for twenty-two weeks and closed with an actual attendance of one hundred and forty-two, only five behind the first enrollment figures. It is fair to assume, therefore, that the attendance this year will hold up to the first enrollment figures.

What is the cause of this more than doubling in interest in Bible study? It is our opinion that this large enrollment is a tribute to the work of Mr. T. C. Boushall, Chairman of Bible Study; and Mr. Frank Graham, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. They worked out and put through a systematic policy which had no loose pins nor bolts. The students have shown that they believe Bible study under such conditions is highly profitable.

THE PICKWICK.

Ordinarily student disturbances are outbursts of animal exuberance and as such should be regarded tolerantly. The conduct at the Pickwick does not seem to be of that nature.

Last spring certain public spirited citizens set in motion an agitation to abolish rowdyism at the Pickwick. Since that time practically every class and every oaganization has declared against the conduct there. Steadily there has been accumulating a weight of student sentiment in favor of decency and quiet. This sentiment is now held by every man on the campus. The time has come, therefore, when decided steps should be taken. Student sentiment has expressed itself. The thoughtful have obeyed that sentiment by maintaining order. Hereafter those who do not maintain order must be designated by some other name than merely "thoughtless".

We are informed that half a dozen or less are responsible for all the disturbance. A thousand men cannot afford to allow that number of men to dominate the tone of the Pickwick. The Pickweck is the last stand of the old order of things. The spirit of irresponsibility and rowdyism that comes from there must be stopped.

1914 Celebrates.

The faithful "Fourteeners" held their first smoker as graduates in the Mission room of the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. Twenty-one out of the graduating class of sevnty-five are taking graduate work this year. No class at Carolina has ever returned so many men to the University the year after graduation A very enjoyable evening of smokes, speeches, and "eats" is reported.

Miss Corpening Taking Medicine.

The first young lady to register in North Carolina for a medical course is Miss Cora Z. Corpening of Mars Hill. She has registered for work in the first year class at the University.

RESOLUTIONS ARE PASSED

Greater Council at Work on Pickwick Situation.

In view of the discredit reflect- upon the entire student body by the nightly disorder in the Pickwick, we, as elected representatives of that body believing that we express a prevailing sentiment, do hereby resolve:

That, as the Pickwick is a place for public entertainment, there is no justification for the conduct of any student or group of students interfering with the enjoyment of others.

That as the Pickwick is as much worthy of gentlemanly conduct as any other part of the campus or town, no man or group of men has any right by his conduct there to lower the moral standard of the campus life.

In accordance with the above resolutions we do further resolve that each of us will do all that lies within his power to awaken and to strengthen the public sentiment against these violations of community law.

THE NEW RULES PASSED

Greater Council Committee Regulates Class Games.

In compliance with the authority granted the Greater Council by the student body last spring the following committee has been appointed which shall be known as the Class Athletic Committee: Roger McDuffie, Chairman; Meb Long, W. P. Fuller. This committee will make all regulations in regard to class athletics, settle all desputes, and arrange in conjunction with the other authorities, all class games with other institutions.

The Committee wishes to announce the following regulations. Pharmacy and Medical students may play with the Junior teams The Law School men may go with the Seniors. If for any reason any man in these schools does not wish to play with the teams as outlined they may appear before the committee and make different arrangements.

The Greater Council has decided to award the privilige of wearing class numerals to the championship team. No other men will be allowed to wear the class numerals. The numerals will be awarded by this committee upon recommendation of the class coach

All disputes regading eligibility of men must be referred to the committee at least three days prior to any game to be affective for that game.

Canned varsity squad men are permitted to play on class teams provided they did not participate in the first half of any varsity game, with the further provision that all men canned on or before Oct. 15 are eligible under any circumstances.

If a man drops from the varsity squad and participates in a class game and then returns to the varsity squad the game in which he participated is subject to forfeiture at the descretion of the committee.

Other matters will be settled as they arise.

Seniors Hold Class Meeting.

At a meeting of the Senior class, Fuller Conrad was elected Treasurer to succeed J. T. Day; Dan Bell, Mgr. class football; A. E Cummings Mgr. class basketball; and J. V. Price Jr., Mgr. class track team.

Virginia Medical College Saturday.

The second game on the schedule will be played with the Virginia Medical College here Saturday. The Meds will give a harder game than Richmond College, and a more intetesting game is promised.

At the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A., W. P. Fuller spoke on "The Follow." The thought he broke into two parts; first, "Keep busy," second, "Have a clean workshop." The talk, which was illustrated with campus experiences of the speaker, was unusually interesting.

Prof. J. I. Foust, President of the State Normal at Greensboro, and his father, Mr. Thomas Foust of Graham, N. C., were on the Hill last Saturday.

ELON GETS CONFERENCE.

Y. M. C. A. to Hold Convention Oct. 7—11.

Elon College is to be the scene of an interesting convention between 7—11 of October, for the North Carolina Y. M. C. A. will hold a conference there at that time. Each college in the State is asked to send a delegation. The conference promises to be a very helpful one. Among those who have agreed to be present and take part in the program are: Dr. W. D. Weatherford, Student Secretary of the International Committee; Dr. W. L Poteat, President of Wake Forest College; C. G. Hounshell, Secretary of Student Volunteer Movement; and the Student Secretaries of colleges in Virginia and both the Carolinas. Entertainment will be provided by the Elon College Association for all regular delegates. Outside of his railroad fare and one dollar programme fee, a delegate will have very little expense. This conference will have much to do with making the Y. M. C. A. work of the year successful, and it is hoped that the University will have a large and representative delegation.

Senior Class Elects Managers.

At the Senior class meeting Monday afternoon, E. F. Conrad was elected Treasurer to fill the vacancy recently made in that office by the resignation of J. T. Day. D. L Bell was elected manager of the '15 football team and A. E. Cummings manager of the basketball team.

for next year's expenses

The man who earns his own way through college has accomplished something to be proud of. He has built strength into his character and added something to his experience that must be of value to him in after life. We want to help one of these energetic, self-reliant fellows to earn his own way next year. So we are going to pay $500 in gold to the student who prepares and sends to us the best original ad for Fatima Cigarettes before June 1, 1915.

Any student of any college may compete for this $500

There are no restrictions, whatever, no strings of any kind on this offer, other than this—every contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in an American College. We want a student—not a professional ad writer—to benefit from this offer.

Three prominent business men, whose names will be announced later, will act as judges.

$500 for the best one submitted

The $500 will be awarded June 1, 1915. In the meantime, some of the ads submitted will be published each month in college publications, together with the name and photograph of the writer—provided the writer will give permission for such publication.

For each ad so published we will pay the writer $5. But, the publication of any ad must not be taken to signify that it stands any better chance to win the $500 than the ads that are not published.

Those who try to earn this $500 should remember that the supreme test of any advertisement is its selling power. Whether your ad consists of only ten words—or runs to a thousand—it should be interesting, truthful, convincing—it should give to the reader the buying impulse. To write such advertisements, that will pass the test of performance, the writer must believe in the product he is writing about.

Wouldn't it be tough if we idn't have any friends to peck 1 and hail lovingly as "poor mple books"; seriously, wouldn't be awful never to hear yourself ously designated as a "big " or an "ugly devil"—and some? Surely, one of the test delights of friendship is able to cuss your friend out beat him up and borrow his quarter and purloin his last ch—and vice versa. But uldn't it be funny it we treated angers and enemies as we treat friends? Or would it be seri- ? And how many of us would through the experiment?

A fellow tried it down at the st Office the other day—uncon- iously. As he walked in he saw ne of his friends; and so of urse he slipped up behind the nsuspecting fellow, grabbed him ayfully by the collar, stomped ingly on his toes, pulled his down over his eyes, and affect- ately smote him on the ear. e smiter was considerably cked when the smitee, pulling hat up from over his eyes, ned around and proved to be a nge gentleman.

—!"said the playful fellow, mistook you for a friend."

Well," replied the stranger ng to be optimistic as he nced around hugging his foot one hand and his ear in the er, "If that's the way you t your friends, I thank heav- you didn't take me for a rela- ."

L. R. Johnston is teaching Physics at Oak Ridge.

D. J. Kelly is teaching at Falling Creek.

Lenoir Chambers has decided to teach at Woodberry Forest School.

Carl Taylor is with the General Electric Company at Pittsburgh.

Jesse F. Pugh is teaching English in the Charlotte High School.

Paul Darden is living the life of a country gentleman at Fremont, N. C.

Cy Long is teaching at Blue Ridge.

J. W. McIntosh also holds the position of pedagoguue at Wilkesboro, N. C.

Buz James has gone into educational work at Kinston, N. C.

Greater Council Meets.

In the initial meeting of the Greater Council several things of importance to class athletics and and to student life were discussed. Roger McDuffie was appointed to arrange games away from the Hill for the two lower classes. He is also to act as chairman of a committee of all the class managers to arrange schedule for this fall.

A committee to decide upon the eligibility of members of class teams was appointed, composed of McDuffie, Fuller, and Meb Long. To the winners of the class championship in football is given the privilege of wearing the class numeral. The Council meets the first Monday night of each month.

Medical Society Meets.

The Medical Society met in regular session last Saturday night. R. B. Rankin and W. C. Williams, both of the second year med-class, were the first to be initiated. Then followed the initiation of thirty-seven members of the first year med-class. Among the thirty-seven members of this class was Miss Cora Corpering, the first lady who ever registered for Medicine at the University. Following the initiation a most enjoyable banquet was given in honor of the new members.

Baseball in Durham.

Arrangements have been made for another Virginia-Carolina baseball game in Durham on April 12, 1915. Carolina and the Durham team will also play in Durham on March 27 of next year.

The first year Medical class organized with the following officers: Pres. Harvey Wadsworth; Vice Pres., Miss Cora Corperring; Sec. and Treas. Coppridge.

CAROLINA WINS EASY VICTORY OVER VIRGINIA MEDICAL COLLEGE

The Meds, With Light Team, Are Unable to Resist Carolina's Strong Machine.

The game with the Virginia Medical College was more of a walk-over for the Tar Heels than a victory. Lack of training in all departments of the game and a disadvantage in weight were the reasons for the complete defeat. The score ended 65—0 with the second and third string men finishing the last two quarters while the first team was standing on the side lines vigorously rooting. Carolina made good gains on nearly every play. In the first half Fuller, Parker, and Captain Tayloe gained consistently, making an average of about ten yards on each run. Tayloe was the best gainer, adding three touchdowns by his long gains off tackle. Line plunging was easy for Parker.

The Meds could make no headway over Carolina's stonewal line; every rush they made being thrown back for no considerable gain and many times there were losses. There were many fumbles.

In the third quarter Burnett featured with a startling forward pass from Long, running thirty yards for a touchdown. Hines, a swift and promising half from the scrubs, made things interesting in the last half when he broke loose for four long runs for 40 yards, 22, 45 yards more for a touchdown, and again made 20 on another attempt. He and Burnett were too fast for the Virginians and both romped away like first team backs.

Allen started the game at quarter and showed good mastery of the team. Gay did excellent work at tackle and Tandy held his own on the defense. The whole team worked in splendid form. After the game became onesided the scrubs were sent in and every man was given a chance.

Many forward passes were attempted by both sides but most of them failed. The ball was Carolina's almost every minute of play. There were numerous penalties on both sides for being off side. Out of ten attempts at goal from touchdown only five were successful.

The Meds were poorly drilled because of a late start in practice, but pluckily held out to the last. Hardin, their right tackle, who is an old Carolina boy, played star ball until the third quarter when he was taken off the field with a slight gash over his left eye. At the end of the game the Meds were bruised and battered.

The game by plays:

First quarter:

Meds kick off 40. Parker fumbles, then advances 10, Fuller gets two, Tayloe 15, Parker 9, Parker 7, Fuller 7, Allen 2, Tayloe 14, Meds penalized 5 for being off side, Tayloe 9, then 2 for touchdown. Tandy kicks goal. Tayloe kicks off 25, Meds 0 over the line, fumble loses 6, Hollenbeck 1. punts thirty. Allen returns 20, Parker 2, Tayloe 2, Fuller 3, Homewood 6, Parker 10, missplay loses 1, Fuller 10 and touchdown. Tandy fails at goal. Tayloe kicks off 40, returned 10, Meds 0, forward pass to right end fails, then 0 over line, Med punts 35, Carolina loses 5, offside, pass fails, lose 5 more, offside, pass gains 8. Score 13—0.

Second quarter:

Fuller trips and fails to gain, Tayloe punts 30, returned 5. Meds 1, then 0, pass White to Robertson gets 5, Meds punt 35, Fuller returns 17, Parker loses 4. Fuller sends a forward pass into Johnson's hands for 15, Meds fumble. pass fails, Meds lose 1, punt 20, Tayloe goes around left end for 22, Parker 6, Tayloe 10, pass fails, Meds lose 5, offside, Tayloe 4, Parker 2 for third touchdown. Tandy kicks goal. Tandy kicks off 35, returned 8. Meds 1, then 2, pass to right end fails, Meds punt 42 to Long, Tayloe 52, Parker 9 for touchdown. Tandy kicks goal. Tandy kicks off 40, Hollenbeck returns 15, Meds 2, lose 5, offside, Tandy steals pass over the line on Meds 42 yard line, pass fails, Parker 23, pass fails, Tayloe gets 20 around right end for touchdown, no goal. Tandy kicks off 30, returned 8, Meds lose 5, offside, fumble, pass fails, 24 and Med recovers ball, Meds penalized 5 for delaying game, pass fails, pass over right end gets 14, punt 30 to Reid. Score Carolina 33, Meds 0.

Third quarter:

Tandy kicks off 35, returned 3, then 0, Reid steals pass good for 10, Long 6, Tayloe 5, Carolina loses 5, offside, Reid 1, Tayloe 1, Tayloe fails at drop kick, Meds punt 30, Long returns 15, Reid 4, Tayloe 5, Pope 2. Long 0, Pope 1, Carolina loses 5, offside, Tayloe goes 6 for touchdown, Tandy kicks goal. Tandy kicks off 25, Foust recovers fumble, Long passes 15 to Burnett who goes 30 more for touchdown, no goal. Virginia kicks off 45, Long returns 35, Burnett 8, Med steals pass from Long good for 15, lose

WHO IS BERNARD SHAW?

"Arms and the Man" by Bernard Shaw is Dramatic Club's Play.

Even in these days of the unusual and the bizarre there is one man who has stamped his writings with such peculiar individuality that even the critics in describing his work, take refuge behind such adjectives as "Shawesvue" and "Shawian". That man is Bernard Shaw, probably England's best known literary man, socialist and dramatist. The English public, and the American public as well, always await his next play with the certain expectation of getting something sensational, something funny, something worth talking about. Why?! Just because it is Bernard Shaw.

The play upon which the choice of the Dramatic Club has fallen this year is no less than Shaw's famous war comedy, "Arms and the Man". Those who have seen "The Chocolate Soldier", will remember the rapid fire of sarcasm, comedy of lines and situation, and hair-breadth escapes which characterize the musical comedy and lend interest to the career of its unconventional hero.

The Dramatic Club is going to give the real thing, for "The Chocolate Soldier" is only an adaptation of Bernard Shaw's play, "Arms and the Man". The scene is laid in the Balkans, at a time when two of the small states are engaged in a fierce struggle. The main action of the play hangs on the attempt of two rival officers to win the hand of a very pretty girl. The various adventures which the two rivals experience in their love making have afforded Bernard Shaw an excellent field for the display of his inimitable wit and satire.

Since most of the old dramatic stars of the past two years will be out again this year, there need be no fear that, as far as acting is concerned, the play will be in any way inferior to "The Magistrate" or "What Happened to Jones". A great deal of excellent material may be developed from the new men.

Francis Clarkson, the Manager of the Club is endeavoring to arrange for a week's trip to the western part of the State. This trip will be taken in December and will probably include in its itinerary Greensboro (Normal College), Winston (Salem College), Salisbury, Charlotte, Spartanburg, and Asheville. The regular eastern trip will be taken in February immediately after examinations. The towns visited on this trip will in all probability be Raleigh (Saint Mary's), Greenville, and Newbern.

In so far as may be judged by present prospects the play this year bids fair to outstrip in all respects even its predecessors of the past two years.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITIES EXCHANGE PROFESSORSHIP

New Plan Constitutes an Important Development in University Extension.

Announcement was made today of the establishment of an exchange of professorship between the University of Virginia, Vanderbilt University, the University of South Carolina and the University of North Carolina to take effect during the present session. This new instumentality for extending the usefulness of the University, and promoting the cause of scholarship was planned by Dr. Archibald Henderson, Chairman of Lecture Committee of the Univirsity of North Carolina, and was readily adoptnd by the other colleges.

For the past two years the Lecture Committee has brought to the University speakers of national prominence, representative of the world of thought and action. Among them might be mentioned Edwin Markham, Alfred Noyes, Karl Rathgen, Kaiser Wilhelm Professor, Samuel McChord Crothers, Woods Hutchinson, Joseph A. Holmes, Gaillard Hunt, Shosuke Sato. These in addition to lectures by prominent North Carolinians on State questions and conditions, the McNair Lectureship which brings the foremost thinkers of the country in the field of philosophy, and the University sermon which brings each month some minister prominent in this State or adjoining states, give to the students a comprehensive outlook on the world of contemporary thought.

The systems of exchange of professorship have called international attention to the great benfits accruing from the system. Recognizing that similar results from intra-national as well as international exchange, the plan was worked out for the purpose of stimulating a wider circulation of ideas, promoting scholarship and intellectual curiosity, presenting, in concrete form, recent advances in some special branch of learning, and bringing the instructors concerned into closer relationship, through discussion of vital problems affecting the modern university.

The lecturer from one university is to lecture at each of the other three universities in annual rotation. For this year South Carolina sends a lecturer to Vanderbilt, Vanderbilt sends one to Virginia, Virginia to North Carolina and North Carolina to South Carolina. The period of the course of lectures is one week.

The University of Virginia sends to North Carolina Professor Wm. M. Thornton, Dean of the School of Engineering. North Carolina sends to the University of South Carolina Ex President Francis Preston Venable, Professor of Chemistry and former President of the American Chemical Society.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON.

Games of First Two Days Not Exceptionally Fast.

About twenty-six men entered the varsity tennis tournament which commenced Tuesday Those who have won out in the first round so far are Rutledge, Ragland, Branson, Capehart, Hancock, Allred, Proctor and Winston. In many couples the playing was somewhat nervous, slow, and stiff. Few played up to form. Only two sets decided in almost every case.

Rutledge 6, 6—Martin 2, 1.
Hancock 6, 7—Combs 3, 5.
Proctor 6, 6—Strange 1, 2.
Capehart 6, 7—Prince 0, 5.
Ragland 6, 7—Newell 3, 5.

Since two extremely desirable N. C's., await the winners and since many of the contestants are about of equal skill, the semi-finals and finals will probably be very warm. Of course, a guess in so uncertain a thing as a tennis tournament is a hazardous thing to make, but at present, popular favor seems to pick Capehart, Rutledge, and possibly Winston, as probable winners.

Scientists Consult.

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Chemical Journal Club was held Monday night in the Chemistry Building. Three very interesting papers were presented in review.

Dr. Herty discussed a controversy which has been going on for some time on the production of "active" nitrogen. This modification of nitrogen is said to have certain very peculiar properties in chemical reaction.

Mr. Edwards reviewed a paper on the production of helium and neon bey the passage of an electric spark through rarified hydrogen gas.

Mr. Coulter ended the evening by reviewing a recently published article on the atomic weight of lead of radio-active origin.

CLASS FOOTBALL.

The man who writes about the class athletic team of today is writing about the varsity of tomorrow. It is great pleasure, then, to note the rapid improvement of class football.

Two years ago class football was a rather haphazard, loose affair. Last year a class football coach was secured, off the Hill games were arranged, a definite class series was put through. This year is seeing progress in that program. The schedule and the off the Hill games are contemplated as before. Mr. DeWitt Kluttz is again on the job. A new feature is the Greater Council Athletic Committee which has powers in regard to class athletics similar to the Athletic Council in regard to varsity athletics. This committee will, upon the recommendation of the coach, award numerals to the championship team.

Another step of great importance is the effort to secure a game for the Carolina Freshmen with the Wake Forest Freshmen and a game between the class champions and the State High School champions.

UNIVERSITY DAY.

The University celebrates its one hundred and twentieth birthday Monday, October the 12th. A much better program than usual has been arranged. The morning parade will be a better thing than heretofore. Every student in the University will be expected to be in it, and to be wearing his class colors. The graduate department is now organized and will have a regular place in the line.

The speaker in the morning, U. S. Commissioner of Education Claxton, is a man of national reputation. A new feature is the football game in the afternoon. The University of South Carolina will be the opponents. This will be the last opportunity of the season to see the team in action on the home grounds. With only twelve leaves of absence granted last year it is natural to suppose that with the added attractions there will be a fewer number than last year.

WAR AND TYPHOID.

Most people really love the idea of war when it is at a distance. There is a romance and glamour about it hard to dispel. The whole world stands aghast at the present conflict, however, because the war is so uncalled for, so selfish and commercial. There is no principle at stake to give justification or palliation to the destruction of hundreds of thousand and the misery of nations.

It is the same way about typhoid. If a person dies nowadays of typhoid it is a crime. Vaccination is an absolute guarantee of immunity. The state supplies the vaccine, the University supplies the physician, you supply the arm. Death is always sad, but it is saddest when it is useless and could have been prevented easily.

THE TRACK.

Captain Woolcott and his track athletes are going to attempt to develop a track team without a hired coach. The plan is to have the older men coach and instruct the new men. Active work has been under way for some days. The first goal is the class track meet to come off this fall.

Track practice is largely a question of patience and careful training. With the exception of a little oversight and advice, success is very largely a matter of the individual. We believe that with the large number of old men here the track team will be a good one.

South Carolina Organizes.

The South Carolina Club met in informal session last Thursday night and elected the following officers: President, R. S. Siddall, Sumter, S. C., Vice-President, Hugh Black, Greenville, S. C., Secretary-Treasurer, A. M. Elliott, Columbia, S. C. The number of men from South Carolina this year is unusually large, being about twenty-five. It is the purpose of the club this year to become a potent factor in securing new men from South Carolina for the University, and to model its operations after the North Carolina Club. However, the social side of the club is not to be neglected.

Bible Study Groups Begun Work.

The Bible Study Groups started last Sunday with an attendanc of a hundred and sixty out of a total enrollment of three hundred and seventeen. There are thirty groups which are taking up the same three subjects that were studied last year—The Life of Christ, Men of the Old Testament, and New Studies in Acts. Of these, The Life of Christ is the most popular and Men of the Old Testament next.

Omega Delta Initiates.

Omega Delta, a literary fraternity whose object is the study of the drama, has recently initiated Mr. McKie, Dr. Bain, Dr. Greenlaw and Dr. Howe from the faculty; from the students: Allen Mebane, George Eutsler, Don Harris, Mebane Long and Dorsy Pruden.

MR. HOUNSHELL'S ADDRESS

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Delivers Excellent Talk.

Mr. Hounshell, general secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, spoke before an audience of one hundred and fifty in Chapel Sunday afternoon. His subject was missions.

He spoke of two college graduates, one of whom had been honored in college. The honored one had made money, the other had a purpose in life—the saving of souls. Mr. Hounshell dwelt upon the difference between the happiness of the two men. The money maker had accomplished his ideal and yet was not happy, because he had "missed it", the higher Spiritnal happiness.

The speaker then went on to say that two out of three people in the world cannot read nor write their own names, and that the need is so great in the foreign field that there are many more places vacant there than there idle men in the United States. He spoke on the need of teachers, of physicians, of writers, of educated men in any line.

He ended with a strong plea for men, men who are willing to work hard with small hope of worldly reward, to hasten the day when the kingdoms of the world shall be the kingdoms of our God and His Christ.

Rally Day to Be Held Oct. 16.

Prof. Noble is planning a rally day similar to that of last year to be held for the people of the surrounding country on Oct. 16. Free moving pictures at the Pickwick, speeches in Memorial Hall and a singing contest between the county Sunday Schools will characterize the day; all these will go to make the day enjoyable as well as profitable for those in attendnace.

Dramatic Club Tryouts Held.

The preliminary tryout for the Dramatic Club was finished last week, and Bernard Shaw's play, "Arms and the Man" was selected for this year's production. The preliminary tryout for the caste will begin this week with all the old members eligible as well as those who passed the first preliminary. The first performance will be given sometime after the Thanksgiving game, probably Dec. 4.

Junior Orders Initiate.

The Order of The Gorgon's Hea hasd initiated J. M. Huske, R. N. Page, Jr., G. C. Royal and A. T. Thorpe of the student body; and Dr. E. A. Greenlaw of the faculty.

The Order of Gimghouls has initiated J. H. Jones, T. C. Linn, G. M. Long, E. S. Reid, and D. T. Tayloe.

Recent Initiations.

The following men have lately been initiated into fraternities: O. A. Pickett into Alpha Chi Sigma, George Tandy and Hugh Cuthrell into Sigma Chi, and Joe Bates into Kappa Alpha.

T. I. Jones is principal of the High School at Helton, N. C.

W. C. Lord is in the insurance business at Wilmington, N. C.

A FOOTBALL EXAM HELD

Doggie Tests His Pupils' Knowledge of the Game.

An examination on the rules was given to the varsity squad last week which in results savours very much of a Freshmen math exam. The examination given was as follows:

1. Define a touch-back, touchdown, safety.

2. After each of these where is the ball put in play, and if by a place kick or by a scrimmage?

3. What is penalty for a player leaving field and returning during the one minute intermission between first and second quarters and between third and fourth quarters?

4. In what two ways can a man be put on-side who is in front of his kicker from scrimmage when ball is kicked?

5. In case a forward pass goes out of bounds on the fly after touching 1st a defensive player, 2nd after touching an offensive eligible player, 3rd when it touches no player, 4th when it touches an illegal player on offensive side, whose ball is it and where is the ball put in play?

6. On what line is the ball put in play, by which side, and in what manner when it has been kicked out of bounds twice from the kick-off?

7. What are the penalties for roughing kicks and forward passes?

8. (a) When the defensive side is penalized, what down follows?

(b) When the defensive side is penalized, what down usually follows?

9. What distance penalties can the offended side refuse?

10. In case of fair catch how far back from the point where catch has been made do the opponents line up, in case the side making the catch elect to kick?

11. If a forward pass touches one of the defensive side, who may recover it before it touches the ground?

12. What is penalty for an intentionally incompleted forward pass?

13. In case of slugging on both sides on the same play can the disqualifications and distance penalties be refunded by each side?

14. (a) When the ball is put in play one yard from the goal line by a scrimmage and the defensive side is off-side, where is the ball next put in play?

(b) Under the same conditions and the ball is put in play on the five yard line, where is the ball next put in play?

For the benefit of those who were not present at the last examination another one will be held Wednesday night, Oct. 7th at the Y. M. C. A.

Those men who failed to appear for the last examination were: Blount, Winston, Black, Huske, Bourne, Love, Davis, R, Tandy, Royal, Nelson, Proctor, Andrews and Johnston.

On last Monday the varsity squad was cut to fifty men. Thirty of these men will go to training table at the house of Head Coach Trenchard on Wednesday morning.

The Band Organizes.

Some of the music loving students of the University met in Gerrard Hall Friday and formed an organization to be known as the Band Association of the University of North Carolina. The object of the Association is the promotion and encouragement of music in the Universrty.

The band heretofore has been only a temporary organization, barely surviving the college year. It is hoped that this organization will place the band on a permanent footing.

The following officers were elected: President, C. L. Coggin, Vice-President, Larry Barbour, Secretary, C. W. Beckwith, Manager, Henderson. Dr. Vernon Howell was elected permanent Treasurer of the association and Prof. Wilbur Royster was engaged as Director.

Rehearsals are going on every afternoon, and it is hoped that the band will soon make its debut. New music has been procured, and is now being practiced.

The band at present numbers twenty-one. All these men have instruments of their own, but the band is contemplating the purchase of several new ones.

The Seniors announce a smoker for Friday night. The tax will be two bits. See Boseman and Bell, if you're coming.

You win $500
by writing the best Fatima ad.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

We believe the College Man who smokes Fatima ought to be able to write a good Fatima ad. He knows from experience that Fatima is of satisfying excellence—that for its superlative quality it is moderately priced. He of all Fatima smokers, should be able to write of Fatima convincingly.

So we are going to pay $500 to the student who prepares and sends to us the best original advertisement for Fatima Cigarettes before June 1, 1915.

Any student of any college may compete for this $500
There are no restrictions, whatever, no strings of any kind on this offer, other than this—every contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in an American College. We want a student—not a professional ad writer—to benefit from this offer.

Three prominent business men, whose names will be announced later, will act as judges.

Some facts that may help you

$5 for every ad published
$500 for the best one submitted

The $500 will be awarded June 1, 1915. In the meantime, some of the ads submitted will be published each month in college publications, together with the name and photograph of the writer—provided the writer will give permission for such publication.

For each ad so published we will pay the writer $5. But, the publication of any ad must not be taken to signify that it stands any better chance to win the $500 than the ads that are not published.

Those who try to earn this $500 should remember that the supreme test of any advertisement is its selling power. Whether your ad consists of only ten words—or runs to a thousand—it should be interesting, truthful, convincing—it should give to the reader the buying impulse. To write such advertisements, that will pass the test of performance, the writer must believe in the product he is writing about.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

The famous Titanic of Hoskie Parker has taken the wings of the evening and flown to the uttermost parts of the earth. In the prime of its youth and beauty (it had scarcely attained its fifty-first year and its architecture was of the early Anglo-Saxon type) it all went up in smoke. Like a Phoenix Bird or a Joan of Arc as a Salem witch or a sky-rocket, it has passed away. Perhaps Mercury was envious of its speed, perhaps Jupiter desired it for a triumphal chariot—we do not know. Whether it has gone to join its former master Pharic, or Rameses the second, we do not know. But we do know that like a comet it has ascended into the heavenly regions. Perhaps it awaits us at St. Peters golden gate to show us over the ground. But alas for you students who make frequent pilgrimages to Durham to worship there at that shrine called the Arcade—Tank Hunter is gone and the Titanic is no more! Truly, it was a Titanic conflagration.

But it wasn't half as convenient as the Med Building fire the other night. That fire had the decency, you remember, to happen on the campus. It was extremely thoughtful in the fire, too, to have itself neatly packed up in boxes so that it wouldn't run all over everything. The path that a crowd takes to a fire is always a wonderful thing. Fire! We started in front of the Med Building. Fire! We sprinted to the New Dorm, rounded Battle and headed toward the Inn, panting. Fire! On we dashed. Back of the Alumni Building, in front of the Chemistry Hall, behind the Old East, before the Carr Barn and then to the Med Building where the merry-go-rond was stopped and we found ourselves all in and the fire all out.

After the excitement had subsided six men, crouched in the shadow of the wall of the Old East, were discussing in nervous, impassioned voices some terrible, mysterious crime.

"When he rushed at the man with an open knife in his upraised hand——"

"I tell you it was a clear case of self-defense. True, the man shot him, killed him. But the law——"

A Freshman leaned out of the window above, his hair erect. Someone had been murdered!

"D—— the law," continued one of the men below, "I've got enough of it for one night. These moot court cases get my goat anyway."

RAH, RAH, for FOOBALL!

Oh, the fast forward pass and the struggling mass
And that tackle behind the line!
To the joys of the game
Every other thing's tame,
So a fig for "song, women, and wine".

Oh, the line holds firm—see that pigskin squirm
Far up and way to the right!
Hear the bleachers roar,
Watch the derbys soar.
Virginia——good night!

PREPARING FOR CONTEST

Rules Governing High School Football Adopted.

The High school football championship contest, begun last year, is again under way. Last year the contest was a decided success. This year's contest promises to be even more successful. Among the teams which will enter the contest this year are Raleigh, the winner of last year's championship, Goldsboro, Kinston, New Bern, Washington, Wilmington, Greensboro, Asheville, Reidsville, Charlotte, Elizabeth City, Huntersville, and Salisbury.

The contest this year is limited to North Carolina public high schools, city and rural. Any team from a public school, that shall have played and won up to Nov. 14, 1914, as many as three games from teams of similar rank and shall have lost none shall be eligible to enter the preliminary contest, provided the manager shall by Nov. 18, notify the committee of his desire to enter contest, and shall send a record of games played.

Moreover, for a man to be eligible for a place on a team, he must be a bona fide student and must have been in regular attendance for at least 30 per cent. of the school year up to the time of any game in which he participates and must have passed a majority of his studies.

No post graduate, of a school, no teacher, coach or professional athlete shall be allowed to take part in a game. In case the above rule is violated, the game shall be forfeited to the opposing team.

After November 14 the committee will arrange, together with the different managers and coaches, for the preliminary contests for the selection, through a process of elimination two teams which shall come to Chapel Hill for the final State championship game. The committee will pay one half the railway fare both ways and will provide entertainment at Chapel Hill for both the teams.

In all matters of dispute the committee has the right to settle claims as seem fair and just to all concerned.

Sophomores Meet.

The Sophomore class met in the Chapel Wednesday afternoon to discuss ways and means. The class assessment was fixed at one dollar, and a committee was appointed to help the treasurer collect the fees. R. Y. Watkins was elected basket ball manager and Oliver Rand track manager. The class decided to hold a smoker sometime before the fifteenth. The plan suggested by the Senior class, that the Sophomores, Seniors, and one of the professional schools take one side of the cheering at the football game Monday, was adopted.

Juniors Convene in Solemn Session.

The Junior class met in chapel Tuesday afternoon to talk things quietly over among themselves. It was agreed to let Jimmie Harrison run the track team, Borden Cobb make all arrangements for class tennis, and Hubert Smith manage class basketball. Herschel Johnson was then elected cheer leader. The class expects to hold a night session sometime in the near future for the purpose of eating olives and sandwiches.

October Magazine Soon to Appear.

The Magazine for October which will probably come out this week has every promise of starting well. This issue, which is meant as a University Day surprsie, will contain among other articles one on the societies, and the best poem and short story of the month, as well as the usual departments, with the exception of the sketch depertment, which has not been started. There are to be many improvements in the Magazine this year; among which are the change from a six to an eight month publication, and the devotion of the exchange department to the getting into touch with the high schools of the State.

Mr. Moss Speaks in Y. M. C. A.

Mr. W. D. Moss spoke before a large audience in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Tuesday night on the subject of "Freedom" instead of "A Young Man's Problem" as was previously announced. In speaking on this subject he emphasized the fact that the road to freedom is through faith and that faith is the response of ones life to that which is highest; i. e. the spiritual in life. When one really lives this spiritual life, the whole world is his, and there is nothing that he cannot do. He suggested three means of cultivating this high spiritual outlook: first, to set apart a certain time each day for meditation; second, to read only that which is really worth while; and third, to get in personal touch with the life of Christ.

Phillip Wolcott will lead the discussion at the regular Tuesday night meeting next week.

UNIVERSITY CELEBRATES ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

U. S. Commisioner of Education Makes Excellent Address. Work of Year Reviewed.

The one hundred and twenty-first anniversary of the University was celebrated Monday Oct. 12, with the usual exercises. The classes formed in line in front of the Alumni Building at 10:45 and marched to Memorial Hall where the exercises were held.

After the opening prayer by Rev. Patten, the University Hymn was sung. President Graham then in a short talk reviewed the progress of the University during the past year. Among the changes which he mentioned were the addition of three professorships to the faculty, the faculty advisors for Freshmen, the completion of Swain Hall, and the filter plant, and the enlargement of the heating plant. President Graham stated that credits are now being given for work done in the summer school, and that the attendance at the summer school just closed was six hundred. The statement that nine hundred and seventy-five students had already registered this fall brought forth a hearty applause from the audience. The statements of the President made it clear that the University is making great progress along all lines.

At the conclusion of his remarks President Graham introduced Hon. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education who spoke on "Democracy in Education."

In beginning his speech Dr. Claxton showed by using statistics that great progress is being made along all lines of education. In 1890, $150,000,000 was spent for education in the United States, while in 1913, $550,000,000 was used for educational purposes. In 1890, 4,500 high schools enrolled 225,000 students; in 1913, 14,000 high schools enrolled 1,500 000 students. By statistics the speaker showed that the increase in equipment of colleges and high schools throughout the country had increased many times, that the increase in appropriations since 1900 has been from 350 to 400 per cent., and that the increase in numbers of students taking higher education was very near 350 per cent. A few years ago a high school building costing $321,000 would be boasted of the world over, but to-day there are three such buildings costing $1,000,000 and many costing as much as $500,000. There has not only been great progress in equipment but like progress in raising and broadening of curriculums and in quality of work done. At present, many universities offer from one thousand to two thousand different courses of study.

This great variety signifies that we believe in democratic education. If democracy means anything it means equal opportunity—equality of opportunity in education. It was on this that the speaker based his speech, for larger state appropriations for education, for compulsory education, and for nine months high school term.

Dr. Claxton stated that his purpose was to secure the cooperation of the University in a plan to make education still more practical and democratic. He would do this by first making the home more effective for education than it now is. The average person spends only three per cent. of his life time until he is twenty one years old, at school, and for that reason the home is still the center of education.

Secondly, Dr. Claxton would adopt compulsory education and the nine months school term for children under fourteen years of age. The United States have the shortest school terms of any civilized nation on earth. "Our state and national problems are to be solved by intelligence and and not by physical endurance."

Democratic government means government by principle, and people must get principles after they are fourteen years old. Only after that age can they get fundamental principles of social and political economies. In bringing about this condition Dr. Claxton would reorganize the entire system of education. First, he would limit elementary education to six years, and then make the high school course six years. One state and fifty cities have adopted this plan. The teachers must be prepared to advance with the pupils and thus avoid the bad plan of frequent change. The high schools he would reorganize into junior and senior high schools for the purpose of offering students courses along special lines. The high school curriculums should be raised so that a student will have no conditions to remove when he enters college.

Dr. Claxton then advocated the reorganization of the colleges. He suggested that a large number of colleges arrange their courses so as to offer only one degree, and have power to restrict their enrollment. Many colleges offering different degrees should be converted into junior colleges doing Freshman and Sophomore work, allowed to confer A. B., and B. S., degrees. Juniar colleges would do away with present connitions in colleges that at present cause sixty-two per cent. of the students who enter college as Freshmen to drop out before their Junior year. Let colleges doing all four years work offer Master degree and let the course leading to Docfor's degree remain as it is at present.

The speaker asked the coopera-

WAKE FOREST FALLS BEFORE CAROLINA

Tar Heels Hold Ball Practically Whole Game. Varsity Replaced by Scrubs.

MOST FORWARD PASSES FAIL

In an exhibition game against Wake Forest in Durham last Thursday the University varsity defeated the Baptists 53 to 0. This score exactly duplicated the the score made agaigst the same team the Saturday before by A. & M. Carolina used exactly three teams. Substitutions began after the first six minute and by the beginning of the second quarter not a varsity man was on the field.

Carolina had the ball practically all the time. Wake Forest made first down three times, which was better than any other team has done so far this season. Two of these downs came in succession, one on a pass and the other on an end run. Carolina was never forced to kick and only once did she lose the ball.

The first touchdown came on the second play. Fuller brought the ball within striking distance and Parker carried it over. Two more touchdowns came this quarter. Only one was made in the second. Two each were made in the third and fourth.

Forward passes were attempted with great frequency but with poor success. Only one touchdown was at all due to passes and that was a long pass to Foust.

Lineup:

Carolina	Position	Wake Forest
Tandy	Center	Carnick
Ramsey	Left tackle	Blackman
Grimsley	Left end	Robertson
F. Jones	Right guard	Parker
Gay	Right tackle	Moore (c)
Homewood	Right end	Moore, D.
Allen	Quarter	Blanchard
Hines	Left half	Pace
Fuller	Right half	Rowe
Parker	Full back.	Whitehead

Summary: Substitutions, for Carolina: J. Jones for Tandy, Foust for F. Jones, J. Tayloe for Cowell, Hambley for Gay, Tennant for Ramsey, Royall for Tennant, Wright for Homewood, Harris for Wright, Davis for Harris, Nicholson for Grimsley. Gilman for Nicholson, Irwin for Gilman, Long for Allen, Fore for Long, Bridges for Fore, Valley for Bridges, Reid for Fuller, Burnett for Hines, Page for Parker, Ervin for Page, Coleman for Davis. NORTH AND SOUTH CAROLINA CLASH TAR HEELS WIN BY FORTY-EIGHT POINTS

What at First Promised to Be a Hard Fought Game Ends Before South Carolina Has Time to Score.

South Carolina was expected to give us the hardest game of the season so far but the result of the game here Monday proved the contrary, the Tar Heels walking over them as easily as they did the teams before. The final score being 48-0. In the first quarter the Palmettos offered stubborn resistance by repeatedly breaking up Carolina's interference, but this difficulty was soon overcome and the score began to pile up. The game started as if it would be a hard close game, but the South Carolina boys could not continue their splendid showing of the first quarter because the Tar Heel line was as a brick wall and the backfield early began to get past the two dangerous ends of the Palmettos.

It was not until the last of the second quarter that the South Carolinians had the ball in their possession and then they lost it on downs. They did not make a single first down in the whole game. During the very short time they had the ball they attempted forward passes and Parker and Tandy intercepted most of them, Parker running 35 yards for a touchdown after stealing one of them. The outstanding feature of play of the Palmettos was the spilling of North Carolina interference by the two ends, Plaxico and Hill. Captain Hill suffered a fractured knee and was removed. Time was often taken out to give the Palmettos time for breathing and patching up their team which became sorely battered.

Contrarily, not a North Carolina man was hurt. The Ta. Heels were penalized time and again for being offside and for a few other offenses. The ball was in North Carolina's possession until the last of the second quarter when three successive penalties made the distance so far that a punt was desirable.

Captain Tayloe led his team admirably by making his usual long runs off tackle. Allen at quarter showed good judgment in his choice of plays though there were only a few simple plays attempted during the melee. Fuller and Parker kept their strides and gained well. Burnett and Hines again served strongly as second string halves and showed as much ease carrying the ball as the varsity men. Many of the scrubs were put in the game and they did themselves proud by scoring more points than the whole varsity team did when they were in the game. Too much cannot be said about the line. Gay at right tackle, Cowell at right guard, Tandy at center, F. Jones at left guard, and Ramsay at left tackle played great ball. Nothing has passed them yet, and they are one of the main r sons why the back field gets so well. No line yet met c compare in defense or offens with Carolina's line. Homewoo was there as usual with hi steady surprising tackle, Wrigh started at left end and did well, Long startled the side lines by returning a punt 40 yards, Reid played well. The game by plays is interesting.

First quarter.

M. Porter kicks off for S. C. 35, Fuller returns 17, Tayloe 10, Fuller 9, penalized 5, N. C. offside, Tayloe 4, Fuller 2, Tayloe 6, Allen 2, Reid 2, Tayloe 10, Fuller 8, Reid starts but N. C. offside penalized 5, Tayloe 3, Fuller 4, Reid 1 but S. C. offside, penalized 5, Tayloe 5, Reid 2, Tayloe over for touchdown, Tandy kicks goal, 7-0, S. C. kicks off for 40, Reid returns it 16, Fuller 20, Tayloe 2, Reid 5, Fuller 1, Tayloe 15, Reid 9, Allen 2, Tayloe 2, Langston hurt, R. Goings takes his place, L. A. Mott for Hampton, Fuller 10, time up, ball on S. C.'s 3 yard line, 1st down.

Second quarter.

THE NORTH CAROLINA CLUB.

Until this time the Tar Heel has said nothing about the North Carolina club, not because of lack of interest, but because it believed it had nothing of value to add to the most prominent feature of the University life this year.

Extension is the center of interest and attention throughout this institution. Professor Branson's work is the best known and probably the most important of all the features of extension. The doing of the work will educate the University to the importance of extension. The finished work will educate the State to the value of extension.

To the layman student it ought to be a thrilling thought to know that it is possible for him to be one of the first units in a movement that is apparently destined to make the University of North Carolina the Wisconsin of the South.

At this moment the University is enjoying wider publicity and more intelligent support than at any other time in her history. Every working member of the North Carolina club can add his mite to the growing result. Work will find a quicker and larger result if expended in the North Carolina club than in any other student activity.

FALL DEBATES.

To try to arrange at this late hour a Fall Debate looks like a pretty poor proposition. Provided that a strong triangular can be arranged in the spring (and such is the intention of the Debating Union) there are two strong reasons why there should be no Fall Debate this year. First, there is not enough time now to get up a Carolina standard debate. Second, it is apt to dissipate interest in in the spring debates.

At the time this is being written nothing definite is known about the planned fall debate. No opponent has been secured and no question selected. Following the settling of these arrangements must come delay in securing material and holding a preliminary. The work is very apt to be below standard. The argument that "its as fair for one as the other" wont hold water. Carolina has been proud of the standard her teams have set and she wants to maintain that standard, especially in the face of the defeats of last spring. As important as a favorable official judges' decision is the general feeling of the audience and the opponents as to whether or not "that was a fine debate"

Suppose two good men make the team this fall? They are not apt to try again this spring.

Gentlemen of the Debating Union, if you feel that a fall debate is essential to your happiness or ambition arrange your details in the preceding spring.

TECHNICAL TRAINING.

"I want to say to you Electrical Engineers that I believe the good you can get out of your work here in the Phi Society will do more to make you successful as an engineer than any course in the Laboratory that I or any other man can give you. Other things being equal the engineer who can speak has the far greater chance of success in his chosen profession."

Professor P. H. Daggett spoke the above in the Phi Society Saturday night.

"I wish every man in my Department were required to take first Public Speaking", declared Dr. Herty, head of the Department of Chemistry, last year.

"The man who cannot express himself is handicapped at every angle. Take as many English courses as you can. I will not give you credit for zoological knowledge unless you tell it in an intelligent manner," says Dr. H. V. Wilson, head of the Department of Zoology.

YACKETY YACK BILLS.

Every spring there is trouble about Yackety Yack bills. And the entire trouble is due to lack of business methods on the part of the Business Managers. It is true that this is largely due to the fact that practically every year the managers have had no previous exprience along this line. Nevertheless the greater part of the trouble could be averted.

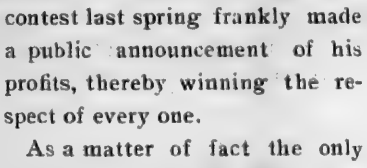
The Faculty has tried in a half hearted manner to regulate things by setting a limit of cost of the annual to the managers. That limit is $3500.00, we believe. That measure is stopping up the wrong end of the hole. The trouble comes between the managers and the students in the levying of assessments. The managers start with a vague notion of details of cost; the organizations drift along in the comfortable optimism of ignorance and lack of responsibility. Consequently if the final bills are steep there is energetic kicking.

It does not take much of an excuse for a loose organization to repudiate a debt when no individual is responsible and when the entire justice of the bill is doubtful. It is almost certain that in the past managers have figured on a certain per cent of the societies not paying their bills and consequently running up the scale of prices.

We suggest that this entire trouble be averted by the managers submitting to some responsible person or persons in each organization a legal contract for a definite amount of space with specific provisions as to cost. The present Senior class demanded and received such a contract last year. It took two years of over assessment to cause this. All other units could do this also.

Managers in the past have not been above the suspicion of clouding the true situation by keeping figures indefinite and vague. In this manner it is possible to get away with a large amount of money. No manager ever to our knowledge declared his profits.

We believe a manager ought to make $250.00 for his work. We believe if the present managers, Mr. Leach and Mr. Nance, figure openly and frankly on that basis there will be no objections. In our opinion; as University men, they ought to demand that their books be examined at the end of year and the result made public.



Mr. Dunnigan in the cigarette contest last spring frankly made a public announcement of his profits, thereby winning the respect of every one.

As a matter of fact the only question is whether the privileges of two men outweigh the rights of a thousand.

Y. M. C. A. Conference at Elon.

A Student Conference was held at Elon College from the seventh to the tenth of October, in which Carolina was represented by five men. There were one hundred delegates from the various colleges and prep schools all of whom were very courteously received and had a jolly good time. Among the speakers were Dr. W. D. Weatherford of the International Y. M. C. A. Committe, C. G. Hounshell of the Student Volunteer Movement, Frank Graham of U. N. C., W. W. Brockman of University of Va., President Harper of Elon, and E. G. Wilson and G. C. Huntington, interstate secretaries.

MR. HARTE SPEAKS FRIDAY

Noted Religious Worker to Talk About India.

Mr. A. C. Hart, one of the foremostreligiousmen of America, will speak to the Faculty and students in Gerrard Hall Friday evening at 7:30. Mr. Harte is a native of Pennsylvania, a graduate of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, and for fifteen years was General Secretary of the Association at Mobile. It is not too much to say that his service there ranks with McBurney's in New York in the inspiring and transforming influence exerted on the city's men of affairs and youth alike. For fifteen years he was chaplain of the first infantry of Alabama and served in the Spanish American War, for six months as chaplain of the second Alabama U. S. Volunteers. He went to Colombo, Ceylon, December, 1907, and after one year of outstanding leadership, became general secretary of the India National Council

A noted Christian leader and writer from America, travelling in India wrote, "Few men in the history of the association movement have succeeded in making friends of the organization as has Mr. Harte, a winsome personality with the graces and charm of a Southern gentleman. He has added the attractions which grow out of unselfish life service of a order. Mr. Harte has found it possible to make and keep friendships with simple hearted village Christians, with all sorts and kinds of students, with Rajahs and Maharajahs and all other native princes of all ranks as well as with the distinguished representatives of the British crown."

After representing the foreign work in one of the leading cities of North America, the general estimate of him in which all men who have heard him, will agree. "Mr. Harte preached in two of our largest churches. He addressed a conference of leading business men Monday evening and made good everywhere. Five different people who heard him Sunday morning said it was the finest address they had ever heard. Tell the secretaries of the associations that they can place Mr. Harte before their best audiences."

Dr. Claxton is a straight forward, forceful, and very talented speaker. Hs address was one of the most appreciated heard here recently. As U. S. Commissioner of Education he brought the University greetings and congratulations from the entire nation.

At the conclusion of his address the L. L. D., degree was conferred on him by the University.

President Graham then read telegrams of greetings, congratulations, and best wishes from Alumni and Alumni associations scattered all over the United States.

Mike Dunnagan '14, came back to college last week to take up graduate work.

SENIORS PASS PEACE PIPE

Held Enjoyable Smoker Last Friday Night.

The Seniors held forth mightily Friday night over punch and cigars with sandwiches and cigarettes as a sideline. With three co-eds to preside over the punch bowls and some forty-five members present to enjoy the occasion, Nineteen fifteen held its first smoker as Seniors.

The refreshments were light but were calculated to leave a good taste in ones mouth. After the refreshments several of those present improvised a quartette and sang apparently to their hearts content.

Speeches were then the order of the evening. Class athletics were discussed in full by members of the embryo championship team. The vexing subject of class hats was next brought up. The discussion waxed so warm that the presidentwas forced to call a vote to halt it. Votes were taken with the result that the matter was turned over to a committee of nine with Field as chairman and the three co-eds as members. The financial management of the affair was turned over to the class treasurer and any assistants whom he should see fit to appoint.

The discussion of the stunt resulted in the election of a committee of three, J. S. Bryan, chairman, B. B. Holder, and W. P. M. Weeks, whose duty it shall be to see the "Stunt" through from start to finish.

Drs. Herty and Greenlaw were present to represent the faculty. The evening was fittingly ended with the election of Shep Bryan cheer leader to replace Bascom Field of the class football team. Of course yells were given for everything and everybody.

You win $500 by writing the best Fatima ad.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

We believe the College Man who smokes Fatima ought to be able to write a good Fatima ad. He knows from experience that Fatima is of satisfying excellence—that for its superlative quality it is moderately priced. He of all Fatima smokers, should be able to write of Fatima convincingly.

So we are going to pay $500 to the student who prepares and sends to us the best original advertisement for Fatima Cigarettes before June 1, 1915.

Any student of any college may compete for this $500

There are no restrictions, whatever, no strings of any kind on this offer, other than this—every contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in an American College. We want a student—not a professional ad writer—to benefit from this offer.

Three prominent business men, whose names will be announced later, will act as judges.

$500 for the best one submitted

The $500 will be awarded June 1, 1915. In the meantime, some of the ads submitted will be published each month in college publications, together with the name and photograph of the writer—provided the writer will give permission for such publication.

For each ad so published we will pay the writer $5. But, the publication of any ad must not be taken to signify that it stands any better chance to win the $500 than the ads that are not published.

Those who try to earn this $500 should remember that the supreme test of any advertisement is its selling power. Whether your ad consists of only ten words—or runs to a thousand—it should be interesting, truthful, convincing—it should give to the reader the buying impulse. To write such advertisements, that will pass the test of performance, the writer must believe in the product he is writing about.

You who love deeds of reckless heroism and have thrilled at the story of the light brigade, that one red drop forcing back for a space the Russian ocean, and the story of the "thin gray lines" storming the heights of Gettysburg, you hero worshipers—off with your hats to the trees of the autumn! A mighty army with banners of flaming crimson and glowing gold, the autumn trees, assaulting hill and overwhelming plain, charge recklessly the battlements of Winter. And at last, shattered by winter's volleys of hail, they march to destruction valiantly flaunting their shreds of flags full in the face of death.

By the way, did you ever walk out in the Arboretum at night and see the wise old stars (on, on heroic reader, it can't last much longer) laughing at the young moon kissing the blushing roses and—

By the way a second time, speaking of stars, say, haven't we been playing some football? An average of over fifty points per game, how's that? Every man a star, and the whole team a constellation! On to Richmond!

Tennis has been raging too. Volleys, smashes, and lobs (a man who lobs well is a lobster, you koow) are the events of the day. Many hot, fast sets have been won and lost and many rackets dashed wildly to the ground. But many are called, only two are chosen. So you who have lost out may console yourselves by putting the blame on the racket and remembering that you've helped somebody on the road to an N, C., and that it is "more blessed to give than to receive."

Phil Woolcott at Y. M. C. A.

Philip Woolcott led the regular Tuesday night meeting at the Y. M. C. A. with a talk on "The Equilateral Man." He emphasized the point that an equilateral man means one equally developed in spirit, mind, and body; and that if the mind and body are clean, the spirit will also be clean. He stated that in order to succeed in life one must work with clean body and mind, and stick to the job all the time.

TOURNAMENT PROGRESSES

Finals of Tennis Tournament Soon to be Played off.

The first round of the varsity tennis tournament, which began last week, was continued and finished this week. In addition, about half of the second round has been played off. In the first round those matches not mentioned in the last issue of the Tar Heel resulted as follows:

Jernigan won from Bradshaw, Chris Jones from Chapman, Winston from Cowan, Blalock from Weeks, Mebane from Wilson, Herty from House, and Branson from Parker. In the second round, so far, Mebane has won from Blalock, Capehart from Proctor, Rutledge from Ragland, Jernigan from Hancock, and Branson from Allred.

The tournament is now fast approaching its climax. The play is daily becoming faster, and Mebane, Capehart, Branson, and Rutledge have reached the third round; so the tennis seen for the next few days will probably be the real stuff, hot and lively, close and classy. Rutledge, Mebane, and Capehart all three play a good, steady game. But Branson is the unknown quantity—the dark horse of the tournament. He has risen to the third round with very little trouble and may yet cause somebody serious annoyance. Since the Athletic Council has not yet met, it still undecided whether or not Oates will be eligible.

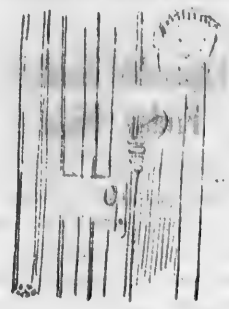
WEEKS WINS WORTHILY

The first number of the Star Course became a thing of the past Saturday night. Jokes, good music, and an all-round good program went to insure the Weeks Company a good audience any time they visit Chapel Hill.

Mr. Weeks captivated the crowd with his joke on "96" and the fly that wouldn't fly out. After that he simply turned loose.

Mrs. Weeks won over her audience in the divorce case even though she did not get the divorce. Miss Woodward played to encores most of the time.



To describe the performance is impossible. It all deserves an encore.

VOL. 23 UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1914 NO. 6

INDIA IS DESCRIBED BY MR. A. C. HARTE

Y. M. A. C. Worker Tells of Religious Conditions in India.

PLEA OF INDIA'S MILLIONS

India and her challenge to the western world was the subject on which A. C. Harte, leader of the Student Movement in India, spoke to the students of Carolina in Gerrard Hall last Friday night.

Mr. Harte is a pleasing speaker and holds his audience with him at all times. His talk was a revelation to all who heard it. Few, if anyone, here had ever thought of India as she is—one of the greatest undeveloped countries in the world. The natural beauty of the country, the resources, the people, the condition in which the country is today--all were discussed in a most interesting way.

Mr. Harte told his hearers of India's needs, of the avidity with which her people seize upon everything "European". These people cry for aid, they want light. The question raised was: "Are we to allow the student movement now on foot in India to die on account of a lack of funds caused by the great struggle in Europe?"

Too much cannot be said of Mr. Harte and his appeal. It was the general conclusion that he should have been a poet, since few poets surpass him in his choice of words and in the beauty of his descriptions.

Mr Stacy Talks at Y. M. C. A.

Dean Stacy led the Tuesday night meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on the subject of "The Upward Climb". He made the statement that the thing we all admired is the skill with which a hard task is performed, and that the Upward Climb consists in always making an effort to perform that task more skillfully than anyone else. This Upward Climb lies right in front of our door and we have only to take advantage of it. There are two roads in life, one characterized by despondency and admittance of defeat, while the other is characterized by using of failure as a stepping stone to success. The latter is the road of the real Upward Climb. He illustrated the difficulties one must overcome along the road of the Upward Climb by recounting the adventures of David Lowry Swain and Charles D. McIver along that road and showed by telling of the fame they had acquired in that manner to what heights one may rise.

Easy for Vanderbilt.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20—Vanderbilt had little trouble in defeating the light Central of Kentucky football team here today, 59 to 0. Fullback Coleman, of the visiting team, suffered concussion of the brain and tonight his condition is regarded as serious.—Raleigh News and Observer.

CAROLINA BOYS MARCH THROUGH GEORGIA

The Tune is 41 to 6---The Tar Heels Secure a Touchdown in the First Seventy-Five Seconds of the Play

GEORGIANS SAY THAT CAROLINA HAS BEST TEAM IN THE SOUTH

TAYLOE AND TANDY STAR

College Watches and Cheers as Report of Game Comes in.

About fifty years ago one General Sherman with an army of blue coated men marched through Georgia. Last Saturday a squad of men led by Head Coach Trenchard and Capt. Tayloe, both marched and ran through Georgia. In the sixties the march was attended by slaughter and devastation of ouman life; last Saturday the march was also accompanied by slaughter and devastation—the object being this time the destruction of Georgia's hopes for a Southern championship in football. The score was Carolina 41, Georgia 6.

In the words of Dick Jemison, Dope artist of the Atlanta Constitution, "what it takes to possess a real football machine the University of North Carolina seems to have it." From the sound of Referee Brooks' whistle until it sounded after sixty minutes of hard play, Carolina outplayed the Georgia eleven. At no time did Georgia have a show.

Note the following, also from Jemison:

"Saturday Carolina steam rolled over the University of Georgia football eleven at Grant Field, piling up point after point and showing an attack that was bewildering, and a defense that was well nigh impregnable.

The Tar Heels have a real football team. There is no getting away from that fact. They have a machine that looks far superior to any football team that has performed in Atlanta in the past six or seven years.

The forwards are heavy, strong, experienced, and knows how to charge. Their backs are fleet footed, can side step, stiff arm, dodge, and have plenty of drive when they hammer into the line Their tackling was fierce and deadly. When they fastened their lunch hooks on a Georgia player, he stopped."

The work of Capt. Tayloe at left half and of Tandy at center stood head and shoulders above all other men on the field.

The Atlanta Constitution further says:

"We nominate here and now, both of these men for all-Southern places at left half and center respectively.

Tandy is a wonderfully developed man, strong as a bull and knows footbal. He opened up yawning holes in the Georgia line for his backs to drive through and on the defensive he ploughed through time after time and nail his man. His work is clean cut and playing right in the middle of twenty-one men he showed them all up by his wonderful work."

And further:

"No better back has ever performed on a local field than this fellow Tayloe. He can side step as well as Lewie Hardage ever did. He is as fleet footed as Kirk Newell, he can stiff arm like Owlesy, and can hammer the line like the latter.

Tayloe picks his opening, keeps his feet well and plunges through a space as big as a mouse, literally hammering his way along. He shook off tackler after tackler all through the game.

Several times he got away for long gains, dodging, side stepping, and stiff arming and giving local fans the best exhibition of backfiield work it has ever been their pleasure to witness, until even the most loyal partisan supporter climbed to his hind legs, doffed his kelly, and gave the fleet footed back his due in applause."

Winston's tackling was superb. Homewood played his usual smashing game. Parker and Reid did well while Fuller gained consistently. Ramsay was in almost every play. In short, the whole team played great ball; and Carolina is behind them.

For Georgia Paddock and Logan played great ball. Paddock made nearly all the gains Ga. made. Between the two, they got every tackle that was made by Georgia.

The game by plays.

First quarter:

North Carolina won the toss and chose the south goal. Thompson kicked off for Georgia. He kicked to Winston on Carolina's 10 yard line and he returned the ball 50 yards, to Georgia's 40 yard line. Tayloe went outside of Georgia's left tackle for 15 yards. On the next play Parker went through center for 25 yards and a touchdown. Bridges was hurt in the play and Allen took his place at quarterback. Tandy kicked a difficult goal.

Thompson kicked to Homewood who returned ball 15 yards to his own 35 yard line. Fuller went over Georgia's right tackle for 12 yards. Tayloe broke through the line and ran 50 yards for a second touchdown. Tandy kicked goal.

Paddock replaced Dorsey at quarterback. Carolina kicked to Paddock who returned ball 10 yards to his own 35 yard line. Broyles bucked the line for 5 yards. Paddock failed to gain. Broyles no gain. Broyles kicked to allen in midfield, ball being partly blocked.

Parker through center for five yards. Tayloe around Georgia's left for 10. Parker no gain. Ga. penalized 5 yards, offside. Parker failed to gain. Fuller got 10 off right tackle, Parker wriggled through line for 18, ball on Ga's. 8 yard line. Tayloe carried ball over on next play. Tandy kicked easy goal.

Stock replaced Girard for Ga.

Jones kicked to Lagan who fumbled, but recovered only to be downed in his tracks on his own 35 yard line. Broyles hit the line for 7, Broyles 7 more and first down. Ga. penalized 15 yards for roughing. Wright replaces Winston at end. Broyles kicked to Allen who ran ball back 10 yards. On being tackled he dropped the ball—Ga. recovering it. A forward pass Paddock to Logan netted Ga. 20 yards. Holzendorf replaced Thompson. Broyles hit line for 2; Broyles failed to gain, Paddock made 8 around Carolina's right end, Broyles gets 2 over line, Broyles failed to gain. Quarter ended with ball in Ga's. possession on Carolina's 25 yard line.

Second quarter.

Double pass Thrash to Paddock gained 5, Broyles bucked the line for 6, Paddock hit line for 2, Broyles failed to gain through line. Paddock, unaided by interference, broke through the line and ran 18 yards for a touchdown. Broyles failed to kick goal.

Broyles kicked to Allen who ran ball back 15 yards to 35 yard line. Hudson replaced Hitchcock at center for Georgia. Tayloe off tackle for 8. Fuller failed to gain. Ga. penalized 5, offside, Parker through line for 10. Tayloe through tackle for 5. Harris replaced Holzendorf for Ga. Ga. penalized 5, offside. Ball in Carolina's possession on Ga's. 35 yard line. Parker over line for 1, Fuller over line for 4, Ga. penalized 5, offside, Parker through line for 5, Cowell was put out of game for slugging, and North Carolina was penalized 40 yards—half way to her own goal. Foust replaced Cowell at guard. Foust kicked yards to Paddock who was downed in his tracks.

Double pass Peacock to Paddock netted 7, Broyles failed to gain, Peacock failed to gain over line, Broyles hit line for 4 and first down. Paddock tried forward pass but it was incompleted. Double pass Paddock to Peacock gained 7 around Carolina's right end. Peacock gained 2 through line. Carolina penalized 5, offside, Celig replaced Harris for Ga. On a trick formation Ga. worked a

PROGRAMME FOR YEAR ANNOUNCED

North Carolina Club Has Planned Out Its Meetings.

CLUB GROWS IN ACTIVITY

Dr. Hamilton has announced the programme for the year of the biweekly meetings of the North Carolina Club. Although this is a new organization, it is already strong in numbers, and its work toward the betterment of conditions throughout the state, has every prospect of becoming effective. All the leaders for the meetings have as yet not been selected, but their names will be announced later.

The programme follows.

November 4. The Decreasing Meat Supply of North Carolina and the Increasing Cost of Living.

Dicussion led by J. M. Danie

December 2. The Club w take charge of Community W Celebration.

December 16. Are Farm Lan Bearing an Unreasonable Sha of the Tax Burden?

January 13. Debate. Question: A State-Wide Dog Tax for Schools.

February 10. The Farmer's Share of the Consumer's Dollar.

February 24. Open.

March 10. Orange County Club.

March 24. Debate. Question: Resolved, That home and farm ownership is beneficial to the negro and the community in which he lives.

April 7. Wake County Club.

April 21. Mecklenburg County Club.

May 5. New Zealand's Graduated Land Tax.

May 12. Final Rally.

Prof. Noble's Rally Day.

Prof. Noble's Rally Day came off last Friday here in Chapel Hill in spite of the threatening weather which materially decreased the expected attendance. The program was to have started with an address by Dean Stacy but because there were so few present at the opening of the exercises it was postponed until after dinner when Mr. Stacy made his delayed speech of welcome. From 10:30 to 12:30 two stereopticon lectures on the "Public Schools of the West" and on "How Other People Keep up their Public Roads" were given in Gerrard Hall. At 12:30 there were free moving pictures at the Pickwick on "Farming With Dynamite." From 10:30 on there was a domestic science demonstration in the Peabody Building. After dinner there was a joint meeting of the Sunday schools in Gerrard Hall where five minute speeches were heard from Dr. Pratt, Prof Branson, Mrs. Pegram, and Mrs. Henley. The Sunday schools closed the exercise with a singing contest; Clark Chapel, Antioch, and Demascus tied for first place.

TEAM WORK.

The college is getting behind the team as has not been done during the last few years. This is manifest not intirely in the spirited attendance at mass meetings and practice but in the general tune of campus talk. There is a gratifying healthy sentiment concerning the gridiron defenders.

We are happy to believe that this "behind-the-team" spirit is largely because the entire college knows beyond a shadow of a doubt that the team characterized by Coach Trenchard as "the best in the South" is an absolutely home product. This is the result of the firm, far-sighted policy of the college authorities. Last year in the throes of evolution to the present system there were many who became confused as to the only way to ultimate consistent athletics. A few guiding spirits in the faculty disregarded the immediate consequences and looked to the future. Today we reap the result of their wisdom.

The college knows that the great attendance material on the field which makes the selection of the "so-called first team embarrassing" is due to the constructive, energetic development of high school teams, class teams, and the varsity squad. The result is due to Head Coach Doggie Trenchard.

Three cheers and Hot "Split-Carolina" for the Faculty-Coaching team work.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE RESULTS.

The number of 1918 men who are trying out for the Freshmen debates in the two Societies is the largest in years. Twenty-eight men have entered in the Phi contest and a few more in the Di.

Twenty-four of the twenty-eight from the Phi were questioned as to whether or not they were in the State wide High School contest last year. Twelve answered in the affirmative. This shows an encouraging condition. Last year and year before about eighteen men entered from the Phi.

It might not be a bad idea for those most interested in this feature of extension to take a census along this line.

THE MORAL VALUE OF ATHLETIC.

In October 1894 there appeared Volume 1, Number 1, of an Alumni Quarterly of this University. It appeared only twice. It was a financial failure. In the first number was an article by Professor F. P. Venable, then as now of the Chemistry Department. His subject was, Athletics at the University of North Carolina. Extracts follow.

"Ten years ago no attention was paid by professors or students of the University to the training or developing of the physical powers. Whether it was due to the absence of exciting manly sports or not, certain it is that the faculty had more trouble in managing less than two hundred students gathered here for their instruction in those days, than the four hundred who are found in the same halls now. The time and thought which are now given to the different teams, their training and their victories or defeats, were given to ringing the bell and playing pranks on the faculty, fellow students, and villagers.

"Before this time we had known of several serious fights and shooting affrays among the students and at least four cases of insanity from over study. Since then no troubles of this kind have come upon us especially since some form of athletic training has been made compulsory upon all the lower classes.

"I think I voice the sentiment of the faculty when I say that they would dread any return to the days when friendly contests with other intitutions were prohibited and this element of interest was lacking in college life."

SINGING.

Carolina should learn to sing. The popular exaggerated college picture is the "Jolly good fellows" singing at the top of their voices with arms around each others shoulders. A crowd of men singing get closer together than at any other time or in any other way. When you are all together and cut loose on a song and you get all athrill with the words of the fellow next to you seems much kinder and likable than he was before.

The Y. M. C. A. has a piano for public use. Some enterprising individuals or some organization could get into the habit of singing there on some definite night in the week. Then why not start singing the college songs at the Pickwick and make that place a positive force instead of a doubtful neutral one

Here's a chance for patriotic service for somebody.

Mrs. Price, the State inspector of institution dining halls, has been in Chapel Hill this week looking over Swain Hall.

Before and After.

Atlanta Constitution, Dope Artist.

Oct. 17——"We look for Georgia to win by a margin of one touchdown, &c."

Oct. 18——"What it takes to possess a regular football machine Carolina seems to have it."

"They have a 'real' football team. There is no getting around that fact. They have a machine far superior to any football team that has performed in Atlanta in the past six or seven years."

Another fond dream "busted", but what's a dope artist for unless it is to give the fans what they like to read?

Miss Branson Married.

Miss Edith Branson, daughter of Dr. E. C. Branson, was married Wednesday October 21 at high noon to Mr. Young Smith. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Moss, and was attended only by relatives and a few friends. After the wedding breakfast, the bridal party left for Durham.

Miss Branson, although but recently arrived in Chapel Hill, has a host of friends here who will regret her departure. Mr. Smith is a prominent young attorney of Athens Ga.

Sigma Epsilon Convention.

A national convention of Sigma Upsilon (Literary) will be held at Chapel Hill sometime during the college year. The time for the convention has as yet not been definitely fixed, but it will more than likely take place January 4-5. Sigma Upsilon, although established fairly recently, is a national organization, and is doing great work in encouraging literary activity among college students.

New Library Regulations.

New regulations have been made in regard to the seminar rooms in the Library. Hereafter no student will be permitted to use these rooms unless he has a signed card from his instructor.

Cards, which subsequently have to be signed by the instructors, may be had from Dr. L. R. Wilson at the Library.

Sophomore Smoker.

The Sophomore class held the first smoker of its history Wednesday evening in Peabody Hall. The large number present enjoyed to the fullest the excellent speeches of the Faculty members present and those of representative members of the class, not to mention the refreshments which were of the finest. Members of the Faculty present were Dr. Howe, Dean Stacy, and Prof. Noble.

Alumni on the Hill for University day were:

W. P. Jacocks '04, W. H. Pace '04, J. H. Boushel '10, R. S. Busby '98, L. P. McLendon '12, J. W. Umstead Jr. '09, N. S. Plummer '10, A. E. Woltz '01, G. M. Rondthaler.

P. R. Bryan, '13, was on the Hill Tuesday and Wednesday arranging a course of gradute work he expects to pursue here this year. Paul has been with the San Juan Iron Co. of Santiago de Cuba.

R. B. House will lead the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A. next week.

Continuous Report Saturday.

It seemed to be the misunderstanding last Saturday that the door receipts of the continuous report went into the pockets of private individuals. Such is not the case at all. The fellows who managed the report Saturday did so for no remuneration at all. The entire proceeds—some $90 altogether—are now resting in the vacuous coffers of the Athletic Association.

A similar report will be held in Chapel next Saturday at four o'clock, to which everybody is cordially invited—yea, even urged to betake himself.

Glee Club Makes First Appearance.

The Glee Club, under the management of Preston Epps, will make its debut for the year 1914-15 in Winston-Salem Saturday night October 31—the same day on which the Carolina-Davidson game is to be played there. Although Henry Meeks is not one of the twenty-five men selected to represent the musical talent at the University, he did not return to college this fall, the Club is unusually strong. All the songs are new and have been thoroughly mastered. The mandolin club numbers about twelve men this year, and is sure to make a hit. Carolina will certainly be well represented in Winston by these two splendid organizations, the Glee Club and THE Football Team.

The Locomotive Yell.

Carolina's newest yell is designed to imitate the noise incident to the starting of an engine, and is therefore called the "Locomotive Yell". First come two Rah Rah's, said very deliberately in imitation of the chugging of an engine when first started. Then the Rahs come faster until they sound like an engine at full speed. Quite simple it is, and effective, too, if you just know how to do it. Bring this yell to the mass meeting Friday night, and let Charlie Coggius show you how it goes.

And defeat us they never can do.
There's nothing in sight but the Tar Heels;
We are all for the White and the Blue.

Boy Scouts Organize.

Last week the Y. M. C. A., represented by Marion Fowler and Harry Renn, took up the organization of some of the town boys and the mill boys into two Boy Scout patrols. This work has not been done in the last two years since the time that Rev. Starr had charge of it. The boys have manifested much interest, and the leaders think they will have at least two patrols.

$5 for every ad. published
$500 for the Best

The advertising profession is attracting many college men. Several universities recognizing this tendency have inaugurated special courses in the science of advertising. Here is a chance for you to prove whether YOU have talent for the new profession—with a possibility of earning $500 toward your next year's expenses.

For the best original Fatima ad. submitted by a college man before June 1, 1915, we will pay $500 in gold.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

The first installment of students' ads. will be published next month

Each month, beginning next month, some of the ads. submitted will be published in college papers and magazines. With each ad. so published, if the writer will permit us, we will publish his name, year and photograph.

Every ad. published will be paid for at the rate of $5 apiece. It must be understood however, that the selection of an ad. for publication does not signify that it has any better chance to win the $500 than the ads. not so chosen.

There are no restrictions whatever as to the method you shall employ or the way you shall approach the subject—except that the ad. must be truthful.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Say, did you hear all the commotion Saturday night? Did you wonder why it was? Well, the British sunk some German boats Saturday. Not a British supporter? Sophomore? Well, try this. The Freshmen had little enough pep to let you all run over them for 42 to 0. Freshmen, huh? Well, see if that 41 to 6 performance doesn't soothe your throbbing heartache.

Yea, verily, in the words of the prophet, also of the British, also of the Sophs, also of the Tar Heels, "A glorious victory is like unto the rising sun which bringeth forth much joy and a hot old time—" the latter being occasioned by the exodus of the University wood pile.

How about a Fresh-Soph game of marbles or "pussy wants a corner"? That would no doubt wake up some pep; even resuscitate it from its horrible death.

Are they playin' that tennis tournament on their feet or on their head? Don't know? Well, its high time you did know something. No, I'm not proposing to answer all these questions, but I will say there's lots of perfectly good grandstand room around, waiting for somebody to occupy it.

They say Percival is back. You remember Percival, B. S.'s Bysshe Shelley, you understand. He's got a girl now, he says, and she's about the sweetest, goodlookin'est, peachiest pippin he ever saw; and believe Percival, Irene, he has seen some pippins, not to use the sordid term "goil." You know B. S.'s father is an apple king.

Specialization to Be Required in A. B Course.

At the Sophomore smoker on Oct. 14th Dr. Howe explained a proposed change for the betterment of the Junior and Senior years of the courses leading to the A. B. degree. The essentials of the plan are as follows: Every student shall select some special subject on which to specialize in his Junior and Senior years, and shall likewise select a minor course subject to the approval of the head of the department in which he selects as his major course, which he must also continue in his Senior year. Of his major course he must take as much as six and not more than nine hours work each year. The rest of his course the student himself can select after consultation with the head of the department in which he has his major study. This change goes into effect with the present Sophomore class and the students must hand in by May 15th lists of the subjects in which they wish to specialize. This is a very important change, and the students should commence at once to conteruptate their schedules for the year 1915–16.

Mass Meeting Friday Night.

Every loyal Carolina student, small or great, is expected to come to the big mass meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 and to bring plenty of pep with him. Old songs and yells will be practiced, and new ones learned. Since Charlie Coggins will be on hand to conduct things, and the band has agreed to play some lively airs, the meeting will be pulled off with gusto.

E. S. Peel of '14 was on the Hill last week.

SOPHOMORES VICTORIOUS

In Uninteresting Game Sophs Overwhelm Freshmen.

In the first game of the class championship series Saturday the sophs smothered the freshmen 36—0. It was a miserable game at times, but the work of Captain Coleman of the Sophs gave flashes of interest to the spectators. The Freshmen could not at any time formidably resist the Soph machine which is even better than it was last year. Davis starred for the Freshmen as did also Gudger and Sawyer.

All the class teams practice daily and much interest is being manifested in the contest among the lesser lights of the gridiron. DeWitt Klutts is again coaching the Sophs and Freshmen and is evidently developing some good material. The Freshmen play Warrenton Saturday in Warrenton. The Sophs are also trying to get games with prep schools.

Vanderbilt Prepares.

News comes from Nashville that Vanderbilt is practising hard in expectation of a severe struggle with Carolina next Saturday, and subsequent games with Virginia, Tennessee, Auburn, and Sewanee.

About fifty men, eleven of whom have letters, answered Coach Dan McGugin's first call for candidates. The "V" men are Captain Sikes, Currie, Carman, Lowe, Cohen, Putman, Chester, Warren, and Huffman of last year, and Morrison and Browe of the '10 team. Cady, who was ineligible last year, has done good work in the early games. The cocahes have not settled on the team which will take the field against North Carolina, but the most probable lineup will give a backfield averaging 159 and line form end to end of 180.

The first mass meeting of the year will be held on Friday night, at which the Carolina team will be guests.

News From the Front.

Bridges was so crippled in the Georgia game that he will hardly be able to play against Vanderbilt. Tandy was also slightly hurt, but his injuries will not keep him from getting in his usual good wark Saturday. Red Allen, who also sufferd, will be ready when the whistle blows next Saturday. The rest of the team are in fine condition. The noble aggregation left Atlanta at noon Monday for Gainsville where they played Riverside on Tuesday. That night they returned to Atlanta where on Wednesday and Thursday they scrimmaged with Georgia Tech. Friday morning they leave for the big game at Nashville.

News reached Chapel Hill yesterday that Carolina had won from Riverside Military Academy at Gainesville 40—0.

NOVEMBER MAGAZINE

First Issue of Magazine is a Success.

CONTAINS GOOD ARTICLES

Belated Periodical Contains Two Stories and Discussions of Interest

In attempting to review the first issue of the Magazine for 1914, one is at a loss where to begin. There is as usual the wide assortment of subjects which characterizes the University of North Carolina Magazine as one not given over entirely to frivolity but trying also to give some discussion of the more serious subjects of College life. To the first class belongs that excellent chronicle of what happened to a Freshman, "Suits", by George Eutsler. The second class is well represented by an article by Samuel Newman on "The Holy War", and also by another article on the societies by W. P. Fuller. Fuller's article comes at an opportune time, for the societies are on a decline, and unless they find some way to increase their efficiency, must ultimately perish. Along the same subject is an article by G. A. Martin on the bettering of the methods of choosing debaters. That some such method is needed is amply vouched for by Carolina's ignominious defeat last year. Half serious and half humorous is the description of Venice during August by T. C. Linn, who happened to be on the scene when the war broke out and was kind enough to pass along his impressions of the vermicelli city. The best poem of the month was that by J. N. Wilson on the time-worn subject of the sunset at the close of day. A. R. Brownson's article on a real library is a true statement of a sad fact which all would do well to heed. The Editorial and and Around the Well departments are of course up to their usual high standard while the Exchange department announces that it is going to concern itself in trying to encourage High School literature. To summarise the Magazine in a few words, it is a magazine that few equal, none excel, and that any college would be justly proud of.

Special Train to Run.

Manager Boushall announces that arrangements have been made for a special train to run from Chapel Hill to Winston next Saturday for the accomodation of students desiring to see the Davidson game. The excursion will leave Chapel Hill at eight-thirty Saturday morning, and return the same day. The fare will be only two dollars round trip. The rate is so reasonable that a large number of students will take advantage of it, and be on hand when rooting for Carolina is in order.

CAROLINA WINS A HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

Score of 10 to 9 is Result of Three Hours Struggle with Vanderbilt

NIGHT OVERTAKES PLAYERS BUT DOES NOT INTERRUPT GAME

In First Half Vanderbilt Gets Nine Points to Carolina's Three.--- Carolina Comes Back with Touchdown and Kicks Goal.

A blocked kick by Ramsay, Carolina's left tackle, who fell on the ball behind the goal posts, a drop kick and one goal by Tandy gave Carolina ten points and the game against Vanderbilt last Saturday at Nashville. The best that Vandy could do was a touchdown and a drop kick—making nine points as Curry failed to kick goal after touchdown.

To say that the game was hard fought is putting it mild. At the end of the game both teams were exhausted. Time was taken out by both teams in order to wind in the fourth quarter. Although Carolina outweighed her opponents by a few pounds to the man, the teams were evenly matched.

Again Vandy had the advantage of playing on her home lot, while Carolina had been away from home one week. Some of the men are not good travellers, and, consequently, were not at their best. Vandy played a more brilliant game than Carolina, but the latter played steadier. At no time did Carolina let up. The boys played football from whistle to whistle.

For Carolina Tayloe, Tandy, and Parker starred. Fuller gained ground consistently. Again Foust's toe was called into use, and, as usual, he used it to good effect. It was to his good punting that Carolina kept the ball in Vandy's territory during the latter part of the game. Ramsay saved the day by his good work. The whole team played ball—that means that the boys fought all the way. It was only at end that they outclassed us. Homewood was injured early in the game and Wright suffered a dislocated shoulder. Injuries therefore aided Vandy in that respect.

Cody, Curry, and Cohen starred for Vandy—Cody, especially on the defensive. Curry was Vandy's one best bet as a ground gainer since Capt. Sikes was injured early in the game. Vandy was depending upon Sikes to star but, as a star, he was not so much of a shining light as was expected.

Both teams attempted many forward passes, five of which were successful. A successful one by Vandy gained 40 yards paved the way for her only touchdown. Carolina gained some ground in this way, but the passes failed when most needed. Both teams played great defensive ball. Vandy held us for downs on her four yard line, while we did the same thing for her on our own 6 yard line. The team did just what was expected of it—it won.

The game by plays:

First quarter.

Vandy won the toss and kicked off to Carolina. The ball was kicked back of the goal posts and was brought in to the 20 yard line. Tayloe failed to gain, a forward pass was incomplete, Tayloe punted the ball 30 yards to Sikes who returned the ball 30 yards. Curry fumbled, Carolina recovering. Tayloe gained 3 around right end, Fuller made 20 around left end, Fuller failed to gain through the line, Tayloe punted to Vandy's 30 yard line, Curry fumbled but Cohen recovered.

Sikes made 5 yards around right end, Putnam fumbled but Carman recovered. Curry made 14 around right end, Sikes made 5 off right tackle, Carman made 3 through the line, Curry made first down around right end. Time out for Carman.

Curry was thrown for a loss of 3 yards, a double forward pass, Putnam to Sikes to Curry, went for 40 yards. Time out for Curry. Ball on Carolina's 7 yard line. Carman failed to gain over center, Curry failed te gain around right end, Curry was thrown for a loss of 10 yards.

Cody tried a dropkick from the 25 yard line but failed, ball was brought out to the 20 yard line. Vandy penalized 5 yards, offside, Parker gained one yard straight over, Bridges went 10 yards over left end. Time out for Sikes. Vandy penalized 5 yards, offside, Bridges made 12 yards around left end, forward pass failed, Parker failed to gain, forward pass was incomplete, Tayloe punted out of bounds on Vandy's 25 yard line. Sikes punted back to Carolina's 35 yard line. Bridges was downed in his tracks. Chester went in at end and Reams took Sikes' place at half.

Fuller gained 15 yards off right tackle, Parker lost 19 yards, Tayloe punted and Curry fumbled on his 1 yard line. Time out for Homewood. Wright replaced Homewood. Chester punted to Vandy's 35 yard line and Bridges returned to Vandy's 17 yard line. Tayloe lost 8 yards, Tayloe failed to dropkick, ball brought to 20 yard line. Chester punted, and Bridges made a fair catch. Parker gained 5 yards, Vandy penalized 15 yards for holding.

End of first quarter. Score Carolina 0; Vandy 0.

Second quarter.

Tayloe gained 12 yards around right end, Parker gained 5 yards over center, Bridges lost 1 yard, a forward pass, Fuller to Cowell gained 25 yards, ball on Vandy's 15 yard line, Tayloe lost 6, then gained 5, Fuller made 3 over left tackle, Tayloe failed at dropkick. Grimsley went in for Winston at end.

The ball was brought out to the 20 yard line. Curry gained 46 yards around left end, Putnam failed to gain, a pass, Putnam to Curry to Cohen gained 35 yards, ball on Carolina's 1 yard line. Carman went through center for a touchdown. Curry failed to kick goal. N. C. 0; Vandy 6.

Cody kicked off to Carolina's 25 yard line. Fuller fumbled but recovered, Parker gained 3 yards Bridges made 6 through center, Tayloe failed to gain, Tayloe punted to Curry on his 30 yard line, no return, Reams fumbled and Parker recovered. Fuller made 3 yards, Bridges went for 3 more, Tayloe made 8 yards off tackle. Lipscombe went in for C. Brown. Parker failed to gain, Fuller made two yards, Bridges failed through center, Tandy dropkicked for 3 points.

Cody kicked off behind N. C's. goal line, ball being brought out to the 20 yard line. Allen made 2 yards through center. Tayloe was thrown for a 10 yard loss on an attempted forward pass, Tayloe punted to Vandy's 45 yard line. Curry made 20 yards around left end, a forward pass failed, Putnam made 5 yards over tackle, Carman failed to gain, Cody made a dropkick from the 30 yard line.

Tandy kicked off for N. C. to Vandy's 20 yard line and Cohen returned it 10 yards, Curry failed to gain, Chester punted to Allen on Carolina's 20 yard line, Allen was thrown in his tracks, Parker lost 3 yards, Tayloe punted to Curry on Vandy's 40 yard line who returned 10 yards. Time out for Cohen. Reams made 10 around left end, Carman through center for 38 yards, Time out for Wright. Long went in for Wright. Ball on Carolina's 8 yard line. Putnam failed to gain, Carman gained 1 yard, Curry lost 2 yards, half over. Carolina 3; Vandy 9.

Third quarter.

Cody kicked off to Carolina's 5 yard line and Fuller returned 15 yards, Tayloe made 7 off tackle. Time out for Putnam. Fuller failed to gain, Tayloe made first down, Bridges failed to gain, Fuller got 5 over left end. Time

THE GAME SATURDAY

Winston-Salem Scene of Next Struggle

DAVIDSON GETTING READY

Red and Black Hopes to Show up Well Against Carolina

Davidson is practising hard and looking forward to the game next Saturday with not a great deal of pleasure. It seems to be the concensus of opinion that Davidson stands no chance of winning from Carolina. There is every reason why she should not. Carolina has a student body of over nine hundred men to select its players, the best coaches in the South, and has had summer practice.

The line-up that will most probably meet Carolina is as follows: Creighton, R. E. who is playing on the varsity for the second year; Anderson, R. T. for whom this is also the second season; Van de Vanter, R. G., member of the 1912 team; McKay G., a sub of last year; Gray, L. G., who has never played football until this year; Glover, G., a second year man and the so called "Lilliputian elephant" of "The Red and Blacks"; White, C., who is playing on the varsity for the first time this year; Captain Howell, R. T.; Austin, R. E., a freshman. In the backfield will probably be Walker, R. H. B., a second year man; Black, L. H. B., a freshman who formerly played at Fishburne; Laird, H. B., a sub-varsity man of last year. McKennon, F. B., who is playing on the team for the second year.

The Clemson game left several of the regulars in bad shape. The Newberry team gave Davidson somewhat of a surprise by scoring 7 in the first half to Davidson 0. In the second half Fetzer had to send in two of his regulars who had been kept out on account of injuries received in the Clemson game, and "The Red and Black" machine had to strain to the utmost to gain a victory. The game last Saturday with Citidel was a gruelling contest from start to finish, and many bruises and sprains were received by the Davidson players.

Seniors 47—Freshmen 0.

Wednesday of last week the Seniors romped away with the Freshmen, scoring 47 points to the Freshmen 0. Nance and Fitzgerald played through the Freshmen, and each scored three touchdowns. The Freshmen punted almost every time they had the ball. The Seniors had possession of the ball during most of the game and the whole team made easy work of the Freshmen. The game, as the score indicates, was entirely a Senior affair.

FRESHMAN REGULATIONS.

As society becomes highly organized it is always necessary to adopt artificial measures to reproduce or preserve desirable institutions.

The above remark is meant as a preface to a proposal to adopt a set of Freshmen rules of conduct. Practically every larger insuitution has them which, of course, is no argument at all that we should.

Class contests of one form or other; regulations about smoking, wearing apparel, high school pins; conduct at certain times and places and such matters are in many places given careful attention in the Student Council.

The reason is, of course, to abolish hazing. Hazing here at present is dead. But things die and grow rapidly in college life.

Good things as well as bad die out rapidly too. This present Senior class has seen the old custom of tipping hats to the professors disappear. Who knows but the present Freshmen class might see hazing reappear.

Hazing in an institution of this size and nature is the fault usually of a half a dozen notoriety seeking freshmen and as many upper-classmen who take life and themselves too seriously or who got up on the wrong side of the bed. Nevertheless it is an undeniable fact that there is a growing feeling among the undergraduates that freshmen should officially be made to realize that registration does not change a school boy to a college man.

THE BIG TRIP.

The football team left Chapel Hill on Friday, October 16th and returned Monday 26th. The one object was to enable the manager to carry twenty-two men. If there had not been twenty-two men in Nashville on Saturday, October 24th, Vanderbilt would in all probability defeated Carolina. If there had been a whole end to send in in place of "Goatie" Wright, who was playing with a dislocated shoulder, Carolina probably would have won by a margin of a touchdown instead of one point.

While emphasizing its belief in the necessity of twenty-two men on every big trip the Tar Heel wishes to advise against another trip for a football team of that length, even if some financial sacrifice must be made. In the face of our financial status there must be good reasons for such a stand. They are two in number.

The coaches are unanimous in opinion that the week spent in knocking around in Georgia with strange food, quarters, and surroundings was very harmful to the team. This harm was much larger than the usual disadvantages of team traveling. That is the first reason.

The second reason is not so apparent, but is much more important. It is not good that twenty-two young men who from their position naturally feel more or less favored for the time, above their college mates should come to feel that they can absent themselves from their work for an entire week. It makes the return to work harder, in the words of one of the twenty-two, "Than coming back after Christmas." The idea that the whole thing was done to save money sounds too much of commercialism and professionalism.

ON TO RICHMOND.

For the first time in a college generation the student body is "behind the team". Every member of the team can say and most of them have said that that part is half the victory.

The fact that five hundred students were listening eagerly to the click of a key in Gerrard Hall last Saturday and that they expected what they heard to be favorable, gained many a yard on Dudley Field, Nashville, Tennessee.

What is true of Georgia or Vanderbilt will be equally true of Virginia. Everystudent: Believe that your team can defeat a team and it can.

THE CURRICULUM CHANGE.

One of the amazing things of college life is the lack of thought with which the average college student selects his course. Provided he is not preparing for a professional life and has his course mapped out for him by his professors, the hour at which it comes, the reputation as to whether it is a "pud" or not, the casual advice of a friend, when at the last minute will have as much force as the fitness of the course for his life work. One of the most severe inditements against the college student is the casual manner in which he changes his course.

In view of the above facts the new system of grouping their courses leading to the A. B. degree is of much interest. Beginning with the present Sophomore class every student must select for his Junior and Senior year a major and a minor which he must pursue through both years. The remainder of his course is left largely to his own humors with, of course, the advice and consent of the head of the department in which he has his major study.

QUERIES ANNOUNCED

Question of Ship Subsidy to Be Discussed in Soph-Junior Contest.

The query for the Soph-Junior Debate as submitted by the Di and accepted by the Phi is, "Resolved; That the Government should subsidize its Merchant Marine engaged in foreign commerce. The Phi's chose to defend the affirmative. The preliminaries will be held before Thanksgiving and will come off just before the Christmas holidays. This same query is to be discussed this spring by the high schools in the Debating Union.

The query for the Freshmen Debate in the Phi Sociecy this fall is, "Resolved; That the segregation of the Blacks and the Whites in the Rural Districts of North Carolina would be for the best interest of the State." The preliminary will be held November 9--11th. Thirty-one Freshmen have entered for this debate.

The Di Freshmen will discuss in their annual fall debate, "Resolved; That the Governor of North Carolina should have the Veto Power." Thirty-four have entered this debate. The contest comes off the last of November.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE.

Team to Take Ten Days Trip Through Virginia.

The basketball schedule for this season has been practically completed, and a number of good games have been arranged by Manager Mebane.

There will be two games in Chapel Hill during January, one with Elon and the other with William and Mary. On January the 16th there will be a game with Wake Forest in Raleigh.

During February Carolina will play Wake Forest at Wake Forest, Guilford at Raleigh, and Virgina at Raleigh.

The long trip will begin February the 15th and last five days. The team will play a game with each of the following colleges in the order named: Roanoke College, Washington and Lee at Lexington, V. M. I. at Lexington, Virginia at Charlottesville, Staunton or Va. Christian College, and the Lynchburg Y. M. C. A. at Lynchburg on the 20th.

This is probably the first year that the Carolina basketball management has been able to secure four Saturday-night games in Raleigh. From these four games it is hoped that enough will be realized to aid materially in keeping the management from losing money on the whole season.

The schedule given above is necessarily incomplete. It will be announced later in completed form.

Mass Meeting Last Monday Night.

The team was royally welcomed back from its victorious trip Monday night. Doggie and his constellation were the objects of many yells and much joy at the mass meeting. Each of them who was present gave his version of some of the amusing incidents of the trip, all of which had the general trend of "victory."

Speeches were heard from Professor Noble and Dr. Mangum, which were very interesting. The yells were pulled off in fine style, thanks to Mr. Coggin.

FRESHMEN LOSE GAME

Warrenton Makes 7 Points in Beginning of Game.---Score 6--7.

The Freshmen lost their first off the Hill game to Warrenton High School last Saturday by the close score of 7--6. The youngsters held the fast Warrenton team after the preps had scored their touchdown in the first few minutes of play. Time after time the Freshmen brought the ball down Warrenton's goal line only to lose it on penalties. Warrenton did not come within striking distance of its opponents goal in the last three quarters, but was forced to play on the defensive.

Time after time Conger at half ripped through the Warrenton line and off tackle for five and ten yards. Captain Williams made good gains in the first half. Sawyer made the Freshmen touchdown on a forward pass over the goal line. Conger, tired out from running almost every play, his face covered with blood, missed his goal.

The Freshmen, in spite of their defect, played a game that deserved a better score.

Carolina Wins Hard Fought Battle

out for Carman. Fuller made first down off left tackle, a forward pass failed, Bridges failed over center, Parker made 5 yards around right end, Tayloe punted out of bounds on Vanderbilt's 20 yard line. Curry made 1 yard on a fake punt. It was just at this point that Ramsay rushed into the fray and snatched victory from defeat. Chester, for Vandy, attempted a punt, but quick as a flash Ramsay broke through the line, blocked the ball, and snatching it up, dived across the goal line for a touchdown. Tandy kicked goal. Score, Carolina 10; Vanderbilt 9.

Cody kicked off to Carolina's 10 yard line and Tayloe returned 35 yards. Time out for Tayloe. Tayloe failed to gain, Parker gained 4 yards over right tackle, Carolina penalized 15 yards for holding.

A forward pass Fuller to Homewood netted 25 yards, Homewood made a wonderful catch of the ball, Bridges made 4 around left end. Carolina was penalized 5 yards for offside, Bridges failed to gain, a forward failed. Foust went in for Cowell, and his toe kept Carolina safe.

Tayloe lost 5 yards, Foust punted across the goal line, ball being brought out to the 20 yard line. Curry lost 5 yards on an end run, Chester punted to Vandy's 45 yard line. Bridges failed to gain, Parker failed to gain, Bridges fumbled but recovered, Tayloe punted out of bounds on Vandy's 20 yard line. Curry lost 1 yard, Reams made 4 over left tackle, Chester punted to the 40 yard line and Fuller returned 15, Tayloe failed to gain. Time out for tayloe.

A forward pass Bridges to Fuller gained 15 yards, Bridges made 2 yards around left end, Tayloe carried the ball to Vandy's 2 yard line, Tayloe made 1 yard, Parker lost 2, ball going over. Chester punted to Vandy's 35 yard line, Bridges failed to return, on fake forward pass Tayloe gained 3 yards, pass failed, Bridges lost 6, J. Jones went in for Gay at right tackle, Tandy tried a drop kick from middle of field which failed, Reid went in for Wright at end, Carman 18, Putnam 4. Quarter ended with ball on Vandy's 46 yard line. Score, Carolina 10; Vandy 9.

Fourth quarter

Sikes went in for Reams at left half and Reyer for Lowe at left guard, Curry lost 5, Carman gained 5, Sikes punted to Fuller on Carolina's 32 yard line, Fuller downed in his tracks, Reid got 3, pass failed, Foust punted to Vandy's 40 yard line, Sikes failing to return, Carman lost 1 yard, Carman failed to gain, Sikes punted out of bounds on Carolina's 35 yard line. Foust punted out of bounds on Vandy's 35 yord line.

The remainder of the quarter was uninteresting as it turned out to be a punting affair, with odds slightly in Carolina's favor.

The lineup:

Wake Forest Begins Basket Ball Practice.

To all appearences the recent agitation in regard to class basket ball has amounted to nothing. On account of this inertia Carolina is falling behind the other colleges in the state which have already begun to practice class ball. Wake Forest, for instance, is now playing off her class basket ball tournament. A game is played each Monday night by two of the teams. One night the law students play the med students; the next game is between the teachers and the preachers; the Sophomores and Freshmen then play, and so on. The plan seems to work well.

No Fall Debate.

The Debating Council gives out the information that their efforts to secure a fall debate did not materialize. Communications were entered into with Tulane, Vanderbilt, Georgia, Maryland, and Princeton, with the hope of securing a fall debate. Georgia's time during the fall and winter is taken up with inter-class debates, while the calendars of the universities were filled before communications from the Council reached them.

Vanderbilt favored the arranging of a Carolina-Vanderbilt-Virginia triangle in the spring. Neither Virginia nor Johns Hopkins have committed themselves either for or against the Carolina-Virginia-Hopkins that has been arranged tor the past two years. The University is especially anxious to arrange this league again this year, as they won both debates in 1913, and lost them both last spring.

$500 for the Best

The advertising profession is attracting many college men. Several universities recognizing this tendency have inaugurated special courses in the science of advertising.

Here is a chance for you to prove whether YOU have talent for the new profession—with a possibility of earning $500 toward your next year's expenses.

For the best original Fatima ad. submitted by a college man before June 1, 1915, we will pay $500 in gold.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

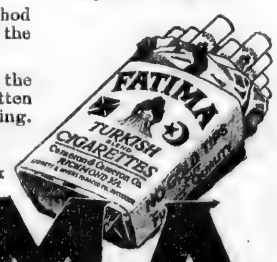
The first installment of students' ads. will be published next month

Each month, beginning next month, some of the ads. submitted will be published in college papers and magazines. With each ad. so published, if the writer will permit us, we will publish his name, year and photograph.

Every ad. published will be paid for at the rate of $5 apiece. It must be understood however, that the selection of an ad. for publication does not signify that it has any better chance to win the $500 than the ads. not so chosen.

There are no restrictions whatever as to the method you shall employ or the way you shall approach the subject—except that the ad. must be truthful.

It has been our experience that no man can strike the fire of conviction in any kind of salesmanship—written or personal—unless he believes in what he is selling. That's only a hint, however.



Fatima Facts

Pure Tobacco.
No finer tobacco used than in Fatima.
Simple, inexpensive package.
The biggest selling 15 cent cigarette in America.
Made famous by college men.
The Turkish tobacco used in Fatima is specially selected by resident native buyers at Xanthi, Cavalla, Samsoun and Smyrna.
Smokers of high priced cigarettes who smoke a few packages of Fatima are usually satisfied to "switch."

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

As Professor Noble said:
"Yes, I'm in heaven; come up, its fine——
The score's exactly ten to nine."

The report from the Vanderbilt game is on. Nervous puffs of smoke ascend here and there in the crowded Chapel. Everybody, from President Graham to the newest Freshman is staring fixedly at the blackboard over which McIver pushes the ball to and fro, sometimes sadly and slowly toward Carolina's goal, sometimes joyously toward Vanderbilt's. As the three Fates of old stood around their loom, so Charlie Coggins, Bill Huske, and the telegraph operator hover above the little instrument which is ticking off victory or defeat for Carolina.

Click, click, click! The suspense is terrible. Our faces burn with excitement. Coggins announces the message. Sometimes a roar of delight, sometimes a chorus of sighs, greets it. Billy Huske, like a bishop asking the blessing, waves his hands, uselessly, above the crowd for silence. Now and then a feminine voice rises demanding Sikes' or Curry's untimely death.

Every hand almost is clenched, every face anxious. The score is 9 to 3 in favor of Vanderbilt, Then it is that the blessed little telegraph instrument ticks out the message that Ramsay has made a touchdown. The crowd goes crazy. There is a shower of hymn books and a fountain of hats.

How we rooted for you!—and how much faith we had in you, Carolina Varsity! And how worthy of it you were!

By all the glories of our scores of late,
By all our heroes on the sidelines there,
By tackles, punts, and the decrees of fate,
By Princeton shift and forward pass I swear,
By Tandy, Ramsay, Tayloe, and the rest!
Great fear arises in Virginia's breast.
By Doggie Trenchard and by Bluenthal,
By last year's banners lost (soon to be won)
By all yon thousand lovers of football!
Surely, steadily, march we on
(As on Thanksgiving Day we'll see)
To Richmond—and to victory!

SOPHS WIN FROM JUNIORS

Coleman Does Good Work for Sophs.—Huske and Blackwell for Juniors.

Tuesday the Juniors played their first game and were beaten by the Sophs 18-0. Lack of coaching was the evident cause of the showing made by the Juniors. Captain Coleman of the Sophs got off some good end runs. The Sophs' forward passes worked about half of the time. Blackwell and Huske were the best ground gainers for the Juniors and also were stars on defense. Only three of the forward passes attempted by the Juniors were sucessful. The Sophs' were every one made directly or indirectly possible by the interception of forward passes. Except for some loose playing by the Juniors the game would have been a tight one. The absence of goal posts on the class field made it impossible for either team to kick goals. When the kicking has been tried, the real score of the game will be announced.

YACKETY YACK MEN BUSY

Editors of Annual Call for Literary Contributions.

The contract for the Yackety Yack has been given to the Edwards and Broughton Company of Raleigh who make a specialty of college annuals. The engraving will be done by the Christopher Engraving Company of Richmond, Holladay will do the photo work. Since these companies are in easy reach of each other, the work done by them will probably be much more satisfactory than heretofore.

The Yackety Yack editors would urge every one to contribute what he can.

The first germ-cells of the 1915 Yackety Yack are now beginning to collect under the supervision of Editor-in-chief Mebane and the associate editors. The associate editors on the board from the Phi are McDaniel Lewis, J. M. Cox, and Wade Kornegay; from the Di, J. F. Hackler, B. L. Field, and W. D. Kerr; from the Frats, E. J. Lilly, Frank Norris, W. P. M. Weeks, Tom Linn, Tom Jones, W. T. Ragland, H. M. Pleasants, Jim Hardison, Sam Telfair and Meb Long. The editors urge everybody to get to work and hand in anything in the way of sketches, drawings, witticisms, and photographs of interesting scenes on the Hill.

Robert House at Y. M. C. A.

Robert House led the discussion Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. on the subject "Backgrounds of College Life" which he stated consisted of individuality, serious mental effort, and the spirit of service. With regard to the first, he expressed the opinion that since College life grows out of the life of the students, the life of each member of the College community must be such as will tend to exalt the lives of those round about. One should develop individual qualities rather than blindly follow the crown. These individual qualities which make up a man's personality can only be developed by study. He characterized as one of the most common mistakes that of thinking that the University can turn out a finished man, for all life is a growth. In taking up the second of the backgrounds of College life, serious mental effort, he deplored the proneness to depend on education by association rather than getting off by oneself and doing some real first hand thinking on a subject. And last of all he expressed the opinion that the only way to get the real spirit of service is to be in harmony with the great forces in life which are God, country, and home.

DR. W. S. HALL TO SPEAK

Sex Hygiene: The Sex of Man.—The Young Man's Problem.

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall of Chicago will speak in Gerrard Hall Tuesday night at seven thirty on the vital question of sex and the young man. Almost half a million men have heard this address in the United States and Canada. He speaks with the authority of a scientific specialist, simply and with power. College presidents, business men, religious and social workers commend Dr. Hall's message without reservation. He is one of the strongest forces for purity in America.

Prof. L. A. Williams of the School of Education inspected the schools at Marion on Friday.

DAVIDSON IS DOWNED

Red and Black Puts Up Spirited Fight.

CAROLINA TEAM CRIPPLED

Davidson Starts Off Aggressively, But Carolina Comes Back For Victory.

With team battered, and the four mainstays of the defense, Homewood, Fuller, Parker, and Bridges, out of the game, Carolina met Davidson Saturday in Winston-Salem in a lively tussle. Coach Trenchard's statement that he would be satisfied if Carolina made a couple of touchdowns on Davidson proved true, for the score was 16 to 3 in favor of Carolina, and Coach certainly is not wearing a dissatisfied look. In the first half Carolina enthusiasts seemed to show some trepidation lest Davidson's steady team should do what Davidson students had hardly hoped for,—win from the White and the Blue. It is true, Davidson met Carolina plays, and even anticipated them, but while she made four downs, Carolina made fifteen. Although at the outset of the game the Red and Black's desire seemed to be to hold Carolina, they soom gathered determination to score and made a place kick from the 30 yard line. The first half ended with score 3 to 0 in favor of Davidson.

In the second half Carolina came to, and made the two touchdowns that saved the day.

At the end of the first half two yards were all that was needed to score a touchdown, and a fumble by Tayloe after he had already crossed the goal line in the third quarter cut off another. Forward passes played an important part in the game, Winston's 40 yard run for a touchdown being started in this manner. Carolina completed six forward passes and intercepted two more while Davidson completed but four and intercepted only one. On these passes Carolina more than doubled the ground gained by Davidson.

As for those who starred, the choice falls on Tayloe and Winston, while Bob Burnett was on the receiving end of several forward passess. Tandy played his usual steady game and Ramsay repeated history by breaking through and blocking what might have been a second place kick by Davidson.

The lineup:

CAROLINA	Position	Davidson
Williamson		Creighton
	Right end
Gay		Anderson
	Right tackle
Jones		Vandeventer
	Righ guard
Tandy		White
	Center
Cowell		Gloer
	Left guard
Ramsay		Howell
	Left tackle
Winston		Austin
	Left end
Long		Keesler
	Quarter
Burnett		Black
	Right half
Tayloe		Walker
	Left half
Reid		McKinnon
	Fullback

Referee, Simmons; Umpire, Klnttz; Headlinesman, Peden.

The attendance was about 2,500 including supporters of Carolina and Davidson and students from Salem College.

PORTERHOUSE GOING UP

North Carolina Club Expresses Such Sentiment.

The North Carolina Club held its regular fortnightly meeting Wednesday night, November 4, presided over by Professor E. C. Branson, President of the club. Doctor Hamilton and President Graham from the faculty and about one hundred students, members of the county clubs, attended. E. R. Rankin was elected treasurer.

At every meeting of the club one of the members reads a short paper on some economic or civic problem vital to the State. At this meeting J. M. Daniels of the Law class told some facts about "North Carolina's Decreasing Meat Supply." He said in the course of his talk that North Carolina's meat supply is already lamentably low, that she is not producing enough for her own consumption, that tho the South has all the natural facilities desirable for live-stock raising, she is not doing her part--and that if the meat supply continues its rapid decrease portenhouse steak will soon be a dollar or more a pound.

At the close of the meeting there were handed out to those present copies of the "Syllabus of Home-County Club Studies", whice presents the purpose of the Club--to study the county and state conditions and problems social, sanitary and economic, and, through knowledge thus gained, to offer sympathetic and helpful cooperation. The Syllabus also outlines a plan of county study for those interested in the movement

Much interest has been aroused by this "Home-County study" movement. Northern men warned Prof. Branson that it would fail, that southern college men would not be interested in the questions he dealt with. "But", said Prof. Branson in closing the meeting, "I shall write to one of those men tonight and tell him that it is succeeding at the University of North Carolina, that tonight a hundred students were at the meeting eager to know and solve the problems of their counties."

The next number of the Star Course will be presented by the Mendelsohns, a quartette of charming young women who will sing and recite.

EUGENE BARNETT

In 1912 there went out from Chapel Hill to Hangchow one of the choicest spirits that was ever on this campus. In the two years that he was secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association and graduate student in the University he was heartily adopt into the family of loyal Carolina men. He is now representing the faculty and students of the University at a great student centre in China, working mightily for Christ and the more abundant life in the new China. Barnett was personally chosen for this strategic post by Mr. John R. Mott.

Hoke Black as chairman of the Barnett fund is conducting a campaign to raise $500 for his support. He is eager that every man have a share in Barnett's great work among the students at Hangchow.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT RESULTS

Capehart Wins One Varsity Place. Other Not Yet Decided.

The finals of the tennis tournament were played last week. Winston forfeited to Jernigan. In the semi-finals Rutledge beat Herty 2-6, 6-4, 6-1, and Capehart beat Jernigan 6-1, 6-4.

In the finals Capehart beat Rutledge 6-0, 6-1, 6-1. Rutledge did not play his usual good game. This tournament put Capehart on the Varsity. Rutledge must now play all those Capehart has played in order to make the other place on the team.

Tubby Walk, who on account of injuries at the time the tournament started, did not enter and will challenge the two who win out in the contests for a varsity position.

The High School Football Contest ends on Nov. 14th.

A MEMORIAL TO DAVIE

Daughters of the Revolution Present Granite Seat.

The Davie Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution presented to the University, Tuesday afternoon under the old Davie Poplar, a granite seat as a memorial to General William R. Davie. President Graham accepted it on the part of the University.

The bench is suggestive of General Davie's connection with the establishing of the University. It is said that while looking for a site upon which to build the college, he stopped one day under the poplar which now bears his name, to lunch. The spot was so attractive that he decided further search was unnecessary. Thus the University site was selected.

About three hundred people formed a semicircle around the granite seat still veiled—some two hundred students and one hundred ladies, about half of whom were delegates from the different chapters of the D. A. R. of this State.

At 4:45 Dr. Moss began the exercises with a prayer. Miss Wiley of Durham then made a short opening speech. Mrs. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, President of the D. A. R. of North Carolina, presented with a few appropriate words the memorial to the University. President Graham expressed the University's "grateful appreciaiion of the generous and discriminating patriotism" of the Chapter. The crowd sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee", "Hark the Sound", and "The Old North State". Led by Charlie Coggin the students present gave a big Boomeray for the D. A. R., and a split Carolina for the Davie Chapter. The memorial was unveiled by Sonny Graham and a little boy from Durham.

In his speech of acceptance President Graham said: "William Richardson Davie for his soldierly courage, his comprehensive statesmanship, and his intelligent patriotism is a figure that this institution, rich in traditions of service throughout the nation's history, joyfully honors .....We accept in grateful appreciation at the hands of the Davie Chapter, devoted as it is to the preservation of inspiring memories, this memorial to a truly heroic man. We shall always cherish it not only as a reminder of our great benefactor, but of your discriminating patriotism."

The seat will remain under the Davie Poplar.

Dr. Graham's Inauguration.

As was decided at a meeting of the Executive committe of the University in Raleigh recently, the inauguration of Dr. Graham as President of the University will take place in Chapel Hill sometime during the coming April. The exact date has as yet not been definitely decided upon.

TEAM HARD AT WORK

Hard Scrimmages Characterize Work.

V. M. I. HAS FAST TEAM

Game Saturday Will Afford Sport to Lovers of Football.

Those who have watched football practice all during the season can notice that the squad is now practicing longer and harder than it has any time this fall. The coaches are anxious that the men get over the slump which came between the Georgia and Vanderbilt games. The practice Tuesday was the best of the season so far. It is very difficult to get full Varsity and Scrub teams out by four o'clock more than twice a week because a great many of the men have laboratories.

Homewood, Wright, Bridges, Fuller, Gilman, and very probably Ervin and Hines will not play in the game Saturday. They have as yet not fully recovered from injuries, and the policy of the coaches is not to play a man unless he is in good condition.

Tayloe and Tandy are practicing dropkicking and are showing improvement. Foust is punting better, and as his physical condition is improving, will be making a hard fight for right tackle by Thanksgiving. At end Williamson is playing the best game after Winston, Homewood, and Wright, although Love is pushing him very hard. Allen is getting in good shape, and will start the V. M. I. game at quarterback. Long is improving, but his principal weakness lies in the fact that he has not had enough experience to enable him to judge his opponents' weakness and give plays to take advantage of them. Tayloe is going well at halfback. Since Hines has been out of the game with a charlie horse, Burnett has been playing right halfback and will start the game Saturday. Ervin showed up well in practice last week but is worried by a sore knee. Reid starts well and is gradually overcoming his tendency to trip and fall. He is making a close fight with Parker for fullback. Both are good on defense. Pope has shown great improvement this week at fullback and if he keeps up the pace, will have to be reckoned with before Thanksgiving. Tayloe, J. is showing up well at guard. Jones, J. who is now suffering from minor injuries, although he is light, is playing a heady game. Andrews is big and strong and is fighting hard. Hambley, who is improving in condition and in playing, will give somebody a warm contest for right tackle. Tennent is strong and has plenty of avy, but lacks fight unless pushed hard by opponents. Valley has

FOOTBALL.

It is extremely pleasing to note that practically all the sporting writers of the newspapers of the South recognize that both Vanderbilt and Carolina were suffering slump in the gridiron battles last Saturday. No one seems worried over the opponents adverse comparative scores in the Virginia-Carolina-Vanderbilt struggles. Of course there is no need to worry.

Every one who has followed Carolina on the gridiron this fall knows that the team that went up against Davidson in Winston-Salem Saturday was very much inferior to the team that overwhelmed Georgia and broke Vandy's spirit.

It has long been a contention of Coach Trenchard's that a team cannot play at top form more than two or three times a season. A glance at Carolina's schedule will show that it was arranged with that idea. The Georgia game was an exhibition of the Carolina ability; the Vanderbilt struggle was an exhibition the Carolina fighting spirit. The winning struggle in the last half of the game is a glorious vindication of the Carolina gameness.

Coach Bluethenthal has seen Vanderbilt play three games this fall all on the home field. He saw Vanderbilt overwhelm the Central of Kentucky team; he saw Vanderbilt humbled by Carolina; he saw the Commodores receive a decisve defeat from Virginia. After this experience he says "Vanderbilt was one hundred per cent below form when she played Virginia."

Carolina has three weeks to prepare for Virginia with no serious interruption. On the other hand Virginia has two rather stiff struggles between.

THE YACETY YACK.

As a usual thing the editors and managers of the Yackety Yack spend the closing days of the college year in a feverish rush getting out the annual. It is quite refreshing, therefore, to note that Editor Mebane and Managers Leach and Nance are making an early start on the work of collecting the vast amount of material necessary.

Already the pictures of the several organizations are being taken. A definite plan of make up for the book has been adopted and an encouraging amount of material collected.

Editor-in-Chief Mebane wishes at this time to issue an appeal for voluntary contributions to the various departments. This includes kodak pictures, sketches, drawings, humor and suggestions. This call ought fo appeal especially strong to the Freshmen and Sophomores because from those two classes must be selected the men who in a year or two will be in control of the annual.

The thing to do, then, is to get to work if you want a glace on the Yackety Yack Board of the future. Only two things are necessary—the ability, and the desire to use the ability. To show this desire decide to do something, to direct that ability wisely see Mr. Mebane or one of the other editors of the annual and get advice.

TAR HEEL ELECTIONS.

In 1897-98 Mr. E. K. Graham, now our President, was Editor-in Chief of this publication. In the issue of Nov. 3rd, 1897 appeared the following editorial which fact the reader will kindly "play like" he forgets and think it was written for the first time on Nov. 5, 1914.

"The method now in use, of electing the editors of the Tar Heel, has for a long time been unsatisfactory to those interested in the paper's success. For several years (barring the present one of course) the chief burden incurred by many of the editors has been the granting the use of their names to adorn the top of this page—a privilege highly appreciated but rather unproductive of practical results. Many men who get on the Board care nothing about it, and many would like to have a place who see no way to make it. By the present method, too, the younger set of men seem to stand no chance, and it is rarely the case that even a Junior gets a position.

"For these and many other considerations we think that some reform is needed, and suggest as a beginning that places be offered to the two men from the lower classes who in competition show themselves best fitted to be on the Board; the competition to consist of write ups of meetings and the like, or any sort of communication that comes within the scope of the paper. These two editors should be for the time an addition to the regular force. Then if the plan proves successful it would gradually be extended, until it would include the greater part of the Board. We hope some such amendment will be adopted at the first meeting of the Athletic Association after Christmas."

There are two things of importance to be considered in selecting a good assistant editor; his qualifications, and his interest in the work. As a general thing these specifications are best met by Sophomores and Juniors. It is hard to select them over a well known Senior even if the latter is not as well qualified as the others. It is rather foolish to expect the Editor-in-Chief of the Magazine, the President of the Senior class, or the manager of the Glee Club to take the interest an ambitious Sophomore would with promotion possible.

Competition will prove ability and guarantee interest. That other colleges believe this to be true is shown by the fact that Carolina is practically the only institution of its size in the United States that does not have competetive tryouts.

SENIORS vs. SOPHS IN TIE GAME

In Exciting Contest Neither Side is Able to Score-

Last Friday the Seniors and Sophs battled to a 0—0 tie in the prettiest and best game of the class series. Up and down the field the ball went until the last quarter when the Sophs kept it in their possession most of the time and threatened to scoro.

On a wellexecuted forward pass Davis carried the ball twenty yards to the Seniors eight yard line. On a eackle play, the ball was carried to the one foot line. Then three attempts to carry it over failed on account of superior defense work of the Seniors who suddenly braced, and, after getting the ball, kicked out of danger. But again the Sophs gained ground easily and when they failed at dropkick time was up.

Jim Burnett did good work for the Seniors and so did Fitzgerald and Craig. Alderman's collar bone was broken in the first quarter and Ranson took his place. Harrell, Capt. Coleman, and Davis starred for the Sophs. It is generally believed that the Soph's and Seniors have the best teams in the class league.

CONTRIBUTE TO THE MAGAZINE

Prizes to be Offered for Best Work Submitted.

The editors of the University Magazine wish to call the attention of the students to the fact that they are not only cordially invited to contribute to the Magazine but are urged very heartily to do so. In fact, so sincere is their invitation that they contemplate offering several prizes during the year for the best work submitted for publication. Very probably one of these prizes will be offered for the best short story, and another for the best sketch. The greatest inducement to the would-be Freshman contributor is the fact that if he has two articles of any nature whatsoever published in the Magazine, his final grade on English will be raised one point. The sketch department of one of the winter issues will be devoted entirely to Freshmen contributions. The editors expect in consequance of this a great influx of material.

At a meeting of the German Club the following men were elected to officiate at the coming German Club dance to be held the first part of December: W. T. Ragland, Leader; J. G. Cowan and L. A. Blue assistants.

FOISTER'S

JUNIORS 15---FRESHMEN 6

Juniors Manipulate Many Forward Passes.

Wednesday afternoon the Juniors won from the Freshmen 15—5 in a game spectacular with forward passes. The game was the Juniors from the very beginning and only in the last half did the Freshmen make their lone first down.

At the end of the first quarter a forward pass from Captain Lewis of the Juniors to Simmons gave the first touchdown, In the second quarter a series of line plunges featured by Pike gave the second touchdown. In the third quarter Capt. Williams of the Freshmen intercepted a pass and ran fifty yards for a touchdown. A drop kick by Lewis in the same quarter made the Junior's total 15. No goals from touchdowns were kicked.

The outstanding feature of the contest was the continued use of the forward pass by the Juniors, seven or eight of them being successful. Three consecutive passes near the end of the game carried the ball almost to the Freshman goal line.

Patterson and Pike were the best ground gainers for the Juniors. The whole Junior team did well on defense and broke up every forward pass attempted by the Freshmen. Newell for the first year men was a terror on defense and so was Williams.

The Juniors and Seniors will probably play again Friday.

Dr. Starr's Sociable.

A "get-together meeting" was held Friday evening between eight and ten at the new Rectory of the Episcopal Church. Tho somewhat of the nature of a house-warming, its purpose was to bring the students into closer touch with the rector and indirectly to increase their church attendance.

About seventy students enjoyed an informal and pleasant evening. Refreshments were served. Ten or fifteen members of the faculty with their wives were in the receiving line.

Greater Council Meets.

At a meeting of the Greater Council it was decided to have a series of class basket ball games. For this purpose the privilege of use of the old Commons Hall has obtained. This place will make an excellent place for such a series.

All class basket ball managers will please see Roger McDuffie and arrange a schedule. The Greater Council has also arranged for Johnston of last year's varsity team and Benbow, ex Guilford star, to coach the class teams. This can be made na interesting series. Let every one come out.

The Bureau of Extension will soon issue a bulletin on the Correspondence Courses, and Lectures for North Carolina communities by members of the Faculty. This bulletin will probably be mailed the last of this present week. Dr. L. A. Williams is the author of a large part of the bulletin. Credit will be give for some of the courses this year for the first time.

FACULTY COMPOSERS AT WORK

Football Songs Submitted by Prof. Daggett and Dr. Booker.

The faculty are so enthusiastic about the football team that they have started to compose songs in honor of the unconquerable heroes. The first of the following was contributed by Prof. P. H. Daggett, and the second by Dr. J. M. Booker. Every student is asked to cut these songs out and bring them to the next mass meeting.

On, On, On to Victory.

Marching, marching, marching down the field,
On, on, on to victory,
Fighting, fighting, never will we yield,
Till Virginia's team's all in.
Hail, all hail to Captain Tayloe's men,
Score, score, score again,
"The Day" has come, we've got them on the run,
And WE--WILL--WIN.
Rah-Rah-Rah!

"WHAT THEY THINK"

Clipping from a Recent Issue of the V. M. I. Weekly "Cadet"

The following, quoted originally from "The Charlotte Observer" is clipped from the V. M. I. "Cadet."

"In commenting upon the prospects of the V. M. I.--University of North Carolina game to be played in Charlotte next week, a Charlotte paper has the following to say:

'Little is known hereabouts of the V. M. I. team. The team is said to be stronger than it has been in years and if that is the case the've got one of the greatest fighting machines ever turned out. Two years ago they were the surprise of the South, when they defeated the strong Virginia team by an overwhelming score. Last year the South sat up and gasped when they defeated the champion A. & M. team in the only game the Techs lost last season. And who knows but what the cadets will come along this season and upset all dope by trimming the Blue and White squad? And who knows but what this trimming will take place in Charlotte?

'The V. M. I. team has been noted for several years for its fighting qualities and it has been largely this quality that makes the Cadets feared by all their opponents. Regardless of the score they're fighting and fighting like tigers. You can never tell whether they're losing or winning. Their main idea is that you've got to fight to win and it is this idea that has won for them the well deserved title of the scrappiest team in the world.' The game comes Saturday week and will be the last staged here this season by the Charlotte Athletic Association. It will be a treat that few other cities will have the pleasure of enjoying and the Charlotte Athletic Association is making it possible for Charlotte devotees to witness this struggle. It's coming on Saturday week.'"

PRESIDENTIAL RECEPTION

President and Mrs. Graham at Home to Faculty, townspeople, and Student Council.

Thursday afternoon of last week Dr. and Mrs. Graham held the annual Presidential reception to the members of the Faculty, townspeople, and the Student Council. Many out of town guests were present for the occasion especially from Durham.

President and Mrs. Graham met the guests at the door and and introduced them to Dr. Kemp P. Battle and Dr, and Mrs. Branson, Delightful punch was served and then came chicken salad and coffee. The occasion was a most enjoyable one.

Recent Publications by Faculty.

Recent publications by the Faculty in addition to Dr. J. G. deRoulhac Hamilton's "Reconstruction in North Carolina," published during the summer, and which has met with wide recognition, include:

"The Changing Drama" by Dr. Archibald Henderson, just published by H. Holt & Co.

"Literary Essays" by Prof. Norman Foerester of the English Department, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

"The Vascular Response of the Kidney in Acute Nephritis" by Dr. Wm. MacNider, in the Journal of Pharmacology.

Team Hard at Work

improved a great deal at half, is fast and a hard worker, but is handicapped by lack of experience in his position.

If none of the players meet with accidents in tomorrows practice, Carolina should score twenty-five points over V. M. I. The opponents have a light, fast and aggressive team which uses forward passes very frequsntly. A wet day will be to Carolina's advantage as she has the heavier line. The officials of the game will be Fetzer (Davidson), Head linesman; Randolph (Virginia), Umpire; Kluttz (Carolina), Referee.

The Pharmacy School has added a third year course to its regular list of of courses. This leads to the degree of Dr. of Pharmacy. There are five men taking the course this year.

NOTICE!

Mr. Holladay, the official photographer for the Yackety Yack will be at the studio in Chapel Hill, over Gooch's Cafe, each Wednesday from now on take individual pictures for any who may want them before Christmas. All Juniors and Seniors who desire pictures now may have them made by Mr. Holladay, and the special photograph for the Yackety Yack will be made at the same time.

$5 for every ad. published

$500 for the Best

The advertising profession is attracting many college men. Several universities recognizing this tendency have inaugurated special courses in the science of advertising.

Here is a chance for you to prove whether YOU have talent for the new profession—with a possibility of earning $500 toward your next year's expenses.

For the best original Fatima ad. submitted by a college man before June 1, 1915, we will pay $500 in gold.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

The first installment of students' ads. will be published next month

Each month, beginning next month, some of the ads. submitted will be published in college papers and magazines. With each ad. so published, if the writer will permit us, we will publish his name, year and photograph.

Every ad. published will be paid for at the rate of $5 apiece. It must be understood however, that the selection of an ad. for publication does not signify that it has any better chance to win the $500 than the ads. not so chosen.

There are no restrictions whatever as to the method you shall employ or the way you shall approach the subject—except that the ad. must be truthful.

It has been our experience that no man can strike the fire of conviction in any kind of salesmanship—written or personal—unless he believes in what he is selling. That's only a hint, however.

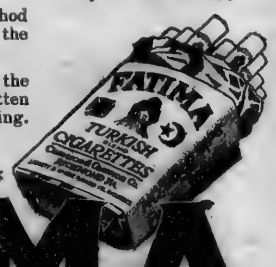
Fatima Facts

Pure Tobacco.

No finer tobacco used than in Fatima.

Simple, inexpensive package.

The biggest selling 15 cent cigarette in America.



Made famous by college men.

The Turkish tobacco used in Fatima is specially selected by resident native buyers at Xanthi, Cavalla, Samsoun and Smyrna.

Smokers of high priced cigarettes who smoke a few packages of Fatima are usually satisfied to "switch."

MRS. JARLEY'S WAX WORKS

The Civic Club Gives Excellent Presentation of This Amusing Sketch.

A very enjoyable performance of "Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works" was given last Thursday night in Peabody Hall by the Community Club. Every character from Mrs. Jarley herself down to the maid was excellently interpreted. The sketch is very amusing, and, being presented in such an excellent manner, was doubly enjoyable. In the play Mrs. Jarley, a self sufficient manufacturer of life size wax dolls, gives a demonstration of the wonderful products of her factory. All manner of historical folk are represented in the collection—the boy who stood on the burning deck, the two headed doll, Captain Kidd, Lord Byron, Old King Cole, Mother Hubbard, Red Riding Hood, Mrs. Winslow (the maker of soothing syrup), and many others. Special music was an enjoyable part of the program. The proceeds of the performance went toward the continuation of the fine work that the Civic Club has begun to do toward making Chapel Hill a prettier village.

The Alumni Review will come out about November 12.

V. M. I. DETERMINED TO WIN

Team Practicing New Plays to Use Against Carolina.

The following has just been received from the V. M. I. weekly, the Cadet.

"The V. M. I. team has been engaged in strenuous practice during the past ten days in preparation for what is probably the biggest game on its schedule, viz; with the University of North Carolina on Nov. 7th. The game with Morris-Harxed, scheduled for October 31st, was cancelled in view of the fact that that team had made such a poor showing during the season the coaches deemed it undesirable to meet them just before the Carolina game.

"Most of the men have recovered from the effects of the Georgia trip and the squad generally is in good condstion. However there are some exceptions which from present indications will prevent them from throwing their full strength into this game. Cammer is suffering from a bruised shoulder although he will appear in the lineup. Somers hand is still giving him trouble but he is expected to give a good account of himself. Heflin and Murphy are in fair shape while Beasley is better than ever. Speed and Goodman, ends, are not in as good condition as was hoped, the former nursing a game leg. In the backfield Bain, Holderby, Marshall and Gray are all in first class form. Oakes, the plunging fullback, is suffering with a bad ankle, while Nelms who was hurt in the Galludet game several weeks ago is still out of the game.

"Most of this week has been spent by the coaches in trying out some new formations to be used against Carolina. The prospects for a hard game are good and when the team goes on the field in Charlotte every man will have the determination to win."

DR. WINFIELD S. HALL SPEAKS

Noted Physician Makes Interesting Talk on "The Young Man's Problem."

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, head of the department of Physiology at Northwestern University, made an address Tuesday night in Gerrard Hall on the subject of personal purity in the college student. He treated the question from a new and interesting point of view, and in a perfectly frank manner which was well appreciated by the large audience of students. He made an eloquent plea for the clean, strong, and virile man. Dr. Hall is an authority on medicine and knows whereof he speaks.

Mrs. L. M. Mangum Dead

Mrs. Laura Overman Mangum, mother of Dr. C. S. Mangum, of the medical department, died Tuesday morning at four o'clock after a long illness. Mrs. Mangum had been in a serious condition for some time, and her death was not unexpected. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. Mrs. Mangum was the wife of the late Rev. A. W. Mangum of Chapel Hill, and the only sister of Senator Lee S. Overman.

Dr. L. A. Williams spoke on Saturday October 31, at Carthage before a meeting of the Moore County Teachers Association.

W. P. '04 of Raleigh and Albert Cox also '04 of Raleigh were on the Hill Saturday.

V. M. I. 7--CAROLINA 30

Tar Heel Braves Take Another Scalp.

NEW RECORD WAS MADE

Two Touchdowns Made in One Minute. Reid Stars At Fullback.

Carolina continued her unbroken string of victories by easily defeating the V. M. I. team at Charlotte, 30—7. Seemingly at no time were the Cadets dangerous. Their one score was the result of a fumble by Capt. Tayloe on the 18 yard line, Bain recovering and going across for a touchdown. Throughout the remainder of the game the Cadets were on the defensive except for the last moment or two before the final whistle.

Again Carolina played nothing but straight football except in the few instances when forward passes were tried. It was the same old crushing game. No chances were taken in allowing anyone to see anything new. The Charlotte fans understood the situntion. They know that everything is going to be staked on the Thanksgiving game.

Carolina's offensive work was greatly aided by the punting of Tandy and Foust. The punter for the Cadets was completely outclassed. Then again Carolina outweighed her opponents several pounds to the man.

Reid's work at full was the outstanding feature of the game. He picked his openings well and plunged through them fiercely. His work in running interference was also good. Winston feathfed with an 85 yard run through the entire V. M. I. team for a touchdown from kick off. Capt. Tayloe, Tandy, Bridges, and Ramsay played their usual good game. That means that they starred. To use an expression which has become somewhat trite this year, the whole team played good ball. Every man on the team showed up well. Bridges lived up to his reputation by showing the fans jhst how a quarterback should. Time after time he reeled off runs for substantial gains.

In the opinion of the fans a record was made in the game---two touchdowns within one minute. Immediately after Bain scored after a fumble Winston received a kick off and ran 85 yards for a fouchdown within one minute.

The lineup:

Carolina	Position	V. M. I.
Winston	Left end	Bucher
Ramsay	Left tackle	Somers
Tandy	Center	Beasley
Jones	Right guard	Campbell
Gay	Right tackle	Murphy
Williamson	Right end	Goodman
Bridges	Quarter	Marshall
Burnett	Right half	Bain
Reid	Fullback	Oakes

Umpire, Ritch (Georgetown); Referee, Klutz (Davidson); Headlinesman, Fetzer (Davidson) Time Keepers, Shotwell (V. M. I.); Wiggins (Carolina).

THE SUFFERERS MAKE CRY

Anti-Germanic Demonstration Takes Place at Swain Hall.

Sunday night at supper-time there was a pseudo riot among the patrons of Swain Hall which was occasioned either by the tardiness of the arrival of food at a few of the tables or sparseness of it after its arrival. Quite a crowd gathered in the open space in the middle of the hall and invited the new manager, who is a German by birth, to come forth from the recesses of the pantry and explain pimself. Yells were given which varied from "Bring on the Grub!" to "Hurrah for the Allies!" and "Down with the Germans!" As the sought for member of the latter nationality did not appear, it was rumored that he had followed the example of the well-remembered phrenologist, Professor Freys, and had shaken the dust of this community from his sandals, but later develepments showed that this was not true. The new manager realized that the uproar was good-natured in its intent, and merely had no desire to deliver a speech. Accordingly he did the thing which seemed to him best, and remained at his post in the culinary department.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY

Dr. Herty and Mr. Killeffer Discover True Constitution of Rosin.

Dr. Herty and D. H. Killeffer in their work on rosins in the chemical department, have recently found a very serious error in the work of the renowned Dr. Tschirch of the University of Bern on the same subject. Dr. Tschirch found, that by the action of an alcoholic solution of lead acetate on an alcoholic solution of the rosin acids, he could effect a separation of them into two parts which he believed to be different. On this difference he bases the identity of some twenty-six of these acids in his book, "Die Harze und die Harzebehalter". Dr. Herty and Mr. Killeffer have shown that these parts into which he separated the acids were identical and believe they have found a way of overcoming the difficulties which led him astray, but have not yet announced it in detail.

FOODS AND FARMING

Mushrooms and Water Wheels Discussed

SCIENTIFIC MEN MEET

Dr. Coker and Prof. Hickerson Lead Interesting Discussion

At the 214th meeting of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society Tuesday evening in Chemistry Hall Dr. Coker showed the different kinds of mushrooms and in explaining them told how to avoid the poisonous ones. Prof. Hickerson followed him with a thorough explanation of the Hutchinson Overshot Water Wheel.

Dr. Coker began by saying that he had seen a recent article in a German newspaper urging the German soldiers to learn to eat mushrooms. Thousand's of dollars worth of food is at present going to waste because the people do not eat mushrooms. A great many deaths have occurred, however, on account of eatiog mushrooms. Among the number are noticeable many great men, such as Pope Clements VI, several emperors and kings, and the recent Russian ambassador to the United States. Twenty-two deaths occurred in New York City in one week for which poisonous mashrooms were responsible.

Most all mushrooms are to some degree poisonous, but the most deadly are the white ones. They are death dealing. Little cups at the bottom of the stems are other signs of poison. Furthermore, Dr. Coker said that any kind of mushroom ought to be experimented with before that kind is eaten. The best way to test one is to feed it to some lower animal. If it does not hurt the animal, one of the same kind could be safely eaten by a person. There is one kind of mushroom that has the same effect on a man as alcholic drinks. It makes him drunk, but seldoms kills.

At the end of Dr. Coker's speech Dr. Battle said in his usual emphatic manner: "Boys, the safest way to solve the mushroom problem is to keep them out of your stomachs." Dr. Battle also spoke of Dr. Mitchell, from whom the society is named.

Prof. Hickerson began by a brief outline of the different systems of water works in use on the farms and the sources of supply. He first mentioned gravity, the hand pump, the gasoline engine, the windmill and the hydraulic ram, and then he took up the Hutchinson pump. Last summer Prof. Hickerson was looking for a good way to get water from a spring to his house and barn up on the hill. He happened to see the first advertisement of the Overshot Wheel.

A MEMORIAL TO O'HENRY

State Historial Association to Present Handsome Tablet.

The State Historical and Literary Association at their 15th annual meeting to be held in Raleigh Tuesday and Wednesday, December 1 and 2, will present to the state a handsome memorial of William Sidney Porter--O'Henry, born in Greensboro, North Carolina. Dr. Henderson of the University, who is the President of the association, will present the tablet to the state. Governor Craig will accept it. The tablet will be placed on the wall of the State Administration Building in the department of the North Carolina Historical Commission.

At this meeting Dr Henderson will make another speech on the Projected History of North Carolina Leterature. Prof. E. C. Branson will also give a short address on the Vital Study of the County. The address on O'Henry will be delivered by his boyhood friend and authorized biographer, Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, now of the University of Virginia.

TOM BOUSHALL AT THE Y. M. C. A

The Doubts of College Man Discussed Tuesday Night.

Thomas Boushall made the regular Tuesday night talk in the Y. M. C. A. on the subject, "The Doubts of a College man". The main idea of his speech was that God is an infinite spirit which pervades the whole world. To make ones outward actions correspond to ones inner conceptions of is the test of ones Christianity. God is a great spirit and the only things that a man will be held accountable for are his various attitudes toward the great moral questions of the day. A student's conception of God changes a great deal in the period between his entrance as a Freshman and his exit as a Graduate. When he enters he has a definite conception of God as a finite being who has fixed place of residence, but this conception is soon broken down in the light of science and philosophy in which he lives, and consequently the student goes through a period of great doubt. After a period of meditation and thought he comes to realize that there must be something which created everything and controlls everything, and his conception of God is revised. When he adopts this conception as the foundation of his Christianity he come to know that infinite peace and good fellowship which results only from being in perfect accord with the Highest Power.

Mr. Starr will lead the discussion next Tuesday night on the subject of "Bible Study."

Lewis Thorpe, of Rocky Mount, was initiated into the Zeta Psi Fraternity last Friday.

TEAM ON LAST LAP

Begins to Make Final Preparations

EVERY MAN DETERMINED

Tar Heels Will Wrest From Virginia Long Withheld Victory.

The showing that Wake Forest made against South Caroliga the game last Saturday leads the Tar Heels to think that the coming game in Raleigh will not be a very hard one. Every man on the squad, however, is working like a Trojan, not so much for the Wake Forest game but for the great clash with Virginia. Every man is going into the Thanksgiving game with the determination to win, even if victory mean the loss of all his dearly beloved front teeth, not to mention legs, arms, and ribs; they are "One equal temper of heroic hearts, strong in will to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield". They are a body of men of which any University would be justly proud.

Secret practice, begun last Monday, will continue until Thanksgiving. This entire time will be devoted to the perfecting of new plays.

In the game last Saturday Winston played well but was not in the best physical trim on account of having missed several practises. The sub ends have not shown up as well as they will later in the season. So far Williamson is the best, but is light and not fast enough. Bucher and Grimsley have not shown what they are capable of doing. Bourne has hardly been in fit condition to play. Bates has been tried out at end for two days and is heavier than any other candidate, but allows interference on defence to get into body and keep him out of plays. On offence he has shown ability to interfere for runner. Ramsay at tackle has been playing his usual steady game. Right guard and right tackle are still open; the fight lies between Foust, Gay, and Jones, F. Jones must get down to hard work, or the others will beat him out. Hambley is improving every day as sub tackle, and Tayloe, J. is developing into the best defensive tackle on the field. Jones, J. has to improve in passing for kicks and direct passing; his defensive work is good. Andrews is improving rapidly with the flight of the and will give the regulars warm contest. Tennent seems perfectly satisfied to have missed the Georgia trip, and since then has shown nothing. As a result of being out of the game so long the struggle with Vanderbilt Bridges sdowed up worse after he first went into the V. M. I. game than he has at any time during the season; by their suggestions, the backs, interfered too much with his running the team. After

THE VANDY GAMES.

Many supporters of the White and Blue are worrying unduly about the comparative scores clussering around Vanderbilt. Virginia defeated Vanderbilt 20 to 7 while Carolina came off with only a 10 to 9 victory the week before. Until that time comparative scores favored Carolina. Now they apparently favor Virginia. An intelligent glance at the Vanderbilt schedule will dispel all such doubt.

Remember first that no coach wants more than three big games per season. The man or men who arranged Vanderbilt's schedule argued in this wise:

"Michigan is a hard game. Our team will be badly battered. We will have a practice game with Central of Kentucky, tone up with the Carolina game, and hit Virginia going full tilt. We will then play Tenneesee an easy game and recuperate for Auburn. Then with ten days rest we will annihilate Sewanee."

Tenneessee and Carolina were picked for buffer games between the big shocks, and because they both happened to have the best teams they have had in years and refused to serve as such the Vanderbilt machine has been wrecked and she faces one of the most disasterous seasons she has ever had.

Imagine Carolina playing Virginia instead of Davidson the week after the Nashville struggle. The Nashville game broke Carolina in body; Vandy in both spirit and body. Vandy will not recover this year. Carolina is just recovering her stride.

COMPETITION.

Last week these columns contained an article advocating competition selection of Tar Heel Editors. The kernel of its argument was that competition secured not only the best qualified but also the most interested and the most needed. As it is today a man has to be a Junior or Senior or a very lucky Sophomore to get a place on the Board. There is no guarantee that he is interested and no assurance that his literary talent could not better be used by other college publications.

Friday morning in chapel a single announcement of a competition for one position as assistant editor was read. 18 men responded. A study of the applicants bears out in every detail the contention of the Tar Heel. 4 were Freshmen, 13 Sophomores, 1 Juniors. Underclassmen are highly desirable because the college career is yet to be achieved. They have position yet to earn. By the time they are Juniors or Seniors they will in all probability be occupied with larger things than a job as assistant editor of the Tar Heel.

Next week the entire production of the Tar Heel will be turned over to these men. The character of publication produced by them should be watched with interest by all those interested in undergraduate life here.

BASKETBALL.

Trinity began practicing basketball before her collective suit case was unpacked this fall. Wake Forest has already had her class tournament. Guilford and Elon also have been playing all fall.

We cannot hope to take our true rank in this branch of athletics until we have early basketball. The Greater Council has secured Commons Hall for a class basketball court. It will be opened as soon as Captain Long can have things arranged. The Class Athletic Committee is working on a class schedule. Things look decidely hopeful.

President Graham gave permission to the Greater Council to use the Hall on condition that it assume responsibility for its well being. It would be too bad if during the fall the thoughtless or careless act of some individual should compel the closing of the Hall as a Basketball court.

Collected by Bushel.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 9.—A bushel and a half of money was collected by the Red Cross for the benefit of the European war sufferers between the halves of the Harvard-Princeton football game Saturday. The count, which was not completed until today, showed a total of $3,883, including one $20 bill and 2,350 pennies.—Charlotte Observer.

Dr. Wagstaff, assisted by the Presidents of the various classes, is endeavoring to raise a relief fund here. He asks that all donations be turned in by Saturday night.

Many Alumni to be in Richmond.

The indications are that there will be an unusually large crowd of alumni in Richmond this year for the Thanksgiving game. In all probability a special train will be run from Charlotte as was done last year, and the Asheville alumni have arranged for a special car to be run from that place. Many men who have not been to the big game for ten years or more have expressed the intention of being on hand this Thanksgiving to see the representatives of their Alma Mater in action.

DRAMATIC CLUB SELECTS CAST

An Excellent Play to be Presented by Talented Actors.

The Dramatic Club, which will present Bernard Shaw's famous play "The Arms and the Man" this year, has selected the cast after several preliminary tryouts. The contest for parts was unusually keen this season owing to the small number of characters in the piece, and it was with much difficulty that the committee made its final decision. The play promises to be most successful.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Blunchle.....Charlie Coggins
Sergius.....Leon Applewhite
Petkoff.....W. P. M. Weeks
Nichola.....H. V. Johnson
Raina.....C. B. Conrad
Catherine.....L. Meredith
Louka.....Bruce Webb

The committee is composed of Professors McKie, Dargon, and Thornton, and Drs. Howe and Greenlaw.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR SOPHS

Game Is Tied until Third Quarter When Sophs Make Drop Kick

Last Monday in a close and interesting game the Sophomores defeated the Juniors 3 to 0. In the fourth quarter the trusty toe of Monk Williams spelt defeat for the Juniors by placing a pretty drop kick from the 30 yard line. Owing to a wet and soggy field the game was slow and devoid of the spectacular. The Sophomores outplayed the Juniors in the first, second, and fourth quarters. Altho the Juniors made only two first in the game, they had a shade the advantage in the third quarter. The Sorhomores were sadly lacking in punch at critical moments, while the Juniors fought all the harder when their goal was menaced. Williams starred for the Sophomores, while Patterson did some nice work for the Juniors.

The championship which now rests between the Seniors and Sophomores is to be played off Friday. Both teams are in good condition, a championship is at stake, class numerals are to be given the winners, or "En George" for the best team.

Gymnasium Becomes Popular.

The recent cold snap has driven the crowds in from the tennis courts, which have been very popular up until this time, to the gymnasium. What with the regular crowd of Freshmen who are required to attend, plus the large number of upper-classmen who have taken up this form of exercise for the winter, the gym is taxed to its capacity every afternoon.

On Friday and Saturday of this week Dr. Branson will make a series of addresses in Stanly County. On Friday at 2:00 o-clock he will make an address before the County Fair at Albemarle, later in the afternoon he will talk to the students of the Albemarle Normal and Industrial Institute, and that night he will speak at a meeting of the county Alumni. On Saturday night he will address a community rally at Star.

While the football team was in Charlotte they were entertained on the morning before the game by an automobile ride over the city in machines loaned by the alumni. The night after the game a dance was given in their honor at the Mecklenburg County Club.

FOISTER'S

MANDOLIN CLUB IMPROVES

Rag Makers Practising Every Day

Say, you fellow who stopped by the chapel some time a few weeks ago to hear the Mandolin Club practise, won't you just drop in at the same place now-a-days and kindly note a few changes? The club has truly verified the old proverb that practise makes perfect, for starting from an aggregation that could never keep the same tune going at the same time it has developed into a musical organization with an ensemble that is perfect. And it has quite a repertoire too, consisting of about anything from "By The Sea" on down to "Dixie," "The Mocking Bird" or "Turkey In The Straw."

That the Mandolin Club and its selections are sure to please was plainly shown by the numerous encores that it had to respond to up at Salem College, when three hundred pretty girls called it back time after time. So you collegians who want to hear some real, sure-enough music buy your ticket on time and honor the Mandolin and Glee Clubs with your presence at their Fall Concert in Gerrard Hall on the night of December 3rd, 1914.

DANCES TO BE GIVEN SOON

Social Feature of Fall Term Held the Week after Thanksgiving

The annual fall dances will be given in the Bynum Gymnasium on the evenings of the second and third of December. The first will be given by the Junior Order of the Gorgan's Head and the last by the German Club. On the afternoon of December the third an informal dance will be given by the Order of Gimghouls at their lodge.

These dances are the social feature of our fall term and this year they will be bigger and more lively affairs than ever before. All the variations of the modern Terpsichorean art, including the fox trot, loe a fah and Pavlowa Gavot.e, will be danced. An orchertra and between thirty and forty young ladies will be imported to the Hill and, together, they are sure to make these approaching dances a notable success.

A New Publication.

At a recent meeting of the Journal Club, plans were made for putting out a publication which is to be called "The Carolina Chemist," This magazine will consist of fifteen or twenty pages add will carry news relating to the Chemistry Department of this University. News concerning students in chemistry at present will be given as well as news of those who have graduated in chemistry and are now stationed in various sections of the country. In putting forth this publication, the Chemistry Department is keeping in line with similar departments of such colleges as Harvard and Cornell. "The Chemist" is to be edited by Professors Bell and Jeffries with the assistance of a representative from each class in chemistry, and the first issue will appear early in December.

SENIOR-JUNIOR GAME

Juniors Put Up Game Fight But Lose By a Large Score

Revenge for last year's defeat of 2 to 0 must have been uppermost in every senior's mind last Friday. Anyway the Seniors ran up a total of 39 points to 0 for the Jnniors. Only once did the Juniors threaten to score and that was easily averted.

In an offensive way the Seniors showed up well. Woolcott, Burnett and Paty featured on off-tackle and end runs, while Fitzgerald and Nance ploughed through the line at will. Whitaker and Wilkins, in the line, played great defensive ball. The whole team seems to have recovered from the slump in which they were playing when they earned a tie with the Sophs.

For the Juniors, Simmons, Rhymer, Lewis and Magraw played best for the Juniors. In fairness to the Juniors it may be said that they played a far better game than the score would indicate. They played good ball but were outclassed.

Much Interest in Class Tennis.

More than fifty men have entered the various class tennis tournaments that are now in progress, showing that a great interest is taken in tnat particular form of sport. It is the general opinion that the different teams will be evenly matched, as there are several players of about equal merit in each of the classes.

LOCALS

President Graham has been off the Hill this week attending a meeting of the presidents of state Universities at Princton, N. J.

Capt. Isaac E. Emerson of '79, the donor of the Athletic Field, was on the Hill on Wednesday accompanied by Capt. W. H. Parker. They were the guests of Mr. M C. S. Noble.

There will be a business Mass Meeting next Tuesday night in Chapel. Every member of the student body is invited except football men. Be sure to come out and bring the pep with you.

Mr. Rankin annouces that anyone wishing to obtain copies of either the County Club Study Bulletins or Community Service Bulletins can do so at his office at number 12 Peabody Buildiug.

Mrs. Dickson, who formerly managed Swain Hall, is at present in a hospital in Baltimore undergoing an operation. She is dangerously ill, but has shown no change for the worse within the past few days.

The work of installing radiators in Swain Hall has been completed, and the heat has been turned on. The radiators were set at close intervals around the walls of the big hall, and succeed in making the room very comfortable.

Team on Last Lap.

he had found himself, he played a good individual game. Allen has not been playing his usual good game at quarter Long did not have much opportunity in the recent game. Captain Tayloe has shown poor form since the Georgia game. Fuller will be able to get in the game next Saturday. Parker's playing has not been so good since the Vanderbilt game as before. Reid hit the line hard last Saturday, kept his feet better than he has ever done before, but ran blindly after getting through the line. Ervin has been out of the game during the past week on account of a bad knee, but will be able to play Saturday. Hines did not play his standard game against V. M. I. and was particularly weak in interfering for the runner and for the man making the forward pass. Burneet played well for the short time that he was in the game. The team as a whole lacked dash, fight, and team work, and showed that they have to go a long way to get back into the form that they were in when they met the University of Georgia.

Concluded from first page

He ordered the first one that Mr. Hutchinson sold. He tried it and by some work of his own in completion of the pump made it one of the best means ever known of pumpiug water on a farm. The keynote of the pump is simplicity of it. Prof. Hickerson had one rigged üp in the Chemistry Hall and demonstrated it thoroughly. By turning a little water on the wheel it is made to revolve. The crank attached to the wheel pulls the pump up and down forcing the water up in a tank 25 ft. high. In practical use water from a running branch turns the waler wheel, and a pipe is run from a nearby spring to the pump. Then the water is carried up by the force of the pump. This overshot water wheel by Mr. R. B. Hutchinson of Wilkesboro Pa. is noticeable for its durability, reliability and great adaptibility. It will pump 1000 gallons of water daily.

$500 for the Best

The advertising profession is attracting many college men. Several universities recognizing this tendency have inaugurated special courses in the science of advertising.

Here is a chance for you to prove whether YOU have talent for the new profession—with a possibility of earning $500 toward your next year's expenses.

For the best original Fatima ad. submitted by a college man before June 1, 1915, we will pay $500 in gold.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

A Freshman I knew, sad to tell,
Studied Paradise Lost for a spell.
Said he, "Math's tough as blazes
And Greek's made for crazies,
But Paradise Lost is Hell!"

In the fall a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of——football! But not so the Senior's His fancy flits faithfully (he will deny it) over visions of altars and wedding rings and bungalows, etc.,—flits like a candle-fly about an electric light: can't get hurt, you know. For, while the Senior is in many cases one-third married, having his own consent; and very of ten two-thirds married, having his and the girl's too, yet he is rarely all three-thirds married. Father's consent—aye, there's the rub!

This business of asking Father is a seriously ticklish one. We pay too little attention to it. One glance at the toe of father's right foot bedroom slipper will give conclusive proof that he is too often approached undiplomatically.

We believe the following will be of inestimable value to those who have their "River of Jordan"—or Father—yet to cross. We advise at least a trial of our method of procedure,

Let us look at the proposition logically and psychology. Human nature differs little. We all like practically the same things. By similar means our love is won however differently constituted we may be. But the father is generally like the daughter mentally and spiritually. Therefore why should you not use the same method in gaining the father's consent as you did in winning the dauther's love.

You should proceed thus First, buy a box of bon-bons for the old man. Lightly kiss his hand when you present the candy to him. Gently draw him to the sofa, sit down beside him, twine one arm around his neck and play with his side-whiskers while you feed him bon-bons with the other hand. He may be a little coy at first, but never mind. Make him sit in your lap. Whisper pet names in his ear. When the time comes for you to ask him the question you came to ask, it is probably best to kneel before him and fervidly repeat something like the following to him:

Thou art the ideal of my dreams,
The hero of my heart.
A king o'er common men, it seems
That thou art set apart.
Thy shimmering head, thy foot of force,
Thine eyes like stars of steel,
Thy mind of might, thy charms, of course,
Conspire to make me feel,
My snookie ookums, that thou art
My tootsie-wootsums too.
From thee I never more shall part;
Believe me, love, 'tis true.
So, that with thee I e'er may rest
And comfort from thee draw,
I make one little last request—
Ah, be thy pa-in-law!

It is rumored that Dr. Mercle T. Atkins, for many years coach of the Trinity College baseball team will coach Carolina's team next season. It will be decided when the Athletic Directors meet in Richmond Thankpgiving. Dr. Atkins is a former star twirler of the Baltimore Orioles.

DR. EMERSON ON THE HILL.

Distinguished Alumnus Pays Welcome Visit.

Dr. Isaac Emerson, to whose generosity the University owes so much, has been in Chapel Hill this week completing plans for the building of the athletic field for which he has donated a large sum. He brought with him the blue prints of field, track, and grandstand. The new field will include the present one and probably some of the adjacent territory to the south. Drainage, surface soil for sodding, will all be provided for. It is possible that the grading for the new field will begin shortly after Thanksgiving; at any rate it will be in readyness for the baseball season. On the north side there will be two large concrete grandstands, separated by the President's stand. Under one grandstand will be dressing and shower rooms for the teams. The whole field will be constructed according to the most improved methods, and will be a great asset to the University. The College is most deeply indebted to Dr. Emerson for his generosity, and is proud of him as one of her most distinguished sons.

Carolina Men to the Front.

Mr. J. C. Lanier, of Greenville, N. C., a graduate of the University of North Carolina, has accepted a responsible position in the Government Service at Washington D. C.

Mr. Ames Brown, '12, of Greenville, has been chosen White House correspondent for the Philadelphia Inquirer and the New York Sun. Mr. Brown receives the handsome salary of $4,000 a year for his services.

University of North Carolina News Letter.

The University is issuing this week the first edition of the University of North Carolina News Letter. This new publication will feature the work of the North Carolina Club, and will be sent to the Alumni of the University and others interested in this work.

The board of editors is composed of Prof. E. C. Branson, Dr. J. G. DeR. Hamilton, Prof. Zebulon B. Judd, and S. R. Winters.

Plans for Community Service Week.

President Graham is issuing a letter through the Alumni Review and in the University News Letter calling upon the Alumni of the University to co-operate in promoting the plans of Community Service Week.

The Community Service Week idea was originated by President Graham and will undoubtedly prove a great success.

Dr Archibald Henderson delivered an address Saturday at the courthouse before the Equal Suffrage League. The subject of his address was "Why Men Want Women to Have the Ballot." The Salisbury Evening Post, issued on the day of the address, contained a photograph of Dr. Henderson.

CAROLINA CONQUERS

Wake Forest Gives Tar Heels Trouble

WEATHER CONDITIONS BAD

Combating Teams Slip and Slide Through Mud and Water

At Raleigh, Saturday, with Tandy, Homewood, and Capt. Tayloe out of the game, Carolina defeated Wake Forest 12—7. The Tar Heels started off too easy, thinking they had a walk-over. But Wake Forest came out for trouble, evidently with the intention of crippling somebody. In this, however, they failed, with the exception of two of their own men, who had to be carried off the field. Not a Carolina man was injured. Seemingly, in the first half Wake Forest took advantage of the situation and by two forward passes made a ring aroung the heavy team in the mud, and netted about forty yards, which brought them on Carolina's 15 yard line. Line plunges carried the ball over. But the old Carolina spirit survived, and the team's usual comeback succeeded in keeping the ball from getting seriously near Carolina's goal during the remainder of the game.

Again Carolina played nothing but straight football, for it began to rain and the ball was too wet for forward passes to be manipulated. Of course, no new plays were tried. On the offense Carolina's line bucking did some good work, bnt the punting of Foust probably aided more than any one factor. He completely outclassed the Wake Forest pun-

FORMER COACHES COMING

Pendleton and Wilson Will Coach Team on Lats Lap.

Wednesday afternoon Coach Trenchard cousulted with a small group of students, and the result of the conference was that an agreement was made to raise by subscription a fund of two hundred and fifty dollars for the purpose of paying the expenses of Tol Pendleton and Tom Wilson, last year's coaches, for the last week's coaching before the Virginia game. It was also decided to use a part of this money to pay half of Dave Tayloe's and George Tandy's expenses to Philadelphia to see Virginia play Swarthmore. Needless to say, the money for such a cause was raised with dispatch. Pendleton and Wilson are here and Tandy and Tayloe saw Virginia in action. Each of the academic fraternities gave ten dollars apiece, and the rest of the money was collected by canvassing the dormitories.

The results of this move will be inestimable. Wilson has been coaching the line at Wisconsin this fall, and Pendleton has been helping at Princeton for the last few weeks. What the Tar Heel squad won't know about football when these five men, Trenchard, Bluethenthal, Cunningham, Wilson, and Pendleton, plus some of the alumni, get through with them won't be worth knowing. The Univirsity is also to be congratulated on securing Quarterback Emmons as a coach. Emmons starred two years on the Princeton team and is a shark on all kinds of football affairs. Search where you will, that coaching scaff cannot be beaten, neither can the team that they will turn out.

REAL TREAT AHEAD

Rendition of Strauss Music to Enoch Arden

MUSIC LOVERS, ATTENTION

Tennyson's Famous Poem to be Rendered With Music of Great German Composer.

A musical treat is in store for the students. In response to numerous requests Mrs. Winston and Professor Bernard have consented to repeat their rendition of the Strauss Music to Tennyson's "Enoch Arden." This rendition was given for the first time before the members of the Community Club, as the Strauss Evening on the Club's program. It was a brilliant success. It will be given again on the evening of Monday, November 23rd, at half past seven, in the Presbyterian church. All interested will be welcome.

A word as to the composer and this particular work of his. It is difficult to explain the significance of Strauss in the development of modern music. His adherents think of him as the giant who "liberated" music from Wagner. In this way: When Wagner composed an opera, he expressed in music the emotions that accompany the thought or the action of a story that was already in existence; when Strauss composes a "tone poem", he expresses the thought or the action itself. His music needs no libretto. At least, Strauss's adherents claim this for him.

This is a bold claim; but Strauss is the boldest of compos-

TO THE STUDENT BODY

The student body has, to a great measure, lost confidence in the ability of the team to win from Virginia. In past years there was justification for that attitude. That day is past.

Last year, with practically the same men, our team fought Virginia to a standstill. The same team has had a great year of developement together. It is a hundred per cent better.

The team has undeniably been playing below form for a month. The probability is that it will fully recover before Thanksgiving. Provided the team can hit the gait reached against Georgia nothing can stop it. Whether it does or not depends largely on the student body. Students of Carolina, for the first time in a college generation the probable results of a game depends on the student body. The team has the stuff if it can deliver. All last year the team fought an uphill fight alone. Until the Davidson game the student body was behind the team. Then because it slackened speed, the student body seemed to lose enthusiasm.

It isn't a winning team team that needs support and loyalty---it's a losing team. With an undergraduate student body of 1350 men, Princeton Spirit sent 1300 to the depot to Welcome the Princeton team on its return from Defeat by Harvard.

Carolina men, does the following quotation hit you? "A gamblers loyalty never gets higher than his pocket book."

Our team has the stuff, according to the figures sent out from New York. Only two or three men in the nation on teams of any size have scored more touchdowns this year than Captain Tayloe. According these same figures no man has kicked more goals than "Yank Tandy." As beforesaid; Carolina has the goods if the student body wills for her to deliver.

After one of the games recently some student exclaimed in the presence of one of team, "Damn! I don't believe I will go to Richmond after all." That remark may cost Carolina several yards on Thanksgiving day.

CLASS ATHLETIC FIELD.

One of the most urgent needs of class athletics here, is the improvement of the class field. This need has been very much in evidence during the class football games this year. The field was never properly laid off, the goal posts were not put up until the season was half over and no seats of any kind were provided. The varsity field can not be obtained for over half of the games, so the other half of the games and all of the practice must take place on the class field. Therefore it is necessary that the class field be put in better condition and the sooner the better.

At a very small cost, the ground can be drianed and put in good condition. The old benches now in use on the varsity field can be moved to the class field course thus affording seats enough for the spectators. These two things would improve the field a great deal and would add materially to class athletics.

As a Varsity field is now assured we should turn our attention to adequate class facilities. How about these class gifts for an athletic field?

THE TAR HEEL CONTEST

The Board of Editors is highly pleased with the just ended contest for Associate Editor of the Tar Heel. We do not believe that if any fairminded man knows the facts of the competition, he will be opposed to the plan to have all Tar Heel Editors elected by competition. On the third page of this issue is an article that gives the facts.

Three men, a Freshman, a Sophomore, and a Junior, ran practically neck and neck. If the student body will give permission, we wish to keep all three men. Five other men deserve honorable mention.

The Tar Heel gives notice that its Editors intend at the fall meeting to introduce amendments to the constitution to provide for eight assistants and for competitive elections.

If you are in favor of this policy, a word spoken to any of the men whose names appear at the beginning of these columns will be appreciated. If you are opposed, they will be glad to hear from you, especially if you will state your objections.

THOUGHTLESSNESS.

If a stranger had attended chapel Monday it is probable that he would have received a very bad impression of the student body.

Mr. Epps was leading a special song practice. This is a highly desirable thing because we sing all too little here.

The singing had gotten only well started before certain men began to drift out. The number increased until there was a fairly steady stream. Thoughtlessness? Only charity prevents us from using a much different word to explain the situation.

BOY SCOUTS ARE VICTORIOUS.

Carrboro Loses to Boy Scouts by Score of 26—0.

Primed for the battle by the coaching of assistant Scout Master Dillon, the gridiron warriors of the Boy Scout organization administered a stinging defeat to the pigskin chasers from the city of Carrboro last Saturday afternoon. The great game took place on the varsity field and was featured by the refereeing of Red Proctor and the cheering of the spectators for the Scouts and their coach. Two ten minute quarters and two four minute quarters were played during which the mighty machine of the Scouts rolled up an enormous score of 26 points to their opponents none.

Summary: Referee, Red Proctor; Umpire, Coach Graham; Weather, rainy; Attendance 27, Odds, two to one on the Scouts.

Distressing Accident in Prof. McKie's Family

Professor George McKie was called to his home in Cambridge N. Y. last Friday on account of a very sad accident which happended to members of his family when two of his sisters and a brother were seriously injured in an automobile accident, the cause of which has not been made known. Since Professor McKie left, one of his sisters has died from injuries and little hope is entertained for the recovery of the other. His brother has not regained conciousness since the accident.

The many friends of Professor McKie are distressed over his misfortune and extend their heartfelt sympathy.

Chemists Meet

On last Monday night the Journal Club held its one hundred and thirty second meeting. Several interesting subjects dealing with chemistry were discussed and the following papers were read: The Sulphate Method of Standardizing a Magnesium Salt Solution, by L. C. Hall; the Freezing Point of Benzene as a Fixed Point in Thermonety, D. H. Killeffer; Equilibrium in the System; Lead Acetate, Lead Oxide, and Water at 25 degrees C., by W. N. Pritchard; the Ternary System, by W. A. Rudisill.

Pharmacy Men Get Together

The William Simpson Pharmaceutical Society met last Saturday night and held their initiation of new members. This is an organization of the pharmacy men, the purposes of whom are to stimulate interest in current events pertaing to pharmacy and to create a spirit of unity among the men of this department. The social side of the druggist's life is amplified and brightened by these meetings. The officers of the first term are; W. W. Allen, President, Homer Andrews, Vice President, A. L. Fishel, Secretary, John Henderson, Treasurer.

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt of Chapel Hill, the State geologist and highway engineer of North Carolina, spoke on The Importance of Good Roads Education, at a meeting of the American Roads Conference held at Atlanta Ga. last Wednesday. B. L. Field, business manager of the Tar Heel, who attended the Conference, was appointed a delegate by the State Geological and Highway Survey. He reports a fine trip.

TAR HEEL CONTEST OVER

The Result is That Three New Editors Are Added to the Board

The Tar Heel contest is over, and the results have more than come up to our expectations. Our object in having a competetive selection to the board was to get a man of ability, a man who would be interested, and a man who would be willing to work. We believed—and our conviction was based upon the experience of past years—that it was impossible for us to appoint or for the Athletic Association to elect a good editor solely on his reputation as a good English student. If the choice lay between two men both of whom had good reputations as English students, who should say which one would make the better editor unless they both had done Tar Heel work and could be judged according to the respective ability and interest which they had shown in the work. Accordingly, when a vacancy on the board occurred, the students granted us permission to conduct a contest for the selection of another editor. In our effort to give the college a satisfactory paper we have come to the realization that our number is too small, that eight Associate Editors could put out a better publication than six. Frequently one and sometimes two of the editors are off the Hill, leaving the work of getting out the paper to only the remaining five or four editors who are thus compelled to put time on the TAR HEEL that they should be spending on their studies. Again, eight men know more things that are going on around college than do six.

So the editors have presumed upon the goodness of the students and have selected three associate editors through the recently finished contest instead of one. We feel that we are justified in doing this because it is a measure which our experience has lead us to believe will facilitate the putting out of a good paper, and we feel that every student appreciates our effort to put out a creditable publication. The men who showed up best in the contest were a Junior, a Sophomore, and a Freshman—J. G. Cowan, J. E. Hoover, and E. L. Applewhite. The contest has worked spl endidly, and the TAR HEEL is to be congratulated on having secured the services of these men. All the work submitted in competition was of an unusually good quality, and we hereby wish to thank all the men who entered the contest for their interest. Furthermore, we wish to urge them not to be discouraged at not having secured a place on the board this time, but to try again in the next contest.

Celebrates Ninetieth Birthday

Mrs. Laura Phillips, aunt of Dr. K. P. Battle, celebrated her nintieth birthday Thursday Nov. 12. Mrs. Phillips, who is affectionately known as "Aunt Laura" is one of the state's oldest residents and enjoys a large circle of friends who extend their congratulations.

ENGINEERS ELUCIDATE

Recently Established Branch of I. A. E. E. Holds First Meeting.

At the first session of the student branch of the I. A. E. E. Engineers held in Chem. Hall last Friday night, Professor Daggett started the work of the Branch in this institution with a paper on "The Education of an Electric Engineer." Mr. J. W. McIver also gave an interesting talk on "The Electrical Equipment of Argentine's Battleship Moreno". The lecture was an abstract from one of the societiy's bulletins.

The official name of the society here is the U. N. C. Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Authority to organize the branch here was received by Prof. Daggett, who is an institute member, and the organization was effected in October when the following officers were were elected: Prof. Daggett, Chairman; J. W. McIver, Local Secretary; Board of Director, L. M. Sahag '15, W. H. Joyner '16, C. N. Sloan '17, Hyman Battle '18.

The purpose of the Branch is twofold; first, to interest students in the practical problems that are occupying the attention of the leading electrical engineers of the country and thus bring them in close touch with the progress in their future profession; and, second, to afford an opportunity for students to present and discuss papers on electrical engineering subjects, thus securing a training in public speaking and thinking on their feet.

The Institute supplies the Branch with an expense account and furnishes stationery for the the use of the officers. The members are also sent advance copies of all papers presented before the Institute at its regular meeting in New York.

Pi Kappa Phi Established.

Saturday night, November 14, the petitioning body for the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity was installed as the Kappa Chapter of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity at their chapter house on Cameron Avenue.

The initiates were: Claude Boseman, Robert T. Bryan, Edward Marsh, J. Shepherd Bryan, Raby Tennent and Frank L. Nash. Affiliate: Manuel G. Quevedo (Georgia Tech.)

Visitors were: R. G. Thacker, Tom Henderson, and J. H. Cook of Davidson. Other visitors included Mr. Hubert Langford, chief instituting officer, and Mr J. D. Carroll, Grand President of the fraternity,--the latter two coming from Columbia. S. C.

By far the most attractive number of this season's Star Course will visit Chapel Hill on Friday of this week and present their stunt at eight p. m. The personnel of this company is decidedly the most striking even yet, and their instrumental renditions of the latest rags,—and not a few classics should attract all worshipers at the shrine of Apollo.

Carolina Conquers

ter, who never could make the ball go as far as twenty yards on a kick.

There was too much arguing and squabbling on the part of both teams throughout the game. In fact the officials didn't seem to know much about the game. They allowed themselves to be bull-dozed by the players. At one time a fellow jumped on Bob Burnett's head after he was down No penalty was imposed upon the team. Another time Fuller was kicked on the head, and the opposing team was penalized only 15 yards, when the penalty should have been half the distance to the goal.

Bridges did not play as good a game at quarter as was expected. Allen replaced him in the second half, and played a good and steady game. It was his work in the second half that made victory possible. Winston, at end did much for Carolina by hard and consistent work. Parker's plunges were excellent. He reeled off fine, substantial gains, and made for Carolina's first goal. Fuller played good ball and made the other touchdown.

The Carolina attack became stronger in the last part of the third quarter, and then the Tar Heels began a rapid advance toward the goal over Wake Forest's weakening team. After scoring in the first part of the fourth quarter Carolina began again to march toward the goal when the whistle was blown.

The lineup:

CAROLINA	Position	W. F. C.
Winston	Left end	Powell
Ramsay	Left tackle	Moore
Cowell	Left guard	Olive
Jones. F.	Center	Stallings
Jones, J.	Righ guard	Abernathy
Foust	Right tackle	Blackman
Williamson	Right end	Holding
Bridges.	Quarter	Billings
Burnett	Left half	Lee
uller	Right half	Trust
Parker.	Fullback	Riddick

Substitutions:—Carolina. Allen for Bridges. Wake Forest. Dixon for Stallings, Parker for Olive, Watkins for Holding, Beam for Lee, Witherington for Trust, Jordan for Powell. Touchdowns; Trust, Parker, Fuller. Goal from touchdown; Billings. Referee, Bray. Umpire, Floyd. Headlinesman, Jacocks. Time of quarters; 15 and 10 minutes.

Freshman Play Greensboro Saturday

The Freshman foot-ball team leaves Saturday for Greensboro where they play the high school team of that city. Although the Freshman have not had such a successful season, they have hopes of winning this game and are carrying with them the determination to bring back a victory. Luck to them!

ers. The music of his songs outranges the human voice and the piano. He is a master of cacophony—the opposite of harmony—and it is through this mastery that he gets his wonderful effects of fear and agony.

But this composer's widest range is marked by the limits of his imagination and his sympathies. As his career is not yet over, these limits may not yet have been reached. The exquisite delicacy of his "Enoch Arden" music is but another evidence of the emotional range of a composer who has touched two such opposite poles as the tragic passion of the "Elektra" and the Rococo sentimentality of "Der Rosenkavalier".

On the rendition of "Enoch Arden," before the Community Club, it seemed to be the general opinion that Professor Bernard's lack of affectation in reading of the poem was in fine keeping with the restraint that governed Tennyson in developing the quiet strength of his characters and that Mrs. Winston's sympathy and skill brought to the Strauss music the touch of an artist.

$500 for the Best

The advertising profession is attracting many college men. Several universities recognizing this tendency have inaugurated special courses in the science of advertising.

Here is a chance for you to prove whether YOU have talent for the new profession—with a possibility of earning $500 toward your next year's expenses.

For the best original Fatima ad. submitted by a college man before June 1, 1915, we will pay $500 in gold.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

The first installment of students' ads. will be published next month

Each month, beginning next month, some of the ads. submitted will be published in college papers and magazines. With each ad. so published, if the writer will permit us, we will publish his name, year and photograph.

Every ad. published will be paid for at the rate of $5 apiece. It must be understood however, that the selection of an ad. for publication does not signify that it has any better chance to win the $500 than the ads. not so chosen.

There are no restrictions whatever as to the method you shall employ or the way you shall approach the subject—except that the ad. must be truthful.

It has been our experience that no man can strike the fire of conviction in any kind of salesmanship—written or personal—unless he believes in what he is selling. That's only a hint, however.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Blamed if I can think of a thing! I ran my hands into my pockets, but the only thought that comes to me is, I'm broke; I rake my fingers through my hair, but the only thig I find out is that I need a hair-cut. All the same this column has got to be filled. So here goes. Anthromorphologically speaking, did you ever see a man with the cerebrospinalmeningitis? (That's going down the line, I reckon. It won't take many of those to make a column.) You'd have a hard time thinking of anything peart, cute or "cowcattish"--even you--if there was a Public-Speaking Freshman below you chanting his "a-w-l men want paw-oise and"--. Besides the man in the room above me is about to begin his nocturnal battle. He is rolling his artillery into action while the evening is dropping bombs all around him on the floor. Oh, the men above us! I'll agree with you that yours has a crap game on the floor every night using bombs for dice--if you'll believe me when I tell you that mine has a granite mine up there. For he big'uns blasting regularly at 12:30 a. m., masses of falling rock shake the ceiling.

Maybe most of us are feeling punk after the game Saturday. But the most it did was to get the uniforms muddy. You could not exactly call it a game; it was more of a submarine battle. All teams look alike when they're stuck in the mud. On those grounds the Freshmen might have played Yale even. After all, what difference does it make? We-ch gebibble! It will all be forgotten in the joy of the score of Thanksgiving.

MY EYE-TEETH!

One day, unknown to me, a fly
On my soup plate's edge sat smilingly,
But he made a faux pas, looped-the-loop
And lit in the media res of the soup.
How could I know--he was so small.
I took a spoonful, fly and all
But tho mine eyes o'erlooked him quite,
Mine eyeteeth glimpsed him in his flight.
They stopped his Jonah-journey and
Broughth him before that august band,
My wisdom-teeth, who soon decreed
The struggling culprit should be freed!

OATES WINS IN TOURNAMENT

Old Varsity Man Reestablishes Himself on the Tennis Team

Friday afternoon those who were at the tennis courts witnessed an interesting conflict when the tournament match between Oates and Capehart was played. Oates won three straight sets 6--3, 6--4, 6--4, and thereby reestablished his place on the varsity team which he has already held for three years. Capehart will be the other member of the team, having been the victor in the tournament which recently closed. Tubby Walke will challenge one of the winners in the spring, since he was unable to enter the tournament this fall on account of a sprained ankle. It is probable that Bob Winston, who dropped out of the tournament in order to play football, will also challenge for a place on the team.

CHAMPIONSHIP DECIDED

Seniors Win Class Football Championship After Hard Battle.

Friday, the thirteenth, is said to be either a day of hard luck or one of exceptionally good luck. In the case Sophomores it happened to be the former, while in the case of the Seniors it was the latter. In the final game of the class football series, in which the Sophomores and the Seniors contested for the coveted championship, the Seniors won by the score of 7 to 2. The game was a hard one from start to finish, and the large crowd of spectators could not complain that the game lagged in interest.

In the first quarter the Sophs advanced the ball steadily to the Seniors three yard line, but were unable to put the ball across, and were held for downs. Fitzgerald attempted to punt from behind his own goal line, but was too slow in getting the ball off, and was thrown in his tracks, the Sophs thus scoring a safety. Neither goal was threaten during the remainder of this quarter, which closed with the score 2 to 0 in favor of the '17 team.

After the first quarter the Sophs went on the defensive for the rest of the game. The ball was in their territory most of the time, and they had scanty opportunity to show any offensive work. At the beginning of the second quarter the Seniors tried several forward passes, but found them unprofitable, and resorted to line plunges. In this style of play Fitzgerald and Nance gained ground consistently, and their line made this possible by opening up wide holes. The ball was carried to the Sophs' five yard line, when Paty on an off-tackle play went over for a touchdown. Nance kicked goal. Once more during this quarter it seemed that Frank Graham's proteges would score, but they were held for downs, and Coleman, for the Sophs, punted fifty yards to safety.

In the third quarter the Seniors made first down four successive times by line plunges, but the ball went over on the ten yard line and Coleman punted. The Seniors again gained ground, a long forward pass from Nance to Paty netting twentw-five yards. Time was up with the Seniors in possession of the ball on the Sophs' twenty yard line. The latter came back in the last quarter and held the near-grads for downs. Coleman punted fifty-five yards. The Seniors lost their final chance to increase their score when Woollcott failed in an attempt to drop-kick from the thirty yard line. A beautiful forward pass from Coleman to Monroe gained twenty-five yards for the Sophs, but the whistle blew before they had advanced past the middle of the field. Nance, Fitzgerald and Woollcott starred for the Seniors, while the whole team played aggressively. For the Sophs Coleman did splendid work, and Bacon, Wall, and Monroe also acquitted themselves well.

President Graham spoke on The European War at a meeting of the Twin City Club of Winston Salem last Friday evening.

Carrboro will meet Chapel Hill Boy Scouts in a debate sometime between the first and twentieth of December.

PLAYERS TO BE NUMBERED

Members of Both Teams Will Wear Numbers in Thanksgiving Game

The players on both sides will be numbered in the Carolina-Virginia game. This will be for the benefit of the spectators. The numbers, ten inches square, will be sewed on the backs of the players' jerseys. Each team will begin with number one and run up consecutively as far as necessary. The only difference in the numbers will be that each set will be in the colors of the college.

While other colleges have had their players numbered in the big games, this is the first time Carolina has tried the experiment. The Sporting Editor of the News-Leader of Richmond started the movemement that led to the adoption of the plan.

TEAM BIDS ADIEU

Carolina's Fighting Machine Leaves To-day

PLAYERS READY FOR GAME

Carolina's Prize Team is Determined to Win Big Game

The all-powerful team which is destined to vanquish the long victorious Virginia eleven left Chapel Hill this afternoon at five o'clock for the big clash on Thanksgiving. These thirty strong representatives of Carolina will go by way of Durham and Raleigh and will arrive in Richmond Wednesday morning, making the Jefferson Hotel their headquarters. Sometime during the day they will practice on the Broad Street Field where the game is to be played on Thursday.

The general condition of the men has improved very much in the last week and the team work has shown marked improvement. This is partially due to the presence of Coaches Pendleton and Emmons, who arrived on the Hill last week. Pendleton, who has been assisting Cunningham with the Halves and Full, has explaiend many of the plays used by Virginia this year and coached them in breaking these up. Emmons has been devoting his time to Quarter. Tom Wilson will meet the team in Richmond, and will accompany them to the game.

Cowell has been out of the game a couple of days this week with a slight attack of tonsilitis but was in the scrimmmage Thursday for a short time and ready for hard practice Saturday. Ramsay was not in action Wednesday since Bluetenthal thought he needed a rest. Foust and Gay have had a hard fight for Right Tackle. The chances are that the former will start the game on Thanksgiving. Winston was suffering from minor injuries Thursday but will be in good condition for the contest with Virginia. Bridges and Allen have had it nip and tuck for Quarter. The chances are that the former will begin the game but both will probably have a chance before the last quarter is up. Captain Tayloe is in prime condition and is playing a fine game. Fuller has nearly recovered from injuries received in the Vanderbilt game and is ready to

THE STATE SENTIMENT

What the Leading State Papers Think of Carolina's Prospects.

The following clippings were taken from State papers of the last week's issue and will give some idea concerning the sentiment of the people over the State about the big game in Richmond Thursday. The Greensboro News says: "There is more interest in North Carolina over the game there ever was before.... Governor Craig and President Graham will both be there. The team is getting back the pep and fighting spirit that it had earlier in the season."

The following sentences were taken from an article in the Charlotte Daily Observer which was written by a student at Virginia. "For the first time since 1905 the University of North Carolina has placed in the field a football team which Virginia truly fears."

"It (the N. C. team) is probably the most versatile aggregation that has represented the Chapel Hill institution since 1892. It is well-conditioned, well-ballanced, well-trained."

The Charlotte Observer again says, "North Carolina is being given a close run by Tennessee for the honor of scoring the most points in football this season." Carolina has scored 356 to her opponents 32, while Tennessee has scored 350 to her opponents 31.

Coach Simmons of Charlotte, who is something of an expert on football, picked six Carolina men and five A. & M. men for an all-Carolina team. The Carolina men are Tayloe, Tandy, Homewood, Winston, Jones F., and Ramsay. Quoting again, "Carolina's backfield is heavier by several pounds than the Old Dominion backfield...Taking everything into consideration it would seem that the odds for winning should be Carolina's....It looks as if it is entirely up to the coaching staff to produce the organized machine, and the players to produce the fight in order to bring home the bacon." "It is expected that 5,000 North Carolinians will witness the game.

Mass Meeting Tuesday Night

There will be a big mass meeting Tuesday night in Chapel to celebrate duly the coming game with Virginia. Every man in college will be there with the old college spirit, the spirit that wins—the determination not to be defeated. Members of the Faculty will make appropriate speeches, and there will be lively renditions of college songs and yells. As before said, everybody will be there.

The Order of Gimghouls will be at home to the Faculty and students at an informal dance at their lodge Friday December 3, at four o'clock.

GO TO IT, CAROLINA

A Note is Received from a Tar Heel Enthusiast in Virginia.

Football Team,
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Dear boys,

I am a Tar Heel girl, but have been living in Richmond for several years. Nevertheless, the tar is still thick on my heels. You have disappointed me so many times by not winning the game for my dear "Old State." I go out on Broad Street with my colors, blue and white, flying high, only to have them torn down in the end. Now, boys, I am counting on you this time. Please do not fail me I just want you to give the University of Virginia a good flogging. I was so delighted when you beat the Medical College, just screamed for joy. One the boys didn't show his face two weeks.

I am a High School girl, and hope to be among the rooters North Carolina on Thanksgiving Day. I would like to meet every one of the boys, but if you disappoint me, I shall run home and perhaps, smile on the Va boys hereafter.

Sincerely, M. C.

THANKSGIVING

For the first time in a number of years the University of North Carolina will play the University of Virginia at Richmond on Thanksgiving. For the past few years it has been a certain number of students from this University who tried to play the whole University of Virginia. In a word, for the first time in a student generation the student body FEELS that the football team will be victorious over Virginia.

For a few days the belief and support of the college wavered. The message of the Georgia and Vanderbilt games, in spite of their nearness, was hard to maintain in the face of eight years of continually ground-in defeat. The student body needed a better turn for steady thinking to realize that Carolina actually stood on a par with Virginia.

One not acquainted with this particular situation might wonder at the use of the phrase "steady thinking" in connection with working up college loyalty and mass meeting enthusiasm. Those who went to the mass meeting Tuesday night know that the most loudly cheered speaker was Dr. Herty.

Dr. Herty in a straightforward manner told the truth about the team and about the student body. He said, "Boys, you have not been supporting the team in proportion to its ability." The students realized the truth of this and since then the attitude of the student body has rapidly improved. Today it stands united behind the team.

THE CHEER LEADER

In our opinion Charlie Coggins is the best Cheer leader this college has had in four years, and that in spite of the memory of Walter Stokes Jr. The yelling and singing has been better than at any time since Mr. '15 was a Freshman. The average Carolina student is a little bit opposed to yelling and singing. It takes a little urging rightly applied to make him do it. It does not mean lack of loyalty, it means Mr. average student is just built that way.

But as Charlie would express it, what it takes to make 'em yell and sing Coggin happens to possess. If it wasn't unmodest we would urge Mr. Coggin to lead a yell for himself next mass meeting.

Prof. William's Opinion

To The Tar Heel:

I am asked to say a word about the game with Virginia.

This is a puzzling question. I am sure the deepest impulse is not to beat Virginia, pleasant as that experience will be. We have done that in days past. Virginia won't "stay put."

Modern athletics is a new phenomon of surpassing size and interest. It seems to be at the bottom an aethetic experience. One must go back to the cathedral building in Europe to find its parallel. Then great buildings were works of art and were done by the people. The people demanded to express themselves and to do it in terms of beauty. There was deep and wide-spread enthusiasm over all Europe. The result is to this day fair to look on.

So I think it is in athletics. The essential thing is not the contest, but the form and spirit of the contest. Foot ball is a contest in wits. A stupid man can't play foot ball. The body is merely the instrument of the head in the game. To play the game we must have a clear head and quick as lightning, and a body that obeys the head.

What we want is that each man shall do the right thing at the right second and in the right manner. An inch too far one way, a second too slow, an awkward twist of the knee,--and the play fails. "The ball goes over." The game is lost.

Confusion in mind is the unpardonable sin in foot ball. Know what your team can do; know when to do it; and do it swiftly and like cyclone. Then it is a great game.

H. H. Williams.

The Mendelssohns Please.

The Mendelssohn Quartette, which was the second and the most attractive number of the Star Course so far, made a splendid impression here Friday night. Many of their selections brought forth much applause and the clever performers were quite liberal in regarding encores. Their rags made a hit with everyone and their classical numbers were duly appreciated. Miss Page, perhaps made the greatest impression, her songs and recitations pleasing everyone. She almost brought down the house when she told the "Jew Duck" story. Miss Craig received much well deserved applause for the excellent rendering of her selections, the most pleasing one being, "Daddy Might Have Married Me!" All of the instrumental numbers were good, especially some of the solos by Miss Page and Miss Briggs.

On account of the Thanksgiving game The Tar Heel has been issued Tuesday instead of Thursday, as regularly. Students and subscribers throughout the State will thus get the paper before leaving for Richmond.

FOR THE AID OF THE BELGIANS

Charlotte Observer Suggests A. & M.---Carolina Game.

The Charlotte Observer of Monday suggests that a football game be played between A. & M. and Carolina at some early date, preferably December 5, for the benefit of the Belgian sufferers, the game to be played in Raleigh

"It is argued by those who are close in touch with the authorities of the two institutions that such a game for such a worthy cause would attract more attention than any other athletic event in the State's history. These two institutions have teams that are so nearly equal in strength, offensive as well as defensive, that the battle, from a purely athletic standpoint, would be one of the greatest ever staged in North Carolina.

"The only factor entering into the situation is that of the consent of the athletic managements of the two institutions. The cause, however, is so meritorious that any feelings of rivalry might well be dispensed with and the contest staged without regard to anything save the worthiness of the cause in question. Similar contests have already been arranged in several Northern and Middle States and there is now talk of such a game in Virginia, between the University of Virginia an Washington & Lee, Auburn and the Carlisle Indians are to play in Atlanta early next month for the same cause.

"It is argued that such a game could be played within the next week or two without much effort in view of the fact that both teams will be in condition."

TENNESSEE-CAROLINA GAME

Asheville Wants Annual Game Between These Institutions

Asheville football devotees have on foot a plan to secure for their city an annual football game between the Universities of North Carolina and Tennessee. The Asheville Citizen of a few days ago has the following to say:

"Letters have been written to the football managements of both institutions asking what arrangements are necessary. Replies have been received setting forth the amount necessary for each team to make the trip and it is expected that the demands can be met. Those back of the movement state that they are not promoting the game with the purpose of making any money, but mostly for the love of the sport, and it is estimated that a sufficiently large number of followers of the game will attend to at least make up the amount of the expenses. Such a game could be staged at Oates park easily."

LOCALS

A number of the Faculty will attend the teacher's meeting at Raleigh from Tuesday to Friday inclusive this week.

Nine of the students in the pharmacy department left for Raleigh Wednesday, where they are to take the state board examination.

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt has returned from Wilson where he took an active part in the State Drainage Convention which was in session there last week.

The game between the Freshmen and Greensboro High School, which was scheduled last Saturday at Greensboro, was cancelled, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

SHAW'S ARMS AND THE MAN

The Modern and Fascinating Comedy Will be Presented December 4.

"Arms and the Man" will be presented in Gerrard Hall Friday December 4th, without Bernard Shaw.

When "Pygmalion", Shaw's newest comedy was to be presented for the first time this fall in the New Theatre, the management wired Mr. Shaw to come over to New York for the first performance. Shaw in the cablegram in answer made the characteristic reply that "as America had waited so long for a visit from him that he could not now risk it because Americans migh be disappointed in him after he came."

The management of "Arms and the Man", which is to be presented here by the University Dramatic Association, wanted to get Mr. Shaw for the first performance at Chapel Hill December 4th, but it regrets that Mr. Shaw cannot leave England.

However, the star cast of the Dramatic Club will present "Arms and the Man" regardless. The cast now consists of four N. C. Dramatic men, Coggin, Johnson, Weeks, and Kerr who will be great factors in the production of this clever and fascinating little comedy.

A change was recently effected in the cast in substituting Kerr for Meredith in Catherine's part. and in Meredith's taking the leading lady's part, Raina.

It is of interest to note that the Dramatic Club is putting on a modern comedy, and one in which the people of North Carolina will be interested.

Dr. Henderson's Opinion.

Carolina can win this year. She has the players, the plays, the team wark, the has, and the spirit. Two other qualities are absolutely indespensable for victory. First, ability to decipher Virginia's system of defense. Our team can, I believe, meet Virginia's offence. Second, field generalship--Carolina's great deficiency in recent years. It is imperative now for the sort of headwork that sizes up each play or system of plays with reference to its adaptability at a particular stage of the game.

Given these two qualities, the ability to solve Virginia's system of defence, and the type of field generalship which utilizes a team and its style of play for its full value, and we will win.

Archibald Henderson.

Dean Stacy will speak at Wilksboro during community service week.

CLASS TENNIS MATCHES

Winners of Tournament Will Wear Class Numerals.

Now that Oates and Capehart have secured their positions on the Varsity tennis team, the class tournaments are going on merrily. A number of players entered for each class, and all the positions have been the object of some fast playiug.

The Seniors have now only three men in the race. McCall and Mebane are to play an elimination contest Thursday, the winner to be challanged by Tubby Walke.

The Juniors and Freshmen have already finished their tournaments. Proctor and Hancock have won out in the Junior contest, and Rutledge and Herty compose the Freshmen team.

A goodly number are yet in the Soph race. Those who have not been eliminated are Combs, Polk, Shamburger, Johnston, Perry, and Hood. Coombs and Polk are said to have good prospects but they will have to put up a stiff fight for their places.

As soon as the different class teams have been made up the inter-class tournament begins. No definite schedule has been arranged. The winners of this tournament have the privilege, as the senior football team now has, of wearing their class numerals.

MAGAZINE SOON TO APPEAR

Second Issue of College Periodical Comes From Press Shortly.

The December issue of the University of North Carolina Magazine will come out this week with more than its usual number of interesting articles and stories. The most prominent among those listed in its table of contents are the following: A Football Ramble, by Frank Graham; Eve, the winner of the Freshman prize in English, by S. F. Telfair; Vanka, a Story of so Many, by S. R. Newman; an article by R. B. House on Hinderances to Our Intellectual Growth as Students; a poem by W. D. Kerr; and an unusually large sketch department. This sketch department is open to anyone who is desirous of breaking into print and the Editors will be glad to receive as many contributions as possible.

Harry G. Hunter of the Sophomore class was initiated into the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity last week.

Albert Cox of Raleigh, Jim Wiggins of Winston-Salem, and W. J. Cox have come over to the Hill to help coach the team on the last lap.

ENOCH ARDEN A SUCCESS

Mrs. Winston and Mr. Bernard Please Large Audience

The rendition of Strauss music to Tennyson's famous poem, "Enoch Arden," by Mrs. Winston and Professor Bernard at the Presbyterian church last night, surpasses by far any event of its nature which has been given here this season.

Long before the appointed hour the church was filled and many were forced to stand.

It is impossible to describe the beauty of the piece and the admirable manner in which it was rendered. It is sufficient to say it eclipsed every expectation, and from the first note to the last the entire audience sat motionless, enraptured by the wonderful combination of poetic and musical skill.

As explained before, Strauss is possibly the greatest composer of "tone poems" the world has ever known, and his great success with "Enoch Arden" is a masterpiece in which he seemed to put his whole heart and soul.

The students appreciate the opportunity to enjoying an entertainment of such rare quality and trust that Mrs. Winston and Professor Bernard will again favor them.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Representative Teams From Eastern and Western Parts of State Meet Here

The State High School Football Championship series has reached its final stage. The teams remaining eligible for this honor are; in the East, Raleigh, Wilmington, Washington, and Goldsboro; and in the West, Shelby, Asheville, and Huntersville. Washington will play Goldsboro in Goldsboro on the 23rd, Raleigh will play Wilmington in Goldsboro on the 28th, and the winners from these games will come together for the championship of Eastern North Carolina on December 5th. The winner in this game will come to Chapel Hill to meet the champion of the Western part of the State on December 12. The teams in the Western part have not yet come to an agreement as to their schedule but representatives from each school will meet in Charlotte on the 25th to arrange one.

The Kings Daughters will hold a bazaar in Dr. McNider's office on December 1, at three thirty. This bazaar is for a worthy purpose, and the ladies would appreciate the patronage of the students.

Six of the nine Carolina pharmacy students who stood the State board last week passed, and are now registered pill rollers. Out of the total number of 51 that stood the board, 23 were successful.

The many friends of Mr. Richard H. Thornton, instructor in the English department, will regret to learn that he has been called to Blackstone Va. on account of a serious fire which destroyed his mother's home.

Team Bids Adieu

measure his strength against Virginia. Reid and Parker have been measuring up equally well at Full and it has not been decided which one will begin the game Thursday. Tandy and Jones are in fine condition and are playing their positions well. Hines and Burnett are first sub Halfbacks. The latter is slightly favored on account of his wider experience. John Tayloe is playing the best game at sub Guard. J. Jones and Wright are getting into good condition and will be able to play Thanksgiving. Altogether, the work of the whole team has improved so much that the Coaches are confident that Carolina will play the best game of the season against Virginia.

$ for every ad. published
$500 for the Best

The advertising profession is attracting many college men. Several universities recognizing this tendency have inaugurated special courses in the science of advertising.

Here is a chance for you to prove whether YOU have talent for the new profession—with a possibility of earning $500 toward your next year's expenses.

The best original Fatima ad. submitted by a college man before June 1915, we will pay $500 in gold.

ILLUSTRATE your ad. if you can but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

The first installment of students' ads. will be published next month

Each month, beginning next month, some of the ads. submitted will be published in college papers and magazines. With each ad. so published, if the writer will permit us, we will publish his name, year and photograph.

Every ad. published will be paid for at the rate of $5 per piece. It must be understood however, that the selection of an ad. for publication does not signify that it has any better chance to win the $500 than the ads. not so chosen.

There are no restrictions whatever as to the method you shall employ or the way you shall approach the subject—except that the ad. must be truthful.

It has been our experience that no man can strike the note of conviction in any kind of salesmanship—written personal—unless he believes in what he is selling. That's only a hint, however.

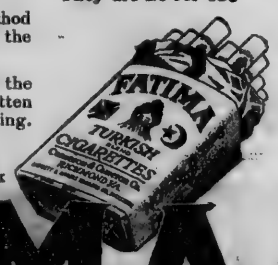
Fatima Facts

Pure Tobacco.

No finer tobacco used than in Fatima.

Simple, inexpensive package.

The biggest selling 15 cent cigarette in America.



Made famous by college men.

The Turkish tobacco used in Fatima is specially selected by resident native buyers at Xanthi, Cavalla, Samsoun and Smyrna.

Smokers of high priced cigarettes who smoke a few packages of Fatima are usually satisfied to "switch."

Here's to the Day!

Our day, the 26th, when the White and the Blue will wave in triumph over Virginia's goal posts—Carolina's Thanksgiving Day, when the ball will make its little journeys again and again over Virginia'e goal line—when our team will be an avalanche cool, swift and uncheckable—and when the heavens themselves will wear our colors! It will be all that and more; the day we've awaited for years.

The dancing of Anna Pavlow herself, in Richmond that night, will seem to us awkward and uncouth in comparison with the sublime spectacle of a White and Blue man stumbling over Virginia's goal for the first touchdown—or the second or the third, or the fourth for that matter.

Here's what the student-body is saying to the team:

"Our Team, we're with you. Formerly we were behind you, giving you our dutiful support but not our enthusiasm and sympathy and confidence. Formerly we were behind you—now we're WITH you in spirit and in truth (and in pep)—with you in your little losses as much as in your glorious gains—with you with all our heart and faith (and pocket book). By the light sparkling in the eyes of every man of you whenever Virginia is mentioned, we know how you will fight and how you will win. Through every second of every quarter of the Big game you will have our unshaken confidence. We know that by long hard work you have become eleven-in-one, harder, swifter and more efficient than any other team in the South, Our Team, we are proud to be with you."

On the day of Thanksgiving the team will answer the student-body, and we know what the answer will be.

Here's to the Day!

WILMINGTON PAPER'S VERSION

Several of Virginia's Players Said to Have been Injured.

A Wilmington paper has substantially the following to say: Virginia is very much elated over the Swarthmore game and the comparative score of Carolina with Wake Forest. However, she realizes that she must put up the best offense of the year to cope successfully with the Tar Heels and in consequence of this, has called to her aid as extra coaches W. Christie Bennet of South Carolina and the famous "Empty" Cook.

Five of Virginia's men were injured in the last game, though not seriouly. Captain Mayer hurt his knee and Word pulled a tendon in his leg, while Evans, Barker and Moore received minor injuries. All these men, however, expect to be in the big game next Thursday.

The officials for the game are; Referee, Thorpe of Columbia, Umpire, Magoffin of Michigan, Headlinesman, Armstrong of Yale

Henry Meeks to Sing Here

The Glee Club and Mandolin Club take great pleasure in announcing that they have secured Henry Meeks to sing in their concert during the dances. Henry was with the club last year but did not return to Carolina this year since he expected to study abroad. The war, however, broke in on his plans and he is thus able to come back to the Hill.

THE O. HENRY MEMORIAL

Dr. Henderson's Task is Finally Accomplished

Dr. Archibald Henderson, the present President of the State Literary and Historical Association of North Carolina, has been rigorously at work for the past year and three-quarters, raising funds for the estab'ishment at the capitol of the State of a national memorial to William Sidney Porter, known everywhere as "O Henry". In February, 1913, Dr. Henderson, entered upon his own initiative, began the work of raising funds. He acted as a committee—being himself president, secretary, and treasurer rolled into one. In the prosecution of his arduous undertaking, he hail the active co-operation of certain organizations such as the State and Historical Association of North Carolina, the North Carolina Society of New York City, the Federation Woman's Club of North Carolina and of certain individuals, notably Mr. Norman Hackett, the talented actor, who created the title-role in the dramitization of O. Henry's short story, "A Double Dyed Deceiver", Messrs. Louis Graves and James A. Gwyn of New York City, and Mr. R. D. W. Connor, Secretary of the North Carolina Historic Cammission.

Dr. Henderson has finally accomplished his difficult task; the memorial tablet and bas-relief has been executed by the great American sculptor, Lonado Taft, of Chicago; and on the evening of December 3, in Raleigh, the memorial exercises will take place, under the auspices of the State Literary and Historical Association. The memorial address will be delivered by Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, formerly of the faculty here; the memorial will be presented by Dr. Henderson, its founder, and accepted for the State by Governor Locke Craig.

Dr. Henderson conceived the idea and undertook the task, because he believed that such a memorial, a work of great art in honor of work of great art, would serve as an incentive to the people of North Carolina to erect memorials to other literary figures in her past history who have achieved true art and won the loving appreciation of posterity.

A small portion of the large sum needed to secure the memorial yet remains uncollected. All who wish to contribute may send their contributions direct to Dr. Henderson. All who have already promised contributions will confer a favor upon Dr. Henderson, by sending in to him their contributions at once.

Why Not?

A State High School basketball championship contest is being talked of, and why not? If we can swing a football championship contest as well as we did last year and this year, we certainly should be able to handle a basketball contest too. The high schools of the State are willing and anxious. It only remains for some one to take the initiated.

Charles Doak, of Guilford has agreed to come to Carolina Monday after Thanksgiving to coach Varsity basketball. The Alumni Athletic Committee is expected to ratify the selection of this coach at their meeting in Richmond after the game.

THE COMING FESTIVITIES

Fall Dances Will Be Held Thursday and Friday

The Fall dances this year promise to uphold the reputation of previous Carolina dances as the most prominent social events in the state among the younger people. There will be three dances given this fall. The first one, Thursday evening, is given by the Junior Order of the Gorgon's Head. There is to be an informal dance and reception given to the Faculty and students Friday afternoon by the Junior Order of Gimghouls at their lodge. Friday evening the German Club gives the second dance at the Bynum Gymnasium. The leaders have carefully planned the decorations for the gymnasium. An orchestra from Raleigh will be here with a varied selection of music to fit the different dances.

About forty young ladies are expected to attend, and their presence on the campus always revolutionizes the appearance of the place. Further entertainments in the form of the Glee Club recital Thursday evening, and the performance given by Dramatic Club Friday evening will add to the enjoyment of the festivities. From Thursday at noon until the departure of the four o'clock train Saturday Chapel Hill will be a mirthful village. On with the dance!

Societies To Award Prize For Best Story Submitted To Magazine

The closing date of the Magazine Short Story Contest has been set as the 10th of January. A prize of fifteen dollars for the best story submitted to the magazine by any student in the University has been appropriated jointly by the societies.

There are no rules as to the length or subject matter of these stories—that depends upon the choice of the author. This contest last year brought out a number of excellent stories, the prize being awarded to W. T. Polk for one of the best stories published in The Magazine in recent years.

The Board of Editors have voted themselves ineligible for this prize. Their efforts will be devoted to helping those who wish to enter the contest, and it is hoped that budding geniuses will seize this apportunity to win a month's board handily.

Prof. W. S. Bernard will deliver an address in Pitt County this week. His speech is in connection with the "Community Service Week" celebration and he will address his auidence on some rural economics problem.

Thousands of Cheering Spectators Watch Carolina and Virginia Struggle

CAROLINA PUTS UP A HARD FIGHT BUT FINALLY SUCCUMBS

Secretary Daniels, Governors Craig and Stuart, and President Graham Witness the Game.---Many Tar Heels on Hand

Thanksgiving Day in Richmond on the occasion of the annual football game between the Universities of North Carolina and Virginia proved to be one of the most notable college events of the South. Thousands of North Carolinian's as well as Virginians witnessed the game at Broad Street Park where the Tar Heels, though compelled to surrender the victory to Virginia, acquitted themselves nobly and fought desperately in the fearful onslaught of the Virginians. Carolina was defeated in actual football ability but the battle she gave the Virginians for that solid hour of play will always be remembered as one in which the Tar Heel spirit of "never give up" was more than ever displayed. Virginia proved superior and well she deserved to win.

Aside from the game itself the greatest feature of the day was the assembly of notables and hundreds of visitors displaying in many ways their loyalty to their Universities. Governor Craig and his staff made a friendly invasion of Richmond and accompanied by Governor Stuart of Virginia and his staff sat in the grandstand proudly watching the sons of his state fighting their best for the glory of Carolina or Virginia. The Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, was also present aiding by his presence the Tar Heels in their hopeful battle. Both Governor Craig and Secretary Daniels spoke to the Carolina rooters between the halves. President Graham himself attended to watch his favorites in their greatest fight. President Alderman of Virginia, on account of sickness, was unable to attend. There were many others of lesser note in attendance at the game.

In the morning the delegations from both Universities gathered in the beautiful lobby of the Jefferson Hotel, which both teams made their headquarters, and held a joint mass meeting. The Carolina band of twenty-two pieces led by Mr. Wilbur Royster stationed itself in the lobby, and amid the wild cheers of the enthusiastic Tar Heel rooters, played time and again the favorite Tar Heel tunes, leading the throngs in "Hark the Sound", and always ending spiritedly in "I'm a Tar Heel Born". All praise is due the splendid music given by the band, for they stood by the Tar Heels and were a noticeable part of the Carolina delegation. Between the times the incomparable Charlie Coggin led the "Down Homers," in many yells. The Virginia band at the hotel did not equal Carolina's, but on the field of battle they played better. The Virginia delegation at the mass meeting yelled vociferously but their clamor could not compare with the Tar Heel yelling.

Miss Society was out in full all day. Countless young ladies and gentlemen gayly paraded along Broad Street and around the hotels. Many wore white or yellow chrysanthemums, white for Carolina, and yellow for Virginia. The day was an ideal one, the sun shone brilliantly at times, and the heavens themselves displayed Carolina's colors, a better November day could not be had.

A great crowd, approximately fifteen thousand, attended the game. Intense interest was all day manifested by the cohorts from North Carolina and from Virginia and on the field the two rival crowds gave a battle of yells before the starting of the game and during the playing. The band was there, too, and furnished music for the great throng, thrilling them time after time with strains from the favorite "I'm a Tar Heel Born."

"Boxy" Tillett and Big "Abby" were on the scene to lend what aid they could by their presence, not to mention the many other Carolina football stars and supporters who had journeyed to Richmond, hoping to See Carolina win the long coveted victory

Tom Wilson, last year's line coach was there, and so was Eddie Hart, the great Princeton back. The final words they gave the team were exceedingly impressive and will never be forgotten by the players who fought so hard, but vainly, to win from Virginia.

Carolina did not display the form nor the football ability and generalship that it was expected she would show in the great game with Virginia at Richmond on Thanksgiving Day; consequently she succumbed to the fierce attack and all round steady playing of the Orange and Blue team, losing a hard fought game by the score of 20 to 3. But it was no lack of spirit on the part of the Tar Heels that gave the victory to their rivals. Every inch of the way was fought desperately by the Carolinians against the steady gains of Captain Mayer and Gooch of Virgini. True, the Virginians outclassed Carolina in team work and in field generalship and showed the marks of a better team. The Tar Heels were beaten in team play but they triumphed in the spirit of the game. That they were fighting all the time is evidenced by the fact that many times time was called for the Virginia players.

It appeared after the first quarter that Virginia was in the best of form in every department of play and that Carolina would have to go some to stop her fierce onslaughts. The changes in the line-up made for the particular purpose of meeting Virginia did not increase the offensive power of the Chapel Hill boys and time after time the attacks of Carolina were frustrated by the giants in the Virginia line. Carolina's scoring machine would not work, the interference given the backs carrying the ball was poor and very few gains were made. Winston skirted the ends a few times but only after outrunning his opponents and getting around them, and then only to be stopped by Mayer, Word, or Gooch on sceondary defense. It seemed that the whole team had it in for Captain Tayloe. Very few gains were credited to him, but the cause of the checking of the runs of every Carolina man can be attributed in most every case to the lack of sufficient interference.

Very little of the new style of play was attempted in the game. A lack of headwork on the part of Carolina was evident. Some of the new plays which it was thought would work were not even attempted. The two forward passes by Carolina were unsuccessful and so were the three tried by Virginia. Carolina was expected to show a varied style of attack but resorted mainly to straight football,

Homewood, in proving his right to an All-Southern position, was the particular star for Carolina. He became the dreaded Tar Heel of all the team for in about every play around his end he stopped the man and sometimes threw him for a loss. At times the shaggy haired fighter would overtake the man as he started with the ball around the other end. Homewood was fighting in every play. He and Huske had the hardest positions to play since the Virginia style of attack was calculated to give both ends a hot time, and they made it so hot for Virginia at times that instead of circling the ends as intended end runs Gooch and Mayer would cut through the line at the first opening they saw.

Aside from Winston's spectacular end run Bridges was the only other man to get away for a long run. On intercepting a forward pass he returned the ball 45 yard. Bridges was removed in the third quarter after receiving an injury when he tackled Gooch. Allen went in at quarter and the team braced up.

Tandy was counted on as a dependable drop-kicker but made only one goal out of four attempts. All were tried from the 35 or 40 yard line. Carolina lost better chances to score by calling for drop-kicks from such distances when the ball might have been carried farther up the field. Poor judgement in choice of plays was a feature displayed by the Tar Heels.

On the other hand Virginia's backfield continued the marching that they have been engaged in all season. Seldom did Gooch or Mayer or Word fail to make good gains. They would get around the ends or find an opening in the line and the dash forward to be stopped only by the secondary

TICKET SCALPERS

The Evening Telegram and Record (Rocky Mount) in a marked copy of the paper calls our attention to an important point. It is concerning ticket scalpers at Thanksgiving.

In brief the statement is as follows: 5000 Carolina alumni and friends go to Richmond the day before or the day of the Thanksgiving game. There they find all the reserved seats either in the hands of the users or the ticket speculators. According to the article 1000 were in the hands of the speculators. The prices for the $1.50 tickets ranged from $4 to $7 a piece. If a man happened to have a lady with him he was helpless.

In our opinion the complaint is entirely justified. The people we want there first of all are the loyal members of the alumni who ave stood by us through thick nd thin (mostly thin). After ur alumni have been cared for, incidentally if others want to see the game, that is all right, but look after the alumni first.

A new foot ball manager will be elected in a few days. We respectfully suggest to the new manager that the very first thing he plans, be a ticket bureau at Chapel Hill for some weeks before the Thanksgiving game where alumni can write and secure tickets at the regular price. An alumnus who goes to considerable expense and trouble to reach the seat of the Thanksgiving game is entitled to considerably more consideration than a casual amusement seeker in a distant city.

MANAGER BOUSHALL

During the entire foot ball season there has been the usual complaining about lack of equipment and supplies. These complaints have come mostly from a half a dozen men. In our opinion they were hardly warranted by the facts,

It is with a great amount of pleasure that we express our belief that the work of manager Boushall and graduate manager Woolen has been the most competent this University has seen in a number of years.

The season started with a discouraging load of debt. The entire obligations of the Athletic Association were approximately $5000. Today they are about $1000. In the first place the largeness of the income was due to wisdom in scheduling games. In the second place the smallness of the outgo has been largely due to the level headedness of the two gentleman mentioned above. It takes pretty good nerve to sit tight when fifty young heathens and several coaches are swearing that they will lose the next game unless they have at once twenty new complete uniforms. twelve new foot balls, fourteen pairs of special made-to-order shoes, a bale of blankets, a hundred new towels, and a new set of side lines.

They sat tight, however, and as a result of that sitting, graduate manager Woollen announces that the probabilities are that the Athletic Association will be out of debt by commencement.

A REPRINT.

The Tar Heel wishes to reprint verbatum an editoral which appeared in last issue of the Magazine under the title "Two Proofs."

"In the fall of 1910 the Freshman football team of 1914 won a splendid, hard-fought victory over the Greensboro High School team by the score of 9 to 5. The Freshmen were already the picked prominent men of this class. After the game most of them passed the night in the grossest of bodily excesses. Not one of these was prominent at the 1914 commencement--nay, not one sat on the rostrum. They were accompanied in their "fun" by several of the High School boys, not one of whom will finish at their several colleges this year. I can name six of those High School boys who, nowise superior to their fellows at the time, preferred to go home quietly and this year will graduate with high honors at their colleges.

Prof. Horace Williams has been intimately connected with student life on this campus for over thirty years. In one of his lectures he says that he has never seen a man with character fail. Further, he has never seen the son of a man who debauched himself in his own college life finish his course here or succeed in after life

Moral:--

THE GYM TEAM.

A man, who wins his monogram here is given a chance to match his skill against representatives of other colleges in every case except one. The only team here that has no opportunity for outside competition is the gym team. We have just as good a gym team, and probably a better one than most of our sister colleges, but it has had no opportunity in the last few years of demonstrating this fact. Why not stage one for that time between the close of the basketball season and the start of baseball practice? It would help wonderfully to stimulate interest in this branch of athletics.

THE TRIANGULAR DEBATE

Virginia-Hopkins-Carolina Will Debate Again This Year

The Carolina - Virginia - Hopkins triangle has been arranged again this year for the intercollegiate debates. As it was last year the debates will take place on neutral ground. Virginia and Carolina will debate at Baltimore, Carolina and Hopkins at Charlottesville, while Virginia and Hopkins meet here.

These debates should prove of exceptional interest this year for since Carolina has lost two and won two, this will be the deciding year. The University has never lost a series of debates in her history and in order to maintain this record the teams representing the University this year must be successful against both Virginia and Hopkins

The query for the debates will be definitely known before the holidays and the final debates will be held during the latter part of April. It is expected that even a larger number will enter for the teams this year than last.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

We must try again. Carolina isn't made of the stuff that turns yellow at the first--or the tenth--or the thousandth defeat. We don't give up. Real victory belongs only to the man who keeps on coming up all the time. That's what we're doing. And if we keep on coming up we'll have to land on top sooner or later.

The only team that gets it in the neck is the one that doesn't know how to take defeat. The only one that is really defeated is the one that, through virtue of defeat after defeat, comes within reaching distance of victory and then falls back without making one last attempt to grasp it. Next year perhaps we shall reach the victory point, and it is for us to decide whether we shall make the last attempt. But you know we will.

We aren't beaten until we admit it. We aren't defeared so long as we keep fighting.

The loss of the game was a bitter one. But our pride in our team is untarnished and our faith in its prowress unshaken. We know it did its cleanest, strongest best. No team could do more. Oh, that we on the side-lines could show half as much of the never-say-die spirit.

Let's forget it and look forward to next year. Our eyes aren't supposed to be in the backs of our heads. Let's keep our hopes high and say to Virginia as said our own Carolinian scrappet, John Paul Jones: "Surrender, Why damn it all, we've just begun to fight!"

HERE'S TO THE COACHES

Carolina's Excellent Coaches Deserve Praise.

It is the belief of the football team that the work of Carolina's coaches for the last two years has been 'labor of love.' Every member knows that Doggie has the interest of the team as strong at heart as if he had been an alumnus. He is simply a part of the institution. In his first speech to the students he announced that he was a "Twelve months a year coach." He has fully justifiied his claim. He has lived with the boys and is a a part of their lives.

Last year Tol Pendleton and Tom Wilson helped Doggie in his work. By the close of the season they were worshipped by the entire squad. That they returned the feeling is shown by the fact that they came back this year unurged and at great inconvenience to themselves. That this feeling has not lost strength is proven by the statement that both made at the banquet after the game---the same statement, by the way, that they made last year,---that "God willing we will be back to see you beat Virginia next yeat."

This year Logan Cunningham and Arthur Bluethethal were the assistants. They accepted the positions at considerable sacrifice to themselves. Coming from that same admirable type of men (for Princeton men are a type) as did the others they too were loved and respected. This feeling has been shared by the general student body as evinced by the almost universal question, "Are 'Bluie' and 'Cunny' coming back?"

"Bluie" is a Carolina boy himself. The team feels, and believes he feels too, almost as if he belongs to Carolina. It is the ardent wish of every member of the squad of the season of 1914 that two of these four be secured next year. We almost said five because Emmons during his brief stay has been added to the list.

Dave Taylee Captain

At the annual football banquet after the Thanksgiving game Dave Tayloe was again elected to the captaincy of the team. Dave starred this year as captain, and the experience that he has thus gained qualifies him especially for a second term in this high office.

defense, sometimes it requiring two or three men to stop them. The Carolinians tried desperately to stop the fierce driving of the Virginians but they found Virginia superior. The linesmen would make good openings when needed and through them the speedy and heady backs would dash. Tandy showed a flash of form in breaking up some plays but it remained for the backfield to do most of the work on defense. Tayloe, Winston, Parker, and Bridges were sure tacklers on defense. Homewood's defensive work was the outstanding feature. The work of both Carolina ends was superior to that of Virginia's ends. It was in this position that Carolina seemed to have a player equal to the corresponding one of Virginia.

Evans and Barker and Coleman were the superior linesmen. Their work was grilliant in the breaking up of Carolina's plays and making wide holes for their backs to wade through.

The greatest disappointment to the Carolinians was the poor judgement in choosing plays. Gooch in his masterful choice of plays showed himself in distinct contrast to Bridges. Allen was doing lots better and the team was getting back into a good stride when for no apparent reason at all Bridges returned to the game. Lack of good judgement was evidently the cause of Carolina's poor showing. Greater things could have been accomplished for the stack of plays was good, but for the failure to play the game they had prepared for Virginia Carolina lost a good chance of making a better showing. They had the spirit and the determination to win but they lost because they failed to apply the medicine they had packed in their own chests.

But the game by plays tells the story more completely:

For Carolina Winston kicked off to Virginia's 10 yard line and Gooch returned it 20. Mayer made 8 yards but Virginia was penalized 5 yards for offside. Tandy tackled Mayer for a 2 yard loss. Homewood nailed Mayer in his tracks. Bridges returned a 40 yard punt 5 yards. Tayloe took 5 and Winston 3 through the line. Bridges made 3. Evans threw Reid for a loss. Carolina penalized 5 for offside. Foust lost 2 then punted 35. Gooch muffed it and Cowell made a pretty recovery. Tayloe got 2. Tandy failed to drop-kick from the 40 yard line.

It wa Virginia's ball on her 20 yrrd line. Huske threw Gooch after a 2 yard gain. Gooch wiggled through the line for 20 being stopped by Tayloe and Winston. Mayer found 7 yards. Gooch added 8 more but on the play Virginia was penalized 15 for holding.

Gooch attempted a forward pass but Bridges intercepted it and returned 45 yards being driven of bounds. Two line plunges failed and then Tandy missed an attempted drop-kick.

On Virginia's 30 yard line Tandy broke up a fake line play. Word made 1 yard. Gooch made a 30 yard run being downed by Tayloe. Tandy and Cowell broke up two line plays. Mayer on a delayed pass from Sparr went 12. Tandy broke up another play. Gooch circled end for 7. Sparr added 6. The quarter ended with the ball on Carolina's 18 yard line, neither side scoring.

SECOND QUARTER.

Mayer went around end for 7. Carolina was offside and Virginia took the 5 yard penalty. Sparr made 4 and Mayer 2. Word failed to gain but Mayer in two attempts pierced the line for the first touchdown. Barker kicked goal.

Virginia kicked to Winston on the 20 yard line. It was returned 5, then Bridges got 5. Failing to make first down Foust punted 40 to Gooch who was downed in his tracks by Huske. Homewood threw Mayer for a one yard loss and then threw Gooch for a 2 yard loss. Jones caught Burnett for a 5 yard loss and Virginia punted a short way. Tayloe returned the ball 5. Reid made 2 over center then Parker replaced him. Winston secured 5 and then 3. On the 35 yard line Tandy sailed the ball over the crossbars for a drop-kick making the score 7-3 in favor of Virginia. Carolina kicked to the 25 yard line and Gooch returned 12. Winston threw Mayer after a 2 yard gain. Tandy stopped Burnett in an attempted end run. Gooch punted, the ball remaining on Carolina's 30 yard line. Coleman threw Winston for a 2 yard loss. Foust punted 35 and Huske threw Gooch after an 11 yards return. Burnett made 9 on a double pass.

THIRD QUARTER.

Mayer kicked over the goal line; the ball being returned and put in play on the 20 yard line. Tayloe failed to gain. Winston made 3 around end. Foust punted 30 and the ball rolled outside. Foust blocked a line play. Gooch made 12 and Mayer 10. Two line plays were smothered and Mayer made 5. Parker got Mayer for a loss and for the first time Carolina took the ball from Virginia on downs. Winston lost 1. Parker made 5 through the line. Bridges lost 5. Foust punted 15 yard and the ball went outside on the 30 yard line. It was Virginia's ball. Sparr failed to gain Gooch made 21 yards being tackled by Bridges on the 3 yard line. Allen relieved Bridges who was injured in the play. Mayer went over for the second touchdown and Barker kicked goal.

Virginia kicked across the goal line and Carolina started with the ball on the 20 yard line. Parker gained 4. Tayloe made 1. The next play failed and Foust punted. Virginia was offside and by taking the penalty Carolina made first down. Parker made 11 through the line and Winston added 6. Tayloe made first down again. Evan was hurt and time was taken out. Parler took 2. Tayloe fumbled on the next play but Homewood made a quick recover for first down. Winston lost 1 on an attempt around end.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Carolina had the ball on Virginia's 26 yard line A forward pass was blocked. Winston was tackled by Sparr for loss of 2. Tandy missed a field goal from the 37 yard line. Barker was put out for slugging and Virginia was penalized half the distance to her goal, she having the ball on her 10 yard line. Gooch made 8 yards, then 5 more, each time being stopped by Parker. Parker forced Eayer out of bounds, then Gooch punted to Tayloe who returned 10. A forward pass failed. Foust punted 30 and Homewood threw Gooch in his tracks. Bridges ran back into the game taking Allen's place. Parker threw Gooch for a slight loss. Carolina was penalized 15 for holding. Mayer gained 5 and Gooch 3. Sparr made it first down. Word made 15 and then 3. After making first down Mayer in two attemps carried the ball over. Coleman missed goal. Shortly after this the game ended with no further scoring, the final count being Virginia 20, Carolina 3.

SHAW'S PLAY A SUCCESS

Dramatic Club Gives Excellent Performance

Playing far above the standard expected by even the most ardent admirers of dramatics, the University Dramatic Club made a splendid impression Friday night. "Arms and the Man" a supposedly very difficult play to act, was presented with the greatest ease. The play was a rich comedy, full of laughs all the way through. A packed house greeted the actors and there was an abundance of well deserved applause.

Charlie Coggins, who for three years, has played a leading role in Dramatics, was the brightest star. He played the part of Bluntschli to perfection. Weeks as Mojor Petkoff acted up to the high standard that he has set in previous plays. In the role of Mrs. Petkoff was W. D. Kerr, who deserves much praise. The part of Sergius was handled very easily by E. L. Applewhite. His work was unusually good. Bruce Webb, playing the part of Douka, the maid, acted the part well. He makes a good looking young lady, as does L. B. Meredith, who played the role of leading lady. There was not a weak spot in the cast. Everyone played well and deserves great praise.

During the intermission between acts, Dr. Archibald Henderson gave a very interesting talk about Bernard Shaw, the author of the play. He highly complimented the members of the cast for their excellent work.

The Dramatic Club left Monday morning for the annual Eastern tour. While on the trip they play in Goldsboro, Washington, Raleigh and one or two other towns.

NEW LECTURES ARRANGED

Ex-President Taft Will Speak Here Next Spring

A splendid course of lectures by famous men has been arranged this year for the Uuniversity—a course designed to give one a large outlook on life and to enlarge one's sphere of knowledge.

The McNair lectures are to be delivered this year by Professor John Dewey of Columbia, and his subject will pertain to the relation of philosophy and politics.

Another series of lectures will be delivered by the Ambassador from Argentine, Mr. Naon, who was a member of the A. B. C. Commission. His subject will have to do with the trade and political relations between the United States and South American Republics. Several single lectures will be made by prominent North Carolinians on subjects pertaining to the welfare of the state. These lectures will be under the supervision of the North Carolina Club. Later in the spring Ex President Taft will speak on "The American Executive" or some subject closely related.

ALL CLASS TEAM PICKED

Coaches Graham and Kluttz Submit Decision

The two class .coaches, Kluttz and Graham, have selected the following all class team:

Monroe.....Sophomore
Right end

Wilkens.....Senior
Right tackle

Smith, C. I.....Junior
Right guard

Craig .....Senior Center

Harrell.....Sophomore
Left guard

Little.....Senior
Left tackle

Whitaker.....Senior
Left end

Woollcott (Capt.).....Senior
Quarter

Fitzgerald.....Senior
Right half

Nance.....Senior
Full

Coleman.....Sophomore
Left half

Ranson .....Sophomore
Utility

Monroe right end, and Whitaker left end, are both strong defensive ends, good at boxing the tackle, and excel in receiving the forward pass. Simmons was a close bidder for the end position and Burnett, but for his weakness in handling the forward pass would have copped a place. Erwin of the Freshmen always had fight.

The two Senior tackles, Little and Wilkens, were the most formidable pair on the field and it was their work that opened the way for the fierce plunging of Nance, Fitzgerald, and Paty. Eagle and Telfair are both strong tackles but were overmatched by their Senior opponents. Little was the outstanding lineman in the deciding game but consistently through the season Wilkens was the most valuable man in the Senior makeup. Davis of the Freshman team is a tackle of promise.

The guard positions go to Harrell, preeminently, of the Sophomore team and Smith of the Juniors. Both exhibit a great power untempered by experience. Dawson of the Seniors would easily claim a position but was out for only the last game. In this game he neutralized the formidable Harrell.

Center belongs to Craig for his splendid all round work. He passed well, backed up the line effectively, and was an adept in intercepting the short forward pass. Smith and Newell were both strong center men.

Woollcott, who was Capt. and quarterback of the all class team last year, again won both places. He runs a team well, tackles cleanly, catches punts with ease, and is the best broken field runner of all the backs. Lewis, however, pushes him close by his expert forward passing, drop-kicking, and generalship.

The Senior backfield, Woollcott, Nance, Fitzgerald, and Paty, would resist every attempt to be broken into but for the for the far-carrying power of Coleman's unerring toe. Coleman outdistanced all opposing punters by a score of yards and this fact alone makes him invaluable to any class lineup. Fitzgerald and Nance are powerful backs both on the defense and offense, and Nance passes the ball almost half the distance of the field. Paty yields only to the punting of the Sophomore Captain. "Rusty" Davis of the Sophomores has both defensive strength and offensive dash.

Pike, of the Juniors challenges comparison with the line-riddling Nance but does not quite measure up in all round play.

Ranson is a strong end, a good half, and a paralyzing secondary defensive back. He is a good utility man for this mythical eleven.

THE GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Musical Organization Pleases Large Audience

The first formal opportunity of hearing the Glee Club was afforded the students last Thursday evening. True it is that the singers had been carolling in practice every afternoon for some weeks, but they shone forth in full glory for the benefit of the visiting girls last Thursday. The program was clever and was well received. The chorus contained no excepticnally good voices, but showed careful training. Preston Epps stands head and shoulders above the rest of the company in talent, and his selections were heartily applauded. The parody sextette from Lucia was also forced to respond to several encores. The duet "He Was All Dressed up and Had Nowhere to Go," sung by Leicseter Chapman and Charlie Manguin with guitar accompaniment was enthusiastically received, and encored time after time. The Mandolin Club was larger than last year and was exceptionally good.

Florida Club Meets

The Florida Club held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday night at the Phi Delta Theta hall with nine members present. The following officers were elected: Dr. Herty, Pres. Emeritus; W. P. Fuller, Pres.; N. A. Reasoner, Sec.; J. M. Parker, 1st Vice-Pres.; W. W. Kirk, 2nd Vice-Pres.; F. W. Norris, Treas.; H. M. Kanner, Chief Custodian of the Gator; D. H. Killeffer, Gator Bait; F. H. Horton, Goober Grabber. The Gator was selected as the club emlem. After the business was over, an excellent feed was enjoyed by all,

There is now on sale, at Kluttz's, a beautiful booklet, at the ridiculously low price of 25 cents. It is "O. Henry: a Memorial Essay," written by Dr. Henderson. The proceeds are for the O. Henry Memorial Fund. It makes a dandy Xmas gift.

John L. Henderson of Hickory was initiated into the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity Saturday night.

COACH DOAK ARRIVES

Basket Ball Prospects Bright For This Season

With the arrival of coach Doak on the Hill, basket ball practise has begun in earnest. About fifteen men answered the first call and probably three times that number will be out before the week is over. Practise will be held every night in old commons until arrangements are made for the use of the gym.

Capt. Long, Tennant, Keesler, Homewood, Davis, and Andrews of last year's squad are out again. "Yank" Tandy, who played enough last year to show that he has the goods, is suffering with scarlet fever at present, but will probably be in the game before the season is well started. Much new material is in evidence, and it is expected that the class series will produce several good men.

Coack Doak, who is to direct the team this year, needs no introduction here. As one of the most popular players in the Carolina Base Ball League, and as coach at Guilford College he is well known throughout the state.

Practise in the class series has also started, and prospects are very encouraging. Several men have already answered the call and more are coming out every day. The first game of the class series is to be played next week.

The first game is to be played on Saturday night with the quintette from the Durham Y. M. C. A. They are said to have a fast bunch of players this year, and consequently, a good game is expected. Although not yet in good trim, Carolina's squad is fast being rounded into form, and expects to start the season with a victory. Nothing definite is known yet as to who will play Saturday night, but the team will probably be picked from the following: Long (Capt.), Tennant, Holding, Davis, Andrews, Homewood, and Fuller.

CLASS BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Ten Games to Be Played Before the Middle of February.

Dec. 15 Fresh—Sophs.
Dec. 16 Junior—Senior.
Dec. 18 Pre Meds—Fresh.
Jan. 12 Seniors—Sophs.
Jan. 13 Juniors---Fresh.
Jan. 14 Pre Meds---Sophs.
Feb. 3 Seniors---Fresh.
Feb. 5 Pre Meds---Juniors.
Feb. 8 Seniors---Pre Meds.
Feb. 9 Sophs---Juniors.

The championship will be awarded to the team which, at the end of the season, has the highest percentage of games won. The Law students and Graduate students may play with the Seniors, while the Meds and Pharmacy men may play with the Juniors. All games not played according to schedule will be forfeited.

George Wall, of Hillsboro, was initiated into the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Final Game to Be Played in Chapel Hill Saturday

On Saturday there will be staged at the athletic field the final step in the High School Football Contest which has been arousing so much interest throughout the state. Since Raleigh beat Washington 75 to 6 in the East and Asheville beat Huntersville 6 to 0 in the West, these teams will be the ones which will make the final struggle for the Championship of the State. The battle will open at 2:45 with probably Kluttz and Trenchard as officials. Since the expenses of both teams will have to be met by the committee in charge, a small admittance fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

A special train will be run from Raleigh to Chapel Hill Saturday to bring the Raleigh team and supporters here to witness the game in which they hope to win the state championship.

The Asheville team has been coached by E. A. Thompson of 1911, who was a Carolina varsity man. He played the position of guard and was captain of the team in 1910. He is at present teaching English in the Asheville High School.

The Raleigh team has been coached by G. B. Philips '13 also a teacher of English.

A large number of supporters of both sides will be here, and the students are expected to take sides with fne or the other contestants. Charles Coggin will lead the cheering for Asheville and Frank Graham for Raleigh.

CLASS NUMERALS GIVEN

Members Of Senior Football Team Get Numerals

The committee from the Greater Council upon the recommendation of the Coach Frank P. Graham, and Captain Woollcott, of the Senior football team, winners of the class football championship of 1914, has given the following fifteen players the privilege of wearing the class 1915 football numerals: Paty, Fitzgerald, Nance, Woollcott, Craig, Field, Holder, Parker, Hart, Dawson, Wilkins, Little, Cummings, Whitaker, and Burnett. Under the ruling, not more than fifteen men may be allowed this privilege.

The Seniors, averaging in weight 157 lbs., a few pounds more than any other teams, scored 128 points to their opponents' 2, having won every game they played. They are an excellent example of what hard work and class spirit can do.

Their season's record is.
Seniors 49 — Freshman 0
Seniors 0 — Sophomores 0
Seniors 39 — Juniors 0
Seniors 7 — Sophomores 2

Robt. H. Harris, of the Sophomore class is confined to his home in Greensboro, suffering from scarlet fever.

THE BAND

The criticism has been made that the Band played so much better at the Jefferson than it did on the field on Thanksgiving Day.

But our members of the Band wish the following explanation made, whereupon it will be seen that the criticism was a little unfair.

The athletic association had reserved seats for the Band and agreed to carry them to the park in a bus. The bus failed to appear; so the band straggled out to the field and arrived in varying degrees of lateness. The members found that their seats had been taken. Those who could, huddled together on one of the players benches. Under those conditions one ought to be surprised if they made any music at all.

THE BAND (et all) AGAIN

It has been a wonder that during the past few years there has been a band of any kind at the University. Yet with no monetary aid. no music, no instruments, noorganization, there have usually been two or three public spirited citizens who got to work and made a band anyhow.

The Band ought to belong to some organization. It is probable that with the greatly improved financial condition, the athletic association can extend aid next year and surely by year after next.

It is our opinion, however, that there ought to be an organization of the various musical clubs in the University. Such an attempt was made this fall and failed, according to one of those concerned, because "they were antagonistic and unwilling to combine their interests." In our opinion that is exactly why they should unite.

In that way property can be better conserved, cooperation secured, and a united front presented to give force for demands for various needs. A plea for money coming from the "usual association of the University" would have much more weight and many more friends than one from a few individuals.

A PITY

Its a pity that a first class college Dramatic club has to work in an *n*th class workshop. Year after year the writer of the performance laments the ill effects, the crowded quarters, and make shift scenery have on the enjoyment of the play. There can be no scenery except a set of screens to allow the actors to hide until their cue comes. For instance, in the "Arms and the Man" last Friday night the same octagon shaped background served as a young lady's bedchamber, a garden, and a library. And a bunch of kids' who had gotten up a show after the circus left town, would have been disgusted with the curtain, lighting system, and stage paraphernalia.

It is probable that the student body sees the poorest performance the club gives all season entirely due to the condition of the stage.

Several times there have been threats to enlarge Gerrard Hall. There has ever been talk of remodeling Memorial Hall.

To our mind Memorial Hall ought to be remodeled so it can be used oftener than three or four times a year. With a little expenditure the stage could be made into a first class Dramatic workshop. Prof. Patterson several years ago reported, after investigation, how the accustics could be rendered.

It is hoped that some remedy will be made soon.

DR. CHASE SPEAKS AT Y. M. C. A.

The Formation Of Habits Was Discussed Last Tuesday Night

Dr. Chase made the regular Tuesday night adddress in the Y. M. C. A. on the subject of the formation of habit. He stated that the world today places emphasis on what a man does rather than on what he thinks, and defined his character as what he does—his conduct. Since hab it conttrols our actions to a large degree, we have good or bad characters just in proportion as our habits are good or bad. A man succeds or fails in life more upon the basis of habits formed before the end of his College days than on anything else; therefore, the four years of his College life are the most important in his life with regard to the formation of habits. Dr. Chase says there is no Hell like the Hell we make for ourselves by the formation of bad habits. Nobody ever reformed his life by making good resolutions; the first step in breaking a bad habit or starting a good one is to resolve to do something, and do it. Thus we see that habit is formed by repitition of our deeds, habit forms character, and our character forms our destiny.

STUDENTS WORK ROADS

Community Service Week Observed Here

In accordance with the plans for Community Service Week, the general improvement work in Chapel Hill was carried on by a large number of volunteers under competent surervisors.

The men under Dr. Pratt continued the work begun last year on the Durham road and graded, surfaced, and shaped up the road, providing a hard surface highway from the center of the town to the east end. Dr. Pratt was assisted by Messrs. Collier Cobb Jr. and Bascom Field of the highway engineering department. The work at Swain Hall was in charge of Professor Hickerson, of the engineering department, Mr. J. S. Holmes, of the Geological Survey department, and Dr. Coker, of the Botonical department. The grounds around the Swain Hall were prepared for planting grass. Dr. Coker and Mr. Holmes supervised the planting of shrubs and grass. It is needless to say that that portion of the campus will be very attractive when the work is completed. The cleaning up of Battle Park was under the supervision of Mr. Moss. and Mr. E. L. Mackie, President of the Sophomore class. The work on the town allies, leading to the main streets, was under the supervision of Mr. Tilley.

The work was done entirely by the students and people of Chapel Hill, and the money for hiring the teams to handle the material given by the merchants and banks.

DEBATE UNDER WAY

The Queries For The Triangular Debate Have Already Been Submitted

The queries for the triangular debate this spring have been submitted. They are as follows: Resolved: That the Interests of World Peace Demand that the Governments of Europe be Democratized. This query was submitted by Carolina. Virginia submitted this query, Resolved: That Germany was justified in entering upon the present European War. (The conduct of the war after the outbreak of hostilities is excluded from the debate). And Hopkins proposes the query, Resolved: That the Policy of Colonial Expansion is Desirable for the Modern State.

These questions are to be voted on, and the one receiving the majority of votes will be chosen. The voting will take place Dec. 15. So the query for the debate will be known before the holidays begin.

Dr. Hamilton Wins Cup

The Patterson Cup has been recently awarded by the State Literary and Historical Society to Dr J. G. Hamilton. This cup is awarded annually to the man who does the best literary and historical work in the state during the year, and is perhaps the highest honor that one can achieve in that line in North Carolina. Dr. Hamilton's book is entitled "The Reconstruction Period in North Carolina," and, as the title indicates, treats of the reconstruction period immediately following the Civil War and especially of the course of reconstruction in North Carolina.

THE CHANGES.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION OF IT?

Proposed Amendment to the Constitation of the Athletic Association Proposed December 8, 1914.

That the latter part of Article VI' Sec. 4 relative to the e'ection of Assistants be changed to read:

All associate Editors shall be elected by competition in the spring of each year. This competition must consist of actual Tar Heel work and shall continue for at least two issues of The Tar Heel. Subject to the limitations of the Constitution, every student is eligible to compete. Subject to the approval of the Athletic Council, the winners of the competition shall be chosen by the retiring Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, and a Faculty Member chosen by the Athletic Council. Should the Athletic Council refuse to ratify the election of any man or men, another competition shall be held the following fall to fill the vacancy. All vacancies due to non-return, resignation, or removal, or other unusual cause shall be filled by competition as soon as practical after the vacancy occurs.

That Article IV. Sec. 3 be changed to read:

Freshmen shall be ineligible to any office or position in the Association except that of Associate Editors of THE TAR HEEL.

The proposed change in the system of electing associate editors of THE TAR HEEL is not at all radical. There is no change at all in the machinery of election, except in one detail. The method of electing the Chief, the Managing Editor and the Business Managers is left untoched. The only change is in the choice of the assistants.

In the first place, what is the status of the associate editors? He is merely a reporter. Practically every other college paper in the United States calls him a reporter and he really is. In reality he is competing for the positions of Managing Editor and Editor-in-Chief. In effect, the Athletic Association says to the Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Editor "we gave you the duty and responsibility of editing an official organ. We hold the Editor-in-Chief responsible for every statement made in its editorial column. We hold the Managing Editor responsible for every statement made in the various news items. For your convenience we grant you as many assistants as our athletic council thinks you need. They have no responsibility or no voice in the policy of the paper."

It is believed by some that the present change is a tendency away from Demoracy. A glance at the facts will reveal the opposite condition to be true.

At present the Athletic Council must nominate at least two men for each office. The 1,000 students are limited today to twelve men whom they may select for the six assistants editors of THE TAR HEEL. If the Athletic Council (composed of four team managers, a representative-at-large, a President, Editor-in-Chief of THE TAR HEEL, Graduate Manager, and Faculty Representative) which is distinctly not a literary body has overlooked a deserving man no power on earth can put him on the Board

It is argued that because the student body supplies the money for supporting THE TAR HEEL it ought to have a say so as to which six of twelve men it wishes to do the reportorial work on news items for the accuracy and truth of which another man is responsible. To be consistent it should also and much more justly be insisted that the student body have a voice in selecting the men financially responsible. The Athletic Council not only appoints the Manager and his assistants and leaves the next Council but two men from whom to choose the next business manager but it, and it alone, decides what pay this manager shall receive. The manager is the only paid officer on the paper.

On the other hand, the new proposition will make THE TAR HEEL Board more democratic. Three more men than formerly will select the men. If the Athletic Council does not approve the choice of the committee, it can reject the whole Board ad finitum. No one until the entire student body has been opposed to it. The point is, no one body can limit arbitrarily the number of men who can be elected, as at present.

But the main point is, every member of the student body will have a chance on his merits to win a place. At present only twelve have an opportunity. The great body of students who has not been adept at humorizing Locksly Hall or some other test of English ability will have a fair chance to indulge in one of the most attractive of student activities.

Walter P. Fuller.

To the Editors of The TAR HEEL.

Gentlemen: Since time at the scene of election will not permit of a pro and con discussion of the proposed change in the election of the assistant editors of The TAR HEEL, and since the pros have already been presented, will you kindly give me space in your columns to present a few cons in regard to the proposed change.

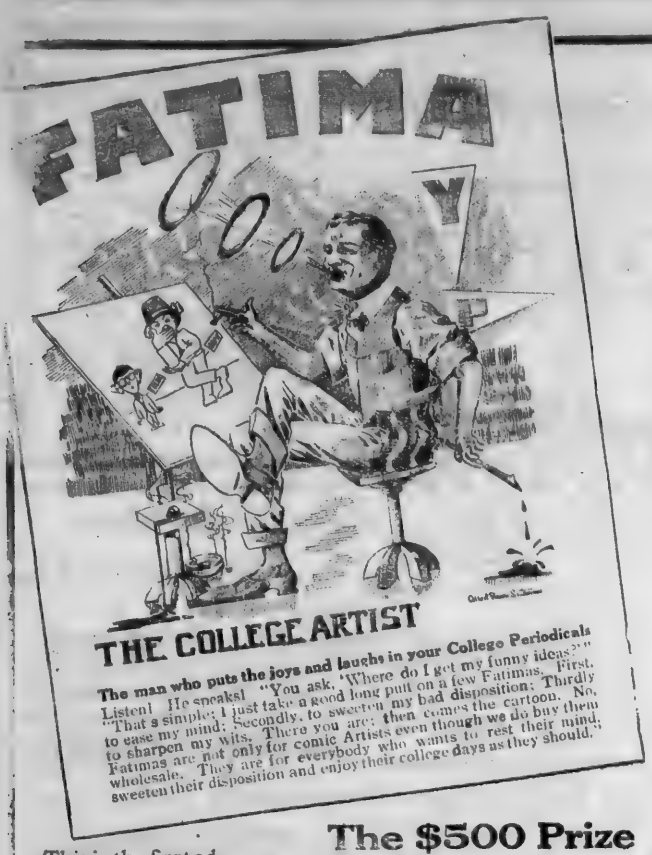
To begin with, permit me to say that the principle of the proposition is good. There is no one, I think, that will deny that "competition is the spice of life." It secures the best goods at the best price; it produces the most satisfactory work for the least exhortation, and under favorable conditions, it procures the most efficient man for the proper office.

But as applied to this particular case I am opposed to its adoption. In the first place, the Efficiency Man is not always the satisfactory man. The chef at Swain Hall at present serves as and example. Again, instances that could be eited in our college activities in the past support the assertion. Let us have what we want so long as we have a right to it, and in most cases we will get the competent person for our purpose.

In the next place, the details of selection in the proposed change are unsound, and would result in confusion and dissatisfaction. To place the power of selecting assistant editors in the hands of three people (out of a student body of one thousand) two of whom are retiring editors, would create the possibilty, not to say the probability, of making The TAR HEEL staff perpetuating. It is a fact too well known that college men as a class, however mature and liberal minded they are supposed to be, and however morally upright they are in character, seldom escape the tendency of "leaving the latch string on the outside" of some side door with instructions to their favorites to "pull and push". We are all more or less prone to favor our brother in society, in club, and in fraternity when we have the power to do so. Both the optical and auditory senses of this community can bear witness to the fact that such practises have been too eminent in our student activities in the past, and that they have been the source of more dissatisfaction and political broils than all other defects combined. Then should we not refrain from placing this possibility in our way?

Finally, so nearly an autocratic system has no place in a democratic community anyway. This student body contribute some $5,000 annually to the support of the Athletic Association. A great part of them subscribe to and thereby support The TAR HEEL. Should they not have the right to say who shall be elected to its offices? They are not "bone-headed" to the extent of not being capable; they are not so indifferent that they are not interested in the elections; and their lives are not so numerous and complex that it is impracticable for them to do so.

The statement in chapel that the Athletic Council had indorsed the proposition did not unfold the fact that there was a maximum minority of the Council opposed to the measure.



Now with these conditions existing, fellow students, is it not better to leave the reins in the hands of those who know where they want the horse to go? Is it not better to administer now the "ounce of prevention" rather than be compelled to adminsiter "a pound of cure" later? Is it not better to let well-enough alone anyhow, and do away with so many "would be" reforms? My ordinary sense answers "yes"; what does yours say?

Thanking you for your kindness, Mr. Editors, in giving me this space, I am,

One of the Body,
L. Bruce Gunter.

Chemists Confer

The Journal club held its regular bi-monthly meeting last Wednesday night. Interesting papers were read by Messrs. Ingraim, Farmer and Edwards. The question of manufacturing dyes in this country was discussed by several of the members of the club. The effect of the European war on chemistry was another subject discussed.

DIE WATCH AM RUINED!

Her picture I put in the back of my watch,
And I'm sure you'll all agree it
Was a fool thing to do, for my watch—sad but true—
Turned its face right around to see it!

Now it came to pass when the year was waxing old that Bynum's Tabernacle, sometimes called the gym, was considerably lit up. The band played, the dancers swayed.

Still the queer Greek goddess lady stood there in one corner. She was as beautiful "as moonlit water in the night." Her little bare feet were bare and her robe—it must be admitted there wasn't much to it—like waterfall spray rippled over her slim white body. But since she hid her feet under a chair she attracted no attention. Her face wore an expression of intense pain.

The stags ranged in herds along the walls waiting to charge. The University liars, well-tuned mingled their strains with "Tippary" and "Ballin the Jack."

Sadly the mysterious lady watched the couples hobble past. One humped by one-stepping and the lady frowned; another fox-trotting and she wept; but when still another passed lame-ducking she turned deathly pale and left.

Sobbing she passed through the door lightly as the froth of a wave, stood shivering on the steps for a few moments, then softly rose into the air and disappeared in the moonlight.

The fellows on the porch heard her sob, "Paris, New York, Chapel Hill—everywhere I've searched. But I'll never find it again. All is awkwardness and flops. Immanitas, immanitatum! Omnia est inscitia. Turkey-trot, one-step, kitchen-sink, fox-trot! I'll disown them all and kill myself."

Who was she? And what had she lost? One fellow said she had lost her understanding; another said, her undershirt.

But some there be who think that she was Terpsichore searching for the ancient grace of Greece.

But what do we care if Terpsichore is dead and gone. The departure of the fall-dance ladies is the present source of sadness. Many Romeos there are who, smitten by Cupid's dum-dums can now no longer overcome the delicate butter or tender stake and enjoy the mid-night sandwich. They are haunted by ghosts of eyes and shades of voices. And this is the way that they work:

"The cube of 10-pie-r is 2
And y plus z is x's square—
(But oh, her wondrous eyes of blue!
And oh, the magic of her hair!)
Now gravity makes apples fall
And v squared equals 2gs.
(But what can equal her in all
The world for grace and lovliness?)
Of all the tongues they knew before
Now eveything that they can say
Is: "Je vous aime, je vous adore
Ich liebe dich et amo te."
So the Enamored, working, speak
Of dancing feet and dimpled cheek.

Stars and Letters Awarded.

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Committee the following men were awarded stars and letters Stars: Homewood, Ramsay, Cowell, Jones, Foust, Tanday, Winston, Tayloe, Parker, Allen, Fuller. Letters: Bridges, Reid, Wright, Gay, and Burnett.

FALL DANCES ARE HELD

Dancers and Dances Are Unusually Pretty

The dances are over, the ladies have gone, and there's nothing to do but heave a sigh, take a look at the dalendar, and count off the days until the Christmas holidays begin. Although there were fewer girls here than usual, the dances were a success in every way. For the Gorgon's Head dance Thursday night the gymnasium was attractively decorated with honeysuckle and purple streamers, while symbolic lanterns hung from the balcony.

Friday afternoon there was an informal dance at the Gimghoul Lodge, which was very enjoyable. The German Club dance took place Friday night. The gymnasium was elaborately decorated with honeysuckle suspended from a network of wires which were stretched from the balcony. In the centre there was a cone of white streamers and colored lights, which reached from the balcony to the ceiling of the building. An orchestra from Raleigh provided music. Light refreshments were served at all of the dances. The ladies present were: Miss Eliza Leach, Elizabeth Telfair, Florence Busbee, Julia Manning, Silvia Crews, Landis, and Carr of Raleigh; Misses Sarah Cansler, Anne Dewey Chambers, Cornelia Dowd, and Hilda Conyers of Charlotte; Misses Ethel Miller, Mary Dortch, and Julia Borden of Goldsboro; Misses Louise Wise and Florence Taylor of Wilmington; Miss Myra Ruff of Columbia; Miss Serena Dalton of Winston; Miss Laura McGill Cannon of Concord; Miss Helen Dodson of Fayetteville; Miss Shepherd Leak of Wadesboro; Miss Mary Osborne of Savannah; Miss Antoinette Camp of Sweet Briar; Misses Elise Lloyd and Lucy Stokes of Durham; Misses Alice Noble, Josephine Daniels, and Sutton of Chapel Hill.

How About It?

Have you taken a walk through the Arboretum lately? If so, you have probably noted the improvements that have taken place there since this time last year. A force was put to work early last spring on tha section of it which lies parallel to the class athletic field, and were kept busy during the spring and summer months. Under Dr. Coker's supervion they have succeeded in making that part of the arboretum the most attractive spot of the most beatiful quarter of the University campus. Hedges, trees, and shrubs have been planted, walks have been laid out, and the ground has been scientifically drained. The view to be had by looking down from the yard of Davie Hall toward Dr. Battle's residence is hard to beat. Instead of going out to Carrboro next Sunday and walking the rail-road track, go down and look it over. You'll like it.

A New Basket Ball Court.

If you should happen to be walking along the region of Cameron Avenue some afternoon you would certainly hear a queer tap-a-tap sound from the old dining room, and if you should have enough curiosity to look in, you would see several bare-legged, gum-shoed boys in jerseys who say they are quite warm but appear rather cold, dribbling a basketball up and down the hall.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Asheville Loses To Raleigh By a Decisive Score

The Raleigh Highs came, played, and won. Thanks to the untiring efforts of Mr. E. R. Rankin and Coach Trenchard the State High School Championship game was played here last Saturday. The result that Raleigh won from Asheville by the score of 117 to 0.

Asheville, by virtue of clean cut victories over the High School elevens of western North Carolina and eastern Tennessee High Schools, won the championship of western North Carolina and came here to play with Raleigh, the champions of eastern North Carolina.

Raleigh had defeated every High School eleven of any importance in the east and also the John Marshall eleven at Richmond.

Raleigh outweighed her opponents 12 pounds to the man and as a result, the champions of 1913 ploughed through the Asheville line at will. Raleigh showed good team work, and did not lack the drive. Johnson ran his team well, was in every play, and whenever his turn came to carry the ball, he usually got away for long gains. He is undoubtedly the best High School quarterback that has played football in the state since the days of Bill Coffin, formerly of Greensboro, now one of the stars of the United States Military Academy. Nor does that retract, in any way, from the prowess of his teammates. Champin, Mills, and Boven are all stars. Each man runs well with the ball and hits the line like a triphammer. Another feature of the work of this backfield is its interference for the man carrying the ball. Every player hits his man and does it effectively.

Supporting, or rather aiding, this backfield is a heavy, strong, line which always opens up a hole for the backs, and on the effensive, seldom allows an opponent to slip through. As a whole, the team is experienced and shows the result of good coaching. Guy Phillips, '13, certainly has produced one of the best high school football teams ever seen in the state.

On the other hand, the Asheville team, though beaten decisively, fought to the last. They were outweighed and outgeneraled, but not outfought. Randolph, Asheville's quarter-back, was the star of his team. He played hard at all times, tackled well, and showed real football ability. It was evident that the Asheville team lacked both experience and training.

Notwithstanding the decisive score, the game was a succes both financially and otherwise. According to Mr. Rankin, the proceeds were sufficient to pay expenses and to start a fund towards the State High School Basket-ball Championship.

In his efforts to sell tickets, Mr. Rankin was assisted by the Greater Council and it is due in large measure to the untiring efforts of Coach Trenchard and the members of the Greater Council that a surplus now exists instead of deficit.

GREAT BARGAINS OFFERED

Would Be Buyers of Books Have Opportunity

"A complete edition of Shakespeare, silk binding, gold leaf, the only unpurged edition sold in the State, no notes, just as Shakespeare wrote it. Shakespeare said, 'To thine own self be true, and then it follows like the night the day, thou can'st not to any man be false.' Wha am I offered? Fifty cents. Only fifty cents for a book costing three dollars. Who'll give me seventy-five? Sixty I'm offered, seventy-five. Who'll make it a dollar? Eighty I'm offered, a dollar, a dollar ten. Going for a dollar ten. Am I offered a dollar twenty? Going for a dollar ten, once; going for a dollar ten, twice; a dollar ten gets this valuable book."

Yesterday afternoon just as the mail was put up, a vender of books was to be seen standing on his goodsboxes near Pendergraph's stand, disposing of his wares to the highest bidder. His stock, which was diversified, to say the least, varied from "Les Miserables" to "Hell's Commerce or What I Know About Rum" and back again through "A Favorite Cook Book". A Considerable crowd had gathered around the purveyor of literature to hear him laud his wares, and possibly invest a stray "two bits" in some bargain, when the village Constable approached.

"You will have to pay ten dollars tax if you sell those books."

"Well, I'll close up shop, Chief, there's not that much in it."

So Apple Jack is again the village autocrat.

A Community Christmas Tree.

Chapel Hill is to celebrate Christmas this year by having a community Christmas tree. This plan has been tried in many towns of the South and West in the last year or two and has proved a decided innovation. The exercises will be held on Christmas Eve on the compus between the Battle Dormitory and the University Inn.

BASKETBALL IS BEGUN

First Game Is Played Against Durham Y. M. C. A.

With only one week of practice and with only one regular player in the line up, Carolina's basketball team lost the first game of the season Saturday night. Carolina did not play in anything like her proper form, and many times easy chances at goals were missed.

The absence of Johnson from the line up was felt keenly. Tandy, at center, was out of the game on account of sickness; Tennant and Andrews, guards, were away with the Glee Club. With the regular team, Durham would have had less show, and as it was, they had to fight for their victory.

The first half started off with a goal for the Y. M. C. A. Carolina evened up and each team then had a chance at goal on foul. Durham then took the lead and kept it during the entire game. The first half ended with the score 12 to 7 in favor of Durham.

In the second half, Homewood, of football fame, was substituted for Davis at guard, and immediately began to liven things up. Homewood seemed to put new spirit in the team and the game was much livelier toward the end. But the lead secured by Durham was too great, and the game ended with the final score of 22 to 14.

Capt. Long showed his old time form in passing, but was weak in shooting goals. Practice is all he needs. Lochran at the other forward and Holding at center played well for new men. Fuller, Davis, and Homewood at guards did some good work but were unable to hold the fast Y. M. C. A. forwards in check. For the visitors, Carrington and Clay did the best work.

The line up of the teams Saturday night was:

Carolina	Durham Y. M. C. A.
Long (Capt.)	Clay
Right forward
Lochran	Holcomb
Left Forward
Holding	Reed (Capt.)
Center
Fuller	Carrington
Right Guard
Davis-Homewood	Murray
Left Guard

Substitutes: Homewood for Davis; Mangum for Murray.

Field goals: Long 2, Holding 3, Clay 3, Holcomb 2, Mangum 2.

Foul goals: Long 4, Holcomb 4.

THE HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

Question of Ship Subsidy to Be Discussed.

It will be especially gratifying to all those interested in debating to know that an even larger number of High Schools have entered the High School Debating Union this year than did last year. Last year 150 schools entered, with approximately 1,100 contestants. It will be remembered that some 200 of these contestants came up here to Chapel Hill to compete in the finals. This year 225 schools have entered with approximately 1,600 contestants. That will make some 300 who will come up here in the spring to enliven campus life. Out of the hundred counties in the state 90 are represented in this debate.

The Debating Union has arranged so that about 50,000 will hear the debate on this pertinent question, which is as follows: Resolved, that the United States should adopt thepolicy of subsidizing its Merchant Marine engaged in foreign trade. Last year about 30,000 people heard the debate on the question of the initiative and referendum.

Since the query for the Soph-Junior debate is also that of subsidy, the debate will be heard by quite a number of students from the nieghboring High Schools who wish to get points for their debate. Mr. A. H. Wolfe and Mr. P. H. Gwyn of '10 and '12 respectively, teachers in the Durham High School, will bring the contestants from that place over to hear the debate. Among the cotestants are several girls.

The Chapel Hill High School has entered the debate this year for the first time. Among the contestants is one Oley Gooch. The two other High Schools with which Chapel Hill has to debate are Graham and Burlington.

Let Your Wit Be Unconfined

The Yackety Yack Editors invite every student to contribute to the humor departement of the annual. A box will be posted in the Alumni Building for the reception of jokes, limericks, and other things of a humerous nature which might do for publication. Boxes have already been posted in the Alumni Building into which every student is requested to put his statistics as soon as possible.

DURHAM IS AGAIN VICTOR

Carolina Loses Second Basketball Game.

The Tar Heel basketball squad journeyed over to Durham last night to meet the Y. M. C. A. team, and were defeated 44 to 25. Although the team was strengthened by the presence of Andrews at forward, they were outclassed. The team did not play in anything like the form they are capable of. Holding at center has not yet developed as it was hoped he would. Andrews was the only man on the team who featured for Carolina. Holcomb was the star for the Y. M. C. A., having thrown seven field goals and eight fouls.

Line-up.

Carolina	Durham Y. M. C. A.
Long (Capt.)	Clay
Right for ard
Andrews	Holcomb
Left forward
Holding	Reed (Capt.)
Center
Tennent	Carrington
Right guard
Fuller and Homewood	Murray and Mangum

Summary: Field goals; Clay 5, Holcomb 7, Reed 3, Carrington 1, Murray 2, Andrews 3, Long 1, Holding 2, Tennent 2, Homewood 1.

Fouls: Holcomb 8, Long 3.

SOPHS WIN FROM FRESHMEN

Class Basketball Season Inaugurated Tuesday by Sophomore Victory.

Class basketball began Tuesday night when the Sophomores won from the Freshmen 15 to 14. The game was close and hotly contested all the time. Although the 1917 team showed several flashes of form, they were weak in team work. The Freshmen played well and threatened to capture the game several times. Tennent at forward was one of the fastest men on the floor. For the Sophomores, Cowell and Watkins excelled, the former scoring most of the points for his team.

Line-np:

Sophs		Freshmen
Cowell	r. f.	Tennent
Squires	l. f.	McClamrock

HOLIDAYS.

Individuals and nations seldom appreciate a period of prosperity or happiness until it is past. By the same trait of human nature we are apt to overlook the fact that in a few days an almost ideal session of the University will end.

There have been no factions, no dissention, no incidents we wish had not been. The athletic atmosphere has cleared up. The Pickwick sore has healed largely. Hazing is dead. Pistol shooting is no more. Partisan politics has all but disappeared. The Athletic Association will be out of debt by January 5th. Swain Hall has created a new spirit of democracy in a community that was already more democratic than any college we know. And so it goes. There is a new glorious spirit abroad. Dear Old Alma Mater, we wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

NEWS VALUES.

In the last issue of THE TAR HEEL was printed three news items that are highly significant. The first was seven lines long and appeared on the fourth page at the bottom of the column. The other two were on the front page. One was a column and quarter long; the other was third of a column.

The seven line article was a notice of the awarding of the varsity football monograms. The long front page article was a discussion of the All-Class team which was for the first time published. The last article was a notice of the awarding of class numerals to fifteen men on the championship Senior team.

The relative position and space given to the articles was the Managing Editor's opinion of their relative news value. In our opinion he was correct.

This little incident illustrates the athletic ideal of the University. It has been called a democracy in athletics. It is the result of the energy of Doggie Trenchard and the wisdom of the Faculty Athletic Committee.

The issue is this: Can Carolina grow as good football team as Virginia can import? With every atom of blood in our body we believe that she can.

THE HIGH SCHOOL CHAMPIONS

The High School Championship game played Saturday between Raleigh High School and Asheville High School was a disappointment as a game. Not because of the low standard of play, but because of the inequality of the teams. However the game furnishes material for the circle-around-the-stove teams.

117 to 0 about represents the difference in strength of the two teams. Probably 10 to 0 would represent the difference between the two groups of individuals. Without going much into detail, this is a good opportunity to restate by citations the few principles on which Doggie Trenchard bases his hopes of redeeming his promise of a victory from Virginia three years.

Four of the Raleigh team are three year men, five two year men, and two one year men. The Asheville team was practically new. Last year the Asheville boys made only a feeble attempt at the game. They are where Carolina was in 1912 after the 66 to 0 shock.

The Asheville boys did not know the rules. A Raleigh punt fell well within the ten yard line; nevertheless, the Asheville back attempted to return the ball and was downed on the three yard line. This eventually lead to a safety against his team. If he had been drilled in the rules, the ball would have been put in scrimmage at the 20 yard line—if he had let it alone.

The Asheville quarterback was probably the best individual player on the field; yet by playing on defense in the wrong place he allowed six successful forward passes be made over his head. They were all turned into touchdowns. An individual with much less individual ability who knew foot ball would have broken up the passes or intercepted the runner.

AN INSTANCE

There is a man in college that, from the first minute he entered, has definately chosen journalism as his life work. All his interest was centered in that one thing. Yet because he happened to escape the notice of the Athletic Council, he had to wait until his Senior year before he was given a chance to work on the student publications. Even then it was other qualities that attracted the attention of the Council.

The real democracy wanted in this question of the method of choosing associate Editors of THE TAR HEEL is a democracy of opportunity. This the present system does not give. Experience has shown that the upperclass man who is absorbed in other things and has gained prominence by totally different abilities than newspaper work is elected in preference to the underclassman of a reclusive nature who is unknown but is better qualified for the job.

As a matter of fact the whole thing is a matter of civil service. The associate Editors are not vested with any responsibility by the Association. It is purely a question of efficiency. It would be absurd for a voter to demand a voice in the selection of a stenographer in the State Department. It would be unheard of for the stockholders in a newspaper to be asked to vote on the election of a reporter. Both cases are analogous however to the present situation.

McINTOSH—PAGE

Miss Christine McIntosh Married to Mr. Fred Page.

Last Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock Miss Christine McIntosh of Chapel Hill was married to Mr. Fred Page of Aberdeen. The ceremony took place in the Presbyterian Church, which was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms, and lillies. Rev. Mr. Moss officiated. The ushers were Messrs. William Huske, Bob Page, Jim Pritchett, and Harry Grimsley. The bridesmaids and groomsmen were Miss Florence Page with Mr. George Bowles; Miss Luola Tuttle with Mr. William Page; Miss Katharine Sewall with Mr. Richard Page; Miss Annie Pendleton. Miss Mary Taylor Sasser of Durham, was maid of honor. The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the brides parents. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Page left in an automobile for Raleigh, from which place they later went north.

The bride is the daughter of Prof and Mrs. A. H. McIntosh of Chapel Hill, and is exceedingly popular here and throughout the state.

PRIZES FOR ENGINEERS

Fifty Dollars To Be Awarded For Best Essay on Road Construction

Students of the leading engineering schools have been offered an opportunity to compete for $1000 in prizes for essays on highway construction. The subjects suggested cover a wide range, including: factors which should govern the choice of types of pavements and roads and the materials used therein; an ideal paving program for a city of 25,000 people; economics of highway conseruction, and half a dozen related topics. The prizes are offered by the Barber Asphalt Paving Company of Philadelphia to promote investigation of highway problems by engineering students and to encourage them to enter a field of work where there is great need for trained men.

The University of North Carolina has been included in the list of 20 American institutions which will be given $50 each to be awarded to that student of the senior class in civil engineering who presents the best paper on some subject pertaining to bituminous roads or pavements.

STARS SHINE IN THE EAST

Dramatic Club Visits Three Eastern Towns.

The Dramatic Club's eastern trip this season was most successful in every detail. Everywhere their presentation of Bernard Shaw's famous comedy "Arms and the Man" was greeted by enthusiastic audiences who declared the play the best ever produced by the University Dramatic Club. The press was also very complimentary and commended the splendid work of the members of the cast.

The alumni, in whose hands the advertising and entertaining was placed, responded to the demands made upon them with true Carolina spirit. The hosts and hostesses in the various cities in which the play was presented were most cordial, affording the players the very best of entertainment.

The first performance was given at St. Mary's on Monday night, December 7. The girls' enjoyment of the play was most evident if the repeated applauses was an indication. Rev. Lay, principal of the school, was most hospitable in his entertainment of the Club. The Carolina boys were given the joyful privilege of dining with some 300 of St. Mary's girls. In Goldsboro the players were given the honor of christening the new High School auditorium. The audience was most appreciative, applauding only at rare intervals, owing to the intense interest with which they watched the unfolding of the plot. The Algonquin Club extended the use of its rooms to the players while they were in the city.

But it was in the city familiarly and affectionately styled "Little Washington" that the Club was to receive the most enjoyable surprise of the whole trip—a dance. After the disappearance of the rouge and crepe hair, the actors and actresses were the guests of the Halcyon Club at a Terpsichorean Tea. The Beau Monde of Washington was present in all its lovliness. The fox trot and lulufado reigned supreme until cut short by the warning strains of "Home Sweet Home" at 2 a. m.

Professor George McKie accompanied the Club on the trip. His knowledge and skill were indespensable, and it was mainly to his efforts that the various successes of the play were attributed.

The Electrical Engineering Department, through the efforts of Prof. Daggett, has succeeded in securing the loan of an Evinrude Motor which will be used by the students in their laboratory work.

DR. JOHN R. MOTT COMING

One of America's Greatest Men To Speak Here

It will be a matter of statewide interest that Dr. John R. Mott will be at the University of North Carolina for a series of addresses February 12-14, 1915. Dr. Mott is the world's greatest Christian statesman and is considered by many to be the greatest single personality in our time. In a telegram to Harper's Weekly, President Wilson characterized Mr. Mott as "one of the most notably useful men in the world." The agencies of his usefulness are the great student movements of America, Europe, and Asia. He is the directing force of the Student Volunteer Movement, executive secretary of the International Young Men's Christian Association, founder and general secretary of the World's Christian Student Federation, and chairman of the Continuation Committee which heads up the missionary enterprises of five continents. Besides his enormous religious activities, Mr. Mott is a statesman whose influence is felt in the political and social life of the world. The great men of the world see his manysided greatnesss in terms of their special fields and world politics.

Williams Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State says of him: "The one man who is best fitted to represent the interests of Christianity and of his country in the newly established republic of China."

Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court: "Two of the greatest diplomats this country has ever seen are the late John Hay and John R. Mott."

President Butler of Columbia University, Chancellor Brown of New York University, and Editor Hapgood of Harper's Weekly commend him without reserve as one of the greatest leaders of modern times.

Captains of industry have recognized the wonderful organizing genius of Mr. Mott in offering him executive positions in great business enterprises. Yale University wished to appoint him dean of the Divinity School. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan offered him the ambassadorship to China. But Mr. Mott has kept his heart true to the masterpassion of his life, the evangelization of the world in this generation.

Forestry Association to Meet.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

KOLLEGE KWESTIONS.

Young students: In your college careers you will encounter many a problem difficile solutu. Below we have solved some for you and propounded others for your own solution.

One of the first Sphinxes that you college men must face is the problem of the "eternal feminine." How are you going to solve the lady question? Look at history. Marcus Antony loved one woman: he had to commit suicide. Julius Caesar loved more: he was assassinated. What are we to do, young gentlemen? Why just remember Solomon, the wise: he loved a thousand, and lived happily ever afterwards, so they say. (Patrick Henry was the man who said, "Give me liberty or give me death.") There are other disadvantagesi n the possession of a thousand wives. You understand, if there were a thousand better halves of you, you yourself would (see Fines College Algebra) necessarily be a rather small fraction.

How to boot your Professor is a problem which should be elucidated. We give here one of the most popular methods. Grat yuor Professor at least once per week per week; take a back seat (thereby hinting at your modesty); yawn frequently in a blase, sang froid manner (thereby indicating that you have long since attained a pluperfect knowledge of the subject); pull out your watch every five minutes(showing your eagerness to proceed to fresher fields of knowledge); and be sure to answer every easy rhetorical question that your Professor intends to answer himself. This method has never been known to fail---to fail the user.

Another universal problem is how to pass First Math or First German. We ourselves can not solve it.

Do you know how to Spot? Lend me your cartilaginous sound-collecting funnels. I will tell you a sure spot. You will be asked to do it on your next exam. Sign the pledge.

It has long been a source of mystification to all how Adam Applejack works it as he works it. But it is perfectly simple. He works by a table just like the linear measure table or the Metric System.

ADAM APPLEJACK'S TABLE

10 cents = 1 nickel
10 nickels = 1 quarter
10 quarters = 1 pencil
10 dollars = 1 book
10students = 1 fortune

Thus, young students, we have answered a few college questions on which we deemed it best to enlighten you.

DR. HAMILTON IS HONORED

Professor of History Is Elected Honorary Member of Phi Kappa Society.

Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton, alumni Professor of history of the State University, was on Saturday night elected honorary member of the Phi Kappa Society by William and Mary College, of Williamsburg, Va., the mother of the high-scholarship organization of America. Dr. Hamilton has been voted this high distinction through the literary merits of his recent historical book, "Reconstruction in North Carolina." The Patterson Cup, awarded by the North Carolina Literary and Historical Society, was likewise won by the University Professor on this literary contribution to North Carolina history. The honorary membership in America's high-scholarship organization is a recognition voted authors and writers who have published some literars production of lasting merit, and "Reconstruction in North Carolina" distinctly comes under that classification.—Raleigh News and Observer.

THE COLLEGE ARTIST

The man who puts the joys and laughs in your College Periodicals

Listen! He speaks! "You ask, 'Where do I get my funny ideas?'" That's simple; I just take a good long puff on a few Fatimas. First, to ease my mind; Secondly, to sweeten my bad disposition; Thirdly to sharpen my wits. There you are; then comes the cartoon. No, Fatimas are not only for comic Artists even though we do buy them wholesale. They are for everybody who wants to rest their mind, sweeten their disposition and enjoy their college days as they should."

This is the first ad. published in the $500 Fatima Advertising Contest. It is the work of Mr. Albert Francis Southeimer, of the University of Pennsylvania.

The $500 Prize

$500 will be paid to the college student who sends to us the best original advertisement for Fatima cigarettes before June 1, 1915. In the meantime, for each ad. we publish we will pay the writer $5. Illustrate your ad. if you can, but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

Prize will be awarded by a committee of three prominent advertising authorities. The names of this committee will be announced next month.

The UNITERSITY NEWS LETTER has reached a circulation of 4,000 which is still growing. This publication fills a long felt want and is inspiring very favorable comment throughout the state.

The University sermon which was delivered by Rev. J. J. Hurt of Durham last Sunday was very poorly attended on account of the inclement weather. Mr. Hurt did not preach the sermon he had intended to, because Gerrard Hall was unpleasantly cold. He, however, delivered a short sermon on Genesis 28, 11--22. It is a matter of regret that so excellent a minister had so few hearers.

Dr. Dey's reading from "Chanticleer" in chapel last night was highly enjoyable. This was the first of the faculty readings which have been arranged for. Dr. Dey's discussion of Rostand's latest work, which appeared for the first time in Paris in 1910, was especially illuminating. The readings by other members of the faculty later during the year are looked froward to with much pleasure.

Two concerts were given by the Glee Club, one at Newbern and one at Kinston. Both were were well attended and received much commendation. Several new numbers, which added much to the strength of the program, were added.

The alumni in both cities were very active and made every provision for the success of the Club. The advantages of a private car contributed in no small degree to the comfort and enjoyment of the musicians.

JUNIORS WIN FROM SENIORS

Interesting Basketball Game Ends in Victory for Third Year Men

Wednesday afternoon the second game of the class basketball league which was played by the Juniors and Seniors resulted in a 25 to 19 victory for the former team. At the end of the first half the score stood 14 to 8 in favor of the Seniors and it appeared that they had the game sewed up, but the Juniors tightened up in the second half and swept their opponents off their feet. The game was rather loose as a whole and neither team seemed to have had much practice. Fouls were frequent, and individual play rather than consistent team work was the fault of both teams. Good material is possessed by both quintets, however, and with more practice they should show up in excellent form.

AMONG THE FIRST HUNDRED

Tandy Is One of A Hundred Players Picked By Camp as Season's Best

New York, Dec. 12. Walter Camp, Yale's noted football authority, has made a departure from his usual custom in the selection of his all-American football teams by naming, in addition, those whom he regards as the greatest 100 'varsity football players of the year. This list, which has appeared somewhat in advance of his all American elevens, includes the names of seven Harvard players and of only four from Yale. The Boston Traveler.

In the list of players which follows, Tandy, one of Carolina's stars, is among the first ten centers.

Carolina Man Chosen

Alfred L. Stern, who chose the All-South Atlantic football team for the Washington Post, placed George Tandy on this all-star aggregation as a guard. He states that Tandy was shifted to this position from his regular berth at center because he had conclusively demonstrated that he could play any position in the line with equal facility. Roy Homewood was also mentioned in the article as a possibility for All-South Atlantic right end, but the position was given to Marshall of Gallandet. The other teams which had men placed on this fictitious team were Georgetown 3, Virginia 2, A. & M. 2, Wash. and Lee 2.

The Sophomore class held a business meeting Tuesday afternoon. A committee, composed of Messrs. Telfair, Lindau, and Rountree, was appointed to name the Freshmen. Messrs. Polk, Capps, and Hoover were appointed on the class stunt committee. J. E. Hoover was elected class statistician.

The Rowan County Club has decided to give a smoker to the high shool boys of Rowan County during the Christmas holidays. Aside from serving sandwitches and hot chocolate, the club expects to talk up the University.

CAROLINA AGAINST ELON

Game Results in Victory for the University

In a spirited contest, made rough by both teoms, Carolina's fast quintette defeated Elon College Monday night by the score of 15 to 9. The game was valiautly contested throughout and was featured by rough playing. The score would have been much larger, perhaps, if so much time had not been taken up in the throwing of fouls and toss ups.

Carolina's team was greatly strengthened by the addition of Tandy and Johnson. With these two men added, Carolina ought to have the best team in the State.

The Elon team fought hard for a victory, but was outplayed.

An interesting feature of the game was the fact that the two teams are being coached by brothers, Bob Doak performing for Elon, and Chick being Carolina's coach.

The University team goes to Raleigh Saturday night where it is to meet the Wake Forest aggregation. Needless to say, they expect to come back with a victory.

Lineup:

CAROLINA		Elon
Andrews	R F	Mooreffeld
Long (Capt)	L F	Massey
Tandy	C	McCauley
Tennent	R G	Bradford
Johnson	L G	Morgan

Summary: Field goals, Long 3, Tandy 2, Moorefield 2, Bradford 1. Fouls. Long 5 out of 9, McCauley 3 out of 19 chances.

Referee, Kluttz.

The University News Letter

Although The University News Letter is not circulated so widely around the University as the other college publications, and for that reason is not familiar to the students, its effect throughout the State is surprising. It is published weekly by the Bureau of Extension and on the editorial board are Messrs. E. C. Branson, J. G. deR. Hamilton, L. R. Wilson, Z. V. Judd, and S. R. Winiers. The most recent issue, which is a fair sample, contains Carolina Club Notes, an outline for a debate on child labor, a letter from the University School of Education, notes about the State, and about the University. It is a single sheet, printed on one side, thirteen by twenty inches. In that small space, however is contained some valuable information.

The Juniors will meet in chapel tomorrow afternoon at 2:10 to elect commencement marshals.

Henry G. Harper Jr., of Charlotte N. C., has recently been initiated into the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

The Final Game Will Be Played Here in March

In addition to the high school football, baseball, track, and debating contests, a high school basketl all contest has been instistituted this year. The rules governing the contest are practically the same as those under which the other series were held. The governing committee suggests that the games be played under the Y. M. C. A. rules, but if the contending teams agree upon the inter-collegiate rules, the committee has no objection. Any basketball team representing a high school, city or rural, that shall have played and won up to and including Feb. 20th, 1915, as many as three games from teams representing schools of similar rank and shall have lost none, shall be eligible to enter the preliminaty contest, provided the manager shall by Feb. 23rd notify the committee of his desire to enter the contest and shall send a record of games played The committee at the University is composed of N. W. Walker, Chairman; E. R Rankin, Secretary; T. G. Trenchard; C. E. Ervin, and G. W. Eutsler.

Some of the teams that have already signified their intention to enter the contest are: in the East, Raleigh, Durham, Goldsboro, Kinston, Newbern, Wilmington, Enfield, Jonesboro, Fayetteville, Wakelon, Selma, and Wilson; in the West, Chapel Hill, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Lexington, Belmont, Asheville, Statesville, Charlotte, Lenoir, Monroe, and Jamestown. The final game will be played in Chapel Hill, probably sometime during the first week of March.

It is difficult to estimate the good results that are being accomplished by these high school contests. They constitute a powerful agency for the upbuilding of debating and sportsmanship in the high schools throughout the state.

Mtt Mitchell Memorial

The latest word in the Mt. Mitchell discussions seems to be to the effect that the spoiling of the memorial was due to the wind and not to dynamite, as was first suggested. The matter is of interest to the University since the monument was erected by Carolina Alumni to Elisha Mitchell, a member of the University faculty and the explorer of the mountain. The memorial is to be replaced.

In Rank With The First

The University News Letter says that despite the fact that the University of North Carolina received for support less than any southern University last year, it was ranked by the Federal Bureau of Education in 1912 in the first rank of American universities as a whole—along with Vanderbilt, Virginia, and Texas in the South.

WALTER FULLER MARRIED

Prominent College Man Weds Miss Fredda Burden.

No greater surprise has come recently to the students of the University than the news that Miss Fredda Burden, of Aulander, North Carolina, had been married to Mr. Walter P. Fuller, Jr. The rumor to this effect, which began sit course here the first day of registration, persisted doubtfully until substantiated the following day by a Bradentown, Flrorida, paper. The statement of that publication was to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Fuller, Jr., who had been quietly married on December 22 at Aulander, North Carolina, had arrived at Bradentown and were being congratulated. Details of the ceremony are not to be obtained.

To recite the story of Walter Fuller's college career is unnecessary. To say that he has always taken part in every college activity and succeeded in each one, is likewise superfluous. Nor is it necessary to add that he is everywhere being congratulated upon his latest good fortune.

MR. MOTT IS COMING

President Wilson Thinks an Introduction Unnecessary for so Noted a Man.

The following signed, self explanatory letter was received today by Francis Clarkson.

The White House
Washington
January 13, 1915

My dear Mr. Clarkson:

I did not know that Doctor Mott needed introduction anywhere. There is no man of greater force or influence now living in the great field in which the spiritual forces of the world are organized. Those that do not hear him miss coming into contact with one of the great influences of our time.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON

Mr. Francis O. Clarkson,
Young Men's Christian Association,
Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Query for Debate Decided.

Resolved, that the policy of Colonial Expansion is desirable for the modern state, is the query decided upon for the triangular debate between Johns Hopkins, Virginia and North Carolina. This query was proposed by Johns Hopkins and is especially timely on account of the presen. conditions in Europe. The query submitted by Carolina received second place among the three queries submitted.

The fiinal debate will be held April 24, one week later than that of last year. It has not yet been determined which sides Carolina will debate against Virginia and Hopkins.

Didn't somebody say that Chapel Hill was to have a new postoffice?

STATE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

Coach Kluttz Selects Season's Best Players

This All State Scholastic Football team is picked from the men seen in action in a few games and from information furnished by coaches of other teams and witnesses of games in different parts of the state, The Raleigh team was in a class above all others in eastern Carolina, and in the final championship game with Asheville demonstrated that the football in this section was of a higher grade than that in the West this last season. Wilmington is the only other team in the State deserving mention, and in every game except that with Raleigh outclassed their opponents. One would not be far wrong in selecting the eleven members of the Raleigh team for the Mythical Eleven, but there were a few men from the other teams who would put more strength into this combination.

For center—Tyree of Raleigh was best. He was the strength of his team in the middle of the line, opening holes for his backs, and playing a strong defense.

Guards—Jones of Washington and Rhodes of Wilmington are given the places.

Tackles—The Raleigh tackles, Whitaker and Weathers, were the strongest men in their defense, and over them most of the offensive work was done. Handy of Wilmington, Nutler of Charlotte, and Johnston of Huntersville were all good tackles.

Ends—Silverman, Wilmington, was the strongest end this season. His forward pass work was of a high order. The other end is given to Shepherd of Wilmington, who played quarterback most of the season, but his tackling and defensive work in general, together with his ability in the forward pass game and broken field running gives him the place.

Quarterback—Johnston of Raleigh was a good field general, an excellent broken field runner, and sure with the forward pass. Shepherd, Wilmington, ran him a close second, and he cannot be kept off the team.

Captain—Johnston gets the place.

Fullback—Asheville showed only one man on their team. This was Randolph. He was the best defensive back seen this year, and he was a powerful line plunger.

Halfbacks—Bowen. Raleigh, is moved from Full to Half, and Champion of the same team is selected as his running mate. This pair, on running interference, skirting the ends, and going through the line had no equals. Gurley of Goldsboro, Bagby of Wilmington, E Weston and Causey of Greensboro deserve honorable mention in the backfield.

The winning short story in the Magazine Short Story Contest has not as yet been decided upon. The announcement will be made in the next issue of the magazine.

With this single issue serving as a thin partition between the pleasures of Christmas and the er-a duties of the mid term examinations, THE TAR HEEL suspends temporarily until the fourth of February. The Editorial Board will for the nonce be just plain students sweating over the various healthy problems the other sinners are. Forgetting Editorial dignity they will just as eagerly jostle and scrouge for a favorable position around the fatal builetins from the front posted in the Alumni the last days of exams.

DR. HERTY HIGHLY HONORED

Recently Elected President Of American Chemical Society

Dr. Chas. H. Herty, head of the Chemistry department, was signally honored recently by being elected President of the American Chemical Society. This is one of the greatest honors possible for an American chemist to receive. The Charlotte Observer of last Sunday contained a large picture of Dr. Herty, and an account of three columns detailing his life and achievements. The article describes the Herty Turpentine Cup which was invented by Dr. Herty several years ago, and which effects a saving of thirteen million dollars a year to the South in the turpentine industry. Quotations were given from The World's Work and The Scientific American concerning the value of this invention.

PRESIDENT'S INAUGURATION

Dr. Graham Will Be Inaugurated On The Twenty-first Of April

The trustees of the University have decided on Wednesday April 21 as the date for the inauguration of President E. K. Graham. The affair will be a memorable one in the history of the University and many representatives from universities all over the United States will attend.

County Clubs Meet.

Several county clubs and alumni associations were active during the Christmas holidays. At Gastonia a meeting of University students, alumni, and high school students was held. Prof. A. H. Patterson and Dr. L. R. Wilson were the principal speakers. The Lenoir County Club held a meeting in Kinston at which Mr. V. S. Bryant was the principal speaker. Prof. Collier Cobb addressed the Harnett County Club at Lillington. Other meetings of students and alumni were held at Franklin, Kinston, Clinton, and Goldsboro.

Just before the holidays began, the Freshman basketball team defeated the Pre Meds by the decisive score of 26 to 5.

Dr. L. A. Williams will address the Iredell County Teachers Association in Statesville on Jan. 16.

DR. A. S. TAYLOR A VISITOR

Medical Missionary From China Makes Addresses

Saturday night Dr. A. S. Taylor addressed the Medical Society in Davie Hall on the subject of Chinese Medicine vs. Civilized Medicine. Dr. Taylor is a graduate of the University of Virginia and resides in the city of Yanchow China. He has as his district an area one hundred miles square in which there is a population of 8,000,000. The city of Yangchow, in which his hospital is located, has itself a population of 500,000. Dr. Taylor and his brother are the only doctors to be found in all this immense district. As can readily be seer there is a great opportunity in China for men of the medical profession because the number of cases are almost unlimited; but as Dr. Taylor says, there is an even greater opportunity to use your knowledge of medicine as a means of spreading the knowledge of and the belief in Jesus Christ thru the length and breadth of the land.

Dr. Taylor spoke in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and in the Chapel at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The subject of his afternoon address was, "The Opportunity for a Christian Medical Missionary in China." A rather small audience listened with pleasure and appreciation to his recitation of the deeds of medicine in China and to his plea for more Christian medical missionaries in China to help in the work which is increasing by leaps and bounds. Dr. Taylor's grapic descriptions of the work being carried on in China by medical missionaries was unusually enlightening and gave everyone a new conception of its signeficance.

FRESHMEN BEAT GREENSBORO

Victory for Freshmen is Final Outcome of Interesting Game

Friday night the Freshman basketball team won a close victory over the high school team from Greensboro. The game was fast and interesting, the high school boys losing by only three points. The score was 13 to 9 at the end of the first half and the second half ended with the score 21 to 18.

Greensboro, though greatly outweighed, played a splendid game. They outclassed the Freshmen in passing the ball, but were a little weak at goal shooting. Tennant for the Freshmen, and Blake for the visitors were the stars for their respective teams.

BASKETBALL VICTORY

Carolina Takes Last of Three Games with Durham

Saturday night December 19 Carolina defeated Durham Y. M. C. A. in basketball 25 to 24. The game took place in Bynum Gymnasium and was a close and hard fought contest. The game was rather rough, thirty fouls being committed. Capt. Long took advantage of the free chances and placed 11 out of 14 shots in the basket. He also made three field goals. Holcomb as usual was the star for Durham. This was the last of the three Carolina-Durham games of which Durham won two.

Line up.

Summary. Field goals: Long 3, Andrews 2, Holding 2, Clay 2, Holcomb 3, Reed 1, Carrington 1, Mangum 1.

Fouls. Long 11, Holcomb 8.

Referee: DeWitt Kluttz.

The University was saddened to hear of the death of Hon. Daniel Stern which occurred during the holidays. He was a graduate of Carolina, and a successful lawyer of Greensboro.

BEST CLASS GAME OF SEASON

Freshmen Win in Game Which Lasts Over an Hour.

The most sensational game of the class basketball series was played last night, when the Freshmen defeated the Juniors 31 to 29. One hour and five minutes was required before the contest was decided, six extra periods of five minutes each being played. At the end of the game the score was 15 to 16. After five extra periods had been played the score was still tied 29 to 29. It was then decided that the team scoring the first goal should have the game. The Freshmen finally made the score which meant victory.

The game was fast and many unusually good plays were executed. It was by far the best class game of the season.

For the winners, Tennent and Williams starred, while Patterson and Bruce were the mainstays of the Juniors.

Last night's result gives all the class teams, with the exception of the Pre-Meds, approximately the same number of games won and lost.

Line up.

Summary: Field goals; Patterson 4, Bruce 3, Cowan 4, Pell 1, Huske 1, Tennent 3, McClamroch 1, Armstrong 2, Williams 2, Gudger 3, Perry 1.

Fouls; Tennent 7, Pell 2.

THE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Several More Games Are Yet to be Arranged

The Carolina football schedule for the coming season has been partially made out. Three games, which have as yet not been arranged for, will probably be played in Chapel Hill at the first of the season. The November 6 date lies between Tennessee at Knoxville and Clemson at Charlotte. Arrangements for the Georgia game will yet have to be made. Georgia prefers to play the game on home territory, while Carolina suggests Charlotte as the better place.

V. P. I. at Roanoke, Va., Oct. 6.

V. M. I. at Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 23.

Georgia Tech at Atlanta, Ga., Oct 30.

Tennessee at Knoxville, Tenn., November 6.

Davidson College at Winston-Salem, N. C., November 13.

Virginia at Richmond, Va., November 25.

Nearly a Thousand Registrations

The number of registations for the scholastic year 1914-1915 were 997 last Tuesday. The number of registrations for the fall term was 988. Of course, not all the men who registered last fall are in college now, but it is the opionion of Dr. T. J. Wilson that fewer dropped out this year than any previous year. After all, the war does not seem to have played such havoc in North Carolina.

CLASS BASKETBALL BOOMING

Seniors Win From Sophomores By Only Two Points

Presenting a much stronger line up than usual, the Seniors won from the Sophomores Tuesday night in a hardfought game of basketball. The game was close and exciting throughout, the score being tied most of the time. After Keesler entered the game in the second half, the Seniors took the lead and kept it during the remainder of the game. The final score was 14 to 12.

Line up:

SAD, SAD.

Of all sad words of pen or tongue
The saddest are these: eight-thirty's rung.
Of all sad words of tongue or pen
The saddest are these: fall exams again.

(With the accent on the x, please). But what's in a name? The Fall Exams by any other name would fell crowds quite as big.

Verily, the Ten Days Reign of Terror is at hand. The old order changeth, yielding place to the new. Everywhere the Boners bone and the Grinders grind surrounded by mobs of former Pickwickians and Academians imploring aid. Everywhere german clubs are being formed, each club being composed of one man who knows German and four who do not.

The Spot-Hunters and the Booters are abroad. At this season coaching classes spring up everywhere—those institutions where you go to get "six-for-a-quarter."

In a few days the campus will be practically deserted, with only a few distracted-looking stragglers wandering around. The pass-word will be, "tell me this". If you see a man walking in deep meditation, don't give him a polite "hello, old sport". He's liable to return the greeting by putting something like this on you: "U is equal to the impingement of P on its hodograph." And the only way you can get back on him is to tell him: you is equal to a imp-tailed lizard in Latin, gravity being constant.

At nine on the twentieth the funeral services begin. Then will sound the "knell that summons thee to heaven or to hell." Go out and sit on the mourners' bench and see your Professor writing your epitaph on your blackboard tombstone. When he drops the chalk, hear the dirt drop on the coffin lid. At last lay your floral offering on the table with the others. And remember that you could have passed.

But of course we'll all pass. Those abstruse problems we could not solve, we needn't worry about. We won't get them on exam. We sure won't. So be of good cheer. We'll all slip thru.

NORTH CAROLINA CLUB MEETS

In Debate on State Wide Dog Tax Affirmative Wins.

At the meeting of the North Carolina Club Wednesday night the first debate under its auspices was held. The question debated was, "Resolved that North Carolina should have a State Wide Dog Tax for schools."

Messrs. House and Fowler represented the affirmative, and Messrs. Harris and Hodgin the negative. Instead of having judges the audience decided the question by a plurality vote. So according to the members of the club, the affirmative side won.

The meeting was presided over by Prof. Branson, and Frank Graham acted as Secretary.

At the next meeting of the club which will be Feb. 10, the topic for discussion will be "The Farmer's share of the Consumer's Dollar."

The Alumni Review will come from the press shortly. This issue will constitute more or less a University handbook—an explanation of what the University is really doing for the state.

Di Society Wins Another Victory From Its Philanthropic Rivals

In the annual Soph-Junior debate between the Di and Phi Societies, which took place Dec. 21, the representatives of the Di won. The query was: Resolved that the United States should subsidize the merchant marine engaged in foreign trade.

Messrs. Hyatt and Crouse represented the Di, and Messrs. Williams and Hudson, the Phi.

The debate was an excepionally spirited one. All of the contestants did well—Mr. Hyatt especially so. According to the judges, Messrs. MacNider, McIntosh, and Winston, the debate was one of the best inter-society debates heard here in many years.

Class Banquets.

After examinations are well by and forgotten, the banqueting season will open. The Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomore classes will feast probably in the order named. These are always great occasions. The Sophomores will, no doubt, adhere to the old custom of naming Freshmen at their banquet.

The Carolina line-up in the basketball game with Wake Forest next Saturday night in Raleigh will probabably be the same that played against Elon last Monday night. It is expected that the game will be witnessed by a large number of Raleigh people, but in view of the approaching examinations, the spectators from the University will probably be few.

THE BASEBALL PROSPECTS

Carolina Has An Unusually Good Array of Talent

Manager R. E. Little, Jr. has finally arranged the baseball schedule for this year. The schedule speaks highly for the efforts of "Kitty". Not only has he arranged a schedule of twenty-three games, but he has also arranged for ten of them to be played on the Hill.

One of the features of this year's schedule is the fact that eleven games of the twenty-three are with North Carolina teams Five teams are to be met which were not played last year. They are, Elon, Bingham of Asheville, Richmond College, University of South Carolina, and Winston League. The opening game, as usual, will be with Oak Ridge, March 19, on the Hill.

Regular practice will hardly begin yet unless the weather improves. At present the field is in pretty poor shape and some work will have to be done before it is ready for use.

The outlook for the team is especially bright. The Freshman class contains quite a number of infielders and pitchers. Then again several new faces will be seen on the field this year. At no time within the last four years has Carolina had so much promise of a good team.

Capt. Woodall will in all probability do the catching. As is well known, he is without a peer among college receivers in the South. Beside the new men who will aid in rounding out the pitching staff, there are Aycock, Williams, Shields and Tandy. Not since the days of Raymond Lee has Carolina had such an array of pitchers.

Of the infielders Patterson, Hardison, and Lewis of last year's team are back. Among the new men who will try for infield positions are Pope, Sheek, Bruce, and others. In the outfield Hubert Baily is the only regular on the job. Nance, a sub last year, and several new men will try for outfield berths.

With all this array of talent there is no reason why Carolina should not have one of the best teams in years. Anyway it will be only a short time until the call for candidates will be issued. It is then that the real work begins. Out of a total of about seventy-five men who report for first practice a team will be chosen. It is not doubted that there will be a fight for every position.

DR. MOTT COMING SOON

America's Foremost Religious Worker Here Next Week

Lest the importance of Dr. Mott's coming to the University be forgotten, the following points may be of interest.

Dr. Mott has appeared in most of the important university centers throughout the world—not only in America and Europe but also in Japan, China, and India, and wherever there are prominent student gatherings.

Dr. Mott has been received very heartily on several different occasions at Oxford University. One campaign lasted nearly a week and his lectures were better attended than any series of lectures ever given at that University.

Dr. Mott was also enthusiastically received at Cambridge University and his lectures here also drew large crowds.

Conferences of the World's Student Christian Federation have been held in Holland, France, Germany, Sweden, and Turkey, and each one has always had a special series of addresses by Dr. Mott.

The students of Norway, Denmark and Finland have a high regard for Dr. Mott, as evinced by the fact that his meetings in Copenhagen had an attendance of over a thousand students each night.

He is also held in high regard in Russia. He spent six days in Moscow with its twenty thousand students and eleven days in Petrograd, the largest University center in the world, with its forty thousand students.

With these facts in mind we can begin to have an idea of the tremendous amount of power and experience which Dr. Mott has, and can prepare to make this campaign of Mott here the most effective one which he has ever conducted.

Juniors Meet

At a meeting of the Junior class held several days before examinations started, Tom Linn Jr. of Salisbury was elected chief commencement marshal. The other six marshals chosen by the class were Frank Cooper, Hoke Black, Bill Umstead, James Harrison, Robert Vaughn, and Roy Homewood.

The class of 1916 also voted to have a Junior Prom during the Easter Week festivities, and elected J. G. Cowan leader, with W. B Cobb, and F. O. Clarkson as assistants.

CHICK DOAK TO BE COACH

Basketball Coach to Serve Also in Baseball

It was gratifying to everybody to learn last Tuesday morning that Chick Doak had been elected baseball coach. The Charlotte Observer of Wednesday has the following to say:

"The athletic management of the University, in session last night, elected Charles G. Doak of Guilford College as coach of the 1915 baseball squad. Mr. Doak who is now employed as a basketball coach, will continue his services uninterrupted through the baseball season, soon to open in preparation for the schedule announced a few days ago.

"Charles Doak, popularly known in amateur and professional baseball circles as Chick, is backed by a record of many years service in the field of athletics which he will direct at Carolina. Five years as a player on the baseball and basketball teams of Guilford College, three years as coach of Guilford teams, and more recently seven years as player on the Greensboro and Charlotte clubs of the Carolina League—this is his record in athletics,

"His recognized ability in developing winning teams at Guilford College is the best recommendation that could be produced of his capacity to tackle the job for which he has deen chosen.

REV. J. McVEIGH HARRISON

Member of the Order of the Holy Cross Conducts Daily Services

Rev. J. McVeigh Harrison, a member of the Order of the Holy Cross, who is in charge of the Industrial School for Mountain Boys near Sewanee has been conducting services every night this week at the Episcopal church.

The members of this order, who are under the control of the Episcopal church in the United States are bound by three vows—celibacy, obedience, and poverty. They wear at all times the distinctive habit of their order, observe the ancient custom of the "Seven Hours" of daily worship, keep the ancient fast and vigils, and divide the whole of their time not needed for rest or recreation to meditation, prayer, study, and labor.

The services conducted by Rev. Harrison both at the Episcopal church and in chapel have been of great benefit.

THE McNAIR LECTURES

Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University the Speaker

On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of this week the McNair Lectures will be delivered by Professor John Dewey of Columbia University. The McNair Lectures rank always with the most important events of the college year, and are looked forward to with keen interest. They will be held in Gerrard Hall and will begin at eight o'clock on the evenings mentioned above. The general subject of the lectures will be Philosophy and Politics. The subject for Friday night is "The Inner and Outer Worlds," for Saturday "The State and Moral Life". and for Sunday "The Philosophy of History."

Dr. Dewey has been at the University of Michigan, Minnesota, and Chicago, and was once Director of the School of Education at the University of Chicago. He is the author of several books on Ethics and Psychology, and is recognized as an authorithy on these subjects.

SCHUMAN QUINTET CONCERT

Third Number of Star Course Series Proves Superior to Preceding Ones

The concert given by the Schuman Quintet in Chapel last Saturday night was by far the most enjoyable Star Course performance given here this season—some members of the audience considered it the best in years. The program was excellent, and even had it been poorly executed, would have contrasted favorably with the neo-witty average Star Course performance. The program, classical though it was, could not have been more proficiently rendered. Every selection from "Santa Lucia" to "Gems from Faust" was thoroughly enjoyable.

The Star Course management would do well to secure more numbers of such high class as the Schuman Quintet.

Virginia at Raleigh Monday.

Next Monday, February 8th Carolina meets Virginia in basketball at Raleigh. The game will be played in the auditorium and will be at 8 p. m. The splendid showing of Carolina against Wake Forest gives hopes of a victory over the old rivals. Many students, no doubt, will go over for the game.

A DEFEAT AND A VICTORY

Carolina Loses to and Wins From Wake Forest

In the first of the three basketball games played with Wake Forest, Carolina suffered defeat by the score of 26 to 23. The game was played in Raleigh and was well attended, many of the college girls of Raleigh being present. Carolina had a good lead at the end of the first half, and prospects were bright for a victory, but Wake Forest came back in the last few minutes with a rush, tied the score, and then scored the three points that won the game According to the Raleigh papers, the game was one of the closest and most interesting ever played in that city. Holding and Carrick featured for Wake Forest while Johnson and Andrews played a splendid game for Carolina.

Lineup:

CAROLINA	W. FOREST
Johnson	Hall
R F
Long	Holding
L F
Tandy	Carrick
C
Tennent	Hensley
R G
Andrews	Davis

Summary: Field goals, Hall 2, Holding 5, Carrick 3, Hensley 1, Johnson 4, Long 2, Tandy 2, Tennent 1, Andrews 1. Fouls, Holding 4 out of 7, Tandy 3 out of 4.

Referee, W. C. Dowd, Charlotte.

In perhaps the best basketball game ever played on the Hill, Carolina's fast team administered a defeat to Wake Forest, Tuesday night, the score being 32 to 20. Wake Forest started the game with a rush, scoring eleven points before Carolina succeeded in caging the ball. It was then that Captain Long started the Carolina machine rolling with a beautiful goal from the center of the floor. When the Carolina team was once started, Wake Forest could not stop them, eighteen points being the result of their work during the first half. The visitors scored 15 points in this half. Carolina began the second half with the spirit with which she ended the first, and simply ran away with the Baptists during the remainder of the game.

Time after time Tandy would dribble half the length of the floor and then cage the ball, while Captain Long would put it

IF

If the next time there is a public meeting in Gerrard Hall you notice who the handful are who persist in saving two minutes by leaving before the entertainment is quite over and thereby spoiling the pleasure of several hundreds you will observe that the handful are, in the main, men too new to have learned that real Carolina men do not do that; or men who waste two thirds of their time "down street."

A SERIES OF COINCIDENCES

If you have been interested in the bulletin board in Alumni lately and are interested in the whys and wherefores of the sliding scale marked 1--6.

Practically every Phi Beta Kappa man at Carolina during the last three years who participated in athletics at all preferred above all else tennis or gymnasium work. That may be a coincidence.

The writer finds it a hard task to recall a regular tennis player or gym attendant who is not a good student. That may be a coincidence.

Dr. Lawson said once that gym work is the best exercise a man can take and that tennis is next. Dr. Lawson is an expert at both but the same is true of football and baseball. He prefers the two first named. That may be a coincidence.

A regular, steady, moderate exercise seems to go hand in hand with a normal, healthy brain—but that may be merely a coincidence.

But if it isn't don't waste any more afternoons in a room full of tobacco smoke discussing the "ungodly boot" of the other fellow.

JOHN R. MOTT.

"John R. Mott" has become a solid phrase around the campus lately. A compact organization either has or is preparing to use every available factor for promoting the Mott Meeting of February 12--14. There is no doubt but that Gerrard Hall will be crowded to its rather fixed limits. Delegates from every college in North Carolina will be in attendance.

Since space in Gerrard Hall is going to be a valuable consideration during those meetings, it might be a good plan to consider our collective state of mind as we listen to the "greatest force in Christiandom".

Don't come to the Mott Meetings in the same spirit the average Southern Democrat goes to a Roosevelt gathering--just to say you have seen a national curiosity.

We listened to William J. Bryan and John R. Mott speak from the platform on the same day about a year ago. We had heard both men speak before but had never thought of comparing the two. We did at this time, however, and with all due respect to our Secretary of State, the only way we could express our comparison was by thinking of a 30 horse power car with muffler off going between two ten buildings on the one hand; and a zooning high powered electric motor no the other.

"AN UNPRECIDENTED OPPORTUNITY".

We have a friend who likes to use the phrase "unprecidented opportunity". In thinking over the various lectures and special events on the calendar for the spring term we are tempted to borrow the phrase.

A partial list of the meetings follow. The McNair Lectures Feb. 5, 6, 7, by Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia; the Mott meetings Feb. 12, 13, 14; Ex-President Taft, March 17--19; President Grham's inaugural April 9; Lectures on the Argentine Republic and the Relations between North and South America by ambassador Romulu S. Naon, of the Argentine Republic, May 11--13; Lectures on the American Drama, by Dr. Richard Burton, of the Univirsity of Minnesota; The Southern Exchange Foundation Lectures, by Professor William Thornton, Dean of the School of Engineering of the University of Virginia, March 22--27. Besides these meetings of general appeal will be a hundred or more special meetings of interest to smaller groups of the student body.

If a man would take advantage of every opportunity of this nature offered this spring and went with the definite aim of increasing his culture or knowledge he would be a changed man. Dr. Eliot has collected his famous five foot book shelf. He guarantees that a faithful reader of his selected pages will finish an educated person. The forces at work here have collected within your reach a great storehouse of mental food in its most plesant form.

Don't let Pick, card table conversation, Drug Store gossip, college loungers, and indecent pictures rob you of your own treasures.

"THE AFFINITIES" FRIDAY

University Students to Take Part in Durham Production

Tomorrow night Messrs C. L. Coggin, Leon Applewhite, and Sidney Blackmer will appear in "The Affinities," a musical comedy to be presented by Durham local talent at the Academy of Music.

The play is reported as one of the best amatuer productions ever presented in Durham, being under the experienced direction of the Misses Burkhimer of Charlotte.

Mr. Blackmer and Miss Elise Lloyd will will give an exhibition dance, including the Fox Trot and Kiss Waltz.

The play is given under the auspices of the Girls Friendly Society.

President Graham's Inauguration

The inauguration of President Graham will take place on April 21st. Among the many noted men who will be present are President Lowell of Harvard and President Aldermen of Virginia. The exercises give promise of being unusually interesting, and a very large attendance is expected.

The State High School Basketball Contest is going forward favorably. The preliminary closes February 20, and the championship game will be played in Chapel Hill the early part of March. About thirty schools have entered and are playing games.

High School Debate

The High School Debating Union announces the date of the triangular debates as March 20, and the date of the finals in Chapel Hill as April 9. Two hundred schools have been enrolled and arranged in groups. Ninety counties are represented. A larger percentage of girls will compete this year than did last. The Bureau of Extension reports many requests for their bulletin on the Ship Subsidy Bill, which is the subject of the debate.

Mr. John Nolan, of Boston, one of the nation's greatest landscape architects, gave an illustrated lecture in Chemistry Hall Monday night January 18 on "The City Beautiful." This was one of the most timely lectures of the year, for there is nothing that Carolina need more than a competently remodeled campus.

The Board of athletic Control of Princeton University has recently chosen John G. Rush head football coach. He graduated from Princeton in 1898, and held the Princeton record for the hundred-yard dash, although he did not play football.

Did the ground hog see his shadow the other day? Uncle George, the well known colored figure frequently seen working around the campus, says he was unable to determine, and that we will have to live in hopes.

All the material for the Yackety Yack goes to press on the fifteenth of this month. The annual will be out sometime in May and will conform to the high standards that past Yackety Yacks have set.

On Feb. 12th he will speak before the teachers and citizens of Statesville and on the 13th before the Iredell Teachers Association.

Mr. J. Merrel Parker is a delegate form the Y. M. C. A. to the Mot: Meetings at Penn State.

in from all corners of the floor. These two players were easily the stars of the game, each getting seven goals. It is quite evident from the score that Carolina's guards were playing a good game also, for the speedy forwards of the visitors were held to a very small number of goals.

A record breaking crowd attended the game, many ladies being present. The game was hard fought, but was free from the roughness and numerous fouls that sometimes characterize a basketball game. Wake Forest played a good game, but before the end of the first half they were outclassed and outplayed by the victors They, however, certainly showed fighting spirit. For their team, Captain Hall was perhaps the best player, his passing being exceptionally good. But for the work of Davis for Carolina, he would undoubtedly have made several more goals.

This was the second of a series of three games with Wake Forest. The decisive game is to be played at Wake Forest Feb. 11th.

ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

Five Universities Unite to Promote Interest of Intercollegiate Athletics

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 30.—Formation of an athletic conference embracing five State Universities was effected here today after a meeting which lasted eight hours. Only formal ratification by the institutions involved is required to make the organization an actuality. The States whose universities were included in the conference are Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, and South Carolina. Only State Universities are eligible for membership.

The preamble of the constitution sets forth that the objects are to promote the best interest of intercollegiate athletics in the South, to foster closer relationship and to promulgate a unified code of rules and conduct.

Officers elected were: W. A. Lambeth, University of Virginia, president; J. Bruce Coleman, University of South Carolina, secretary.—Charlotte Observer.

An Infuriated Step-Ladder Defending Its Young

THERE is no sense to the above picture; neither is there any sense to the title; and yet both are fully as sensible as some of the things people do every day. For instance:—Some people still smoke a cheap cigarette put up in a fancy package and pay twice what it is worth. Why not try a sensible smoke—FATIMA? No frills; just good, clean tobacco delightfully blended and put up in a sensible package.

The contaminations? O—examinations. Yes, I believe I remember something about them. Five or six of them? Yes, five or six on all of them. Some boys are built that way, just like automobiles are built: You hear of Hudson Four and Cadillac Eight, and in the same way we ought to call a boy Smith Six or Jones Five, according to the number of empty cylinders in his head. And just think how scarce one-cylinder machines are these days! But we are forgetting the War.

You've heard many stories about how the war started, but you are absolutely neutral in spite of the fact that you know that the Kaiser started the bloody thing, and you don't care much for the Germans anyhow, and you know that if there were no Germans we would not have to study German. Yes, you are right, stay neutral. But here's a quotation stating how the war started: Austria was hungry; France carving some foul said, "I'll serve you." Germany interrupted coldly, "If you do I'll report you, girl," and began to rush her. France, in haste, slipped in some grease and broke some dishes, and the crockery has been rattling ever since. (Original passage: Austaia was Hungary; France carving some Turkey, said, "I'll Servia". Germany interrupted her in a Chili manner saying, "If you do I'll re-Port-ugal", and then began to Russia. France, in haste, slipped in Greece, broke China, and the artillery has been rattling ever since.—Hoch Der Kaiser, VI, 32-36.) As to whether this theory is true or not I cannot say; most people call It-a-ly.

But to return to my original subject: Chapel Hill is a peculiar place. The majority of its real-estate is situated in the public roads, so that when it rains the streets are awful.

From our dictionary: Policemen—plural of policeman; buildings found on uptown street corners, particularly conspicuous for large "bay-windows"; self-winding phonographs with but a single record: "Move On"; walking restaurants; a physical conglomeration of brass buttons, pistols, billies, and big feet; land-buoys on our oceans of joy. Police force—Chief Long.

The Summer School

The preliminary announcement of the twenty-eighth session of the University Summer School was issued on January 22. The session opens June 15 and lasts six weeks. The curriculum will be unusually comprehensive; all the regular courses will be given together with several series of lectures and conferences. Work at the summer school will, as last year, count toward a degree. The summer school, one of the first in the country, was founded by Dr. Kemp P. Battle in 1887, and after being suspended and revived several times, was finally established firmly in 1907. That year 36 students were enrolled. The attendance in 1914 was 596. From these figures one can see how rapidly the summer school has grown.

The first harbinger of the spring seen on the Campus was the Senior hat, white as a gull's wing, fit to be the the crowning glory of a palm beach suit. This new hat which the class of 1915 has adopted is made of white felt and has a narrow red ribbon around the crown.

TUESDAY Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Dr. Venable speaks on "Christianity Tested"

The regular Tuesday night Y. M. C. A. meetings for the Spring Term were begun last Tuesday by Dr. Venable's strong talk on "Christianity Tested." He spoke of the so-called failure of Christianity to prevent the present war. Dr. Venable said the question sifts itself down to the individual, whether the motives of Christ impell him to be beyond selfishness, which is the source of all evils and the cause of the present great war. He quoted Dr. Eliot as saying that only law and education will accomplish the desired end Dr. Venable believes, however, that the true solution is in Christainity alone. He concluded by asking the following questions; Does might make right? Does necessity justify the breaking of one's word? Is a contract sacred, and what hope have we in anything if it is not in Christ and his teachings?

Next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock Merrel Parker, who is now at Penn State College hearing Dr. Mott, will report to the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Mott's message. This will be a preparatory meeting for the great meetings Dr. John R. Mott is to hold here the 12, 13, and 14 of the month.

During the whole of March Dr. Branson will discuss at the Tuesday night meetings the condition of the negro in the South, a subject which will prove interesting to all, especially as it is in line with his work in rural sociology and the County Clubs Besides these meetings members, of the faculty and student body will speak on various subjects of interest.

BASKETBALL SCORES

Forgotten Games Are Brhught to Mind

Friday night before examinations the Sophmore basketball team won a decisive victory from the Pre-Meds. The game although one sided, was made interesting by several good shots. The final score was 23 to 5.

JUNIORS--CHAPEL HILL HIGHS

The Juniors played the Chapel Hill High School week before last and defeated them 30 to 9. The High School boys put up a game fight and showed that they are going to give some of the state high schools a hard fight before the championship is decided.

FRESHMEN--DURHAM

Carolina Freshmen won a game from the Durham High School basketball team last week, the score being 30 to 18 The Durham boys played hard and, although outclassed, they fought until the last minute. Poor goal shooting on their part prevented the score from being close. Tennent for the Freshmen team played the best game, several of his goals being made from long shots. The Freshmen play a return game in Durham next week.

DR. JOHN R. MOTT TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Visit of this Great Man Promises to Be a Very Vital Influence for Good

John R, Mott, who is coming to the University to deliver a reries of addresses on Feb- 12, 13, and 14, is not only a thinker and dreamer whose thoughts and dreams are of world wide range, but is also a man of good common sense and unusual executive ability. In connection with an account of his achievements nothing more apt can be quoted than opinions of two of the best known men in America, President Wilson, and Norman Hapgood, of Harper's Weekly.

President Wilson says: "Certainly one of the most nobly useful men in the world. I have the greatest admiration for him and the most profound confidence in his extraordinary character and abilities."

Mr. Hapgood says: "Religion matters. It matters emphatically in this age of disappearing sanctions and of new standards. Who is doing most to connect religion with the lives of men today? Some observers of ability answer, 'John R. Mott.' It is a startling opinion but based on thought....

"Mott has united the Missionary effort of the world. Christianity on the foreivn field has been brought into the 'Christian Unity' and harmony, talked about for generation, but not realized until under his competent leadership.....

"Finally, he is great because he is skilled in administration, a master of detail, large in vision, exact in statement, a canny raiser of funds, gifted with insight in the choice of helpers, strong-witted, convincing."

John Raleigh Mott was born on May 25 1865 at Livingston Manor, N. Y. He graduated from Cornell University in 1888. Yale gave him his M. A. in 1899. Edinburg conferred upon him the degree of L.L. D. in 1910, and in 1911, Princeton made him a Doctor of Laws. The grounds for the Princeton honor were as follows.

"John R. Mott, known by academic and religious bodies in planning and extending the active Christian work of university students, deviser of national and international agencies for this work, particularly the World's Christian Student Federation, presiding leader of the World's Missionary Movement in Edinburg in 1910, a traveler over four continents in search of room for work, a man of bouyant energy, deep consecration, astonishing success, a new crusader bent on the Christian conquest of all the world.

John R. Mott began his great work as traveling secretary for the International Young Men's Christian Association, his department having charge of the universities and colleges of the United States and Canada. In this direction he developed the Student Volunteer Movement. He is now chairman of the Movement. As a result of the work caried on by the movement, no less than 5,000 men have been inlisted for service in non-Christian lands. In 1910, 368 student volunteers went forth to win the crusade. At the convention of the movement held in Rochester, N. Y. in January, 1910 3,747 delegates were present, representing 735 universities and colleges. the movement now has over fourteen secretaries who spend their entire time among the institutions of learning, advising, inspiring and directing the enthusiasm of the students.

Dr. Mott has been student secretary of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations since 1888.

Among his publications are "Evangelization of the World in this Generation", Strategic Points in the World's Conquest", and "Christians of Reality".

Dr. Mott's home is in Montclair, N. J.

As an example of Mott's tremendous activity we have the fact that on one of his recent world-tours he traveled 60,000 miles, visited 22 countries, called on 144 universities, colleges, and schools. Half of the public speaking of his life has been done through an interpreter, sentence by sentence. In this manner he has talked in Dutch, French, German, Russian, Turkish, Italian, Greek, Armenian, Arabic, Chinese, Portuguese, Japanese, Hungarian, Spanish, and in the numerous dialects of the Balkan

PROF. JOHN DEWEY DELIVERS McNAIR LECTURES FOR THE SEASON 1914-15

"The Inner and Outer World's" "The State and Moral Life," "The Philosophy of History."

Professor John Dewey, of the Department of Philosophy of Columbia University, delivered on Friday night the first of this year's series of McNair lectures. His subject was "The Inner and Outer Worlds."

President Graham declared that Professor Dewey, being one of America's foremost writers, scholars, and thinkers, needed no introduction to a University audience.

The first part of Professor Dewey's speech was devoted to a discussion of the general ideas concerning practical life. He declared that he did not believe pure ideas, or pure reasons ever exercised any influence upon human action. Furthermore, said he, "It is easy to exaggerate the practical influence of even the most vital and genuine ideas. Whatever may be said to the contrary, I do not believe that there are any such things as pure ideas and pure reasons." Ideas influence action and help to determine the subsequent course of events.

Professor Dewey then turned to a discussion as to whether or not the influence of general ideas upon action were likely to be beneficial. History proves the assertion that thinking in general and abstract terms is dangerous; such a mode of thinking was much more prevalent in the past because of the fact that philosophers largely concerned themselves with such abstract problems as Truth and Reality viewed under the forms of eternity.

He went on to illustrate this point. It was shown that modern German Philosophy and practical social affairs which he termed "Politics". The heroic age of German thought lies almost within the last century. "The educational and administrative agencies of Germany provide ready-made channels through which philosophic ideas may flow on their way to practical affairs."

The philosophy of Emanuel Kant was explained at some length to illustrate the relation of science and morals. Kant declares that the moral law, the law of obligation, proceeds from a source in man above reason—that is, the super-sensible world. The chief mark of German civilization is its combination of self-conscious idealism and its unsurpassed technical efficiency and organization in the varied fields of action. The more the Germans accomplish in the way of material conquests, the more are they conscious of fulfilling an ideal mission.

Prof. Dewey's second and third lectures dealt with "The State and the Moral Life" and "The Philosophy of History" respectively. Germany was also the basis of these talks.

"Interviews Are the Most Important Factor of the Campaign," says Dr. Mott.

With the score or more of men who are seeing men in personal interviews you will have a wide range to select from. If you have doubts, there are specialists here to help you solve them; if you are losing your moral grip, there are those who can help you; if you wish to increase your "area" capacity, there are experts here who can project you in service

Each worker has a Carolina student who acts as his secretary to schedule interviews. These interviews last from fifteen minutes to an hour. They can be arranged through the Y. M. C. A. office or through the leader's secretary. You may see these men in private conference in some assigned room.

MOTT.

One of the Six Best

THE TAR HEEL on April 23, 1914 had the following as part of an editorial.

"Some one asked the Bureau of Extension who, in its opinion, were the six most conspicuous men in the world today? The answer was Woodrow Wilson, Bernard Shaw, Theodore Roosevelt, David Lloyd-George, Andrew Carnegie, and John R. Mott. Can you make a better choice?"

What Norman Hapgood Says.

Norman Hapgood, formerly editor of Colliers and now editor of Harper's says "who is doing most to connect religion with the lives of men today? Some obserers of ability answer "John R. Mott." That opinion explains why one of the most quietly influential men in this country called Mr. Mott 'The greatest man alive'. It is a startling opinion but it is based on thought'.

The leading business men and Philanthropists just referred to when pressed to say wherin Mott is "great" told why. Mott has united the missionary effort of the world. Christianity on the foreign field has been brought into the "Christian Unity" and harmony talked about for genations, but not realized until under his competent leadership. He is known throughout the world by the student body--the leaders of intelligence. He has had much influence on the Chinese situation of the last decade. His student movement at home in the college Y. M. C. A.'s has altered the tone of student life, and bettered many thousands of men. Finally, he is great because he is skilled in adminstration, a master of detail, large in vision, exact in statement, a canny raiser of friends, gifted with insight in the choice of helpers, strong willed."

Justice David Brewer of the Supreme Court

"Two of the greatest diplomats the country has ever seen are the late John Hay and John R. Mott.

President Butler of Columbia University

"Mr. Mott has exercised and is exercising a powerful influence in behalf of the peace and good order of the world."

A New York Man

"Mott is the greatest man I know, unless possibly it be the Prsident himself. Mott thinks in terms of continents; he plans for the world."

Woodrow Wilson

"Mr. Mott is recognized everywhere as one of the leading forces in the modern Christian world. I know of no more desirable representative of the things we ought all to set our hearts to."

MOTTAGRAMS

"In the history of Christianity there has never been such a remarkable conjunction of opportunities and crises on all the principle mission fields and of favoring circumstances and possibilities on the home field.

"Our prayers are not measured by their extent, but by their content.

"College men are in peculiar need of encouragement and direction toward Christian life and service, and are responsive to the right experiences in these directions.

"There are sad cases in nearly every college of young men who have made shipwreck of their faith and drifted into lives of sin because they were not properly anchored at the very beginning of their college life."

"We need in all our student associations more men who will devote the same intense and thorough study to the problems of Christian life and work that they employ when they prepare themselves to win a debate, or write a prize oration or thesis."

One of the chief reasons, apparently, why Christ went apart for prolonged prayer is the very reason why many busy Christians excuse themselves—the fact that he had so much to do and that the issues at stake were so great.

"We need to study the methods of Christ in training men..... One of the most far-reaching things Christ ever did was to train a little band of men.

"Christians need a fuller, more constant and more commanding realization of the personal presence of Christ."

The above quotations show that Mr. Mott is not a sensational phrase manipulator. He does not secure his results by sensationalism or surface emotions. The key words to his success are power, efficiency, knowledge, courage, and common sense.

At the German Club meeting held Friday afternoon John S. Cansler was elected president; W. O. Huske was chosen to lead the Easter Dance with A. C. Zollicoffer and R. C. Davis as assistants.

In the last issue of The Tar Heel the date of the Triangular Debate appeared as March 20. This was a mistake. The date should have been March 26. The final contest will be held on April 9.

THE VISITING COMMITTEE

Legislative Members Come to See the University

The Legislative Committee, who visited the University last Monday, were enthusiastically received by the students and faculty, who had assembled in Chapel at one o'clock to meet them. President Graham introduced the members of the committee and the students to each other as the present and future representatives of the State respectively, and turned the meeting over to Senator McLeod, the chairman of the committee, who in turn humorously introduced the other members of the committee. Each one spoke aptly, expressing himself in favor of the appropriation. Each of the speeches was much enjoyed.

After dinner the committee was conducted over the campus and returned to Raleigh later in the afternoon. The members of the committee were:

Senator Geo. B. McLeod, Robeson.
Senator R. D. Johnson, Duplin.
Senator M. Leslie Davis, Cartaret.
Rep. R. S. Hutchison, Mecklenburg.
Rep. Matt H. Allen, Wayne.
Rep. J. Ed Pegram, Durham.
Rep. W. L. Small, Pasquotank.

SOME OF THE VISITORS

Alumni Recognize Significance of Mott's Visit.

Among the number of men prominent in the Association movement, who will be present with Mr. Mott in his meetings here will be Hoke Ramsaur, '10, Traveling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, While in college Hoke was president of the Y. M. C. A. and one of the front men on the campus. Among the other men who will be present are Wm. McE. Miller, Phi Beta Kappa and letter man of Washington and Lee, now at Princeton; Secretary King of the A. & M. Y. M. C. A.; President Rhonthaler of Salem College; R. G. Stockton, '11, lawyer of Winston-Salem, Chas W. Tillett, Jr., '09, lawyer of Charlotte; W. W. Blackman, University of Virginia; Roy H. Legate, Vanderbilt, assistant Secretary of the South; and delegates from the various colleges of North Carolina.

DR. JOHN R. MOTT

States and India. It is this inside knowledge of some forty countries that has made him eligible for fellowship in the Royal Geographical Society.

During Dr. Mott's term of service as secretary, the total number of members of student Christian Associations in North America has increased 350,000. This means that Mott has in some measure affected each one of those 350,000 men. This number is for North America only; when the number of persons whom he has reached in his almost constant traveling outside America is included, the grand total is almost unbelievable.

Nor is Mr. Mott known only in the sphere of Christian work. Because of his extensive travel and experience, his efforts have been sought in other, more material lines. President Wilson persistently endeavored to have him accept the ambassadorship from the United States to the new Chinese Republic. A number of universities have besought him to fill their presidential chairs and many of the largest corporations in the East have sought his services. One of them even offered him an annual salary of $100,000 to become its president.

It took Washington and Lee seven years of hard work to secure him to speak. The Y. M. C. A. here has tried only one year. Now that he has been secured, it is every man's duty to make the occasion a great one.

Prof. E. C. Branson speaks before the Greater Charlotte Club Friday of this week and before the Mecklenburg County Teachers Association Saturday.

The University News Letter is still meeting increased success. It now reaches 4,500 persons regularly each week.

WHAT LEARNED MEN SAY

College Presidents Laud His Great Work

Mr. John R. Mott is one of the really great men of the time. He stands out in the world of affairs as a great statesman, a genius in organization and administration, a writer whose subject is the world situation, and a public speaker who combines intellectual clearness with spiritual power.

Recent Comments on John R. Mott and his work:

EDUCATOR

"Education is a many-sided undertaking and its different phases are promoted by widely different methods. Some of the best of modern education in the field of morals and religion is carried on by great general movements which allure the imagination and intensify the convictions of mankind. Mr. Mott's leadership in such education has been conspicuous and powerful. He has brought to bear some of the most effective influences for the uplift of student life in this country and in many other lands. He must be regarded, indeed, as one of the foremost figures in the world-education of the present day.

Elmer Ellsworth Brown,
Chancellor, New York University.

RELIGIOUS LEADER

"Mr. Mott's insight into men and his power to move them are unusual gifts. His choice of associates and agents, and his ability to make them see the visions he sees are not less noteworthy than his direct appeal to students. He is one of the men who lay hold of individuals and great audiences with equal grip. Deep conviction, the driving power of will, broad planning, warm sympathy and sound judgment are combined in him to a high degree. Chiefest of all is his concentrated devotion. The vital spiritual forces which are in control of him have in him an instrument fit for high uses. He is a commanding figure in his generation, world-wide in influence, because he has given himself over to serviceableness at the very springs of life."

Francis Brown,
President, Union Theological Seminary.

Mr. Mott has traveled around the globe six times in the interest of university studentts. He knows better than any man alive, what they think, believe, and need.

An Infuriated Step-Ladder Mending Its Young

THERE is no sense to the above picture; neither is there any sense to the title; and yet both are fully as sensible as some of the things people do every day. For instance:—Some people still smoke a cheap cigarette put up in a fancy package and pay twice what it is worth. Why not try a sensible smoke—FATIMA? No frills; just good, clean tobacco delightfully blended and put up in a sensible package.

DEFEAT BY ONE POINT

Single Foul is Deciding Issue of Contest

GAME CLOSE THROUGHOUT

Many Think the Game the Best Ever Played in Raleigh

Playing at every stage of the game and fighting until the last second of the game, Carolina's fast basketball team suffered defeat Monday night when Virginia succeeded in getting the long end of an extremely close score 30 to 29.

At the end of the last half the score was tied 25 to 25, and an extra period of five minutes was decided upon to break the tie. Carolina immediately filled her supporters with hope by scoring two field goals, while Virginia was getting one point, the result of a foul. Another point from a foul and a field goal then gave Virginia the three points that tied the score.

Then at the most crucial point of the game, a foul was called on Tandy, Carolina's center. Strickling, Virginia's center, took the ball, and with a sure aim put it in the basket, thus scoring the lone point that spelled victory for his team.

Tandy, Johnson, and Capt. Long starred for Carolina, the first named making a beautiful throw for a goal from a very difficult position. Capt. Long made four goals, some of which were hard shots, while Johnson caged the ball five times and was the best player on the floor in passing the ball. Carolina's guards also did good work. Andrews featured by holding his man to one lone goal, and by doing some splendid passing.

Strickling, center, and Capt. Stickley were the mainstays of their team, the tall center scoring one-half of the points for his team. Capt. Stickley succeeded in getting five goals and did some excellent passing.

The game is said to have been the best game ever played in the Auditorium at Raleigh. A splendid crowd witnessed the contest and everyone was loud in their praise of the Carolina team and of the game they played.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

In the grandstand she sat with a feeling
Of shame and crimson disgrace,
For they all said they'd caught her Jim stealing!—
Yes, stealing second base.

Next against him she thought of lugging
Up a breach of promise suit,
For they said that her Jim had been hugging!—
"Huh-hugging first, the brute!"

These are the days we begin to forget our studious resolutions formed January 19 to 29, and commence to think it hardly worth while to carry our note books on class. But it is a good thing we do forget our resolutions in regard to conduct on class, for if we all followed out the vows (and oaths) we made to sit on the front seats, it would be pretty tough on the men at the bottom of the pile.

In a few days you'll have to send a Valentine to the "darling creature" down home; soon you'll be able to take off your coat and parade around in your shirtsleeves in order to show folks that you aren't a Freshman or are. For Spr--ring is here! We've brought it. One swallow does not make a summer, but one crack of the baseball bat does make a spring (as easy as a cat can).

The scientist tells us that the entrance of the sun into the sign of Aries brings the spring; we know better. The poet tells us that Adonis brings the spring with him when he returns from death each year to visit Venus on earth; he can't fool us. We know the cause of the coming of the spring. We know that as the kiss of the Prince awoke the Sleeping Beauty, so the short sharp kiss of the ball and the bat awakens the sleeping spring and causes the birds to blossom and the flowers to chirp merrily, who can imagine a spring unheralded by baseball? If some baseball cranks didn't go out every year and give spring an invitation, there's no telling how long she would "linger in the lap of winter."

Everybody from the cigarred post-grad to the flaming-socked Freshman, goes out to get in the game. And we work harder for an N. C. than for an A. B.; for a c. f. degree than for a C. E.; and prefer an s. s. to a D. D.

You are old Mister Senior, the Freshman said,
For you've been here six years and a quarter.
Now what do you think of the life that you've led?
Do you think that you've done done as you ought to?

In my youth I steered clear, did the Senior avow
Of bull, puds and Pick, like a debtor,
Sure that was my system—and look at me now!
My Gosh, you can't think of a better!

The Extension Bureau reports that 27 persons are now taking work through the correspondence courses. These 27 persons are taking, in all, 36 courses. One lesson in a course goes out each week. This department is under the supervision of Dr. L. A. Williams.

A POTENT MESSAGE

Dr. Mott Appeals for Real Christianity

MEETINGS ARE SUCCESSFUL

Addresses Well Attended and Thotoughly Appreciated

The coming to the University of Dr. John R. Mott has effected and ineffaceable result. His His powerful talks both from the rostrum and in private interviews have been a potent factor in the uplift of the University.

The Mott meetings were opened Friday night with a strong talk by Dr. Mott on the nature of sin. "Sin," he said, "will find you out," whatever its nature and extent. Temptation is natural, it is the whetstone by which mens lives are ground out to perfection. By conquering temptation, not by yielding to it, is a man made strong.

Sunday night in the crowded Chapel Dr. Mott made his fourth and final address to the student body. His theme was religion and the will.

In the course of his talk he said that the Christian religion is purely a matter of the will, though it appeals to all the other faculties. One must not only know religion; one must act it. It is possible to understand the principles of Christianity and not practice them—to be "cultured but corrupt." It is not enough to feel and reason, one must be a doer of good. The will is free. "Christ honors our individuality." The weakest man can say, "I choose to have Christ help me, or I do not choose." Disuse of will hurts character, for a person is made strong by thousands of little every-day decisions. "It's either use or lose" the wills. "Hearing and not doing we stand an the sand; hearing and doing we stand on the rock."

In this concluding talk Dr. Mott summed up the essential things that he had uttered in his previous lectures and made his final appeal. Always magnetic and forceful, he was even more effective this night than he had been before. At a given time, the ushers distributed among the audience cards upon which were printed the following words, "It is my purpose with the help of God, to pay what it costs to be a sincere follower of Jesus Christ." Space was provided on the cards for the signing of name and address. A large proportion of Dr. Mott's hearers signed these cards and remained for the meeting which was held after the rest of the audience had been dismissed. Judging from the signs, Dr. Mott's lectures here have had both immediate and far-reaching results.

Saturday at noon Dr. Mott spoke in Memorial Hall, taking as his subject, "Christianity in the War Zone". In this address Dr. Mott gave the side of the present great struggle that is so seldom considered.

The mighty force behind the European armies, he said, is the spirit of of Christianity which exists, making the opposing lines friends in the fellowship of Christ.

Europe is a suffering but an unselfish continent. In all of the pain and torture no one thinks only of himself. This point was well illustrated with several stories of remarkable generosity and consideration evidenced by the warring nations.

The cost of the war, as estimated by Dr. Mott, is $37,000,000 in gold per day. This immense cost financially, however, is not even to be considered when the horrible human toll is realized. The dead number over a million, the wounded over three million, and 1,700,000 men and boys are suffering in military prisons. This heart-rending condition is inconceivable. Only by going from one house to another and hearing the awful reports of death and despair can cause one to realize what the war really means.

The war has been most destructive to the universities. Fifty-six per cent of the students have enlisted; sixty-six per cent of the Christian church workers have enlisted and ninety per cent of the officers of the Y. M. C. A. have gone into service.

However, the power of the World Wide Christian Student Movement has been brought out in this war, the men in the opposing armies manifesting, in any way possible under the circumstances, their love for one another. The war is being waged with every man firm in the belief that he is right and his cause will succeed; but the Christian spirit is one and the same with them all.

SECRETARY McADOO HERE

Secretary of the Treasury Commencement Speaker

Secretary William Gibbs McAdoo has accepted the invitation tendered him through Secretary Daniels to make the commencement address at the University June 2. Mr. McAdoo was born near Marietta, Georgia, October 31, 1863, admitted to the bar in 1885, and practiced law in Chattanooga until he removed to New York in 1892. There he was president and director of the Hudson and Manhattan R. R. Company, which operates the Hudson River Tunnel system.

The invitation to speak at the University is the only invitation from a school or college which Mr. McAdoo has accepted since he has been in the Wilson cabinet. It was only by assiduous work on the part of those interested in the University that Secretary McAdoo was secured to speak here at commencement, since he is especially disinclined to accept invitations of this nature.

Mrs. McAdoo, daughter of the President, will accompany the Secretary. This will be a strong asset to the already strong commencement which has been planned. Other well known speakers are going to be secured. Many alumni from all over the State are expected to attend, and altogether the occasion will be a memorable one.

INAUGURATION APRIL 21

Many Men of High Rank to be Present for the Occasion

The formal inauguration of President Graham will occur on April 21st, and will be an affair of interest to the whole South and to those interested in education all over the country.

The program which has been partly arranged, includes addresses by President Lowell of Harvard, President Goodnow of Johns Hopkins, President Finley of New York University, and President Alderman of the University of Virginia. Delegates from 80 institutions have already signified their intentions of coming to the celebration, and others are yet to be heard from.

The learned societies of America will have a representation here and President Finley of N. Y. University and Commissioner of Education of New York State will speak in their behalf. Governor Craig will preside over the exercises in Memorial Hall. A procession consisting of visitors, alumni, faculty, and students will march from the Alumni Building to Memorial Hall. President Graham's address will be delivered on the morning of April 21st.

The Faculty committee in charge of the program consists of Dr. Archibald Henderson, Chairman; Doctors George Howe, L. R. Wilson, J. G. deR. Hamilton, J. H. Pratt, A. S. Wheeler, and Prof. A. H. Patterson.

The Zoology Club, composed mainly of students of second Zoology and the chosen few who climb higher in the course, met with Dr. H. V. Wilson Saturday night, February 13th. The purpose of this club is to extend the scope of the course by outside reading.

The preliminaries of the State High School Basketball Championship contest will close February 20th. The final championship game will be played at Chepel Hill on or about March 1st. Forty schools are now taking part in these preliminay contests.

Dr. E. C. Branson speaks at High Point Friday, February 19, under the auspices of the Woman's Club. His subject will be, "Come, let us live with our chiidren."

Schools are still being enrolled in the High School Debating Union. The latest entries are Marshville, Robersonville, Siler City, Raeford, and Aulander.

BASEBALL ON THE MOVE

Advent of Warm Weather Earnestly Awaited

In spite of the rain which has followed the beautiful weather of the last two weeks the work of the baseball squad has gone steadily on. The crack of the bat as it meets the horsehide is heard each afternoon at the athletic field. Every man seems to have his heart in the work.

So far, very little can be said as to the ability of the fellows who are trying for the different positions. Captain Woodall is on the job at all times. His energy and stellar work will go far towards making this year's team a success. There is no need to mention his ability as a receiver. That is too well known.

Besides Williams, Aycock, and Shields, there are several other candidates for the pitching department. Currie, Kinlaw, Plyler, and Lasley (the only left hander on the squad) are among the new hopes. These men came here with a reputation for good work and they bid fair to live up to all reports.

At first base the fight will be interesting. Hardison, of las year's team, Pope, and Zollicoffer are all working hard. Pope hits the ball hard at all times and fields well. Zollicoffer and Hardison both field well and are rather good with the stick.

Patterson seems to have the call at second. At short, Bruce of Elon last year, shows up well. He is a good fielder and hits the ball as if he had a grudge against it. Going around to third base, we have Lewis, last year's third sacker, and Sheek, a new man. Both are good fielders and Sheek hits well.

For the outfield positions there are several candidates. Phoebe Johnston is back and is hitting the ball again. Bailey still fields as he only can. Nance, Barnes, Pierson, Honey, Creighton, Edgerton, and Wood are also candidates. Out of this number three garderners will be chosen. It is safe to say that the men who hit the ball will play the positions.

The training table began the 15th of Feb., and will be continued throughout the season. This is something new here in baseball. The results will be watched carefully.

This is only a little talk; but just wait until the weather gets warm, then you will see a real fight.

The Good Roads Institute will meet in the Peabody Building February 23-27th. Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt is the director of the Institute.

W. J. Capehart, who was forced to leave college before examinations on account of illness, has recovered and is back on the Hill again.

L. C. Hall is temporarily indisposed on account of an accident in the labratory. A glass tube penetrated his hand and had to be removed at the Durham hospital.

TEAM ON NORTHERN TRIP

Win from Guilford and Roanoke. Few Details Obtainable

Wake Forest won the third game of the series between their team and Carolina, last Thursday night by the score of thirty to twenty-five, thus making it two out of three for Wake Forest.

The game was close and in doubt from start to finish, neither team having a decisive lead. With only one minute to play and with the score in favor of Carolina, 25 to 24, the Baptists began a rally that netted them six points and a victory.

Hall and Holding starred for Wake Forest, each getting four goals. Hall played a splendid defensive game as well.

Captain Long did great work for Carolina, scoring 13 points for his team and executing some pretty passing. Tandy at center did some excellent work also.

The game was one of the closest and best played of the season and was witnessed by a large crowd. The spectators were kept keyed up during the entire game, for it was full of spectacular plays that brought forth prolonged applause.

Outplaying their opponents at all parts of the game, Carolina's basketball team romped away with a desisive victory over the Guilford College boys last Saturday night.

The game was played in Raleigh and was witnessed by a good crowd. It was Carolina's last appearance in Raleigh this season and Guilford's first.

The Guilford boys played great ball during the first ten minutes of the game, holding their opponents scoreless, but soon their defence began to weaken and Carolina started to pile up the score. The boys from Guilford were fast on their feet and passed the ball well, but they were up against a stronger and more ex-

AFTER MOTT—WHAT?

About 400 men signed Mr. Mott's first card thereby pledging themselves "with the help of God to pay what it costs to be a sincere follower of Jesus Christ." How many men are going to live up to that promise to their better selves and how many are going to drift back into the old ways?

The whole matter is a question of little things. No man commits a great crime the first time he does wrong. By thought or action he gradually works himself into a ripe state for the greater crime. A man can live a good life only by watching the little things. The very idea of being a "follower of Jesus Christ" unless walking step by step.

The signing of those 400 cards was only the beginning. The result of the campaign will not be known for twenty-five years, fifty years or a hundred years. If the result is to be good 400 men must begin paying attention to the practical small things.

Reading the Bible fifteen minutes a day is a small thing; but if done daily the Bible can be read from cover well within a year.

An immoral picture on the wall is not a very important thing; but it may start a train of thought that will end in a human wreck.

DR. MOTT'S IMPRESSION OF THE UNIVERSITY

The following is an extract of and interview with Mr. Mott given out the day he left Chapel Hill. Remembering that Mr. Mott has intimate knowledge of practically every college and university of any size in the entire world and that his statement is made through no ulterior motive it would be well to attach the g;eatest importance to it.

"'When told the amount of money that the University authorities are requesting this year he said with great vigor. "That sum is small, rediculously small. When I think of the great work that is being done at the University and when I compare the amount you mention to the amounts received by other State Universities, I can say very postively that the sum asked for is much too small."

Continuing, he said: "Under the present management of the University there is not the slightest danger of extravagance. In Dr. E. K. Graham, you have a very able president indeed. Quite frequently college presidents are seen who are excellent administrative officers. And quite frequently college presidents are seen who have fine scholastic ideas. It is seldom that you find a man that combines the two qualities of of splendid administrative ability and high scholastic ideas as Doctor Graham does. He exemplifies before the students the best traditions of American college presidents."

"In its spirit of democracy," said Dr. Mott in answer to a question as to what are some of the distinctive things about the University, "Your University is the equal of any college or university in the United States or in the world, and in fact in this respect it is superior to most of them. When you consider how indispensable this spirit of democrocy is to the life of your State and to the Nation, you will realize what a fine thing it is that your future leaders are being trained up in an atmosphere of this kind.

Doctor Mott was told that the statement is occasionally made that the University is not a religious place. "That is absurd," was the reply. "It would be a great reflection upon your State if it were so. There are four things which make it impossible for the charge you mentioned to be sustained." (Doctor Mott is possibly greatest as an organizer. He marshalls the facts supporting a given statement with all the precision of a general in command of an army') "Ninety per cent of the students are church members. The faculty is composed of Christian gentlemen. The Churches of the village are earnestly at work among the students. The Y. M. C. A. of the students themselves is a splendidly managed organization. With these four forces at work it would be impossible for the institution to be anti-Christian. My observation convinces me that there is a deep and devout religious feeling throughout the student body. I have conducted meetings similar to the meetings just held in almost all universities on this Continent. Never have I seen a greater proportion of the student body constantly in attendance. Never have I seen a greater proportion make decisions for Christ."'—Charlotte Observer.

PEACE MAKERS TRY OUT

H. M Blalock Wins the Contest With "The Logic of Peace."

The contest to determine the University's representative in the Lake Mohonk Peace Prize Contest was held in chapel Saturday afternoon. Of the eight competing orators H. M. Blalock was the winner. His subject was "The Logic of Peace."

This Lake Mohonk Contest is open to undergraduates throughout the United States. Mr. Blalock will next go to Raleigh, where he will compete with the winners from the other colleges of the state. The wenner of this contest will receive a prize of $100 and will represent the state at Lake Mohonk.

The other speakers and their subjects were as follows: L. B. Gunter on "The Bridge of Peace;" W. B. Umstead on "The Final Program of Peace"; J. V. Whitfield on "The Solution of Peace"; R. M. Ross on "Can Reversed World Environment Engender Peace"; V. F. Williams on "Peace through the Awakening of the Individual"; Marlowe on "The Welding of Nations". The speeches varied in length from eleven to twenty minutes. Ross was awarded second place. The State Contest at Raleigh will take place in the near future.

ELLEN ELOPES WITH SUCCESS

Entertaining Comedy is Well Presented by Local Talent.

"The Elopment of Ellen," presented in the Y. M. C, A. last Thursday night for the benefit of the Altar Guild of the Episcopal church, was most successful in every detail. The cast was well selected, and acquitted itself in an excellent manner.

The work of Miss Mary Patterson as "June Haverhill" alias "Ellen", Mr, Charlie Coggin as "Max Len Eyce", and Mr. John Lasley as "Mr. Hume" the "Rector Chap" deserve special mention.

The other members of the cast were Miss Alice Noble as "Mrs. Ford", Miss Eleanora Wilson as "Dorothy Marcs", M. Leon Applewhite as "Richard Ford", and Mr. Phil Branson as "Robert."

Dr. Raper to Tennessee

Dr. C. L. Raper has been asked by the special commission appointed by the Governor of Tennessee to consult with them in regard to a plan of assessment and taxation reform. This commission will report a bill to the legislature early in March, providing for a far reaching change in assessment and taxation. The commission has been appointed to meet a plank in the last Democratic platform of Tennessee.

The basketball team left for their trip through Virginia last Saturday. The team will be weakened by the loss of Andrews, who was unable to accompany them on account of a recent death in his family.

THE GLEE CLUB TRAVELS

Musical Association Starts Toward the West

The Glee Club left Monday morning on its annual trip to the western part of the State.

Manager Pritchett has been very successful this season in securing engagements for the club, the following cities being scheduled: Salisbury, Albemarle, Gastonia, Hickory, Lenoir, and Greensboro.

Several new songs have been included in the medely, and the latest airs will be rendered by the mandolin club which is under the direction of William Wright.

Messrs. Robert House, Philip Branson, Sidney Blackmer, and Stroup have been enlisted and will prove very helpful to the chorus.

The Salisbury Evening Post says of the performance Monday night:

"The program was a varied one, and consisted of numbers which embraced a very wide range and pleased all who were present, also affording ample opportunity to the young gentlemen to set forth their splendid talents.

"The Glee Club numbers twenty-five picked voices who are right there with the goods when it comes to singing any kind of music. The quartet is especially good this year and they are all right there when it comes to making fun for the audience. The sextette which pulls off a burlesque on the famous "Sextette from Lucia" is also one of the feature numbers of the program."

THE NEW START

Tuesday Night Y. M. C. A. Talk Made by President Graham.

President Graham made the talk at the Tuesday night Y. M. C. A meeting which was held in chapel instead of in the Y. M. C. A. building. His subject was, "The New Start". The meeting was opened by a solo, "The Ninety and Nine", by Mr. R. G. Culver.

Dr. Graham stated that he had as yet not thought out the subject but intended to think it out virtually with his hearers.

There are three starts which one makes in life. First the physical development which starts birth and reaches its climax at college. Second the business or vocational development, which starts in college and modifies the thought of pure happiness with that of success. Third, the spiritual development which starts at different times and in different ways.

These starts do not come in chronological order, and it is the worst mistake a man can to put off this third start until late in life.

At the next Tuesday night meeting at the Y. M. C. A. the Nominating Committee will announce those nominated for the different offices of the Y. M. C. A., and the election will be held on the next Tuesday night meeting after that.

President Jewish Menorah Society Admires Mott

"What do you think of Mott?" "How did you like Mott?" "How did Mott impress you?" Such questions were heard and are still heard on all sides in our student community.

For certain reasons the these questions were directed to me more perhaps than to any other student in the University.

I confess that I went to hear Mott objectively, for this reason, perhaps, I was able to notice his methods of presentation and to follow calmly his line of argumentation. Taking Mott as a whole he impressed me to be the most unique Christian in the world. Mott does not preach a radical theology; in fact, he is very orthodox, yet he is the most broad minded Christian I have ever met. He has no hatred for the sinner and agnostic, nor pity; he sympathizes with them. And in this attitude of Mott to the bad Christian and non Christian we may find the secret influence on the students.

Mott did not bring with him the fires of hell to scare us; what he brought to us was torrents of sound reason and logic. His language was simple and clear—nothing to remind us of Sunday on one extreme or a Dewey on the other. His talks did not center on one topic only, yet I was unable to discover a single break in the continuity of his presentation. He never turned at right angles so as to make it hard for his hearers to follow quickly his turn of mind; his shifting to another topic was always in the form of a gent'e curve, being very easy for the hearer to follow him yet without a sense of monotony.

Mott's Christ impressed me to be very universal; spiritual, yet real, a spiritual reality. For this reason I consider Mott the greatest exponent of modern Christianity. Mott does not particularly care what you think of Christ; what he cares is how you live Christ. In his insistence on Living Christ he reminded me of Tolstoy.

From a private conversation with Mott I am justified in making the claim that he has a message not only to the Christian student but also to the student of other faiths or no faith at all; for how otherwise can I construct his most significant statement: "The devil or the father of lies wants to make us believe that there are differences between you and us!"

An Infuriated Step-Ladder Defending Its Young

THERE is no sense to the above picture; neither is there any sense to the title; and yet both are fully as sensible as some of the things people do every day. For instance:—Some people still smoke a cheap cigarette put up in a fancy package and pay twice what it is worth. Why not try a sensible smoke—FATIMA? No frills; just good, clean tobacco delightfully blended and put up in a sensible package.

Shaving glass on window-sill, dirty collars and Cosmopolitans everywhere. Last, and probably least, YOU; chair tilted back; feet on radiator; Math I, which by no means implies that you are a Freshmen, in your lap. YOU have been boning on it for the last three hours. Enter ME, very handsome! YOU hurriedly close book. ME: Hello, old Devil! See you're studying hard. YOU (mortally insulted); Me studying! Hell, no! (Apologetically, for having incurred such a suspicion). Just thought I'd glance over this math a second. Nothing else to do.

ME (experimentally): Blamed if I see how you pass your work. You're the biggest loafer in college,

YOU (immensely flattered): Aw now! (proudly) This is the first time I've cracked that math this year.

ME (in a fit of philosophical frankness): You're an old friend of mine; therefore I tell you you're a lie. I'm tired of all this bluff. You're trying to make me think that you're not a bonehead. But I know you are. We all are. Only some hide it better.

YOU: Dangerous attitude! Your attitude is your character. Cultivate it. Listen at that! Who said I was a bonehead?

ME: I know it; I'll never get away with it. (Re-waxing philosophical) There's only one way to work this world. Do you know the system—how to get along well?

YOU; "Dig it—"

ME: Don't say it. It's simple. Dollars and love and power and Senior Presidencies come as easy as believing.

YOU (sniffing suspiciously): Where did you get it?

ME: All you've got to is to believe every man is 50 per cent better than you think he is. Everybody you try it on agrees with you perfectly and has such trust in your superior judgement.

YOU (feeling faint): Don't slam the door when you go.

ME: Don't worry. Do you know why I wasted this hour with you and the last at Pick?

YOU: Because you've got a lot of work to get up for tomorrow.

ME: Correct! A bunch of work and a quiz. Lend me this Cosmopolitan. Good night.

perienced team. Jones, Wood, and Seaman played best for their team, the latter doing some especially good guarding.

For Carolina, Tandy, Long, and Johnson were stars. Tandy lost his man time after time, and succeeding in caging the ball nine times. The passing of Long and Johnson was faultless, these forwards deing able to bring the ball direrctly under the goal.

From Raleigh our boys went to Roanoke College where they play the first game of a weeks trip through Virginia.

Line up.

Carolina	Guilford

Summary: Field goals; Long 6, Johnson 3, Tandy 9, Wood 2, Jones 3. Fouls: Long 5 out of 6 chances, Wood 3 out of 7 chances. Officials: Benbow and Doak. 20 minute halves.

The basketball team defeated Roanoke College at Salem, Va., Monday night by the close score of 18 to 17.

The following night they met defeat at the hands of Washington and Lee's five in Lexington. This time the score was 22 to 29. In this game Tandy and Johnson starred for U. N. C. while Vase and Young featured for the Generals.

The basketball team left Saturday afternoon on its annual northern trip. The towns visited, all in Virginia, are; Salem, Lexington, Charlottsville, Staunton, and Lynchburg; and the respective teams opposed are Roanoke College, Washington and Lee, Vigmia Military Institute, University of Virginia, Staunton Military Academy, and Lynchburg Y. M. C. A. Manager Mebane was unable to go with the team on account of pressing work on the Yackety Yack, of which he is editor-in-chief, and Marshall Williams, assistant manager, is transacting the business of the trip. The men who made the trip are Captain Long, Johnson, Tandy, Tennent, Davis, Keesler, Hedding, and Coach Doak. The team will arrive on the Hill Sunday.

A Fable

There once was a student who wanted to wash, so he hied him to a hot watering place, Bynum Springs famous in song and story—a winter as well as a summer resort—the last resort of others. There he hoped to lave his limbs, so he stood him shivering around the shower room, soap in hand, for fifteen minutes, but still no shower was free. At last some generous and lathered brother cried, "come under", and the student stepped under the falling waters. No sooner, however, had he soaped his ears than the occupant of the next shower stall cut on the cold water which likewise caused an icy precipitation on the student's head. Hardly had the stream been modulated again, when a fellow across the room turned off the warm water. "Ah!" cried the student in despair, as he sprang from the frigid stream "I don't need a bath anyway", and he hastened him back to his chamber.

ROAD ENGINEERS CONFER

Institute Held This Week in Peabody Building

One of the features of this week's work here at the University has been the Road Institute, Feb. 23-27, 1915, held under the auspicies of the Department of Civil and Highway Engineering of the University and the North Carolina Gelogical and Economic Survey.

At this meeting everything pertaining to the building and upkeep of roads has been discussed by trained men. In short, it has been a meeting in which county engineers, superintendents of roads, and representatives of companies who manufacture road materials have met and discussed every point from the location and building of roads to the building of bridges and the best kind of culverts to be used.

The members of the faculty of the University have also taken an active part in the meetings. Pres. Graham made the opening address. Professors Stacy, Hickerson, Cobb and Mr. Smith have all taken an active part in the Institute.

On each day a definite program has been carried out. At no time since the registration at the Peabody Building on Tuesday has there been any let-up in the interest of those attending.

Representatives of the DuPont Power Company, the Barber Asphalt Company, Bridge building Companies, Pomona Terra Cotta Co., the Newport Culvert Co., The Carolina Metal Products Co., and the International and Clay Products Bureau were present to exhibit material for road building.

FOOTLIGHT FAVORITES

The Satyrs Go Conquesting in Foreign Fields

The second trip of the Dramatic Club will begin March 8th and extend over a period of six or seven days. The schedule is as follows: Monday, March 8th Greenville at the East Carolina Teachers Training School, Tuesday in Rockingham, Wednesday in Charlotte, Thursday in Asheville, and Friday in Greensboro at the State Normal College. The Saturday night date is still open, and lies between Salisbury and Oxford.

The Club is rehearsing "Arms and the Man" now so that all will be in readiness for the call to the footlights. The stock of cosmetics for the ladies, bless 'em, is being replenished, and the dauntless Coggin is priming himself for his masterly role as the Chocolate Soldier. There have been no changes in the caste since last fall. The all star caste is left entire with its satellites and Satyrites.

The Alumni all along the route have responded heartily; so that the Club may expect at every stop the royal treatment it always receives at their hands.

CHAMPIONSHIP DECIDED

Freshmen Basketball Champions by Close Margin

As a result of their victory over the Sophomores Tuesday night the Freshman basketball team became champions by the margin of one game. In the first game of the class series the Freshmen were defeated by the Sophomores, but in the final game succeeded in getting away with a victory 12 to 10. This was the fastest and hardest fought game yet played by the class teams, and was close throughout. The score was 10 to 10 the final minute of play, when Armstrong got away from his guard and scored the winning goal.

Failure to shoot both field goals and fouls was the main cause of the Sophomore's defeat, for they played equally as well as the Freshmen. Out of nine tries at fouls the Sophs caged the ball only twice. Several times the losers had easy chances at goals, but a poor shot prevented their scoring. Tennent's excellent passing and shooting featured the contest.

Lineup:

Sophomores		Freshmen
Hoover	R F	Tennent
Cowell	L F	Armstrong
Watkins	C	Perry
Squires	R G	Gudger
Kendrick	L G	Williams

Summary. Field goals, Hoover 2, Watkins 1, Squires 1, Tennent 2, Armstrong 3. Foul goals, Tennent 2 in 6, Cowell 1 in 8, Hoover 1 in 1.

Referee—Doak.

Final standing of teams:

Freshmen	4	1	800
Sophomores	3	2	600

Delegates Commissioned

Dr. George T. Winston, Asheville; Dr. E. K. Graham, Chapel Hill; Dr. W. L. Poteat, Wake Forest; Dr. W. P. Few, Trinity College; Dr. W. J. Martin, Davidson College, are commissioned by Governor Craig as delegates from this State to the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia April 9 and 10.—Salisbury Evening Post.

Ex-President Taft Coming

Ex-President Taft recently delivered a series of lectures to large crowds at the University of Virginia on the subject, "The Presidency; Its Duties, Its Powers, Its Responsibilities, and Its Limitations." Mr. Taft will speak at Carolina in the near future.

The State Senate has passed the bill for the appropriation of $20,000 for the purchase of Mt. Mitchell. The projected plan is to make a state park of this beautiful and historic tract of land.

EXCHANGE LECTURESHIP

Dr. Venable Has Recently Lectured in South Carolina

The system of exchange lectureship, inaugurated this present year between the Universities of South Carolina, Vanderbilt, Virginia, and North Carolina, began under happy auspicies at both Charlottesville and Columbia during the week Feburary 8-12. It was only accidental that this week was chosen for Dr. Mim's lectures at Virginia and Dr. Venable's at South Carolina; yet the coincidence was a most auspicious one. Somewhat later in the year, President Currell of S. C. will lecture at Vanderbilt. During the week of April 26-30 Professor W. M. Thorton, Dean of the Department of Engineering, University of Virginia, will lecture here. His lectures before the higher classes in engineering, mathematics, and physics, will be on the subject, "Accelerated Methods of Analysis Applied to the Strength of Materials." On April 29, in response to the invitation of the Elisha Mitchell Society, he will speak on the topic, "The Education Which Fits the Boy to Become an Engineer." On Monday evening, April 28, before the general University audience, he will speak on a subject of profound interest, one which is a source of pride to all Americans, the great canal so recently completed. Dean Thornton is a brilliant lecturer; and having made an exhaustive study of the canal as a colossal feat of engineering genius, his lecture bids fair to be singularly instructive and illuminating. The lecture, illustrated with slides prepared by Professor Thornton himself, will be given under the title, "Engineering Problems of the Panama Canal."

The system of exchange lectureships, which was worked out by the University Lecture Committee here, has been inaugurated most successfully. The objects of the foundation, as established, are to promote scholarship and research, to present in correct form recent advances in a special branch of learning, and to bring the instructors concerned into closer relationship, through discussion of vital problems affecting the modern University.

In pursuance of the initial purpose of the foundation, Dr. Venable, of the Department of Chemistry, began his series of lectures at Columbia on Monday, Feb 8, with an address, "The Duty of a University as to Research." On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, he lectures before certain chosen classes with their instructors in chemistry and physics on "Radio-activity and Radio-active Substances." Dr. Venable's lectures came at the noon hour, 12 to 1 P. M., and were delivered to abaut 100 auditors each time. The intense and continuous interest displayed in these lectures, as well as the size of the audience to hear the general lecture on the pressing topic of "The Responsibility of a Univer-

SOME LIVE WIRES AT WORK

Wireless Station Recently Installed in Alumni

Who talks of Chapel Hill's isolation? Who complains that the University is away from the world? If such there be, go mark him well, and direct his attention to the roof of the New East Building. There he will see an L shaped arrangement of wires that constitutes the aerial of the University Wireless Station, the main office of which is located in the basement of the Alumni Building.

Mr. C. H. Burkhead, superintendent of the University power plant, together with Professor Daggett recently installed the station. Ms. Burkhead was for several years connected with the government in the installation of wireless stations, and is an expert operator. The station is used in connection with the engineering department, and is a valuable means of instruction.

Messages are received several times each day from Arlington Station, near Washington. At ten o'clock every night the weather reports are received, and twice a day the correct time is ascertained through Arlington Station. Messages are also received from Beaufort and Seville Station, Long Island. News from other stations has been heard at times, but the messages have been indistinct. The latest war reports are heard daily.

The station is equipped only for receiving, and no messages can be sent out. The students have manifested much interest in the plant, and several are learning the code so as to take down the messages flashed through space.

ALL-CLASS TEAM CHOSEN

Coach Doak Selects Five of Season's Best Players

Aftermaturedeliberation Coach Doak has submitted what he considers the all-class basketball team. Picking this team was a difficult problemsince competition was very close. The men who compose the first all-class team are:

Forwards—Keesler and Tennent.

Center—Watkins.

Guards—Patterson and Gudger.

This team, in Coach Doak's opinion, is a strong and fast aggregation, who could defeat the second team and give the 'varsity a warm time.

The men who compose the second all-class team are:

Forwards—Cowell and Bruce.

Center—Impossible to decide; place is given to both Cowan and Perry.

Guards—Pell; other place a draw between Hoover and Woodall.

According to the rule made by the Greater Council, the members of the championship class

BASKETBALL TEAM BACK

Returns Sunday from Weeks Trip in Virginia

Carolina defeated Staunton Military Academy Friday night 28 to 16. The Staunton boys were outplayed during the entire game and were easily defeated. Carolina could have run the score much higher if she had played harder. Captain Long featured for the Tar Heels at passing and shooting. Tandy also did some splendid work.

For the second time this season Virginia's basketball team won from Carolina Thursday night in Charlottesville forty-three to twenty-six. The pace was terrific at times and the game was featured by pretty passing.

Captain Long and Tandy did splendid work for their team, while Stickley, Luck, and Dittrick featured for the winners.

Lineup:

CAROLINA		VIRGINIA
Johnson	R F	Stickley, Capt
Long, Capt.	L F	Nickels
Tandy	C	Strickling
Davis	R G	Dittrick
Andrews	L G	Luck

Summary. Substitutions, White for Nickels, Via for Dittrick, Andlews for Johnson, Tennent for Andrews. Field Foals, Nickels 7, Stickley 5, Strickling, Dittrick 1, Luck 1, Long 6, Tandy 4, Johnson 2. Foul goals Strickling 5 out of 8, Long 2 out of 2.

Referee—Calliflower of Georgetown.

With a crippled team, Carolina lost to the fast Lynchburg Y. M. C. A. basketball team Saturday night by the score of 63 to 22. Johnson, Carolina's star forward, was kept out of the game on account of an injured shoulder, and Tandy received injuries in the contest that necessitated his removal before the game was half over. Kunz, Captain, and Lynchburg center, was the star of the contest, his work being the best spectacular ever seen on a Lynchburg floor. Long for Carolina played his usual good game, but was handicapped by the absence of Johnson, his mate at forward. The game was free from roughness and although slightly one sided, was very interesting and well played.

Lineup:

Long		Jamerson
	R F
Keesler		Campbell
	L F
Kunz		Tandy, Holding
	C
Tennent		Sowers
	R G
Andrews		Offerdinger
	L G

Summary. Field goals, Jamerson 7, Campbell 4, Kung 8, Offerdinger 5, Long 4, Keesler 2, Tandy 2, Holding 1, Andrews 1. Foul goals, Campbell 5 out of 9, Long 0 in 3.

Referee—Davis of Virginia.

RESULTS.

Things are usually measured in this work-a-day world by results. A little incident will serve to show the direction of the wind following the Mott Meetings.

At a meeting Sunday morning, volunteers for Sunday School work were called for along with volunteers for other departments of Y. M. C. A. work. After a plentiful supply of men had been assigned to the four Sunday Schools running, all others desirous of helping in this work were asked to meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 2:15 and walk to a neighborhood four miles from Chapel Hill and help start a new Sunday School. Thirty men met at the Y. M. C. A. at 2:15.

BASKETBALL RETROSPECT

Basketball this season has been a disappointment. With the same team in college and with a first class coach the college was looking forward to a successful season. Only one of the important games was won and that was on the home floor. One more game remains on the schedule; Elon at Chapel Hill Saturday.

The natural thing to do is to find where the trouble is and see what can be done to remedy it. First, the trouble was not the coaching. Mr. Doak's work has met with hearty approval of all who have followed his work closely. He knows basketball and, what is more important, he knows boys. Second, the trouble was not with the individual members of the team. Every man on the team was playing at least his second year on Carolina; besides many years on Y. M. C. A. and prep school teams,

Third, the trouble does lie in the length of preliminary practice and the number of good scrub men. The team got off to a bad start this year, among other reasons because the men were not in half decent shape. Most of them had been on the football squad following Thanksgiving letdown. The others had done little or nothing to get in shape. Of course there are one or two individual exceptions to these statements.

Basketball is a young sport in this section of the country. This season is the fifth at Carolina. It did not start much earlier elsewhere in Carolina colleges. Rapid strides are being made yearly and the trouble in Carolina is following instead of leading. Other squads practice all fall.

Carolina should promote a series of class games in the fall and should have some form of varsity practice also. Of course the main obstacle in the way is football. We believe, however, that Carolina is getting big enough to run two branches of athletics at once. The time is rapidly approaching when it will be probably impossible for one man to be prominent in two branches of sports that follow each other on the athletic Calendar. The man elected captain of the team for the coming year should consider himself morally bound to make basketball his main thought from the day of his election until the whistle of the last game a year from now. Provided he does we will guaarantee a successful season.

THE YACKETY YACK

There has been heard the first rumor of dissatisfaction in the present method of conducting the Yackety Yack. Saturday night the two societies appointed a committee to confer with a similar committee appointed by the Fraternities for the purpose of discussing possible reform in the management of the annual. We understand that this preliminary step was inspired by the present managers.

It is worth noting that the method of conducting the annual here is probably not paralled by any other institution in the United States. Two managers with equal power and the Editor-in-Chief are the three main officers. These three positions rotate among the two Societies and the Fraternities. The Fraternities started the Yackety Yack but, as the financial burden increased, called on the two Societies.

The two Societies responded. With power so scattered, no organization feels particularly responsible for the management. Certain it is that no regulation of its actions has been attempted by the three organizations during the last four years.

The defects of the present system are: Dual managerialship, lack of financial responsibility, dissipation of power, and lack of control over cost, due to the fact that the managers secure all the profits.

In practically every school the Senior or Junior Class or some public organization like the Y. M. C. A. gets out the annual. If the Junior or Senior Class published the annual all profits would be used for class purposes and every man would eventually get his share of the profits.

A change in the system is worth thinking about. The main question is; are conditions at Chapel Hill so peculiar in regard to the present organization of management that a change in the usual method would be undesirable? It's worth thinking about.

THE MAIL BOX

The mail box in front of the South Building has been reopened for business. Horney Handed Henry collects the mail morning and afternoon. As he also collects mail at the President's office at the same time there is no danger of its not being collected. The Tar Heel calls attention of this little detail merely because the box is a real convenience to users.

Some of the upper classmen have never been able to regard the mail box as worthy of being trusted since that memorable occasion when mail collected in it for thirteen days three years ago.

NO PAID COACHES FOR HIM

Pres. Hibben of Princeton Says Captains Should be Responsible Men

President John Grier Hibben of Princeton University is not a believer in paid coaches, but insists that more responsibility should be put on the captains of the teams.

"Particularly in the game of football, the captain of the team should be the sole responsible person for the management of his men, devising and directing their play in practice games so that in the critical situations of a great contest he and his team will rise to the occasion and win or lose with honor."

DEATH OF MRS W. J. DIXON

Well Known Resident of Chapel Hill Died Tuesday

The entire community was saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. W. J. Dixon, which occurred Tuesday before last at nine A. M. Mrs. Dixon had been in ill health for several months and had endured much suffering. She had been a resident of Chapel Hill for several years and was widely known in the town as a woman of true Christian spirit. As matron of the University Commons Hall she was well known and loved by the students. The funeral service was held Wednesday and was largely attended.

Cornell Athletes Good Students

The average mark of men engaged in athletics and other undergraduate activities at Cornell University are better than the general average of the university. Last year Cornell's crew squad, numbering nineteen men, had an average mark of 75.30 per cent. and the swimming team, with a total of eleven men, had an average equal to that of the oarsmen. The general average of the university last year was 72.45 per cent. The Masque, Cornell's dramatic club, averaged 75; the mandolin club, consisting of eighty-seven men, 73.7. Some of the publication boards and other athletic teams averaged higher than the men engaged in no form of activity.

THE GLEE CLUB RETURNS

Greeted by Enthusiastic Audiences in Every Town

The Carolina Glee Club returnded Sunday night from their tour of the western part the state. In every city visited they were given a hearty reception and proved themselves worthy of the unstinted praise they received at each concert.

Under the competent management of Jim Pritchett the club cleared some two hundred dollars above all expenses. The Salisbury Evening Post says in an editorial, "They not only gave a splendid evenings entertainment, but they reflect great credit on the institution which is training them for life." In Salisbury the members of the Glee Club were guests at a Valentine Ball given by the Elizabeth Maxwell Steele Chapter of the Daughters of the American Republic. It was declared one of most beautiful events of the Salisbury social season. After the ball Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Blackmer were at home to the club.

In Albemarle Mr. Tom DeVane was the moving spirit. Aside from a large and appreciative audience, a most enjoyable dance and reception were tendered the club after the concert.

In Gastonia the concert was very successful. A reception was accorded the Glee Club immediately after the concert.

In the mountain city of Lenoir the people seemed deeply interested in the coming of the Glee Club and spared no pains making their stay enjoyable. A reception was given at the school

In Hickory the Glee Club was received with open arms, and every courtesy was shown them. A dance was given at the armory in honor of the club.

The last concert was given in Greensboro and was one of the most pleasant. A reception was held by the Senior class of the Normal, which proved most enjoyable.

The 1914-15 season has been a very successful one for the Glee Club, and every member is enthusiastic in his praise of Jim Pritchett.

The Approach of Spring

Spring is coming. It is in the air. You can't miss feeling it. The maple trees on the campus are begining to blush at his hastening approach. The arboretum is beginning to be fragrant with the "Sweet Breath of Spring", here and there over town you can find a crocus, if you look carefully, and windows in the dormitories are seen open quite frequently. On the tennis courts there is every sign of spring except the proverbial spring cleaning. Every afternoon dozens of young men can be seen exercising with rackets. Moreover, everybody is beginning to feel that listlessness which is an unmistakable sign of spring. Ere we drink the cup of spring, however, dissipated winter may snatch it from our lips, but spring is coming—verily spring is coming.

REV. JAMES K. PHILLIPS

Oxford Minister Preaches University Sermon

Reverend James K. Phillips, of Oxford, preached the University sermon for February in Gerrard Hall on last Sunday. Though Mr. Phillips himself is not an alumnus of the University, he came to us more by way of apostolic succession than by introduction. His great-grandfather, Dr. James Phillips, was born in England and came to the University in 1826; he was professor of mathematics in the University and stated supply for the Presbyterian church until his death in 1957. His son, Dr. Charles Phillips, succeeded him both in the University and in the Presbyterian church until his death in 1889. And Reverend A. L. Phillips of Richmond, Va., son of Dr. Charles and father of Reverend James K., is an alumnus of the University.

Mr. Phillips found his sermon in the incidents of Simon Peter's life as narrated in John 21. He emphasized the challenge the Lord made to Peter: "Simon, lovest thou me more than these?" Christ emphasized that love was the test he was applying to Peter by making the challenge three times. And Peter searched his past for the answer to this challenge, and he fell at the feet of Christ and replied: "Lord thou knowest that I love thee." Christ then enjoined Peter to "Feed my sheep" and thus to live his love by service. And Christ so enjoins us to live a life of love and service.

Exchange Professorship

sity for Research," abundantly testify to the success of this inaugural course of lectures. The courtesies shown Dr. Venable during his stay in Columbia constitute a gracious evdience of the larger University community aimed at by all participants in the foundation.

At Charlottesville, Professor Edwin Mims, head of the English Department of Vanderbilt, gave a series of lectures on "Literature as a Form of Thinking." The account of his lectures in "College Topics" carried the statement that he had fulfilled in admirable fashion the purpose for which the exchange lectureship was established and had left a deep impression upon many of the students of the University of Virginia. The leading editorial in "College Topics," under the heading "The Exchange Professorships" speaks as follows:

"We are glad to see a new intellectual comradeship arising among the most representative Southern Universities. Such a system as is planned will bring the most prominent of these universities into closer contact with each other's life and thoughts than ever before. It is a notable tendency nowadays for colleges to be less sufficient unto themselves than they have been in the past, and by contact with one another to broaden their outlook and their usefulness." In heartily endorsing the expressions in this editorial the editor of the Vanderbilt "Hustler" says: "We believe that the system which has just been inaugurated will be of great value to each of the Universities participating, and that it will go far toward destroying the last vestiges of provincialism in thought and feelings."

The University of North Carolina looks forward with the keenest pleasure and interest to the coming of Professor Thornton of Virginia.

The banqueting season is here. The Seniors hold theirs Friday 26, and the Juniors will celebrate a week later. Both the banquets will be held at the University Inn.

Dr. Sato Now In Japan

Dr. Shosuke Sato of the Tohoku Imperial University, Japan, who delivered a series of lectures here last spring, has returned to Japan. In a letter to friends in America he says: "After visiting England, France, Switzerland, and Germany, I left Berlin for Vladivostock on the fourth of August and Tokyo on the sixth of the same month.....I have been especially very thankful to my good friends in America that the message of peace and good will which I brought from Japan was so warmly received and reciprocated. War may rage on the Continent, but peace must ever prevail on both sides of the Pacific."

High School Basketball

In the State High School Basketball Championship Contest the number of contestants has been reduced from forty to eleven. Those elegible in the East and West are as follows: in the East; Goldsboro, Raleigh, Enfield, Middleburg, and Benson; in the West; Asheville, Winston-Salem, Belmont, Matthews, Statesville, and Lexington. Preliminay games are now being played and the final championship game will probably be played in Chapel Hill on March 12.

University Sermon

The University Sermon for February was delivered last Sunday in chapel by Mr. Samuel K. Phillips of the Oxford Presbyterian Church. He took as his text John 21, 15-18, the testing of Simon Peter, "the most eminent backslider of the Gospel". Mr. Phillips hearers were very appreciative.

High School Track Meet

The Greater Council and General Alumni Athletic Association recently made the announcement of the third annual inter-scholastic track meet and second annual championship contest in baseball. The track meet will be held on April 15, 1915 and the date of the final game in baseball will be determined later. Since the inauguration of these athletic contests among the high schools of the state in the spring of 1913, interest has been constantly increasing. The printed announcement can be obtainted fromthe Bureau of Extension.

Those unintelligible bulletins signed by C. A. Shore, which have been appearing periodically on the Alumni bulletin board and which have to do with colon bacilli, albuminoid ammonia, and acid forming bacteria, mean that the Chapel Hill water supply is pure. These documents are the verdicts of the State Laboratory of Hygiene, which has tried specimens of town water and water from the college well and found both innocent of harmful contents.

Ben Aycock was called home last week by the death of his brother, William Aycock. The circumstances of his death were very tragic. He was killed in an automobile wreck, as the party of which he was a member, was returning to Raleigh from the country club. Senator Johnson and Speaker Wooten were injured in the accident, the latter being seriously but not fatally hurt. The sympathy of the entire coleeg goes out to Ben in his sad bereavement.

An Infuriated Step-Ladder Defending Its Young

THERE is no sense to the above picture; neither is there any sense to the title; and yet both are fully as sensible as some of the things people do every day. For instance:—Some people still smoke a cheap cigarette put up in a fancy package and pay twice what it is worth. Why not try a sensible smoke—FATIMA? No frills; just good, clean tobacco delightfully blended and put up in a sensible package.

20 for 15c.

The $500 Prize

This ad, the Second in the $500 Fatima Advertising Contest, is the work of Mr. J. P. Watson, Cornell University.

$500 will be paid to the college student who sends to us the best original advertisement for Fatima cigarettes before June 1, 1915. In the meantime, for each ad we publish we will pay the writer $5. Illustrate your ad, if you can, but if you can't draw, then use your kodak or describe your idea.

Prizes will be awarded by a committee of three prominent advertising men: L. B. Jones, Adv. Mgr. Eastman Kodak Co., F. R. Davis, Adv. Dept. General Electric Co., and J. George Frederick, Editor of Advertising & Selling.

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love". "The same thing", adds Bernard Shaw, occurrs in summer, autumn and winter also." If so you will doubtless listen sympathetically to the tragic romance of the lover whose beloved, despising his affection, gave him "the most unkindest cut of all". Attend tearfull while Romeo bewails his woes:

False, cruel creature! false to me—
Me who to my lips have pressed thee
And against my cheek have caressed thee
Quite oft, pardie!—
I'll not smile again in days or
Weeks perhaps; for you behold!—
Before my face passed proud and cold,—
You devilish razor!

All this, however, you understand, has nothing whatsoever to do with the Fable of the Peach, the Good Egg, the College Bull—and the Pill. You see, there was once a Peach who was suitored by those three. The Good Egg and the College Bull both used the same method. They swamped her with slush. They told her that she was a Peach and that she could play jack-rocks with the Stars in their Crowns. But the Peach had gotten tired of that stuff before she had stopped being a Blossom. It was monotonous. So she simply showed the Pair a Good Time: she took the Bull by the Horns and broke the Good Egg. She didn't care for them. She wanted something new. The Pill was it. He was different. He didn't have gumption enough to slush. When she asked him how she looked, he said that he reckon she'd do if the light was dim. The Peach was enchanted; she fell for him on the spot. She never even guessed he was a Pill. She showed her preference so violently that the other suitors called him a sugar-courted Pill. At last it ended thus: the Peach pickled the Pair—and then took the Pill!

Moral: Before you try it, be sure of this—that she's a perfect Peach.

Aged Man Dead

Mr. Cheslie Andrews, aged 94 years died at his home in the Orange Grove section Saturday night, last. The remains were interred in the family burying ground, near his home. When a young man he was overseer of the college grounds, and helped to build the rock walls around the campus of the Unicersity. He went with Professor Mitchell to the mountains and helped survey the road to Mount Mitchell.

Really Now

A member of the History Seven class recently asked during a general discussion of Religion and the Constitution, "Dr. Hamilton, do you suppose any court of law could construe a Mormon's marrying two wives as an act of worship?"

As yet, Manager Whitaker of the track team has scheduled only one meet. This is with Wake Forest, and will be held at the University April 17. Manager Whitaker has communicated with V. P. P., V. M. I., Washington and Lee, Clemson, Davidson, and other colleges, and will submit the completed schedule shortly.

Professor Patterson Speaks on "A Study in Honor"

At the rgulaer Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was received the report of the representatives who went to Charlotte to attend the Layman's Missionary Convention. These representatives were D. E. Eagle, E. T. Cooper, and F. B. Marsh. After the report there was special music by Wharton, Marsh, Spain, and E. P. Jones.

After the preliminary business, Prof. A. H. Patterson made a short but interesting address on the subject, "A Study in Honor". After citing the inspiring example of Belgium's sacrificing everything for honor, he passed to the dictionary and picked out the common definition of honor,—"A nice sense of what is just, right, and true, with a course of life corresponding thereto." Then he illustrated the three codes of honor,--national, corporation, and personal, and emphasized the fact that all personal codes of honor are apt to be very one-sided. Christ lived the most honorable life ever lived and therefore He is the most perfect gentleman that ever lived. Finally if one wishes to live a really honorable life, let him follow the golden rule and do unto others, as he would have them do unto him.

The nominating committee proposed the following men for office during the coming year; the election will be held next Friday night:

For President, J. Merrel Parker, Vice-President, Francis O. Clarkson, Secretary, Francis F. Bradshaw, Treasurer, Lee H. Edwards.

team are allowed the privilege of wearing their class numerals. The Freshmen are the champions this year. Consequently, the men who can wear '18 on their chest next year are: Tennent, McClamrock, Perry, Sawyer, Gudger, Holding, Williams, and Armstrong.

Shag Thompson, recently of Carolina, at present with the Philadelphia Americans, has been spending the winter in Haw River. Shag says next week will find him on his way to Jacksonville, Florida, where the Athletics will start warming up for the coming season.

Prof. Judd will deliver two lectures each at the Central State Normal School of Michigan and at the Western State Normal School of Michigan on March 10th and 12th respectively. His subjects will be: "The School Farm Movement in Wake County," and "Educational Progress in the South".

Washington's birthday was celebrated variously around Chapel Hill. The banks closed and the post office employees likewise took more time off than usual. Some students went home, some to Raleigh, some nowhere in particular. However celebrated, the day formed a most agreeable interruption to class work.

LATEST TRACK PROSPECTS

The New Material is Both Promising and Plentiful

Spring weather has caused a 100 per cent rise in track stock. The old men, Captain Woollcott, Patterson, Smith, Whiting, and Homewood are already displaying mid-season form, while last year's scrub men are showing up just as well as the wearers of N. C.'s.

For the sprint there is a fast field to select from. Clip Smith, last year's N. C. man in the 220, Goat Wright and Hugh Black, South Carolina's fastest prep school man, are showing up best so far, but Williams, last year's state high school champion sprinter, and Wood, a strongly built new candidate, are also good for points in the varsity meets.

The quarter is one of Carolina's surest events with Patterson, who for two years has won time after time, and McDuffie, who bids fair to run Little Pat a tie in almost every race. With steady work Gus Graham's stride should give him a chance with the other two.

Seymour Whiting, the fleet of foot, is the premier half miler. Two minutes flat is expected of him this year.

In the mile Rand bids fair to be an equal of the Southern Champion, Earl Patterson, two years ago captain of the team, while Pitts is never five yards behind. Following these two leaders is a numerous bunch of splendid material, of whom York, 1918, looks best.

Harrison is leading the 2 mile field. Upchurch, although very erratic, is just about as good.

Wright will be the first man in the broad jump with at least twenty-three feet. Captain Woollcott will be second, with Hatcher and Rimmer as good probabilities.

In the high jump Woollcott is expected to go almost six feet, while Kranner, a new man with long legs and powerful spring, ought to stick right by. Wright, Graham, Davis, and McKane may be used for this event also.

Homewood is booked for eleven feet flat in the vault. Isley and Davis are also out for this event.

For the hurdles there is Woollcott of last year and a fast crew of good looking new men.

Davis, winner of the shot put in the High School Meet last year, has already made thirty-seven feet eleven inches--over a foot better than has been made here in several years. Ramsay is pushing him close, while Hogan is almost up with both.

Ramsay looks good in the discus, having made over a hundred feet already. Davis, Hogan, and Hall are also strong.

With this lot of material coming out over forty strong every day, working regularly under the new system of squad training by older varsity men and graduates, the team should be well rounded into shape for the following pending schedule:

April 17

Wake Forest....at....Chapel Hill

April 24

Elon.....at.....Chapel Hill

April 29

W. & L.....at.....Lexington

May 1

V. P. I.....at.....Blacksburg

Dr. L. R. Wilson will leave March 8th for Madison, Wisconsin, to attend the first National University Extension Convention.

CAROLINA LOSES TO ELON

Last Game of Season Ends in Defeat by Four Points

Carolina was defeated by Elon College last Saturday night at Elon in the final game of the season. This was the second time these two basketball teams have met this season, the first game being won by Carolina 15 to 9, and the last being lost 19 to 15.

The game Saturday night closed a splendid season for Elon since they have won from every college in the State.

The feature of the game was the work of Tennent, Carolina's left guard, who held Moorefield scoreless, and did some splendid passing in addition to his close guarding. Long and Andrews were the only Carolina men to score, Long caging the ball three times and Andrews four. Andrews was stationed at forward in place of Johnson, who was unable to play on account of injuries received on the Virginia trip.

McCauley won the game for Elon by throwing nine fouls. Carolina gained very little by fouls, getting only one out of eight chances.

Lineup.

Carolina	Elon
Long	Moorefield
R F
Andrews	Bradford
L F
Tandy	McCauley
Davis	Massey
R G
Tennent	Morgan
L G

Summary. Field goals, Long 3, Andrews 4, Bradford 2, Massey 2, Morgan 1. Foul goals, Long 1 out of 8, McCauley 9 out of 17.

JUNIOR WEEK APPROACHES

Plans Being Perfected for Seven Sensational Days

With the arrival of warm weather and new spring suits, everybody's thoughts begin to conjure up visions of Junior Week and the manifold diversions which that time implies. The dance leaders are swamped with letters from program and invitation manufacturers, and correspondence in carried on daily with the leaders of different orchestras in several cities. The committee from the Junior class has petitioned the Faculty for three holidays, the 7, 8, and 9 of April, but the petition has not yet been acted on. Three night dances will be given; the first by Order of Gimghouls, the second by the Juniors, and the third by the German Club. There will probably be also an informal afternoon dance. The dances will be lead by M. N. Oates, J. G. Cowan, and W. O. Huske respectively.

The Senior Stunt, which is always one of the events of Junior Week, is in the hands of J. S. Bryan, chairman,; W. P. M. Weeks, W. D. Kerr, and B. B. Holder. It will be presented Friday night, the 9th. The committee has been working industriously, and their plans are taking the shape of a finished product. While there is always a good deal of mystery concerning the actual nature of the Senior Stunt, it is rumored that the performance this year will be a musical comedy. The class is fortunate in having among its members several men of proven dramatic ability, and this fact gives assurance that the presentation will be a good one.

The following men have been appointed to arrange a Junior Stunt: Charlie Coggin, Marmaduke Cox, Barney Pitts, Bob House, Mac Lewis, Frank Jarrel, Tom Linn, and Francis Bradshaw.

The committee for arranging the Sophomore Stunt consists of Jim Hoover, chairman; W. T. Polk, and J. A. Capps. They have almost completed plans for their stunt, but no practice has yet been held.

The Freshmen have not yet taken any action in regard to the stunt that they will present, but it is expected that they will be on hand to uphold their share of the entertainment.

It has been customary heretofore for the Senior baseball aggregation to challenge a chosen team from the faculty to a game during the the holidays, and it is not improbable that some of the ex-stars will be working into their old-time form some of these warm afternoons.

A regular baseball game has been scheduled with Bingham of Asheville to be played in Chapel Hill on the 9th. Then, the first game with Virginia will be played in Greensboro on the 10th, which, no doubt, a large number of students will journey to see.

In addition to all this, the high school debate will be held during the latter part of the gala week. No man can complain that the occasion will be dull, for no matter in what direction his tastes may be, there will certainly be something on the diverse program to interest him.

Y. M. C. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

K. Kato Speaks on Religious Situation in Japan

At the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A. the report of the nominating committee was accepted unanimously. The report of the committee was: J. Merrel Parker for President, Francis O. Clarkson for vice-President, L. H. Edwards for Treasurer, and F. F. Bradshaw for Secretary.

A retiring address was made by the Ex-President, W. P. Fuller, in which he treated in a brief manner the development of the Y. M. C. A. during the past year. Among the most important developments are: the Lost and Found Bureau, the Book Exchange, the Boy Scouts Organization, the Industrial Work at Carrboro, the Freshman Continuation Committee, and the Negro Work.

After Fuller's address, K. Kato made a talk on "Christianity in Japan," in which he told of the history of Christianity in Japan and some of the present problems and hopes of Christianity in that place. He estimated the number of Christian workers in Japan at 8,000 and the number of Christians at 170,000, aside from many who are Christians at heart but not by avowal. He further spoke of the confusion caused in the Japanese mind by the multiplicity of Christian Denominations, which seem to be fighting each other, and the prospect of the formation of a Federation of all the churches including the Roman Catholic, in order to present a united front. In conclusion Kato spoke of the necessity of the missionary's seeking to instill Christianity into present day Japanese ideas and customs rather than attempting to destroy these customs and habits of thought and build entirely new ones.

SENIORS' LAST BANQUET

Class of 1915 Has Enjoyable Time at University Inn

Time—nine P. M; place—The University Inn; occasion—the Senior Banquet. Never has a happier bunch of Seniors assembled at a final banquet than the members of 1915. The briny tear caused by the thought of an early departure from "our beloved Alma Mater," as Mr. Noble would say, was not in evidence. No, the Seniors are not an unappreciative lot, at least not all of them, they are just happy because a change of residence is near.

Then the speeches—someone said that the Seniors had every professor in college. While that was not exactly true, they did have a great number. The Faculty speakers were: President Graham, Dr. Herty, Dr. H. V. Wilson, Dr. Raper, Prof. Noble, and Frank Graham.

Among the student speakers were George Eutsler, Toastmaster, W. P. Fuller, B. L. Field, G. A. Martin, W. R. Taylor, and L. B. Gunter. These fellows abounded in what, by mistake, might be called wit. Walter Fuller made one of the best talks of the evening in spite of the introduction given him by the toastmaster. To be a "Big Little Man" is a position worth striving for. His classmates will remember his speech when others have been forgotten.

Dr. Herty gave the class some useful advice. He knew whereof he talked and spoke as an authority. Dr. Herty was a little surprised at his invitation in view of the last exams.

Dr. Wilson and Dr. Raper gave just what was expected of them—two of the best talks of the evening. The committee is to be congratulated upon securing these two men.

Of course the Seniors had Mr. Noble there. Why shouldn't they? He was the life of the occasion. No one here could have spoken in a manner more pleasing to his hearers.

But Frank Graham! His talk seemed to center at and revolve around No. 2 Carr—or rather its inmates. He delighted his hearers by a running fire at Fitzgerald and Nance. Frank always speaks of the highest and noblest things; and No. 2 Carr is gratified to have been referred to.

But no more! The Seniors have almost finished their course here. Each one came away feeling better. The occasion was altogether a happy one. Two coeds were present, Misses Lynch and Stone. They added what was noticeably lacking—beauty.

THE FRESHMAN MEETING

The conduct of certain Sophomores at the Freshman class meeting last Friday was an unpleasant incident in an otherwise pleasant season.

The Freshman class attempted to hold a meeting in Gerrard Hall. A shower of books and water made this impossible. While it is true that the conduct of one member of the Freshman class may have been "Fresh", that does not excuse the Sophomores. If they had not been in the gallery prepared with books and water the Freshman would never have been "Fresh".

Aside from the disregards of the property rights of the University shown in the destruction of possibly a hundred song books, the act is one that will bring sorrow to all lovers of the University in that it may lead to a spirit of class feeling that might mean the return of hazing.

One Sophomore justified the culprit by saying that the present Junior class broke up one of their meetings. If this excuse is to be nullified, a tolerant and large spirit must be shown by an entire Sophomore class.

Another Sophomore complained that the Freshmen were getting "biggity and needed taking down". This calls for discretion on the part of Freshmen. Men of 1918, remember that in spite of the fact that you are University men, you are also Freshmen and it is too much to expect that you can be accepted at face value by the older men.

However, we are prone to look upon this little outburst as merely an outburst. We doubt that any of the better type of Sophomores were in any way responsible. The real test will come on the night of the Soph Banquet. Then we hope and really believe the Sophs will act like gentlemen as most of them are.

EARLY ELECTIONS

At the Senior Banquet last Friday night the student speakers were a tolerably honest set of fellows. Only one out of the six pulled sob a stop on that sad parting before entering the "battle arena" of the world stuff. All the others waxed eloquent, wise and witty, more or less as their ability, permitted on the Senior's duty as coming citizens.

All sentiment aside, the latter half of a man's Senior year normally isn't spent in "sad partings". It's spent in wondering if he is going to get a job, or if he is a different type in some wonderful mental growth. His interest in the immediate problems of campus life has lost much of its former strength.

That leads us to wonder if it would not be well for all student activities to elect their officers as nearly as convenient after fall exams. The Y. M. C. A. recognizes the wisedom of this. Its elections were finished Monday. Thresh the matter over and see if it applies to your own organization. Remember also that it gives your present leaders an opportunity to pass on their wisdom and experience to the new officials.

THE POINT SYSTEM

One thing about the "Point System" agitation we would do well to notice, namely, the cause of it. It is a revolt against the present way of filling our offices. How are these filled? Either by the politician (in which case one-tenth of the voters do the work), or our offices are filled according to the law of gravitation and least resistance (nobody doing the work). In either case, there is a lack of the essential of popular action—the expressed will of the majority.

It is fashionable on this campus—as elsewhere—to cuss the politician. But can we not develop here a spirit of government aside from the spirit of politics? Can we not think clearly from the office to the men without sidetracking to the so-and-so society? To be able to express our will, we must go to the trouble to get a will. This means work, which will be troublesome at first, but if we get the habit it will come easy—the habit of seeing and discriminating instead of merely looking and following. And that habit will stand us well all through life.

These offices, down to the assistant managers and associate editors, are ours to elect. Let us do an honest piece of work here as well as in the classroom or on the athletic field. Put the right man in each place. And if the same man should get all the honors, well and good; we would be lucky to have such a man on the campus. If the agitation for the "Point System widens the channel of student thought on the elections, it will have done us good service.

S. W. WHITING.

The Bureau of Extension has recently received material on the subject of Woman Suffrage which it is sending out to high school debaters. The Bureau reports a big demand for literature on this subject.

BASKETBALL SUMMARIZED

Captain Long Leads the Scoring With 177 Points

Carolina closed an unsuccessful year in basketball Saturday night. Of 16 games played, 10 were lost. Carolina made a bad start at basketball, since most of the men were forced to report late for practice on account of football. The first two games were played before Johnson or Tandy had begun to practice, and these were lost.

The team seemed to be greatly strengthened by the addition of these men. Two games were then won, the first from Wake Forest, the other from Elon. In the next contest, however, Carolina suffered defeat at the hands of Virginia by a margin of one point.

Two games were won on the Virginia trip and four lost, one of the games being with Virginia.

Carolina averaged 24 points to the game, to her opponents 27. Captain Long led the team in scoring, getting 57 field goals and 63 fouls, a total of 177 points. Tandy was next in scoring. In the games in which he played he made a total of 91 points. Johnson scored 42 points in 9 games played. As none of this year's team will be lost by graduation in June, every man will probably be in college next year, and with this fact in view, Carolina can cheerfully hope for a brighter season in 1916.

JOHSNON BASKETBALL CAPT.

Star Forward Deservedly Honored with Captaincy of Team.

At a meeting of the basketball squad Monday night, J. G. Johnson of Lynchburg, Va. was elected captain of the varsity basketball team for next year. Last year Johnson showed his basketball ability by playing every position on the team and this year he has played a splendid and consistent game at forward. This honor comes as a well deserved one to Johnson and it is certain that under his leadership, the basketball season of 1915 will be a successful one.

Graduates Must Swim

Unless the students at Princeton University learn to swim before graduation, several members of this year's class will not receive their diplomas. A regulation made by the faculty in 1911 required students to test in swimming. This regulation has not been carried out, but this year it is the intention of the university authorities to see that it is put into effect. Several members of the Senior class have not, as yet, passed the test, which is to swim 200 yards, showing a mastery of two strokes.—The Reveille.

Baseball seems to be booming at Wake Forest just now. About fifty candidates came out for the first practice. Billings, captain, and eight of last year's team are back. It will be remembered that Carolina plays three games with Wake Forest this year, March 29 at Wake Forest, April 14 at Raleigh, and April 27 at Chapel Hill.

The Bureau of Extension reports a big demand for Extension Series Number 2 containing declamations. The High School boys want declamations for their commencements.

BASEBALL PROGRESSING

Prospects Are Good for a Successful Season

With just two weeks of practice left before the opening game of the season here with Oak Ridge, Coach Doak is rapidly whipping the baseball squad into shape. The weather man has favored the squad and everything is going smoothly with the exception of a few sore arms.

There is really some fighting being done for the different positions. With the exception of the pitching staff and third base, the fight is taking place in the outfield. In the opening game Honig, Bailey, and Johnston will probably be in the outfield. These men seem to have the call at present.

At third base Lewis and Sheek are having the time of their lives. Sheek has been kept from practice by sickness, but will shortly return to the field. Lewis is fielding well and is hitting better than usual.

Tandy has joined the squad, and, if he rounds into form, will be ready to take his turn in the box. There is great need of a left hander now. Williams, Shields, Currie, Plyler, and Kinlaw are working hard. Williams and Shields seem to have the call over the others. It is a toss up between Currie, Plyler, and Kinlaw as to who will get the prize. Aycock has been away from the Hill on account of the death of his brother, but will return to the squad in a short time.

Captain Woodall has a number of assistants. Hart of the 1913 team, and Harrell are taking turns at receiving on the second team. Woodall is hitting well this year and his arm seems better than ever.

Unless the weather prevents, Carolina will have the best trained team she has had in years for the opening game. The men are hitting well, considering that the season has not been open long. The hopes for a good hitting team are bright indeed. Coach Doak's proteges are fielding well. So on with the work. It will not be long until Carolina has the opportunity to see just how good a club she has this year.

The number of contesting teams in the State High School Basketball championship has been still further reduced. Those remaining in the race are: In the East, Raleigh and Goldsboro; in the West, Belmont, Asheville, and Winston-Salem. The final game will be played in Chapel Hill March 12. It will be necessary to charge a fee of twenty-five cents to help cover the expenses

The High Schools of the State are taking increasing interest in debating as the time for the regular triangular debates draws near. Two hundred and fifty schools will debate on this day, March 26th, and the winners in every triangle will come to Chapel Hill for the finals, which will be held April 9.

TAFT TO LECTURE HERE

Ex-President Gives Three Lectures Week After Next

The outstanding event of the week beginning March 14 will be the visit of Ex-president Taft, who will deliver a series of 3 lectures on "The Presidency". Mr. Taft delivered a series of lectures at the University of Virginia recently on this same subject, and each lecture was largely attended. It is not often that Carolina students have an opportunity to hear so noted a man as Ex-president Taft, and visitors from all over this section of the state are expected to rttend the lectures. Mr. Taft is not only a very noted man, but and excellent speaker as well. This is certainly a rare opportunity to get an insight into the workings of the most conspicuous office in the United States, an insight which will necessarily be clearer in that it will be afforded by the personal reminiscences of a man who has occupied the presidential chair, and is more familiar with the office than the keenest political-observing contributor to the Saturday Evening Post could be.

After his third address Mr. Taft will be the guest of the Durham Bar at a banquet.

Judging from the number of students who signified their intention the other morning in chapel of attending the lectures, the capacity of Gerrard Hall will be considerably taxed.

LOCALS

Dr. N. W. Walker spent Monday in Raleigh.

Dr. E. C. Branson spent Saturday in Raleigh.

The Chapel Hill High School has installed a Victrola.

E. M. Coulter, '13, is specializing in History at the University of Wisconsin.

Thirty persons are now enrolled in the Correspondence Study Courses of the University.

John Tillett, '11, of Charlotte, has been elected secretary and treasurer of the Jewel Cotton Mills at Thomasville, N. C.

Prof. M. C. S. Noble will speak in Ashboro March 12, and before the Randolph Teachers Association at Ashboro March 13th.

Dr. L. A. Williams will speak in High Point under the auspices of Woman's Club March 5th. His subject will be James Whitcomb Riley.

An Infuriated Step-Ladder Defending Its Young

THERE is no sense to the above picture; neither is there any sense to the title; and yet both are fully as sensible as some of the things people do every day. For instance:—Some people still smoke a cheap cigarette put up in a fancy package and pay twice what it is worth. Why not try a sensible smoke—FATIMA? No frills; just good, clean tobacco delightfully blended and put up in a sensible package.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

If you missed chapel lately you missed a good thing. President Graham told us about the man who at a grand opera said to his daughter: "Expound to me this libretto, lest I dilate with the wrong emotion." Dr. Collier Cobb told us of the land where this is all you have to do for a living: lie back in a hammock and pull bananas with your hands while digging sweet-potatoes with your toes. Dr. Booker spoke to us of "dashing the sea of international thought into an intellectual foam." He furthermore told us that every nation is striving to obtain an ideal and that as soon as it will have obtained its ideal, as history shows, it will die. "What accordingly," said someone "is the ideal of the United States?" And a voice answered: "Prohibition."

These chapel lectures, and others coming every morning, are most entertaining and edifying. No self-respecting student can afford to miss them. Overwhelmed by this truth, a philanthropist in number ten Old East, having a limited number of chapel seats (1) on his hands, is willing to lease it to a worthy applicant, with hymnal-rack and hymnal free! Come early and avoid the rush.

A few days ago there was held in chapel another interesting meeting—a religious meeting, which must have been very fervent and soul-moving, judging from the unprecedented use of hymn-books and the excessive number of sinners baptized. The sheep were well divided from the goats, for between those two there was a great gulf fixed. This gulf, however, was annihilated by the hymnals and the holy-water. The gallery-gods worked long on the sinners below to show them the errors of their ways.

It was principally a hymns service. In charity, those above actually cast "showers of blessings" on the heads of the unbelievers. They settled for them, by personal visions, the old problem, "Will there be any stars in my crown?" They agitated for their benefit this question: "Shall we gather at the river?", but finally decided that the pump would do all right. It did, it worked splendidly. The sinners below, however, steeled their hearts and refused to recognize such loving-kindness. Yet the saints above persisted to the end, and when the stiff-necked unrighteous left in wrath, they sweetly followed them with the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers", whistled through the circumambient air.

Change of Rules

To keep pace with the marked progress in athletics, Washington and Lee has added two significant features to the code of Eligibility Rules concerning intercollegiate athletics. A five months residence rule for migratory athletes has been adopted, while the scholastic requirements for participation on any 'Varsity team have been made more stringent.

—The Ring-tum Phi.

Trinity has instituted this year for the first time an athletic fee such as the one Carolina adopted year before last. Coach West of the baseball team says that the result is highly beneficial, that every student "has a deeper personal interest, loyalty and feeling for all the college athletic activities."

ROSS CRANE SATURDAY

Moulder of Clay Will Perform in Gerrard Hall

The Star Course which will be presented in chapel next Saturday night at 8:45 by Mr. Ross Crane promises to be just as enjoyable as the recital recently given by the Schuman Quintette. Mr. Crane is an artist who can wield clay, handle crayons, and play the piano all with equal skill, and, it may be said, all with exceptional skill. He takes plastic clay and with incredible celerity moulds its into lifelike images. With equal rapidity he takes crayons and sketches off cartoons, the cleverness of which is almost startling. At one time he was the cartoonist of a metropolitan newspaper. Nor are all Mr. Crane's drawings cartoons; they are manifold in nature-portraits, landscapes, and scenes of all kinds. His piano selections are also diversified—burlesque, pathetic, and recitative.

In every city in which Mr. Crane has given his entertainment he has met with unfailing approbation. Business men like him; ministers likewise find diversion in his cleverness; college professors highly recommend him: students invariably give him vociferous applause. On the whole, the entertainment next Saturday night promises to be an exceptional success.

FOOTBALL LARGELY PLAYED

Thirty-Four Thousand Games Played During Past Season

Intercollegiate football during the last season was played by 450 colleges, 6,000 secondary schools, and by 1,500 teams not connected with educational institutions but representing athletic associations large and small. Thirty-four thousand games were played and and 152,000 players participated in the games and practice.

Notwithstanding the distraction of war and the handicaps of tight money, more people than ever before attended the games of the country, estimates placing the number around 7,292,000 persons.

The culmination in attendance of course, was at the Harvard-Yale game, where 70,000 persons occupied almost twenty-nine miles of seats in the magnificent Yale bowl.

In all departments of individual play the performances of 1914 surpass those of 1913. The cause of this pronounced progress is the greater number playing the game which necessarily is advancing the standards. A pleasing feature of the record feats of the year is their widespread locations, east, west, north, south, major eleven and minor, thus indicating the settled nationality of the sport.

County Clubs, Attention

There are more than fifty county clubs now organized on the Hill. Would it not be well for the presidents of these clubs to meet to discuss and to project uniform plans along definite lines for all the clubs, plans whereby the clubs may be made to mean more to themselves, to the University, and to those at home? Give it though, you presidents, and let us carry it out.

APPROPRIATION DECIDED

$145,000 for Maintenance and Improvements

The State Legislature has furnished a new supply of fuel for its various institutions. This supply must last two years.

There are, generally speaking, two branches of these institutions: Charitable and Educational. The total amount appropriated this session is almost $500,000 larger than that two years ago. The grand total approximates $3,000,000. Most of this increase goes to the various asylums and hospitals under State care. Practically the same amount has been given to the various colleges as last year. A considerable amount is given the charitable institutes than is given the colleges.

Figures for a few of the more important institutions follow.

University of North Carolina, $115,000 annually for maintenance, $30,000 annually for permanent improvements; out of this must be paid $40,000 "land notes" the remaining $20,000 to be used at discretion of the board of trustees

A. & M. College, Raleigh, $85-000 annually for maintenance; $10,000 annually for permanent improvements.

State Normal, Greensboro, $100,000 annually for maintenance; $10,000 for indebtedness.

East Carolina Teachers Training School, Greeneville, $50,000 annually for maintenance; permanent improvements, $18,679.12.

State Hospital, Raleigh, $175,-350 annually for maintenance, less $61,150.89 to the credit of the hospital December 1, 1914, also $5.000 for heating plant, $35,000 for receiving building available in 1916.

State Hospital, Morganton, $200,000 for 1915; $205,000 for 1916 for permanent improvements, in installing additional water supply, $60,000; from appriations for support and maintenance of 1915 there is to be deducted $76,202.49 to credit of the institution for 1914.

School for Deaf at Morganton, $67,500 for support and maintenance for 1915 and like sum for 1916; also appropriated annually $5,000 for eye, ear and nose and teeth specialists, $4,000 for permanent improvements.

School for Feeble-Minded, Caswell Training School, Kinston, $30,000 for 1915 and $40,000, 1916 for maintenance, for permanent improvements $16,500, to include girls' dormitory, $14,000, and reenforcing present foundation $2,-500.

For the last two years the University has been receiving $95,000 and $50,000 annually. A. & M. and the Normal receive about the same as before. A. & M. gets about $40,000 yearly from the Federal Government.

Monday night the Journal Club held its regular meeting in Chemistry Hall. Dr. Herty, Messrs. Killefer and Pickett read and discussed interesting papers.

INAUGURATION ELABORATE

Many Noted Men to Attend President's Inauguration

Invitations have been issued reading as follows:

The Trustees and Faculty of the University of North Carolina request the honor of your presence at the Inauguration of Edward Kidder Graham as President of the University of North Carolina on Wednesday the twenty-first of April one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, Chapel Hill, North Carolina. It is requested that a reply be sent to Prof. George Howe.

Among the college presidents who will attend the inauguration of President Graham are all those in North Carolina, with the exception of one. From outside the state will come President Alderman of Virginia, President Goodnow of Johns Hopkins, President Lowell of Harvard University, President Finlay of New York University, President James of University of Illinois, President Hammerschlag of Carnegie Polytechnic Institute, President of Rice Institute, President Moore of Union Theological Seminary, President Matheson of the Georgia School of Technology, President Murphee of the University of Florida, President Smith of Washington and Lee University, President Johnson of Winthorp Normal College, President Stevenson of Princeton Theological Seminary, President Soule of Georgia College of Agriculture, President Webb of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, and President Graham of Hampden-Sidney.

The following institutions have signified their intentions of sending delegates. Cornell University, Northwestern University, University of Pennsylvania, Rochester University, Lafayette College, Dartmouth College, Leland Stanford University, Baylor University, Smith College, Columbia University, University of Missouri, Stevens Institute of Technology, Vanderbilt University, Trinity College (Conn.), Massachusetts Institute of Technology, University of Pittsburg, Teachers College of New York, Haverford College Wofford College, Perdue University, Bryn Mawr College, United Holyoke College, Rutgers College, University of Alabama, St. John's College, University of Arkansas, George Washington University.

In many ways the inauguration will be the most elaborate affair of this kind that the University has ever witnessed.

The Dramatic Club appeared in Charlotte Wednesday night, and seems to have made a very favorable impression. Every member of the caste acquitted himself especially well, and the play was a great success. The Club left Monday on their trip of a week through the State. If "Arms and the Man" is as well presented in every town as it was here at the University, the trip will certainly be a success.

BASKETBALL GAME FRIDAY

Winston-Salem and Raleigh Play Championship Game

The High School Football game has become as much of an institution as the Thanksgiving game; the High School Debate has become as much a part of the University Program as commencement; but the High School Basketball Contest is something new. It is familiar in that it is operated on the same plan as both the other contests. Despite the fact that this is the first year that it has been tried, it has every prospect of being a great success, a benefit to the State and the University.

The teams that will contest in Bynum Gymnasium Friday night at eight o'clock are Winston-Salem and Raleigh. The winning team will be champions of the State and will be presented with the cup.

Altogether about forty high schools entered this contest. Those eligible for the second preliminary were: in the West, Belmont, Winston Salem, Lexington, Asheville, Statesville, and Matthews; in the East, Raleigh, Goldsboro, Middleburg, Enfield, and Benson. Lexington forfeited to Winston-Salem on account of sickness of players. Asheville eliminated Statesville 67-8, Belmont eliminated Mathews 41-15. Belmont defeated Asheville 37-14. Winston-Salem defeated Belmont 88-9. Thus Winston-Salem became champions in the West. In the East, Raleigh defeated Middleburg 90-9. Enfield eliminated Benson 20-18. Goldsboro defeated Enfield 50-23. Goldsboro forfeited to Raleigh, thereby making Raleigh the champions.

The game will be one of the most interesting played here this season. It will be refereed by Coach Doak, and an admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged to pay some of the expenses of the contest. Tickets can be had from Coach Trenchard, E. R. Rankin, or the members of the Greater Council.

MR. TAFT'S VISIT

Many People Will Hear Ex-President Taft Lecture March 17-18-19

The coming of Mr. Taft to Chapel Hill is very much anticipated not only by the University but by people throughout the State. Practically all the reserved seats have been sold. Among the out of town people who will attend the lectures are; Judge Henry Groves Connor, who will be the guest of President Graham, as will also be Ex-Judge Crawford Biggs, of Raleigh. Justice W. A. Hoke and Mrs. Margaret Busbee Shipp, of Raleigh, will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Archibald Henderson.

During his entire stay in Chapel Hill, Mr. Taft will be engaged one way or another. Among those who will entertain in his honor are Dr. and Mrs. Henderson.

JUINIORS HAVE A BANQUET

Second Banquet of Season as Successful as First

The Junior Banquet held last Friday night at University Inn was attended by about fifty members of the class and was pronounced by each of this number the most succesful affair that the class has ever given. The committee, under the chairmanship of R. C. Vaughn, provided a delectable spread, and, what had just as much to do with the success of the occasion, chose their speakers with care. Dr. Hamilton was the first faculty speaker. His talk was concise and to the point. He emphasized the necessity for college men to read the newspapers, keep posted on political issues at home and through out the nation, and to help educate the people of their communities up to a proper attitude toward government and politics. Merril Parker made the next speech. His subject was "What is a Senior?" In the course of his speech he advanced several schemes whereby the class could benefit the University, the most important of which was the plan of each class donating its damage fees, which are returned at the end of the term, for the purpose of establishing a lasting and beneficial memorial to the class after its graduation. This fund could be used for beautifying the campus, establishing an ornamental campus lighting system, or for providing better bathing facilities. After the serving of another course, Dr. Greenlaw spoke on the value of consistent, steady work throughout the term as opposed to cramming at examination time. He illustrated his point by several amusing stories. Hubert Blalock responded with a discussion of class unity and democracy. His speech was up to the standard which he set for himself at the Peace Contest. Professor Bernard made a witty speech that was thoroughly enjoyed. His subject was "Efficiency", which he discussed from several points of view. Tom Linn took the floor next and compared the Junior class with a person about to set out on a trip. He said that now is the time for loose ends to be gathered up, and for the men to strive for those things in college which they have thus far let slip by or have neglected. After another period of feasting Prof. Stacy spoke of the work that it is possible for a student to do in his home counties. He also laid stress upon the fact that more friendly and intimate relations should exist between the faculty and the students. Hugh Hester had been hailed as the dispenser of comedy for the evening, and although he had not prepared his speech with this end in view, succeeded in living up to his reputation, getting off several mirth provoking stories.

After the last course had been served, President McDaniel Lewis, as toastmaster, called upon Miss Anna Forbes Liddell, of Charlotte, the only co-ed in the class, for a talk and she promptly responded. In a very charming manner she expressed her pleasure at being a member of the class. She received by far the most enthusiastic applause of the evening. After this several impromptu speeches were made, and 'ere long the banqueters departed, leaving behind them a waste of desolated dishes.

CLASS BASEBALL RULES

Eighteen Games to Be Played During March anc April

The class athletic committee has agreed upon the following regulations for class baseball.

I. Eligibility.

No member of thh Varsity squad who has played five innings in a varsity game this year is eligible for class baseball.

No man considered by Coach Doak to l e a member of the Varsity squad is eligible. Should such a man play, and later return to the Varsity field, the game is forfeited.

No wearer of a baseball NC is eligible.

II Protests.

Protests of all kinds must be registered before 12 o'clock on the day before the game is scheduled. This includes protests of schedule as already decided upon.

Pharmacy and Medical students are to play with the Junior team. Law and graduate students are to play with the Seniors. Upon good reason being shown the committee, a member of the professional schools may play with any team they choose.

The committee reserves the right to change any of these regulations as they see fit.

(Signed) Roger McDuffie, Chairman.

Meb Long.
Walter Fuller.

The University Magazine, the appearance of which was delayed somehow by the printer, will come out shortly. One of the leading articles will be "Pan-Slavism in the Great War" by Samuel Newman. One of the short stories "Ashebrow in Mercy Street" is by N. A. Reasoner, the other "The Golden Butterfly" is by W. Daub Kerr. These are only three of the interesting articles in the Magazine.

THE APPROPRIATION.

Upon the recommendation of the Appropriation Committee the State Legislature has granted the University $115,000 annually for maintenance and $30,000 annually for permanent improvements; out of this must be paid $40,000 "land notes", the remaining $20,000 to be used at the discretion of the board of trustees. This appropriation has force until the next meeting of the Legislature two years hence.

President Graham asked for $125,000 annual maintenance and $60,000 annually for permanent improvements. During the last two years we have been using $95,000 and $50,000 respectively.

As a matter of mathematics, then, the State has not increased the appropriotion for the maintenance of the University one cent. $115,000 plus $30,000 equals $145,000 a year. $95,000 plus 50,000 equals $145,000 a year. No increase has been given in spite of the following facts: a 25 per cent increase in the student body; the development of the Extension Bureau and the growth of the Summer School during the last four years from 225 to 596.

The physical needs are heavy. Half of the students room in town. You Dormitory man visit some of the students' rooms in the business blocks where University students live and cease to wonder at "lack of college spirit and college loyalty"; or, for that matter, stroll through the Inn.

According to the Alumni Review the University owes $40,000 for land, which must be paid during the next two years out of the total of $60,000 for permanent improvement. This leaves $20,000. $12,000 is due on buildings already erected. This leaves $6,000. The power plant is terribly overlooked. To re-equip it will cost $30,000, of which $6,000 is available. This forgets repairs on the old buildings; new bathing facilities at the Gym; furniture; and the Future.

It appears now that the University's growth in numbers and size for the next two years is of necessity prevented. We believe it will mean a raising of the scholarship standards of the University. This may be a good thing.

Be that as it may, we know that when President Graham asked for $185,000 a year he had definite plans for every cent of every dollar. Receiving $145,000 will of necessity cripple those plans. We, therefore, suggest to every individual student that when in the future he sees himself and others here hindered or inconvenienced by lack of equipment, remember that it isn't the fault of the administration.

You haven't any right to cuss out anybody anyhow for how he runs or fails to run this University. It's as much yours as his. You should feel personal disappointment at the failure to secure the whole $185,000. President Graham says he is your elder brother in this educational business; and when Prof. Stacy first addressed you as Dean Stacy he began, "Fellow students." These men meant what they said. That calls for a little response on your side. This is your home. Make the best of what can't be helped.

PREVENTIVE VERSUS CREATIVE EFFORTS.

Two years ago the State Legislature appropriated for the support of the various state asylums for the unfortunate about 32 per cent more than it appropriated for the regular state schools for higher education. Tuesday the Legislature appropriated about 47 per cent more for its unfortunate than for its healthy youth.

(In the further figures herein given the criticism is not directed against the large amounts given the various asylums, but against the small amounts given the schools.)

Two years ago $1,359,250 was given the asylums (the one word is used to cover the hospitals, asylums, school for feble minded, etc.), and $1,027,500 to the schools. This year $1,508,779 was given the asylums and $1,025,179 the schools. The excess of the former over the latter two years ago was $331,750; this year $483,600. The main point in this is not the increase of the one over the other, bnt the fact that the amount given for schools decreased $2,321. The amount given the asylums increased $149,529.

The three main asylums are the Morganton Hospital; the Raleigh Hospital; and the Goldsboro Hospital. The three main state schools are the University; the Normal; the A. & M. During the next two years the Morganton Hospital will receive $388,800, the University $290,000; the Raleigh Hospital $339,550, the Normal $215,000; the Goldsboro Hospital $209,455, the A. & M. $190,000.

The point of this whole comparison is that if we increase our funds for education, it will eventually follow that we will decrease the need for the others. Our asylums are filled with the results of sin and ignorance: our schools are for the purpose of dispelling sin and ignorance.

To relieve disease and sickness and affliction, while humanitarian, is not to accomplish much that is permanent. To educate is to prevent. Better the wall at the top of the cliff than the hospital at the foot.

DR. HENDERSON TO LECTURE

Will Make Addresses in State and Elsewhere

Dr. Archibald Henderson has a number of engagements to speak this spring. Some are given herewith

On March 29th he will speak at Columbia, S. C., on "The Drama in America" and also at Raleigh on April 9th on the same subject. On April 12th at Raleigh he will make an address on "William Hooper," signer of the Declaration of Independence, in connection with the presentation of a portrait to the State of North Carolina by the Society of the Sons of the Revolution. On April 24th, Dr. Henderson will make an address before the Drama League of America at Detroit, Michigan. His subject will be, "The Creative Production of Plays."

Dr. Henderson has also been invited to make an address before the Phi Beta Kappa Society at Tulane University in June.

The leading paper in the current North Carolina Booklet is Dr. Henderson's essay entitled, "Creative Forces in Westward Expansion," which originally appeared in the American Historical Review for October 1914.

800 Students Take Part In Athletics

The manner in which the students of the University of Kentucky are taking part in athletics is an effective answer to the argument that athletics in American colleges are confined to a limited number.

It is estimated that 800 of the 1,400 enrolled are taking part in some kind of physical exercise. The regular gymnasium classes enroll 610 and it is estimated that 100 more come to the gymnasium every day for exercise.

The swimming classes, which will be opened in the Spring, and those in boxing and wrestling are expected to bring out many more.

Intercollegiate and interclass athletic men are divided as follows; Football 50, track 30, basketball 42, baseball 60, teams 20. Besides these are 240 engaged in the military art.

—THE IDEA

SURVEY OF THE COUNTY

United States Government to Make Complete Survey of Orange County

Before long Orange County will have the distinction of being the most completely surveyed county in the state. That is because the United States Government will make a census of the county sometime in the near future. Needless to say, this will be very valuable work, and is enlisting the hearty cooperation of every citizen of the county. The work will be done with the accuracy and thoroughness which always characterizes work done by the Government. Among the men who will participate are; S. P. Lockhart, E. C. Brunson, E. A. Abernethy, W. B. Thomson, J. T. Johnson, H. C. Jordan. A general meeting of all those interested in the movement will take place in Hillsboro on March 13. Among the speakers will be E. C. Brunson, L. A. Williams, and L. H. Webb.

The olden Phoenix Bird of yesterspring
Long months ago into the quivering,
Into the white heart of summer's fire
Flew. And the flames of autumn seething higher
In kingly conflagration—purple, gold—
Flashed, flared aloft! and died.
At last the cold
Dead ashes of gray winter, icy-
white,
Lie lifeless over all, a pall.... But see! a slight
Trembling amid the ashes! and behold
Resplendent, rich, before your dazzlad eyes
The emerald Phoenix of the new spring rise.

The same old thing after all. Couldn't fool you, could it? Ah, Spring, how many evils are committed in thy name!

The other day, in hopes of finding my week-before-last collar, I was carrying on some excavations behind my trunk in the Old East. I must have dug deeper than usual this time, for, to my surprise, I unearthed a few tattered pages of the diary kept by a Sophomore in 1815. Perhaps a comparison of this with the diary of a Sophomore written in 1915 would be of interest. It would impress upon us, at least, how similiar 1915 college life is to the college life of 1815. We do today practically what those fellows did—only somewhat differently.

East Building, Feb. 1st 1815.

Arrived here this morning after having ridden from the plantation on old Columbus. Reckon I'll have to stable him in the South Building. Made the trip in only six days this time. That damn nigger George of mine cooked me a pretty good dinner of venison and afterwards fixed me up an egg-nogg. (Later.) Have just come back from acting as second for friend Caldwell in a duel, swords the weapons. Speight said Miss Iredell's nose had too much latitude considering its longitude and altogether reminded him of a liberity cap. They fought it out under a young popular not far from here; Caldwell ran him through the chest. It was nothing. The doctors think he stands a fair chance to recover.

Old East, Feb. 1915.

Had an awful trip. Train an hour late. Had to ride from Durham in a Ford. I shudder when I think of it! Umpired a tennis set just now.

1815

We went out this evening with our muskets and powder horns. Came upon a wild-cat and had a lively little scrap. Got my shoulder clawed some. But that skin will look good on my wall. Afterwards we met a half a dozen Indians, who got mad when we joked them about not having killed anything and tried to tomahawk us. We put up a good fight. Nobody was hurt on our side, but a bullet grazed Parker's ear.

1915

Saw The Perils of Pauline at Pick tonight. The Indians had captured her. I'll have to cut her picture out of that last Red Book; it ought to look good on my wall. Went possum hunting after the show.

1815

We took a crowd of Freshmen out in the woods tonight. Burnt them at the stake awhile and, when they got to blazing good, broke the ice and extinguished them in the branch. Then we hung them up an old oak by their toes. Took them down in about an hour By George! I forgot to take one little Freshman down! Well, I'll make that nigger of mine mix me a toddy now. But I'll have to get that Freshman down tomorrow if I have time.

Goldsboro Girls Defeat Chapel Hill

Last Saturday afternoon the girls teams of the Goldsboro and Chapel Hill High Schools met in basketball. The game was very interesting and well attended, many college boys being present. The Goldsboro teams showed great abililty in shooting goals, while the Chapel Hill team excelled in passing. The final score was 19 to 6.

Y. M. C. A. PROGRESSIVE

Incalculable Good Being Done by Student Workers

What the Y. M. C. A. stands for cannot be better illustrated than by an account of what it is doing. During the last year or two it has grown remarkably, and now its branches are diverse and its influence is felt on all sides. The opportunities that it offers for Christian work are now practically unlimited,—night schools, the Boy Scout movement, Sunday Schools, Corn Clubs, Negro Work, or what not.

Of the Y. M. C. A. Book Exchange under George Eutsler and the Lost and Found Bureau under Tom Jones little needs to be said. They are so useful that no one could get along without them, and since they are both constantly used, their workings are familiar to all. There are, however, other departments of the Y. M. C. A. which are comparatively little known, such as the Night Schools, Sunday Schools, Negro Work, and the Boy Scouts organization, and the Boy's Club at Carrboro.

The Negro Workers, under W. C. Rymer, consist of two divisions, those who teach in the night school, and those who teach in the Sunday School. Along with the Sunday School work comes the investigation as to the number of people living in one house, the condition of yards and wells, and general sanitary conditions. In the night school Arithmetic, English, History, Spelling, Writing, and debating are taught. About twenty students are engaged in this work—four going out every night for five nights in the week. From sixteen to twenty negroes of varying ages and intellects attend quite regularly. Two men are working in the negro Sunday-school and are making the sanitary investigation before mentioned.

Francis Bradshaw has charge of the rural Sunday School and the Corn Club work. There are at present seven Sunday Schools to which the students go out regularly, but there is every promise of an increase in that number if enough men can be found who are willing to engage in the work. These schools are Clark's Chapel, Rankin's Chapel, Orange, Ephesis, Smith's Level, Calvander, and Mt. Carmel. About forty students are helping Bradshaw in this work.

While the membership of the Corn Club is not at present accurately known, there is every promise of exceeding last year's splendid work. Six contestants have already enrolled directly through the Sunday School workers, while many more have enlisted through the County Farm Demonstration Agent. Last year the winner grew 96 bushels of corn on one acre at a cost of twenty-six cents a bushel. The usual production is about 25 bushels to the acre at a cost of about fifty cents a bushel. The tota enrollment for Orange county last year was forty, but the number promises to be larger this year.

Marion Fowler is at the head of the industrial work, which is generally considered under three heads. These are the Boy's Club, the Night School, and the Carrboro Sunday Schools. The Boy's Club is really divided into two divisions, one for the older and one for the younger boys. The total membership in each division is something like fifteen.

THE QUESTION OF SUBSIDY

A Thousand High School Students Debate March 26

March 26th will be an eventful day in North Carolina, for on that day 1000 boys and girls will debate the question of ship subsidy, and vie with each other for the honor of coming to the Hill in April to participate in the finals of the High School Debating Contest. The audiences which will hear the debates will number at least 50,000. Among the schools which will try in the contest are: Elizabeth City, Wilmington, Asheville, Waynesville, Shelby, Gastonia, Carthage, Sanford, Raleigh, Durham, Goldsboro, Charlotte, Greensboro, Oxford, Lumberton, Laurinburg, Weldon, Battleboro, High Point, Reidsville, Statesville, Hickory, Lincolnton, Dallas, Belmont, Mt-Holly, Lowell, Newbern, Concord, Apex, Pikeville, Washington, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Kinston, Salisbury, and Pleasant Garden and Winston-Salem, who won the Aycock Cup in 1913 and 1914 respectively. The two boys who represented Winston-Salem last year will debate again this year.

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society met in Chemistry Hall last Tuesday night. Professor Daggett gave an interesting talk, concerning the wireless station here. Dr. Venable also gave an interesting discussion.

Prof. Collier Cobb will lecture in Wilmington March 26th on "Highways and By-ways of Europe." He will deliver the commencement address at the Waynesboro High School May 11th.

Prof. Zebulon Judd is spending this week at the Western State Normal and the Central State Normal Schools of Michigan, where he is giving a series of lectures on "Educational Progress in the South."

The Carrboro Night School, while of recent origin, is growing rapidly and is doing a very useful work. Four teachers go out four times a week, making a total of sixteen workers. Arithmetic, Spelling, Reading, Writing, English, English History, Debating, and Sanitation and Hygiene are the subjects taught. There is a nightly attendance of almost fifty. Prof. Noble is taking an active part in the Carrboro work.

The students go to both the Methodist and the Baptist churches at Carrboro. In the Methodist church a Sunday-school class is conducted in the morning and a Junior League in the afternoon. In the Baptist Church the students help both in the Sunday School and the B. Y. P. U.

The Boy Scout patrol, under Harry Wren and two assistants, has a membership of about twenty. These boys are getting some practical lessons in self-reliance, which will stand them in good stead in later years.

While it has been impossible in this short space to go into detail concerning the work and its divisions, anyone who is interested can readily obtain further information from Frank Graham. More men are needed in this great work. "The harvest truly is plenteous but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the Harvest that he will send forth laborers into His harvest."

DR. CHARLES BAIN DEAD

Head of Greek Department Died Monday Morning

Dr. Charles Wesley Bain, head of the department of Greek in the University, departed this life at 1:15 o'clock Monday morning. About two months ago he suffered an attack of heart trouble and all hopes of recovery were abandoned at that time. Two weeks ago, however, he rallied and was able to be on the streets last Sunday. He was stricken again late Sunday night and the end came soon afterward.

Dr. Bain has been associated with the University for four and a half years succeeding Dr. Eben Alexander as head of the department of Greek. He came to Chapel Hill from South Carolina where he was for twelve years a member of the faculty of the University of South Carolina.

Doctor Bain was born in Portsmouth, Virginia, and was educated in the University of Virginia and the University of South Carolina, receiving his A. M. degree from the latter institution in 1895. His training in these institutions was supplemented by travels and studies in Greece He began his teaching profession in the city high schools, teaching at various times in Louisville, Ky., Petersburg, Va., and Savannah, Ga. He was first classical master of McCabe's University School of Petersburg and was once headmaster of the grammar school of Sewanee.

He was married to Miss Isabella Plummer of Petersburg, Va., June 24, 1894. Mrs. Bain and two children, Miss Elizabeth and Wortley Bain, survive him.

Dr. Bain was admired by all who knew him and his death is felt by the entire community. He was 51 years old.

The faculty of the University of South Carolina expressed their admiration of Dr. Bain and their "regret for the loss which the scholarship of the country will sustain in his death" in the following words:

"As a scholar Professor Bain was full of unabated zeal for Greek and Latin letters and was distinguished for a rare accuracy and a very unusual command of the literature. In syntactical studies he was especially eminent. As modest as he was indefatigable, the depth of his learning could be measured only by those who were specialists in the classics.

"As a teacher he was possessed of such remarkable gifts as few of his contemporaries could lay claim to. He was that rare character, a born teacher. Without making a single unworthy concession to laziness or dullness, his zeal and skill were such that all his students did their best for him. He was a teacher no student ever forgot. Utterly without affectation, conceit, or pretence of any kind, his natural power of a man among men gave him always such a mastery of students that a hint of disapproval from him was more effective

MR. TAFT'S FIRST LECTURE

Ex-President Speaks Delightfully of Presidency

Wednesday night in Gerrard Hall former President William Howard Taft delivered the first of his series of three lectures on "The Presidency; Its Powers, Duties, Responsibilities and Limitations." Every seat in the Chapel was occupied and some of the audience were forced to stand. The distinguished speaker was introduced by President Graham as Professor Taft. In the introduction he gave a short summary of Mr. Taft's achievements.

Mr. Taft spoke for an hour and a half, and while the nature of his address was serious, he interspersed it frequently with amusing stories about his experience as President and the experiences of other Chief Executives. He vigorously opposed the holding of a national convention for the purpose of amending the Constitution of the United States, and said that the spirit of conservatism which governed the framers should continue to prevail. He remarked that "There are those who think they can improve the Constitution by blowing it up. Fortunately they are in the minority." Mr. Taft advocated a rest for the country in the matter of legislation, stating that 65,000 laws have been enacted by Congress in the past five years.

Professor Taft advocated the budget system in the United States Government, and insisted that the members of the Cabinet should be allowed to appear personally on the floor of both houses for the purpoes of clearly presenting their claims. He expressed his belief in the wisdom of having a single presidential term of six or seven years. As to the expenditures of the government, Mr. Taft said that we should have a busines examination. Congress and the people should know more about the money spent by the government, and unless a better plan than the present is inaugurated soon, the nation is going into bankruptcy.

Professor Taft strongly upheld the merits of the veto power. "But when you are a young president, and congressmen thunderously roar the term 'royal prerogative', you think of the fate of Charles I." said the speaker. Mr Taft spoke with satisfaction of his vetoing the clause providing for the recall of judges in the Arizona State Constitution. Mr. Taft said that the reading by President Wilson of his message personally to Congress was a good thing, and remarked humorously that a lot of good oratory was lost when he and Roosevelt did not inaugurate this rule.

In closing his speech Ex-President Taft, urged the support of the country for the policies of President Wilson in this time of crisis. He declared that the office of President is representative of the dignity of the American people and that at such a time as this it must have the hearty approval of the whole people if that dignity is to be preserved. Party criticism should be put off until the crisis is past.

DRAMATIC CLUB RETURNS

Will not Apply Rouge Again Until Next Season

The Dramatic Club, presenting Bernard Shaw's well known comedy "Arms and the Man", has just closed one of its most successful seasons.

Greenville, Rockingham, Charlotte, Asheville, and Greensboro were the cities played on the trip last week, and every performance was ethusiastically received. At Asheville both a matinee and an evening performance were given to packed houses, and more than five hundred people witnessed the performance at Greensboro. This trip eclipsed any previous one. Somo over 750 miles were covered and three of the largest cities in the state were visited.

At Greenville a most enjoyable reception was tendered the club by the Senior class of the Eastern Carolina Teachers Training School. Here it was that Charlie Coggin fell a victim of cupid's wiles and, it is rumored, is now running a job-wanted ad in the Greenville sheet.

At Rockingham a dance was given by the Misses Everette and Little at the hansome residence of the former. The Chautauqua which was playing at Rockingham at that time, mistaking Bruce Webb for the real thing, offered him the position of "director" for the coming season.

After the Charlotte performance a dance was given by the Misses Mosley. Francis Clarkson and Herschel Johnson were the members particularly interested in this date, this being their home town.

At Asheville the real social event was enjoyed. With a number of Fassifern's fair representatives on hand, to say nothing of Asheville's fair sex, a dance was given at the Battery Park Hotel, which was one of the most enjoyable entertainments on the trip.

The final engagement at the Normal at Greensboro was a fitting climax to a most successful season. The ladies from both the Normal and Greensboro College for Women, as well as a large number of Greensboro people, enjoyed and applauded this concluding performance. The curtain talk here was ably delivered by W. P. M. Weeks, for three years a star in the cast. During his speech he pulled that antique joke about the best looking man, etc., and, shall it be told, silence reigned supreme. The cast wondered why.

Francis Clarkson proved a most efficient manager and to him the club is indebted for its financial and social success. The work of the coaches, Messrs. McKie, Dargan, and Thornton, in preparing this efficient piece for presentation is to be commended, for a play of this type would not have been possible without their combined assistance.

MR. TAFT INTERVIEWED

Expresses Himself as Pleased With the University

"Yes," said Mr. Taft in response to the question of two representatives of The Tar Heel this morning, "I have heard nothing but favorable things about the University. When I was at the University of Virginia I stayed at the home of President Alderman, who was, I believe, a graduate and president of this University. Then Dr. Smith of the English Department, too, comes from this institution. From both of these men as well as from President Hadley of Yale, who has spoken here, I have heard many pleasing things. They assured me that I would have a good time."

"There is an advantage," he went on to say, "about the institution's being in a small place. You have a color and a background which is lacking to a college situated in a large town. You are more united, for here the college is the town. Dartmouth, somewhat like you, is situated in a small town. Your founding, I believe, was coeval with the Federal Constitution, whereas Dartmouth dates back to 1750. Yale also has this touch of local color, although situated in a city of over a hundred thousand. This same atmosphere pervades the University of Virginia. I almost expected to see Thomas Jefferson at every corner of the campus. They speak of him as though he were a member of the board of trustees." Here he chuckled reminiscently. "You have the same atmosphere here, as is shown by Dr. Battle's history. Some of the newely established universities of the West lack this touch of local color and historic background. They almost remind one of efficiency machines." Mr. Taft expressed himself as pleased with the fact that the University is pursuing extension work. The Ex-President spoke quite informally, and is, in conversation, equally as delightful and attractive a speaker as he is upon the platform.

COMPLIMENTS PROF. JUDD

Journal of Education, Boston, Refers to Former Superintendent's Work in Wake

The Journal of Education, of Boston, has the following to say of Prof. Judd, former Superintendent of Education of Wake County:

"Prof. Judd, professor of rural education at the University of North Carolina, will deliver a course of lectures at the Emporia, Kansas, State Normal school summer session.

"Prof. Judd has done notable work in socializing county school education. He has built up young people's clubs of all sorts, has based a course of study upon the needs of the community in the way of agriculture and home economic problems, has organized parents' associations in rural communities, and has so rejuvinated the spirit of education in Wake county that the spirit is enthusiastic."—News and Observer.

WINSTON-SALEM VICTOR

Final Game of Basketball Played Friday

Last Friday night the team representing the Winston-Salem High School won the State high school basketball championship by defeating the Raleigh High School team 25 to 13. This game, which was played in the Bynum Gymnasium, was the culmination of the contest which has been going on between the high schools of the State for the past three months. In this elimination contest the Winston team won out over all the high schools in the Western part of the State, while Raleigh vanquished all aspirants in the Eastern section. The series was run under the auspicies of the University and was managed by Mr. Ralph Rankin. Naturally a great deal of interest was centered in this battle royal between the rival champions. The game was witnessed by a large number or University students, while enthusiastic delegations from both towns were present to support their favorites. The game was especially speedy during the first half, which ended with the score only five points in favor of the victors. In the second half the Winston boys on account of superiority in goal shooting, succeeded in drawing away from their opponents. They also excelled in team work and presented a perfect example of passing. The Raleigh team played a hard, aggressive game and did not let down in their efforts at any stage of the contest, but they were not equals of the other team. Barnette Douglas, of Winston, was the mainstay of his team. He registered 15 of the 25 points that his team scored. His field goal shooting was really remarkable, and when the ball landed in his hands, it had generally reached its first station on the way to the basket. Captain Speer, of Winston-Salem, was invaluable to his team in passing and in defensive work. Liepfert also played a strong game.

For Raleigh, Martin, Johnson, and Young played the best game. Raleigh's defensive efforts were not consistent enough, and their forwards were covered at all times by the Winston guards.

Lineup and points scored.

SOMETHING NEW IN BOOKKEEPING

Saturday morning Saint Peter got to his office at the usual time, let the overnight batch of waiting souls in and examined them; then took off his halo so he could work better, and started through the Friday mail that arrived after office hours and consequently too late for entry the day before. He picked up a letter from the University of North Carolina and with a barely repressed twinkle in his eye (he knew the Sophomore banquet was to have been held there Friday night) automatically turned to the debit column of that Institution.

With his pen poised to make the entry, Saint Peter halted, finished reading the letter, then reread it, turned to the credit side of the ledger, and made there a nice sized record. He felt good all day about it. It was one of his first records on the right side of the ledger for that particular item.

The tendency of former Sophomore banquets was for the participants to forget that they were University men and remember only that they were Sophomores. As long as this has resulted only in bonfires, yells, and songs, no reasonable folks with half a sense of humor have objected. When it expresses itself in the destruction of property and in the rights of others, the line of disapproval has been sharply drawn. The chief practical difficulty has been that yells, noise and pistol shots almost inevitably led to the destructive tendencies. This year it did not.

Now, Mr. A. Typical Freshman, the Sophomores have remembered at a testing time that they are also University men and have given you a square deal. You, in your turn, remember that you, besides being a member of the University, are also a FRESHMAN. You will be a FRESHman until you realize that you are a freshMAN, a new man, to add new life and strength to the University. And for the sake of suffering Humanity don't get the idea that the Sophomores acted like true gentlemen last Friday night out of any respect or fear of you; because they did not. It was from respect and love for the University.

HON. WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

Following the resignation of every President of these more or less United States is a newspaper discussion of the query, "What shall we do with our Ex-Presidents?" Mr. Taft has solved this question as far as he is concerned by becoming an extremely popular private citizen.

It gives us no little pleasure to contrast the Ex-Presidency, (if you will allow us to use that expression) of our two living former Presidents. President Roosevelt ended his term of office in a blaze of popularty and favor. He was probably the best known man in the world. In spite of most strenuous objections and efforts Mr. Roosevelt has been slipping out of the esteem of the American poeple and he has been exiled from publicity.

On the other hand President Taft becomes Mr. Taft at the earnest wish of a large portion of the voters of this country. He entered private life, we believe, with no little pleasure on his part, and certainly with little objection on the part of the American people. Since that day his position in the opinion of the public has been growing higher and higher. With a calm and unprejudiced mind he considered the past and faces the present. In his articles and public utterances commenting on the politics and events of his official career, he his shown himself to be a man. In his support of President Wilson he has shown himself to be a statesman. We believe that Mr. Taft is growing steadily and irresistably in the opinion of the American people.

With the "Ex-Presidency" as a fence and "public opinion" as a tethering board Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt have been playing a little game of see-saw. Mr. Taft is on the upward swing, permanently, we believe.

Therefore, because Mr. Taft is a retired official of great experience; a man of worth; a speaker of ability and, above all, a statesman of character, we welcome him and his addresses.

AN ARROW

How many times have you heard this thought expressed? "If by what I say or do I can help one person in one little detail I will feel fully repaid for what I have done."

A faculty system consultation on "Reading" failed to "go" here two years ago due to lack of response. We heard a man say a few days ago, however, that the few meetings (two we believe) this committee held were a wonderful help to him in his outside reading.

Without "saying" but still hoping "to help one person in one little detail" we suggest to any earnest man who has not already read it that he go to the Library tonight and call for the book entitled "The Making of an American" by Jacob Reis.

CLASS BASEBALL BEGINS

Sophomores and Freshmen Tie in First Game

The first game of an extensive series between the class baseball teams was played Tuesday afternoon, the Sophomores and Freshmen being the contestants. Although the game was slow on account of a muddy field, it was made interesting by the hard fighting of both teams. The game was stopped in the seventh inning on account of darkness, the score being tied 9 to 9 at this point. Clark, the freshman catcher, was the featurer of the game. By getting a home run, a triple and a single, he drove in five runs and scored one himself. Proctor also hit for four bases, scoring two men ahead of him. Bob Burnette Played a splendid game for the Sophomores at first, and was and important factor in their scoring.

Harvard Club of North Carolina

The Harvard Club of North Carolina had its dinner for the year on Friday night at Mrs. Archer's. Prof. R. N. Wilson of Trinity, President, Prof. A. S. Wheeler of the University, Secretary, and Treasurer, are succeeded by Mr. W. E. Stone of Raleigh, President, Prof. J. J. Wolff of Trinity, Vice-President, and E. F. Parker of the University, Secretary and Treasurer. Those attending from Trinity College were Professors Wilson, Wolff, Lockhart, Yost, Moore, Hendrick, and Wanamaker; from Wake Forest College, Prof. McCutcheon; from the University of North Carolina, Professors Daggett, Dey, Cobb, Greenlaw, Patterson, Dargan, Hanford, Starr, Parker, Wheeler, and Royster. Dr. Pratt (Yale) and Dr. Howe (Princeton) were the guests of the Club. Professor Greenlaw acted as toastmaster and called out the following toasts: The North Carolina Harvard Club by Prof, R. N. Wilson; Old Harvard by Prof. Cobb; Young Harvard by Prof. Hanford; Trinity by Prof. Wanamaker; Yale by Dr. Pratt; Princeton by Prof. Howe; and Harvard as She is by Prof. Wheeler.

Highway Commission Named

The State Highway Commission provided for by the recent Legislature with an annual appropriation of $10,000 was appointed Friday by Governor Craig and is to meet for organization as soon as possible. Governor Craig and State Geologist Joseph Hyde Pratt are ex officio members of the committee and the other appointees are Prof. H. M. Stacy; Prof. Riddick of A. & M.; Col. Cameron, of Statesville; E. C. Duncan, Raleigh; G. V. Roberts, Asheville. Professors Riddick and Stacy are appointed under the provisions of the bill that specify that there must be on the commission an engineer from the University and an engineer from the A. & M. College.

Dr. Hubert A. Royster of Raleigh will address the Medical Society Saturday night, March 20. All pre-medical students are invited.

LAST OF THE BANQUETS

Sophomores Take Liberty of Characterizing Freshmen

The Soph Banquet, that unexcelled Freshman extinguisher, was celebrated by the class of 1917 Friday night, March 12, at the Inn. About one hundred men attended. A joyous class spirit was present, but the conventional Sophomore rowdyism was absent.

Toastmaster Mackie presided over the banquet-boards and introduced the speakers. The faculty orators were Mr. Stacy and Mr. Booker, President Graham being unable to attend. Mr. Stacy led off with a rattling bit of class-humor. "If we get into the European war," said he, "the Sophomore class had best get behind Wall and load its gun with Capps." "There is one strange thing about this class, but the strangest is that there are three Hills and only one Valley." He then spoke seriously about class spirit and defined it as not a mere banquet-lasting spirit or a cloak behind which one may hide rowdyism and bullying, but "a constructive loyalty to the best interests of the class." Ross responded aptly.

Mr. Booker next spoke on the average college man's reading and hit magazines a hard blow. He said that one frequently meets good, strong characters in the novel, practically never in the magazine. "All poor literature," he declared in the course of his speech, "is immoral." Virginius Williams made an appropriate response.

Meanwhile the banquet had progressed as far as the banana peelings and empty coffee cups. Then an epidemic of speaking broke out. Many feasters, called upon, oratorically showed the crowd a good time. Among those whose little speeches were especially enjoyed were Hodgins, Fowler, Mackie, Proctor, Capps, C. C. Daniels, and Hoover.

The banquet was an all-round success. The menu couldn't be beaten; the speeches were snappy and inspiring.

A bonfire was lit in front of the South Building later. Many Freshmen then left the campus.

One of the most important events of the night was the christening of the Freshmen. Towards the end of the banquet this list was read:

Bowers, Spanish Athlete.
Rand, SimpleStudy in Green.
Prophit, Auguries of Ignorance.
Patton, Right from Blackwood.
Abelkoppf, Nature's Waterloo.
Graham, The Misfit who lost his ticket.
F. H. Horton, Onagutandon't Giveadam
Kennedy, God was tired when He made him.
Pfaff, Unspeakable Turk.
Archie Gay, Venus de Milo, Class Politician.
Big Terry, Clumsey Claude.
Big Price, Blunderbuss.
Kinlaw, Freshness Galore.
J. P. Sawyer, Jope.
H. G. Gudger, The Rouge Artist.
John Durham, Hairbreadth Harry.
Willie Nichols, A-l-m-o-s-t.
Teeti Smith, Pup.
Green, 'Nough said.
Schwartz, Oh how cute.
Perry, Chapel Hill's Skyscraper.
McCanless, A boost to Darwin's theory.
Cooper, E. L., The realization of perpetual motion, his tongue.
Eagle, He aspires to soar. May the gods help him.
Buchanan, The Lost Chord of the creation.
Snoddy, Oh, how vulgar
Hookes, All asses must bray.
Boyette, The snuffing out of modern civilization.
Applewhite, The Willing Performer.
Meredith, Fastidious Fanny.
DeRosset, A cross between a grasshopper and a surprise.
Stephenson, The Malted Milk Baby.
Chapman, He's a lady killer and doesn't deny it.
Gallant, an exaggerated incident.

Those elected to Membership in the Booloo Club are:

Dillon, Applewhite, Graham, Abelkoppf, Gallant, and Kennedy.

LOCALS

Indications are that the inter-scholastic track meet to be held in Chapel Hill on April 16, will be participated in by a large number of contestants.

The mailing list of the University News Letter has been increased to 5,000. This publication is meeting with wide-spread approval throughout the state.

Dr. E. C. Branson and Dr. L. A. Williams, from the University, and Dr. Louis H. Webb, from the town, were among the speakers at a general meeting of Orange County teachers and citizens held in Hillsboro on Saturday, March 13.

The track men are working steadily now, in preparation for their first meet, which is only a few weeks off. From the way in which some of the candidates are showing up, it looks as if some records were going to be smashed this year.

The Chapel Hill and Burlington high schools debate in Chapel Hill Friday night, March 26th. Chapel Hill has the affirmative and is represented by Miss Mary Taylor and Mr. James Phipps. Burlington has the negative and is represented by Miss Cordelia Cox and Mr. Hobart Steele.

At the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Dr. Branson made the first of a series of four talks on "Present Forces in Negro Progress." The object of these talks is rather for discussion work than for a lecture course. The first two chapters of the book were treated at this meeting and the third chapter will be taken up next time. This course is going to be of great interest and practical value, and everyone should take it who can. Dr. Branson is the leader and will therefore make the other three addresses, and if they are as interesting as this one, they will be well worth hearing.

DEBATERS ARE CHOSON

Messrs. Martin, Blackstock, Kornegay, and Umstead Win Out

As a result of preliminaries held Monday and Tuesday nights, Messrs. Martin and Kornegay will represent Carolina against Virginia, while Messrs. Umstead and Blackstock will debate Johns Hopkins, in the annual triangular debate between these three institutions. The date of the contest is April 24. On that date, Virginia will meet Johns Hopkins here in Gerrard Hall, while Carolina's affirmative side meets Virginia at Baltimore and the negative side Johns Hopkins at Charlottesville. The question is, "Resolved, That a policy of colonial expansion is desirable for the modern state."

The first of the two preliminaries was held Monday night, and as a result Messrs. Umstead and Blackstock were chosen for the negative side. The Judges were President E. K. Graham, Professor Chase, and Mr. Frank Graham.

Tuesday night the second preliminary was held, this being the one for the affirmative side of the question. Professor Chase, Professor Bernard, and Mr. Frank Graham acted as judges, and selected for the affirmative team Messrs. Martin and Kornegay.

The preliminaries were hotly contested, there being thirteen candidates. The honors of the two literary societies were evenly divided, two men being chosen from each.

Carolina's record on the platform is one that she can justly be proud of, and one which the newly chosen debaters will strive hard to maintain.

Pharmacists Meet

At the regular weekly meeting of the William Simpson Pharmaceutical Society last Saturday night its members and visitors enjoyed a program that was a little out of the ordinary. Dr. Herty was present and gave a very interesting and helpful talk on various branches of commercial chemistry. Afterwards everybody adjourned to another room and there enjoyed a bounteous repast, which was given by the first year class in honor of Dr. Herty and the other members of this department.

This society is named in memory of William Simpson, a North Carolinian who was at one time President of the American Chemical Society. It is interesting to note that the first faculty member to deliver a talk before this society should be the president of a national society that is so closely related to the one of which William Simpson was one time president.

A special train managed by the students of Vanderbilt University will be run from Nashville to the Panama Exposition. The train will be composed of three Pullmans, a dining car, and a baggage car. The trip will be begun in July, will last some thirty days, and will include many places of interest. The price of the trip, all expenses included, will vary from $169 to $189.

The University loses a good friend in the death of Mrs. E. M. Armfield, of High Point, which occurred last week. For many years Mrs. Armfield has been an admirer and lover of this institution, the Armfield scholarships being a result of her interest.

than another's rebuke, while his approval was a thing to strive for.

"As a man, personal charm, loyalty and affection were his outstanding traits, and the same qualities which matchless teacher made him a dear friend and a much sought-after member of society. He was devoted to his friends, a man who loved without niggardliness and never stinted time or trouble to help those who asked his ever-ready assistance. In return he drew the love of students and fellow teachers and townspeople alike in an unusual degree. In their irreparable loss his friends will treasure the inspiration of his memory which will remain fresh and green in their hearts."

Recognizing the truth of every word of this, all who knew Doctor Bain, will realize that even words, the most inspired by his memory are as incapable of expressing the sweet, strong, joyous spirit of the man himself as they are powerless to measure the good that his personality has done to all with whom he came into contact. In him the qualities of a broad and brilliant student and those of a Southern gentleman seemed perfectly blended.

The University, feeling his loss most keenly, mourns him most profoundly—yet not as one wholly departed, for he still lives as a powerful enriching influence in the minds and hearts and lives of all of us who knew him.

AN ALUMNUS WRITES

Coach Trenchard Has Good News About a Prospective Fullback

The following letter was recently received by Coach Trenchard from a loyal son of Carolina who has not long been an alumnus.

Dear Coach Trenchard:

I am writing to introduce you to my young son, born March 1, 1915. I am going to start training table for him in a few days, and I hope you will be able to use him at full-back next Thanksgiving Day.

Nothing could please me better than for him to become a regular "run-'em-to-'ell full-back," and he looks like he'd be a husky from the beginning. Jacocks and I have had him out this morning teaching him to drop-kick and have also run him thru light signal practice.

Yours,
His "Paw."

About thirty students of the University of Virginia have taken the liberty of rebelling against the poor quality of the board at the University Commons, and have demanded better food and more of it.

MR. TAFT ON PRESIDENCY EXCHANGE LECTURESHIP CAROLINA 6, OAK RIDGE 3 JUDGE PALMER TO SPEAK PRELIMINARIES FRIDAY

Ex-President the Guest of Durham Bar Friday Night

Mr. Taft's second lecture last Thursday night was no less enjoyable than that of Wednesday night. The aspect of the presidency which he took up first was the appointing power. "Why," asked he, "should the President be bothered with the appointment of the postmaster of Devil Lake, Montana?" Beginning thus he went on to show how unsatisfactory is the present system whereby appointments are made according to the spoils system. Mr. Taft urged that the scope of the civil service should be broadened to include many of the offices which are at present filled by presidential appointment. The whole thing, he stated, was a matter of common sense, and should not be divorced from common sense because it is politics.

Mr Taft said that there have been frequent and flagrant instances when the rights of aliens have been disrespected, and that there has long been need for timely legislation in this regard.

The "machinery of government" in Washington was complimented by Mr. Taft. The inconspicuous workers in the government offices, those who work while the press-followed heads of departmentsare taking recreation in the mountains and at the seashores, are the real forces that keep the government moving.

The topic with which Mr. Taft dealt last in his lecture, was the military power of the President. Nor did the Ex-President overlook this opportunity to inject some interesting personal reminiscences.

Friday night Mr. Taft spoke of presidential diplomacy. As an illustration he cited the case of the Colorado miners during the present administration. President Wilson was asked to negotiate a settlement in a strike of Colorado miners. The miners desired the closing of the mines as well as the stationing of soldiers to guard the mines. President Wilson diplomatically conceded only part of their demand, and the matter ended peacefully.

With this diplomacy of Wilson's Mr. Taft contrasted Roosevelt's action in settling the coal famine in Pennsylvania.

In speaking of the President's pardoning power, Mr. Taft related how Mr. Roosevelt had received a request of pardon from one of his fellow rough riders. The letter read: "Dear Colonel: As you see I am in trouble again, but it is not my fault this time. I am in jail for shooting a lady in the eye. I wasn't shooting at the lady, but at my wife."

In conclusion Mr. Taft advocated the establishment a court of arbitration to settle all international difficulties. He was not of the opinion that such a court could abolish wars, "But certainly," said he, "it would make war less likely."

Professor Taft congratulated the University upon its new President. "I shall always cherish as a sweet memory my visit to Chapel Hill. I hope I may not be premature in congratulating you on the inauguration of your coming president."

After his lecture here Friday night Mr. Taft was the guest of the Durham Bar at an elaborate banquet. Mr. Taft advocated "more freedom of the judiciary, less tinkering with the laws on the part of the legislatures, less cost of litigation, and less delay in the administration of justice."

Other guests at the banquet were Attorney General Bickett, Judge C. M. Cooke, Judge Connor, Judge Boyd, and Judge Clark.

President of University of South Carolina Writes

Dr. W. S. Currell, President of the University of South Carolina, has recently returned to Columbia from Nasheville, where he delivered a series of lectures before Vanderbilt University on the University Exchange Foundation. President Currell delivered four lectures: Ibsen, Man and Dramatist; Peer Gynt; Brand; and The Master Builder. He also spoke before the University Convention upon an ethico-educational topic: "Marginal Lives;" and gave informal talks to the teachers of the city at the Carnegie Library and to the Peabody students. In a letter recently received by Dr. Henderson, President Currell says:

"It seems to me that the exchange lectureship is an admirable agency for fostering college comity and co-operation. Your committee is to be heartily congratulated upon inaugurating so helpful a movement. . . . Dr. Venable did admirable work with us, both in his technical scientific lectures and in his popular lecture on 'University-Research.' . . . His popular address was one of the very finest I have ever listened to. . . . If we can get his consent to its publication in one of our bulletins, I shall be very glad to give it wide circulation, because I regard it as exceedingly uplifting and inspiring."

Dr. Branson at the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Branson gave his second lecture on "Present Forces in Negro Progress" at the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Y. M. C. A. In this lecture he took up the third chapter of the book. He discussed the ratio of whites and blacks and their proportional increase, and stated that the white race is increasing the faster. The life of both races is intimately connected, and each is necessary to the other. There will be two more lectures on this subject by Dr. Branson.

Prof. Collier Cobb left Wednesday for the eastern part of the state, where he is to do some investigation in the swamps of that section.

First Game of Season Ends in Victory for Carolina

Last Friday Carolina opened her baseball season with a victory over Oak Ridge 6-3.

Patterson, for Carolina, succeeded in crossing the home plate in the first inning on a single by Pope.

In the third inning Hornig added another run as the result of an error at short. Bailey scored another in the fourth on a clean bingle by Mac Lewis.

The visitors then got busy and scored a run when Truelove tallied on a double by Hooks.

In the fifth Carolina added another, Patterson counting on a two base hit by Bruce.

Carolina netted her sixth and final run in the eighth when Bailey was driven home on a single by Lewis.

During this time Oak Ridge was not idle. Mayberry and Brittain succeeded in pulling down two runs in the seventh. After that Oak Ridge failed to make connection at any station.

On the whole, the game gave proof of the rumor that Carolina has a team able to connect frequently with the ball. Bailey, Bruce, Hornig, and Pope demonstrated their ability at the bat. In this capacity Woodall failed to show what was in him.

Marshall Williams did the twirling for Carolina, and showed up well for his first game, fanning twelve men. Bland, pitching for Oak Ridge, killed nine in their tracks. Both pitchers were wild at times.

Secretary McAdoo Unable To Attend Commencement

Contrary to expectations, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo will not deliver the commencement address at the University. Mr. McAdoo accepted the invitation of the University before the date for the meeting of the International Finance Conference had been determined. Since the dates conflict, Mr. McAdoo, being compelled to attend the conference, will consequently not be able to come to Chapel Hill.

In his stead, however, former Representative A. Mitchell Palmer will make the commencement address June 2. The Raleigh News and Observer has the following to say of Mr. Palmer's career:

Mr. Palmer, who retired from Congress March 4, after making the race for the Senate against Boise Penrose, has been appointed a judge of the court of claims of the district of Columbia by the president and will be sworn in about the first of June. His career in politics, though brief, has been brilliant. He represents Wilson democracy in Pennsylvania and is a national political figure. He is chairman of the executive committee of the national democratic committee, and in the last congress, was a leader of the Wilson forces in the House.

Palmer is a striking figure in debate, exceptionally handsome and a fluent speaker. He is a Quaker by lineage and affiliation and so devoted to that faith that he declined one of the two fighting portfolios in the president's cabinet. He was asked to be the secretary of war in the Wilson administration, but declined on the ground that the post would not be in keeping with his religious beliefs. In politics he has always been clean and straight forward. He went into the last senatorial campaign with hardly any hope of winning in spite of the fact that his congressional district would have certainly sent him back to the House had he desired to come.

Secretary McAdoo regretted his inability to go to Chapel Hill and expressed the hope that he will be able to go some time in the future.

Junior Week Concert

One of the entertainments of Junior Week will be a concert to be given Wednesday night by Messrs. W. C. Wright, P. L. Branson, P. H. Epps, and J. E. Harris, together with the Mandolin Club.

No baseball game with Vermont will be played here Friday as scheduled. The game with Elon, which would have been played Saturday except for inclement weather, will be held sometime in May after the regular schedule has been played off.

Dr. H. W. Chase will deliver the commencement address for Mapleville Academy, Franklin County, on May 6th.

Finals To Be Held at the University April 9

As the date of the preliminary high school debates draws near, interest throughout the State increases accordingly. This institution which was inaugurated only three years ago by the University has already become a force amongthe high Schools of the State, the value of which cannot be estimated.

At present the office of Mr. E. R. Rankin is one of the busiest places in Chapel Hill. There he receives daily letters from all over North Carolina in regard to the debates--letters from teachers, superintendents, ambitious fathers, interested laymen. Mr. Rankin is in touch with 250 schools in 90 counties, which are taking an active part in the debate.

The increase in the number of girl debaters this year is marked. Already 95 girls, representing 50 schools have been enrolled, and the roll has not yet been completed.

The same debaters who represented Winston-Salem last year will try again for the Aycock Cup this year. It will be remembered that Clifton Eaton and Charles Roddick won the cup last year as the defenders of the negative side of the woman suffrage question. This year they again have the negative side to uphold.

Two weeks from Friday the final debate will be held in Chapel Hill. The schedule of procedure here will be the same as last year. The preliminaries will be held Thursday night and as long as is necessary Friday. The final debate will be held in Memorial Hall, and will be followed by a reception in the Library.

COBURN PLAYERS COMING

"The Yellow Jacket" and "The Imaginary Sick Man" to Be Presented

The University of North Carolina has made arrangements with The Coburn Players for two performances to be given on the campus, Thursday, May 6th, matinee and night. Much interest is shown in this engagement which makes the return of The Coburn Players to Chapel Hill after an absence of two years. The plays to be presented are "The Imaginary Sick Man" of Moliere, the greatest of French comedy writers, and "The Yellow Jacket" by Hazleton and Benrimo, whose collaboration has resulted in the production of one of the most exquisite comedies seen in the past fifty years. The plays are both new to Chapel Hill, and, in fact, one might say, to the whole South. The plays of Moliere are rarely seen outside of New York, and "The Yellow Jacket" has been presented only in largest cities of America and Europe.

Dr. W. C. Coker will give an illustrated lecture on "Across Porto Rico" at the Southern Presbyterian College in Red Springs on April 2.

OUR TRIBUTE

A person who can face a college audience and deliver three lectures on politics and go away carrying the good wishes and unanimous praise of that college is a MAN. Mr. Taft did that very thing.

A college audience is the most critical in the world. It has the intolerance of youth, the pride of intellect and the ennui of the too often amused. A college community attends a nine months long chautauqua. Every grammatical slip, the smallest illogical statement, the first dull or commonplace remark, the least partisanism brings its instant condemnation. Yet former President Taft ran this whole gauntlet and came out unscathed, unruffled, and wearing his ever present smile.

The Tar Heel hereby registers what a whole college has already informally bestowed—a vote of thanks for being allowed to listen to and do homage to the good sportsmanship and good comradeship of our Former President.

By the way, did it ever occur to you what a wonderful education a person could obtain by attending the public meetings at this place for four years?

AN OASIS

Last week some forty men, who are taking History und- - - - we mean with Mr. Frank P. Graham, met in the Di Hall and as nearly as possible reproduced the famous Hanes-Webster debate in the 31st session of Congress. Horny Handed Henry was unanimously elected door keeper. Frank Graham "Calhoun" occupied the chair as President of the Senate. The fifteen Freshmen who had divided the Hanes speech among themselvec sat on one side of the Hall; the fifteen young Webaters on the other. Mann of Connecticut, Taylor of Missouri, and all the other details necessary were present.

The meeting began at 2:30 and was two hours short. When the President of the Senate announced the vote at the end of the Debate and the Senate solemnly adjourned and immediately was transformed into a group of laughing, excited, and pleased young Americans the Spirit of—History and the Joy-of-Learning rose from the corner of the Hall and slipped out together arm in arm with a happy smile on their faces.

Now if somebody does not just come along and try to make a "system" out of it!

MORE PROGRESS

The Tar Heel takes great pleasure in noting that our l rother institution, the A. & M., has followed the good example of the University News Letter, and is issuing a weekly news clip sheet entitled Extension Farm News. This weekly limits itself to topics of immediate interest to the farmer. One very interesting department gives the weekly reports of the official farm demonstration agents. It fills its field—the News Letter fills its field. May they both prosper equally.

"PHARMACEUTICALLY SPEAKING"

Mr. R. A. McDuffie, in the March Magazine, has an intensely interesting article under the same title as this paragraph. It will probably come as surprising news to the general student body that the Pharmacy Department has grown to a body of 58 men and that this year for the first time Degrees in Pharmacy are to be given. Thirteen men expect to receive this degree.

McDuffie's account of the growth of this school to its present high standard should prove of interest to all Carolina men everywhere.

THE SPEEDING WHEELS

Friday night 1000 boys and girls will debate before 250 audiencies in the preliminary State Wide High School Triangular Debate. Two weeks from that night the final debate will be fought out on the platform of Memorial Hall, and the greatest High School Debating Union probably in the world will have closed its third year of operation.

The figures of the growth of this Union are wonderful. They tingle with the power of change and growth sweeping through the State. The year before the High School Debating Union was formed, 12 High Schools had inter school debates. Since then the number has been 90, 150, and 250. This year 90 counties were represented. The first year 16 schools came to Chapel Hill for the finals; last year 41; this year probably 60. About 3000 boys and girls tried out for the 500 teams in the 250 schools; 1000 will debate. Fifty thousand people will listen to the debate. The first year it was 10,000; the second year 30,000.

Each year the Union has gotten out a pamphlet of information on the query debated. The first year there were 500 copies of a 20 page brief; last year 2230 of a 56 page booklet; this year 2500 of a 72 page book.

It gives great pleasure to announce, in this connection, that Dr. L. R. Wilson, who delivered an address at Wisconsin a few days ago on the High School Debating Union, was appointed a member of the Executive Committee of the University Extension Organization of the United States.

The dramatic club of the University of Georgia presents the same play that the Carolina Dramatic Club presents, Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man".

Poor Pauline was in the midst of her thousand and first peril. The dastardly villian had pushed her out of a balloon five thousand miles up in the air. But by heroic use of her floating ribs, Pauline landed safely in the arms of our hero. And the villian gnashed his teeth in baffled rage.—Sewanee Purple.

In Ithaca we have found that the movies are a most potent factor in making manly fellows of our students. It is not as it was a few years ago. Nowadays, when the boys have a little extra time hanging on their hands of an evening, they do not organize parties as of old and go down into town to guzzle beer and to shoot pool in some ambiguous emporium.—President Jacob Gould Schurman, Cornell University.

The University of Minnesota has just instituted the honor system, and the recent examinations held there marked the first tryout of the system.

In addressing the members of the Republican Club of New York City at a luncheon Feb. 5, on the subject of "The Military Needs of Our Country", Secretary of War Garrison said 350,000 more men than the National Guard could supply would be needed for first line men for any military emergency, and he advocated military training in all the universities, colleges and schools to provide for them.—Ring-tum Phi.

Football receipts at the University of Wisconsin for the past season aggregated nearly $42,000 according to a recent report of the athletic director. This is the largest sum that has ever been realized from football in the history of the institution.—Ex.

The war has had a most destructive effect upon the European universities. It is estimated that fifty-six per cent of the students have enlisted in the armies of the belligerent nations. Also sixty-six per cent of the Christian church workers and ninety per cent of the Y. M. C. A. officers have gone into the service.—Ex.

In Chemistry Circles

The regular meeting of the Journal Club was held Monday night in Chemistry Hall. The following papers were read and discussed: "Determination of arsenic, antimony, and tin," by Mr. Barber. Preparation and uses of liquid air," by Mr. Hall. "The new discovery of Ritman's," by Mr. Killifer. "The manufacture of dyes in America and in Europe," by Mr. Pritchard.

Prof. M. C. S. Noble will deliver an educational address at Fairmont, Robeson Countp, on April 30th.

ENGLISH PRIZES LISTED

Four Prizes to Be Awarded for Excellence in English

In order to call attention to the prizes in English which will be awarded this year, a list of them is hereby submitted to the students.

Poetry Prize. A copy of "The Home Book of verse" (Henry Holt and Co.), to the undergraduate who writes the best poem printed in the "University of North Carolina Magazine" during the year.

Preston Cup Prize. Awarded to the undergraduate who submits the best specimens of journalistic work, comprising the following: (1) an article of 1000-1200 words, (2) a news item, with headlines, and (3) an editorial. Specimens must be handed to Prof. Booker on or before May 1.

Freshman Magazine Prize. A copy of the "Everyman Encyclopoedia" (E. P. Dutton and Co.), 12 volumes, to the Freshman who writes the best story or essay printed in the "University of North Carolina Magazine" during the year. (Only the work of Freshmen is considered.)

English I Prize. A copy of "Webster's Unabridged International Dictionary", full sheet binding, to the student who does the best work in English I during the year.

Louis Graves of New York City, a native of Chapel Hill and a graduate of the University, is one of the leading contributors to the April number of American Magazine. His story is entitled "Making Up the Record", and is cancerned with the newspaper game of which Mr. Graves can speak from first-hand information.—Charlotte Observer.

An orchestra and band is being formed under the direction of Prof. Wilbur Royster.

W. A. GRAHAM'S PORTRAIT

Likeness In Di Society To Be Copied For Sec. Daniels

The Raleigh News and Observer of Sunday has the following to say:

Secretary Daniels has commissioned Jacques Busby, of Raleigh, to paint a portroit of former Secretary of the Navy William A. Graham of North Carolina, the picture to be hung in the office of the Secretary of the Navy. Portraits of former Secretaries John Branch, George E. Badger, and James C. Dobbin, all of North Carolina, now hang in Mr. Daniels' office. He intends to group the four former Tar Heel secretaries as soon as the Graham portrait is finished.

The portrait selected for the Navy's use will follow the likeness of the Graham portrait which hangs upon the wall of the Dialectic Literary Society of the State University. This was painted by Carl Brown, and is considered by the descendants of Graham to be the best likeness of him existing.

William A. Graham accomplished one of the most far reaching deeds of his time when he was secretary of the navy. This was the sending of Commodore Perry to Japan on a mission that changed that country's history. The expidition opened new fields of commerce for the United States, and was one of a number of expeditions which he inaugurated about the same time. The sending of Lieut. William L. Herndon to South America to explore the Amazon River was second in importance to the Japanese expedition.

The recent uncertain weather has been the cause of much discomfort to many students. Colds prevail all over the campus and the infimary is an unusually popular place

IF——

If you can set th' alarum clock for seven-thirty
And then get up before that hour called eight;
If you, in noble scorn of going dirty,
Can daily enter Bynum's icy gate;
If you can come directly from that Office
Whereat we letters send and box-rent pay—
Come straight despite shakes, cakes and Oley's coffies
And neither loaf a bit on the way;
If you can drop your tooth-brush in the slop-jar
And never breathe one word about your loss;
If you can hear a Freshman talk like Papa
And yet not even look a little cross;
If you can, when a rough-neck Sophomore's slick trick
Humbles a freshman's freshness, feel no pride;
If you can see afar a Pauline Pickwick
And then pass by upon the other side;
If you can make a two,—a bloody, gory
TWO!—and then weep because it's not a ONE:—
Thine is the campus honor and the glory!
(But probably you'll be a Pill, my Son.)

UNIVERSITY SERMON

Rev. W. E. Abernathy of Shelby Speaks in Gerrard Hall

Rev. W. E. Abernathy, pastor of the Methodist church at Shelby, delivered the regular monthly University Sermon last Sunday. He chose as his text the 21st verse of the 19th chapter of First Kings; "And Elijah came unto all the people and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God follow him; but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word." He advised the students not to let science come in the way of their religion but to use their science to explain and clarify their religion. He believed in miracles, and did not doubt the veracity of the accounts of them in the Bible, because there are so many more wonderful ones today, such as the wireless telegraph, the aeroplane, etc. He cited other instances where one man has stood against conventionality and the crowd, Luther, Savanarolla, John Knox, and advised "When you believe you are in the right, stick to it, no matter how many be against you.

In the second game of the class series, the Juniors were defeated by the Seniors. The game was close and hotly contested throughout, the final score being 4 to 3. The all-round work of the Seniors featured, since they have one of the strongest squads ever put out by a graduating class.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate"

The Original Cast as Played in New York and Chicago. Highly Recommended by the Charlotte Papers.

O. LeR. Goforth, Local Manager.

An Original Idea

It is supposed that every college in the country has had the same difficulty in getting appropriate hymns and songs that Virginia has met with. And the greatest difficulty has usually been encountered in getting the undergraduates to learn the airs when by chance a popular melody is discovered by some student a little more energetic, patriotic, able—what you will—than his fellows. On Saturday night, the classic ozone of the campus is fairly rent by the vocal antics of the community; whenever two or more youngsters ensconce themselves in a "low neck gondola," cries of a more or less harmonious nature break out upon the stillness of the midnighr air; wherever two are gathered together over a box of pretzels even the dry facts of history are recited in terms of music; and yet upon the more notable occasion of a football game or a reception to the girls of Sweetbriar the student tongue is strangely mute.

—College Topics

Virginia hopes to remedy this defect by engaging a hurdy-gurdo owner to play all the college airs on his instrument at a prominent place on the campus.

Fresh Soph Debaters Chosen

The speakers who will participate in the Fresh Soph debate were chosen this week. From the Dialectic Messrs. Snyder and Ross were selected, while Messrs. Rand and Stephenson will represent the Phi. The debate is to be held April 15, and the subject is: Resolved, That a literacy test for immigrants seeking admission to this country is undesirable.

The students of the University of Texas, one of the largest universities in the country, are advocating the establishment of a military department in the institution.—Ex.

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist, has been the guest of the college at chapel for several mornings this week, and made himself welcome, by the interesting and instructive talks which he made.—Wau Gau Rac (A. & M.)

Clemson now has six literary societies, three new ones having been recently founded.

All Freshmen at Vanderbilt will be required hereafter to room in one of the college dormitories.

The final contest will be held April 9. The debaters will come to Chapel Hill on April 7, and 8. The first preliminary will be held on the night of April 8 and will be open to University students. The second preliminary will be held on the morning of the 9, and will not be open to the students. The final contest will take place Friday night, April 9, in Memorial Hall, and everyone is invited to attend. The judges of the preliminaries will come from the Faculty and the Senior class. The judges for the final contest will be announced later.

As for social activites, the debaters will be entertained by the clubs of the counties from which they come, and the young lady debaters will be the guests of the faculty on a personally conducted automobile tour of the village There will also be a baseball game between Carolina and Bingham Friday afternoon and a reception in the Library immediately after the final debate. It is especially desired that the students meet as many of the debaters as possible, certainly those from their own counties, and do everything in their power to help the contestant have a good time.

WAKE FOREST SUCCUMBS

Fast and Close Game Ends in Victory For Carolina

In one of the fastest and hardest fought games seen at Wake Forest in a long time Carolina defeated Wake Forest by the score of 1 to 0. The teams, according to the box score, were very evenly matched. Shields and Ellis both pitched good ball Ellis allowed seven hits, while Shields allowed just four. Ellis got two of the four hits garnered on Shields. Both pitchers pitched air-tigh ball, especially when men were on the bases.

The fielding of both teams was good—Trust making the only serious bobble when he fell down while going after what seemed an easy out. It was in the third inning. Bailey led off with a single, Lewis bunted and Bailey went to second on the play. Shields hit to Ellis and Bailey was forced out at third. Honig hit a high fly to center. Just as Trust turned to go after the ball he fell, Lewis scoring.

Wake Forest made several attempts to tie the score, but could not hit Shields when a man was on base. In the eighth, Ellis singled and Trust hit between left and center for two bases. Ellis was tagged out at the plate. Trust died on second when Billings fanned.

Carolina was guilty of just one error and that was harmless. The team fielded in mid-season form. Captain Woodall checked every attempt to pilfer a base and also got his hit. Zollicoffer made a brilliant catch off Hensley's bat, which looked good for three bases. Pope and Patterson led in the hitting, each one getting two hits.

Left fielder Lee of Wake Forest broke his finger while warming up before the game.

THE JUNIOR WEEK PLANS

Schedule Completed For Four Unprecedented Days

The final schedule for Junior Week has been completed and is as follows: Wednesday: Junior Oratorical Contest in Gerrard Hall at 8:00 P. M.; Dance given by the Order of Gimghouls at 9:00 o'clock.

Thursday: Class stunts, starting at 10:30 A. M.; Dance given by the Order of the Gorgon's Head 4:00 P. M.; Senior stunt in Gerrard Hall at 8:00 P. M.; Junior Prom at 10:00 P. M.

Friday: Baseball game with Bingham of Asheville at 3:30 P. M.; High School Debate 8:00 P. M.; German Club dance at 9:30 P. M.

Saturday: Baseball game, Carolina vs. Virginia in Greensboro.

The Faculty have granted two holidays, Thursday and Friday, the eighth and ninth of April; and these two days will be fully taken up, according to the schedule. The Senior Stunt advertisements have been posted several days, and have succeeded in arousing the curiosity of the campus to a high pitch. It is understood that the Stunt will take the form of a musical comedy, which is an entirely new wrinkle in the realm of Senior Stuntdom. The performance will start promptly at 8:00 o'clock. Permission has been granted the Juniors to continue their prom until 2:00 o'clock instead of 1:00, in view of the fact that these two entertainments come on the same night.

There will be sixty or seventy young ladies here for the dances, and a goodly number for the high school debate. The Sigma Nu and Kappa Sigma fraternities will have house-parties. Grainer's orchestra from Wilmington has been secured to play for the dances.

The various class stunts, which will take place Thursday morning, are being rounded into form, but nothing has been disclosed as their nature yet. There is, however, every assurance that they will be novel and entertaining.

To make use of a phrase frequently heard, "Junior Week will be there."

Those in charge of the Junior Prom request that tickets be purchased early instead of the day of the dance. Everybody except Freshmen are eligible. Tickets may be secured from J. G. Cowan, F. O. Clarkson, and W. B. Cobb.

THE RECENT CLASS GAMES

Unusually Good Baseball Talent Shown by Classes

The Freshmen won a poorly played game from the Seniors Wednesday by the margin of one run. The fielding of both teams was exceedingly ragged, each making seven error.s

Hines and Blount, the opposing pitchers, each showed good stuff, but both were wild. Both teams were weak at bat. few safe hits being made.

Practically all the runs came as a result of errors, only one being earned. The Seniors had a good chance to tie the score in the ninth, but a pretty peg from left field caught the runner at the plate.

Class Baseball

Thursday the Juniors overwhelmingly defeated the Sophomores in a regular "back alley" game of baseball. After the game, the score was found to be 21 to 8 in favor of the Juniors, although some said the score was larger. The Sophomores used six pitchers or "would be" pitchers. Home runs, three baggers, and errors featured the game.

Sophs Win 9 to 5

The rejuvinated Sophomores came back last Saturday and put one over the Freshmen. Campbell pitched the first four innings and held 1918 to two runs. The famous Ratty then went in and pitched good ball. The losers started a rally in the ninth that scored three runs, but a good peg to third cut the rally short. Hines pitched good ball for his team but was given bad support.

NEGATIVE AND POSITIVE GUILT

We believe that the Honor System at Carolina is in a healthier condition today than it has been in three years at least. We believe that the students realize more keenly than ever before that it is the duty of the average man to report cheating and stealing. We believe that fewer students look upon the Student Council as a police court and the councilmen as policeman. We do not lose these beliefs on mere belief, but on fact.

More men have preferred charges of one sort or another against other men this year than the three previous years combined. Last year not a man was reported by a student not on the Council. This year four Freshmen have reported cases to the council. That is a tremendously encouraging sign. It takes the highest kind of moral courage to report a man. Upperclassmen have also done their duty in this regard. In all, four cases have voluntarily been brought by students.

However, we are a long way from perfection. A short while ago the Student Council expelled a man from the University. It took the Council several months to get enough evidence to expell the man. On the day following this action five men told one member of the Student Council that the Council did right and that they knew and had known for months that he was guilty.

If those men and others who have knowledge of cheating, stealing or immoral conduct would once realize the purifying and elevating influence the voluntary reporting of a case by a student has on this college community, we personally believe they would report their knowledge. There is not the slightest doubt but that the men's reporting of the cases so far reported has resulted in a distinct rise in the moral standards of this place.

If you have it within your power, by reporting, to raise the moral plane of this community and refuse to do so, how do you compare with the fellow who lowered the existing plan by stealing, cheating, or otherwise doing wrong? We believe there is but one answer.

FIZZLING

An upperclassmen casually remarked a few days ago that the North Carolina Club was fizzling out. We will at first frankly admit that the North Carolina Club meetings ought to be better attended. Beyond that we defy any man to point out any other two University activities which week in and week out get as much publicity in the state papers—daily and weekly—or are more truly educating this state. Barring athletics, we doubt if all other news concerning this University inch for inch has occupied as much newspaper space in the state papers as has the North Carolina Club. (This was a mere guess. We read four state dailies.)

The University News Letter has a larger circulation than that of the Alumni Review, Tar Heel and Magazine combined--and in contrast to one or two of the latter three, it's read. The University News Letter is less than a year old. Its circulation will probably eventually grow into the tens of thousands. Inspired by the success of the work here the A. & M. has begun issuing its own news sheet.

Mr. Clarence Poe, one of the livest men in this state, addressed the North Carolina Club Wednesday. Last Wednesday at a combined meeting of this club and Community Club was started a survey of Orange County destined, if properly made, "to be the best surveyed county in the whole 2,800 counties in the United States. In no county have the national, state, and local officials come together so harmoniously as in this county."

But if words can't convince you of the wonderful activities of the North Carolina Club, just drop around to Professor Bransons's office any time of day. You need not fear to go early or late. Unless he is off on North Carolina Club business, you will find him there any time from very early to very late. And unless you have something mighty important, you aren't going to occupy many minutes of his time, because he is very busy with things that are important.

It's really a great pity that men can stay here month after month and never catch a glimpse of these first fermenting of new movements which in a few years are going to be dominating factors in the history of a state of two million souls.

CORRECTION

In an editorial entitled, "Pharmaceutically Speaking", in these columns last week, the statement was made that "This year for the first time degrees in Pharmacy are to be given." The statement should have been, "This year for the first time Doctor's Degrees in Pharmacy are to be given."

THE VERMONT GAME

Last Friday Carolina was scheduled to play the University of Vermont at Chapel Hill. The game was canceled with the explanation that there were too many games on the schedule and one had to be dropped and that Vermont had hesitated too long about financial arrangements, anyhow.

The TAR HEEL respectfully submits that the Gods that be were wrong in so doing. In the first place, if we had to cancel a game, why not drop one of the three games scheduled with the Carolina League teams? We have no business playing official match games with league teams anyhow. They do not count in the standing of the college team, and are nothing but commercialized practice games for the league teams. Nobody is interested in the outcome of these games, not even the players themselves. One hundred people attended the Durham game Saturday, (according to the newspaper report which usually exaggerates attendance about 100 per cent), and the team that made one error against Oak Ridge made twelve against Durham. College baseball has too much relation with professional baseball, anyhow.

Our second objection is, if the authorities wanted to cancel a game, why cancel one scheduled on the home grounds? We had only ten games scheduled here. One has been played, one rained out, one canceled. The students will see seven more only. We realize that we are up against a tough minority proposition when we try to schedule games in Chapel Hill and a sure financial loss; but we insist that the students should be given every chance possible to see their team in action, and we believe that the authorities in this instance missed such a chance.

The McNeill Prize in History

A prize in history has just been established in honor of the late John Charles McNeill. The conditions are as follows:

The subject of the paper is to be the colonial and revolutionary history of of the Sand Hills region of North Carolina.

By the Sand Hills region is meant the country included in the circle made by the following towns: Hamlet, Rockingham, Ellerbe, Candor, Carthage, Cameron, Lobelia, Raeford. This includes part of Moore, Montgomery, Richmond, and Hoke counties. It also includes a small part of Harnett and Scotland counties.

All papers must be in the hands of Professor J. G de R. Hamilton by noon of May 15. All papers must be typewritten and in good mechanical form.

The prize will not be awaredd unless the paper attains a proper standard.

The amount of the prize is $25.

THE GREENSBORO GAME

Elaborate Plans Being Made for the Carolina-Virginia Game

Mr. John Umstead, Jr., '08, chairman of the athletic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce in Greensboro, announces that arrangements for the biggest game ever staged between Virginia and Carolina are being made in Greensboro for the coming game between the two universities.

Invitations to the faculty and students of Elon College, Oak Ridge, Bingham, and Guilford have been sent. The faculty and students of the Normal and the Greensboro College for Women will attend in full force.

In addition a dance will be given from 8:30 to 11:45 P. M. in honor of the occasion. Five hundred invitations to the dance have been mailed to Carolina men.

Both teams will be met at the station by private automobiles and an hour's ride will be given the players. The game has been advertised everywhere within a radius of Greensboro. Reduced rates will be given on the trains.

A special train will also be run from Chapel Hill, which will carry several hundred students to swell the crowd of five or six thousand which will attend the game.

PLYLER PITCHES NO HIT GAME

Skillful Pitching Enables Juniors to Win from Seniors

Plyler, pitching for the Junior team, twirled a no hit game against the Seniors Monday, and won his game 2 to 0. His work on the mound was the best ever seen on the class field. He allowed no hits, no runs, struck out 14 men and did not have an extra man to face him. One man got on by a walk, but he was caught stealing. The Junoirs gave their pitcher faultless support, not a single error being made by them.

Pou, twirling for the Seniors allowed only three hits, but his support was week at times.

The game was hard fought and interesting throughout, and was by far the best game played so far on the class field.

Juniors	2	3	0
Seniors	0	0	3

Batteries: Pyler and Love, Pou and Craig.

Funny, Aint It?

The class league series is quite complicated—just how much you won't realize until you know that each of the four teams has beat the team that beat the team that beat the team that beat them. If you don't believe this, work it out. Here are the scores.

Seniors 4 Juniors 3
Seniors 3 Freshmen 4
Juniors 21 Sophs 8
Freshmen 5 Sophs 9.

Class Track Meet Saturday

The class track meet will be held Saturday, April 3. Many of the most promising men out are eligible to participate this year, and it is likely that the meet will be hotly contested, since each class has quite a large number of men out for this meet. A close and interesting contest is expected. The class meet was won last year by 1917.

MR. CLARENCE POE HERE

Editor of Progressive Farmer Makes Address in Gerrard Hall

Before an appreciative and interested audience, Mr. Clarence Poe, Editor of the Progressive Farmer and one of the State's leading men in agricultural circles, delivered an able address in Gerrard Hall last night on the "Agricultural Interests in North Carolina."

Mr. Poe pointed out the evidences in our rural educational system, comparing it with that of Denmark which makes education compulsory. During the course of his lecture, Mr. Poe proposed a plan to increase community interest. He suggested a competitive system awarding prizes for those most efficient in domestic, agricultural, and social interests.

Mr. Poe delighted the audience with his exceptional wit.

This was the first of a series of lectures which Mr. Poe is delivering in various universities.

DR. RICHARD BURTON

President of Dramatic League to Speak on Bernard Shaw

A great treat is in store for the University in the coming of Dr. Richard Burton, head of the English department in the University of Minnesota, and president of the Drama League of America. He as without a peer in the country as an attractive and charming platform lecturer. Since seeing Shaw's Arms and the Man so admirably played here this year, everyone will doubtless be eager to hear Dr. Burton lecture on the witty and wayward Irishman, on Tuesday next, April 6th.

The public is cordially invited. There is no admission fee charged. Dr. Burton comes at the invitation of the University Lecture Committee.

LOCALS

Prof. Collier Cobb will deliver the commencement address at Wadesboro high school on May 11th.

Dr. C. L. Raper will deliver the commencement address for the Winston-Salem High School on May 28th.

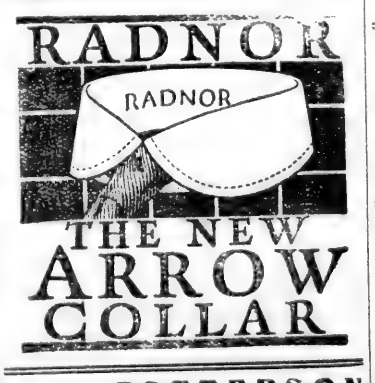
The current issue of The Nation, of New York, contains a letter by Dr. Henderson on some noteworthy poems evoked by the present European crisis.

Mr. J. S. Holmes, of the Forestry department, lectured before the High School and general public in Chemistry Hall on Tuesday night March 30. His subject was "Trees" and was illustrated with lantern slides.



The Inter-scholastic Track Meet will take place in Chapel Hill on April 16. The following schools are expected to enter: Raleigh, Greensboro, Haw River, Friendship, Asheville, Goldsboro, High Point, Oak Ridge, Sanford, Lumberton, Horner, and Lowe's Grove.

The Charlotte Observer has this say:

"A fitting program has been arranged for the inauguration of President Graham of the University at Chapel Hill, April 21. It will be but another incident in the revivifying of that splendid institution, which in the past year has gained an additional share of fame. The formal induction into office of President Graham will mark a bright spot in the history of the University. The occasion will be marked by a few notable addresses, Presidents Finley, Goodnow, Alderman, and Lowell being on the list. And the University has a president who will be worthy the honors that will be paid."

Leo P. Wheat, one of the South's most popular musicians, died at his home in Washington, D. C. last week. Mr. Wheat was a graduate of the University.

1. Hear to the words of the Prophet that ye may be aware and beware,

Whosoever weareth his handkerchief conspicuously in his vest pocket and leaveth unbottoned the nethermost button on his vest,

Whosoever refuseth to lend a match,

Whosoever cometh up to a man amidst the crowd and saith in a loud voice; "Brother, what didst thou get on the last quiz?"

Whosoever saith, "Pauline is Punk,"

Whosoever strideth across the campus with unspeaking lips and upturned nose and stiffeneth his neck when we bow down to him,

Whosoever unmercifully shooteth the Sacred Bull,

Whosoever sitteth upon the back row in Pick and catapulteth in cold blood the mortiferous Peanut:—

Verily, my son, he shall be unanimously damned.

2. Hope deferred maketh the heart sick, and an empty box is next to an empty stomach;

But be of good cheer, my son, and have patience. What dost thou hope? She will write to thee; yea, rejoice, she will write thee—

3. A wise son maketh a glad father; but a foolish son rejoiceth the B. B. Auto Line.

4. As the incense of onions ambushed in the butter, as the sight of water-drops on the rim of the milk-pitcher, as the feel of syrup left on the handle of the syrup-jar,—even so discouraging to the heart is the knowledge that Rosebud Lip Rouge is spread on thy beloved's lips.

5. Hearken, my son; and lend ear (prompt return guaranteed), all ye who pursue the playful penny and adore the delusive dollar! Set ye up store houses and hoard your gold! For when dear Junior Week shall have passed away, there shall be a famine throughout the land—yea, an absence of nickels and a dearth of dimes. And though we strive to sell our Latin Jacks and beat our radiators into quarters, yet in all the campus there shall be hardly the price of a Pick ticket.

6. Lo! I had a Vision of Voices. And from out the darkness the Dormitories spoke.

"What the hell do you want?", said Smith

"Let's get to work," said O. W.

"Horrors, never! Let's sit down and talk it over again," quoth O. E.

"All right; I will if Crip and W. P. will let me", replied South.

"— — — —!" Said Carr.

Silence, and then from out the darkness a groan, a yawn and another voice. And it was the voice of the New Dorm: "Where is that damn pitcher? Man! you'd ought to been to the show last night in Durham."

7. Lastly, my son, thou last heard it said that "whatsoever a man seweth that shall he also rip";

But I tell you that this is even as true: whatsoever a man knoweth that shall his Professor skip.

THE GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Carolina Meets Her Old Rivals of the Dominion State

Posters distributed through the village announcing the fact that the return trip fare to Greensboro has been reduced to a dollar and a half have brought relief and satisfaction to the many Carolina students who are anticipating seeing the Carolina-Virginia game Saturday. Likewise comforting is the news that the team is hitting hard. Coach Doak thinks that the team is in excellent trim to meet the old rivals, and anyone who has watched practice for the last few days can notice the marked improvement in all departments of the game. The infield especially has made progress this week. Altogether, Carolina has the most promising prospects for a victory.

Greensboro is duly preparing for the occasion. The Greensboro Chamber of Commerce has scheduled, among other things, a dance for Saturday night. The game is being advertised throughout the surrounding country, and Greensboro is preparing for her largest crowd of the season. So to the game.

REWARDS FOR CHAMPIONS

Coach Trenchard Plans to Give Souvenir Emblems to Class Champions

Coach Trenchard has recently decided upon a plan to increase interest in class athletics. In addition to the class numerals now awarded to members of the championship class team, souvenir emblems, the exact nature of which has not yet been decided, will be given. The surplus proceeds from the high school championship games which are played here, will be used in purchasing these emblems. These souvenirs are to be awarded to the winning teams in all the branches of sports, football, baseball, basketball, etc. The plan is being heartily approved and should add a great deal of interest to class athletics.

Tentative plans are also being formed whereby the championship class baseball team shall play the high school champions of the state. The deciding game of the High School Championship will be played here and the proposed game is to take place the following day. If this plan is adopted and is successful, contests between the champions of the state and the classes, in the other sports will be held. Further details of the proposed plan will be given as soon as they are completed.

Prof. Zebulon Judd spoke at Calypso in Wayne County on April 2.

Dr. L. A. Williams will make the commencement address at Benson High School on April 20.

Dr, A. H. Patterson has recently been ill, but is rapidly recovering.

DR. BURTON ON SHAW

President of the Drama League of America Speaks

Dr. Richard Burton, of the University of Minnesota, president of the American Dramatic League, poet, essayist, and eminent lecturer, spoke in Gerrard Hall last Tuesday night on "Bernard Shaw, The Wittiest Man Alive".

According to Dr. Burton there are two Shaws; Bernard Shaw of the newspaper headlines, pictured as the witty autographer, and Shaw the serious-minded philosopher. His diabolical wit is a talent which takes many forms, accomplishing that most difficult task of pleasing that changable monster, the public. His plays delight the brainless auditor and pleases the thoughtless patron, a thing few philosophers accomplish.

An unfortunate trait of Mr. Shaw's, Dr. Burton declared, was his use of the word "romance" in portraying sham. Often his real object is misunderstood on account of this. To illustrated this point several selections were given fron his plays, "The Devil's Deciple" and "Arms and the Man".

Shaw is a socialist, being deeply intesrested in his feilowman. Ideas suggest in his plays twenty years ago, which terrified the people at that time, are generally practiced today.

On the other hand Shaw is a philosopher, firm in his belief that life forces should be joined for the promotion of humanity.

Immediately after the lecture a smoker was tendered Dr. Burton by Omega Delta which is affiliated with the American Dramatic League.

MR. W. W. WOLFE AT Y. M. C. A.

The Parable of Lazarus Applied to Modern Conditions

Mr. W. W. Wolfe from Union Theological Seminary of Richmond spoke in Gerrard Hall Tuesday night, April 7, on "Today's Rich Man and Lazarus." Mr. Wolfe first read the parable in the Bible on Lazarus and the Rich Man and then made applications of it to modern life. He was unusually direct and personal in his manner of speech. As an illustration of the need of service, Mr. Wolfe made the statement that more people go to bed hungry in India than go to make up the entire population of North America. In conclusion, he issued a call to the ministry as expressed through a call to service, and no one can be a true Christian without serving.

A DEFEAT AND A VICTORY

In Two Close Games Carolina an Amherst Share Honors

In the first game of the series with Amherst Carolina lost by the score of 3 to 1. Neither team played at its best on account of the slow and muddy field. Even at that Carolina out-hit her opponents with 6 hits to 4 for Amherst.

These hits were offset by errors, poor base running, and a wild pitch by Williams. The game would in all probability have been tied in the ninth had Hornig not attempted to come from second to home on a short single to the out-field. Patterson followed Hornig and singled to right. Pope, the next man up, drove one to the fence. All efforts by Coach Doak to tie the score failed after two men were down, as Pope's hit failed to score anyone

Patterson led in the hitting with a double and and a single, Pope and Goodrich each hit for two bases. Twelve of Carolina's men were left on bases while four of Amherst's died in the same place.

Second Game

The second game, which ended in a 2 to 1 victory for Carolina, was one of the prettiest pitching duels ever seen here. Each pitcher allowed four hits. Shields kept the hits of the visitors well scattered, while Goodridge allowed a hit at the wrong time. Goodridge, however, made a desperate effort to win his game. He secured a triple and a single out of four trips to the plate. Shields, besides pitching a great game, also secured a hit.

Outside the pitching the outstanding features of the game were the fast fielding of Bruce and Swasey. Bruce covered the whole side of the field on his side—getting what appeared to be sure hits with ease. The whole team, despite the four errors checked up against it, played a great game in the field. It was a game worth going miles to see.

CAROLINA PLAYS WINSTON

Teams Divide Honors in Two Games Easter Monday

Carolina divided honors on Easter Monday with Clancy's bunch of ball tossers at Winston. In the morning game the Twins triumphed four to two. Curry pitched and held the leaguers to six hits. Curry's teammates garnered eight hits but could not bunch them.

In the afternoon game Williams had the Twins eating from his hand. Whenever there was any danger, he tightened up and stopped all efforts towards a score. Incidentally, Carolina had a batting practice in the last game. The way they went after Couvey was a shame. When the smoke cleared away the Blue and White had checked up ten runs, while the Clancyites made one. Everyone took a hand in the swatfest. Bruce hit one over the fence with two on bases.

Morning game.

DEBATING-FINAL SENTIMENTS

Alma Mater, we introduce to you your future sons; debaters all, we present to you the old Mother who has cherished us and nurtured us, in her visions and ideals of loving service, for lives of useful citizenship. Introductions over, we stand ready to make you better acquainted. For the time she is yours, you visitors, to see, to hear, to learn, to know, and to receive in some measure her manifold gifts to the striving and forward-looking of her sons.

Nearly three hundred strong, from every section of the state, thoroughly representative of its school life, already tested and triumphant in one struggle with a sister-school, these debaters and their successes are typical of the kind of people we ourselves are and of the things we labor to achieve; as such, our welcome becomes all the more cordial and open-hearted. We gladly bequeath our beds to you and stoically double-up in that rocky bunk of our nearest neighbor; we smilingly endure the lamentations and demands of a frantic boarding-house lady; and we give you time that we think we cannot call our own in order to show you our sights and selves. We are at your command; we only ask that you use us as you will.

To every single team of you, with the possible exception of the defenders of the Aycock cup, we wish that victory may crown your efforts. The Winston-Salem champions come back primed for the fray, and however much we hate monopoly, we will gladly yield to them the palm of pre-eminent debating strength in case of their victory. Their conquerers, whoever they might be, we hail as gladly. But the victors will have their own reward. It is to you, the great majority who must lose, as the judges will decide, we wish to force home the fact that, nevertheless, you have not lost. The fighting is the end in itself, the vote of the judges is an incidental. In the strain and number of similar speeches, prepared from nearly identical material by minds of about equal brilliance and development, in the fallibility of judges, in a number of circumstances where the Goddess of Chance may get in her underhand work, —here lies the solace of apparent defeat. The final result decides nothing except the nominal victors and the names to go upon the cup. Within the individual lies victory or defeat,—the development during the long preparation, the sacrificial spirit of the hard work, the fortitude displayed in disappointment; by these standards each can judge the measure of his certain triumph.

Again, welcome and luck to you all!

OWED TO JUNIOR WEEK--AND ITS GIRLS

Junior Week in all its glory is upon us. The festivities embrace a continuous round of gaieties. Our guests are—as always—the most charming aggregation of youth and beauty that have ever represented those sadly lacking qualities on the Carolina campus. And Carolinamen are throwing their whole souls into the game, reaping the just rewards of labor, preparing for the final fling, and adding to education and training that counterpart of the make-up of the full-rounded man—social grace. For the present we are bent upon showing not what mighty men are we, but what good fellows we can be when work is over and the time for play has come.

Junior Week and the Junior Week Girl fill a deep need in our sequestered lives. They mean to us all that is good and fine in the way of wholesome enjoyment. They mean even more,—all that is light and gay, and yet noble and true, with the spice of contact of young people mingling freely and happily with each other. The deeper currents of life run as strongly under the surface of pleasure, and when the lights in the Gym. are dark, the decorations down, and the strains of music stilled, their potent influences in the quiet halls of memory operate to shape our lives ever toward the better. We, as hosts and gentlemen, can permit no untoward or thoughtless act to mar the fun of any guest within our gates or lessen in any measure the fullness of the general jollification.

A tribute, then, to the Junior Week Girls, for all they bring to us and all they mean to us, and may their days be bright, and their dances light and everything right, that they may return to us forever and ever, even unto the end of the world! (Amen; we mean it!)

ANOTHER BALLAD OF THE BRAND

In a Western town, the writer was once introduced to a girl. Though he had long passed Freshmanhood and hence was unadorned with college jewelry, she quickly exclaimed, "Oh, you are a Carolina man, aren't you?" Closely questioned aqout this magical power of divination, she discounted it, saying, "Why there is something about all of you- a kind of brand that distinguishes you from all the other college men I know."

It is no new thought that the true Carolina man is indelibly stamped as such for the rest of his natural life—and even thereafter. The incident is simply a further proof of the truth of the thought. The brand is upon you --escape it you cannot, live up to it you must. Otherwise, somewhere, sometime, you throw a bad light upon this beneficient institution, upon its thousand students and thousands of alumni, its work and ideals. You are not an individual; you are one of a community which shares your every disgrace and reaps credit from your every glory.

Men of Carolina, shame not the stamp of Carolina on your brow!

MRS. BRECKENRIDGE TALKS

Noted Suffragist Argues Her Cause Effectively in the Y. M. C. A.

Thursday night the Y. M. C. A. auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity by those desirous of hearing Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, of Lexington, Kentuky, expound her views on the subject of Woman Suffrage. Mrs Archibald Henderson introduced the speaker, and in a few words told of the important work that she had done for the cause of woman suffrage. Mrs. Breckenridge began her speech with these words, "I am going to speak of woman suffrage and am going to argue it quite seriously." This she did for an hour and a half, and at no time during her talk did her audience fail to give their undivided attention.

Mrs. Breckenridge emphasized the fact that women could do much toward causing a stricter enforcement of the pure food laws if they were allowed to have the ballot, and gave instances of the splendid civic reforms that have been brought about in cities where women are allowed to vote. She said that woman is in most cases the ultimate consumer, and that while man is the one who earns the money, the women are the ones who spend it. In answer to the objection that equal suffrage would cause women to neglect their homes, Mrs. Breckenridge said that the exercise of the powers of suffrage is not as hard work as the social duties of a woman and it develops their intellects on indefinitely instead of stopping at the age of eighteen as is now too often the case.

Chicago was cited as an example of the successful working out of the principle of woman suffrage.

The leading baseball dopists of the country seem to agree that Shag Thompson, well known as a former varsity man, is going to stick with the Athletics. Shag has many friends here who are glad to hear of his success.

The class track meet which was to have been held last Saturday was postponed indefinitely on account of bad weather.

CLASS STUNTS PRESENTED

Junior, Soph, and Fresh Present Stunts to Large Crowd

This morning at 10:30 the class stunts were pulled off in great style. Quite a large crowd was present and all agreed that the stunts were exceeptionally well presented.

The Freshmen with "The Perils of Paul" started first. Their stunt consisted of the trials and perils of freshmen at college, and showed the ferocious sophomores in action. Bruce Webb, as "96" and Vic Bryant as Paul played their parts well.

"The Chapel Hill Cabaret" was next presented by the Sophomores. Their show was a burlesque on a cafe owned by "Tony" the Italian man. Some good songs and music were given by "Artemus" the cook. Artemus and "T. I." the assistant at the cafe made a great hit with their jokes.

T. I. also told of the biggest piece of candy ever heard of-- "Jess Willard made a 240 pound chocolate drop." The cabaret ended with some mandolin and guitar music by Jones and Holloway.

The third stunt was "The Titanic in Haw River", by the Juniors. Their stunt was the meeting of the fossilogical society to determine the author of Shakespeare's work. Their stunt was splendidly presented and was full of humor and wit. Mr. Blalock as Dr. Folio Quarto, R, F. D., U. S. A. presided over the meeting in good order, Messrs. Harrison, Jarrell and Rymer discussed the question in great style. The meeting ended abruptly when a Zepplin dropped a bomb into the midst of the assembly.

All three of the stunts were good, and it would be hard to pick the best of the three.

The committees who got up the stunts were:

Fresh--Leon Applewhite, chairman, N. C. De Rossett, R. P. McClamroch, and C. B. Weeb.

Soph--J. E. Hoover, chairman, J. A. Capps, and W. T. Polk

Juniors--W. B. Pitts, chairman, F. F. Bradshaw, B. F. Auld. R. B. House, H. G. Hudson, H. M. Blalock, and J. F. Jarrell.

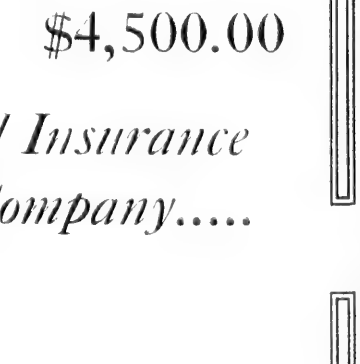
The Debaters Arrive

Concluded from first page

Messrs. H. H. Williams, L. P. McGehee, W. S. Bernard, F. P. Graham, and E. A. Greenlaw.

Friday, at 10:00 p. m. a reception will be held in the Library.

There are many interesting facts abont these debates and debaters, a few of which follow. Winston-Salem has the same four debaters as last year. Lumberton and Holly Springs hold the record of having made the trip to Chapel Hill every year since the organization of the Debating Union. Manteo has four girls again but not the same ones as last year. This year there were 120 girls in the triangular debates, of which number 34 survived to come to Chapel Hill. The debaters come from Manteo in Dare County, and Atlantic in Carteret Bounty in the east, all the way to Almond in Swain County, Webster in Jackson County, and Waynesville in Haywood County in the west. Winston-Salem and Raleigh are the two largest twons participating The young ladies will be entertained by the Faculty, while the county clubs will look after the boys. The Faculty and Seniors will act as judges in all debates. Probably most of the high school boys will eat at Swain Hall.



Prof. Zebulon Judd will make the principal address at the Wake County Commencement on Friday, April 9.

Prof. M. C. S. Noble spoke at Piney Grove School in Johnston County on April 2.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Once upon a time, in the not too distant past, there lived two men in a university dormitory directly across the hall from from each other who were mutually agreed to disagree. With good reason did they disagree, for one of them was that Human Parasite or Pest commonly known a Match-Borrower. The Other one was nearly as bad, for he was the Guy that stood for it.

One day, as naturally all Events must culminate Sometime, the Pest, for so shall he forever be entitled, desired to smoke a Coffin-Tack. Of course he did not have a Match—they never do; so he crossed the Hall to his neighbor's where he expressed his desire to borrow One. His Neighbor, knowing that to accede was the quickest way to be rid of him, supplied the article in question and the Pest departed. By some Maliciousness of Fate, or more probably Incompetency on the Part of the Pest, the Match was extinguished before it caused the Oxygen of the Air to combine with the Tack of the Coffin. The Pest repeated the operation of sponging off his Neighbor, and again the Physo-Chemical process failed to work. Of course he had too much Sense and Regard for his Neighbor to take more than One Match each Time; so he had to go back again.

Upon entering his Neighbor's room this Time, he noticed a decided Warmth and Tenseness in the Air, and yet a decided Coolness in his Reception. Our Hero looked somewhat angered and rose up to start Something, but he desisted when his Eye happened to fall on an Ancient Masterpiece entitled, "The Magic Arts of the East." Quickly he took it down from the Shelf and turned to the Chapter on Matches but here he could find nothing save advice as to the wisdom and economy of small harems. Then he bethought himself of the Fact that Matches, as he commonly thought of them, had not yet at that Time begun to disturb the even soprano of Man's Way.

The Pest went out the Door with it every Second it seemed to grow and grow and before he could cross the Hall it grew so large that the Pest was crushed to Death by the avoirdupois, but by some miraculous Feats of Contortion he managed to wriggle free. Our Hero leaped out of the Door and laughed and laughed in Fiendish Glee. But the Match continued to grow and and grow until it pushed the Building apart, and left the luckless Chaps stranded upon the Match midway between the two halves of the Building. And there the poor Fellows have been condemned to sit from that Time to this, One for the awful Crime of being a Match less Nuisance, and the other for being an involuntary Accomplice before the Fact.

Moral: The Pacific Sitting-Room Match is a good Match. They sell them at the stores.

Betwenu Ann Mee.

The dates of the coming football season have been fixed, but, as yet, it has not been decided where all of the games are to be played. The management is making every effort to arrange two games on the Hill, and if this is possible, it will be done.

CAROLINA IS THE WINNER

Davidson Loses to the University by Four Points

Carolina had little trouble in defeating Davidson on Tuesday by the score of 7 to 3. Each team secured 9 hits: Carolina's coming at opportune times.

Shields opposed Groome and pitched his usual good game.

Carolina scored two in the first inning by a base on balls, one hit, and a wild throw by Black. The Blue and White annexed three more in in the fourth on an error and safe hits by Shields, Lewis and Hornig.

Evidently Groome found the going rather hard as Lawson went in the box in the seventh.

The features of the game were the playing of Carolina's whole team and the batting of Brown for Davidson.

CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA DIVIDE HONORS IN THE FIRST TWO GAMES

Carolina Comes Back for Victory in Durham After Losing First Came in Greensboro

Fate has decided to make the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville the deciding contest of the season. Like a clever novelist she has decided to maintain suspense until next Monday when the third game of the series will be played on the grounds of the University of Virginia.

In an uninteresting game until the ninth inning the boys from the Old Dominion State beat Carolina by the score of 5 to 2. The crowd was one of the largest that has ever witnessed a baseball game between the two universities. The stands were full of those girls of whom Greensboro boasts—there are none prettier. The students from the Normal and the G. C. W. were on hand. Likewise a good share of Greensboro. About 500 Carolina students occupied one section of the bleachers and lead by Mr. Frank Graham, rooted steadily for the team. The crowd was estimated to be about 5,000.

Shields went to the mound for Carolina, while Drummond did the hurling for the Orange and Blue. Virginia got busy at once and secured 5 hits in two and a third innings off Shields' delivery. Williams took up the burden in the third with the bases loaded and one man out. Thereafter Virginia had difficulty in scoring. The big boy had everything with him. His curves were breaking well and his usual amount of steam was not absent.

After the third inning Virginia scored once in the sixth—that being the last time that they could push one around. The game settled down into a pitcher's battle between Williams and Drummond.

In the ninth Zollicoffer was safe at first on Drummond's error. Bailey hit for two bases and Zollicoffer was thrown out at third. Hardison went in to bat for Lewis and was out at first. Edgerton batting for Williams doubled and Bailey scored. Honig singled, scoring Edgerton. Pope went out third to first. Thus ended the rally and the game.

Carolina fielded steadily—making only one error, which was charged to Patterson. Later on Patterson fielded brilliantly. Drummond made Virginia's only error in the ninth. Patterson and Bailey led in the batting for Carolina. Each one got two hits. Honig, Bruce, Pope, Zollicoffer, and Edgerton also registered in the hit column.

Summary: Two-base hits, N. Smith, Stickley, Bruce, Bailey, Edgerton. Sacrifice hits, Bailey, Berkely, Phillips, Stickley. Base on balls, off Shields 2; off Williams 3; off Drummond 4. Struck out, Shields 1; Williams 6, Drummond 5. Wild pitch, Williams. Double play, Patterson, unassisted; Patterson to Bruce to Pope; Lewis to Patterson. Left on bases, Carolina 8, Virginia 7. First base on errors, Carolina, 1. Hits off Shields 5 in 2 1-3 innings; off Williams 4 in 6 2-3 innings. Time 2:05. Umpires Adkins and Sisson. Attendance, 5,000.

Carolina, with a changed batting order, gave Virginia the worst drabbing of the season in Durham Monday. Our boys went in to win, and the way they hit that ball was a shame.

However, the game was neither won nor lost by the skyward jaunt of Virginia. Three names tell the story—Woodall, Bruce, and Williams. Woodall and Bruce led in the hitting. Woody got three hits in three times up. Bruce followed with two doubles to his credit. Williams did not figure in the hit column at all. His work was on the mound.

Carolina fielded in great style, having only one error checked up against her. That error paved the way for one of Virginia's runs though. Curiously enough, Virginia earned just one run. Three of the runs came after Williams had walked a man. The next man secured a hit in each case. In the eighth Virginia scored one run on three clean hits. Willliams tightened up again and all scoring stopped.

In the first inning Patterson failed to connect. Woody, next up, hit to the fence for three bases; Bruce followed with a double and Woodall scored.

In the third the bottom dropped out. Patterson walked, Woodall singled, then Bruce hit for two bags again, sending Pat and Woody across the plate. Before Virginia could settle three more runs had crossed the plate.

Virginia's coach sent Gammon in to relieve the Irishman. Gammon, by the way, is the same fellow who shut Carolina out in Durham last year. Gammon

Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, has been chosen to act as toastmaster at the luncheon to be served in Swain Hall at 2:15 o'clock. Short speeches will be made by distinguished guests present. Reception will be held in the gymnasium at 9 o'clock.

WILSON HIGH SCHOOL REPRESENTATIVES WIN AYCOCK MEMORIAL CUP

Misses Lalla Rookh Fleming and Ethel Gray Gardner Win Out in High School Debating Contest

The third annual high school debating contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup was won last Friday night by Miss Lalla Rookh Fleming and Miss Ethel Gray Gardner, who composed the negative team of the Wilson High School. The query was "Resolved that the United States should adopt the policy of subsidizing its Merchant Marine engaged in foreign trade." Statesville had the affirmative and Wilson the negative side of the question. The Statesville team was composed of Mr. Stuart Lee Cowles and Mr. Henry Cowles Bristol.

In the first preliminary held in six affirmative and six negative sections on Thursday night, the following teams won out: On the affirmative; Lincolnton, Louisburg, Manteo, Raleigh, Carthage, Burlington, Winston -- Salem, Jamestown, Elise, Waynesville, Pinnacle, and Statesville; On the negative; Lincolnton, Lowe's Grove, Wilson, Cool Spring, Manteo, Raleigh, Carthage, Burlington, Lumberton, Black Mountain, Piedmont, and Hendersonville. Of especial interest is the unusual fact that so many schools won both sides of the debate; Raleigh, Manteo, Lincolnton, Carthage, and Burlington having this honor.

These twenty-four teams, twelve affirmative and twelve negative, competed in the second preliminary held Friday morning.

The affirmative teams spoke in the Di Hall and the negative teams in the Phi Hall. In this semi-final Wilson won on the negative and Statesville on the affirmative, and hence were the opposing teams in the finals on Friday night.

The final contest began in Memorial Hall on Friday night at 8:15 o'clock with President Graham presiding and Mr. E. R. Rankin as secretary. The judges were Prof. H. H. Williams, Prof. E. A. Greenlaw, Prof. L. P. McGehee, Mr. F. P. Graham, and Prof. W. S. Bernard. President Graham introduced Mr. C. E. McIntosh, who was to present the cup to the winner, as "the Author of an Idea." Mr. McIntosh presented the cup to the Wilson team with some very appropriate remarks and they carried the cup to Wilson with them on their return on Saturday morning.

Miss Lalla Rookh Fleming is the daughter of Mr. C. M. Fleming, who is the manager of the Imperial Tobacco Company. Miss Ethel Gray Gardner is the daughter of Mr. J. W. Gardner, who is also in the tobacco business. Mr. Chester C. Harworth is the principal of the Wilson High School and Mr. C. L. Coon, superintendent. Mr. Harworth is himself a debater of note, being a graduate of Earlham College and having been captain of the debating team which won the champsonship of Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan in 1910.

Mr. Stewart Lee Cowles is the son of late Congressman W. H. H. Cowles of the eighth district. Mr. Henry Cowles Bristol is the son of Col. L. B. Bristol and grandson of the late Col. Henry Cowles. Mr. W. G. Harry is the principal of the Statesville High School and Mr. Matt Thompson, the superintendent.

The contest this year has been unusually large and interesting and exceptionally well handled. Great credit is due to Mr. E. R. Rankin and the Bureau of Extension for their enthusiastic and untiring efforts to make the contest a successs.

The individual and collective ideals of college life are on the upward grade. In the last two Virginia games, at which were large numbers of students, there was no evidence of drinking or boisterous conduct. Enthusiaism and spirit were uncontained in a free and youthful way, both in the defeat and in the victory.

On account of the limited amount of space in this issue of The Tar Heel, the account of the Carolina-Wake Forest game has been carried over until next week.

THE YACKETY YACK AGAIN

After long years, the two societies and the fraternities, which constitute the triple-headed owner of the Yackety Yack, and, what is more important, campus opinion generally have awakened to the fact that the annual rests upon an unsound, unbusiness-like basis that ill befits the scope and importance of such a publication in such a University. A new plan of management will soon be submitted by the three committees appointed from this triplicate ownership to confer together as to the advisability of giving the Yackety Yack over to a governing body that will take interest enough in its welfare to watch it a little, at least, after the editors are elected, and to give it a character more truly representative of all the parts of the University without partiality to those few that have the money and the desire to advertise themselves.

The present system has developed naturally and by a rule of custom and precedent, aided by the inertia and inattention of a college world busy with reforms seemingly more important than any in this field. Hence, the present managers and editors cannot be blamed in any degree for existing conditions; indeed, they are in the forefront of the fight for a change. But the facts remain that the college has become heartily dissatisfied with this annual foisting of the book upon someone's reluctant hands, with no responsible body or board of control behind them, no instrument of management drawn up between owners and agents. Every page in the Yackety Yack, with the exception of those devoted to athletics, is paid for at the publisher's actual printing price by the interest or organization therein represented. Even the Y. M. C. A., laudable institution that it is, knowing that it is almost suicide not to be represented in the annual, must dig deep into its slim surplus or secretary's salary to pay its price. Even the Tar Heel and the Magazine must pay for the privilege of taking place among the activities of the University, regardless of their own private struggles against a deficit.

This mercenary element prevents the book from being truly representative of our student life. Here is an all too frequent example: The Debating Council, an appointive, unimportant, very obscure committee, because it has the money of the societies behind it, will this year get full representation in the Yackety Yack, while the Student Council, a body second in importance and influence to no student interest on the campus, has no moneyed sponsor, and thus passes unheralded and unsung.

To hark back to the original intent of this article, it seems to be an idea widely approved that the Yackety Yack may be better handled by one of the classes, preferably the Senior. In these hands it would become more of the class-book annuals were originally intended to be; it would become a matter of class pride and co-operation in editorship; and it would rest upon a very definite agreement between class and managers. To prepare for the next year and give a continuity that the present method utterly lacks, the Junior class should elect several editors and a couple of managers to the board.

Such a decided improvement will undoubtedly be eagerly accepted by the student body.

THE BETTER MONUMENTS

The sentiments of the writer in this regard were crystallized rather than provoked by a gift of statuary that marked a recent celebration at a sister institution.

A pretty sum of money was there put up for the placing of images in marble and granite here and there on the campus. We have had a similar experience here at Carolina. Two beautiful and highly appreciated bits of memorial marble have been placed on our campus within the present student generation. Pretty—yes! Practical — I contend that they were not save from the standpoint of static esthetics.

This year men who had entered the University's doors were forced to go out again with merely a glimpse of the treasure-store here put at the disposal of the sons of the State. Why? They could not obtain the finances to establish themselves here to tide them over until better times!

There are better monuments than cold clay, unyielding granite, or lifeless marble can ever make. There are pillars of human clay, warm, alive, plastic, vibrant with powerful potentialities—pillars that need years of college testing and shaping to make them symmetric, stable, useful. Which is better in line with our highest purpose as the State University—static esthetics or dynamic altruism?

Nature has made our campus fair; time, care, and simple art are ever improving it. But our primary interest in shaping lives, not symmetric vistas. Ours is a great workshop—not a palace of pleasure 'round which romantic garden plots with founts and other follies must cluster.

Years of constructive service for the State and Society, the potent two-score-years-and-ten that remain to the capable, the trained man after his college days over—these years will reflect the higher beauty on our campus—these are the better monuments.

PILL ADMIMISTERED

Seniors Produce Considerable Effect

STUNT A MUSICAL COMEDY

Large Audience Delighted With Unique Attraction

That pharmaceutical preparation, The Pill, perpetrated on the play-going public, was administered Thursday night in Gerrard Hall with pleasing effects—scenic and otherwise. This secret, heretofore so jealously guarded by the Seniors, was formally and completely disclosed to the admiring audience—with entire success.

The argument of The Pill, which was, in fact, the Senior Stunt, was somewhat as follows. Percival Pitfall, the Pill, a wayward student of the University, is convicted by the Faculty of falling asleep on History 3, and is expelled. In the meantime, Percy has fallen for Miss Charming, the fairest of co-eds. The first act ends with this tragic incident. The scene of the second act is a gypsy camp, where the gypsies abound. To this spot wanders Percy, driven by maddening thoughts of love. There amid music and dancing he finds his own Miss Charming, who also seeks to forget her troubles by following the gypsy life. The two are united, and the footlights fade. Interspersed throughout the play are lyrics to local institutions, such as Swain Hall peas, the old boring lectures, and plates of molassess and fish.

Much praise is due not only the actors for their clever presentatiou of the play, but also to the committee, J. S. Bryan, W. Doub Kerr, and B. B. Holder, who are responsible for its creation. The stunt was successful all around. The audience was delighted with the clever performance, and the class was no less pleased with the gate receipts.

went well for a couple of innings In the sixth Carolina began to lay down a few easy ones in the infield. An error or two followed and two bunts were beated out. Here it was that the ascension took place. During this time two more runs were made by Carolina.

One of the features of the game was the fighting spirit both in the team and in the rooters. Neither the team nor the rooters let up until the last Virginia man fanned.

Too much credit cannot be given to Capt. Woodall. Not only did he hit well but his catching was a revelation. Williams, at times, was inclined to be wild, but the cool and steady work of his battery mate steadied him when he most needed it.

The whole team a great game. Honig hit well, while Bailey and Lewis fielded brilliantly.

Led by I. R. Williams, third baseman of the 1913 U. N. C. baseball team, Bingham of Asheville was easily beaten last Friday by Carolina. Currie pitched his first game here on the Hill and shut out the Cadets without a hit.

Aside from the slab work of Currie there was little in the game to interest anyone. Currie not only pitched a hitless game, but he also struck out 8 of the visitors. Not a visitor got past second base.

The game was witnessed by the high school debaters and other visitors. Many of the visitors, here for the Easter dances, were also present.

The game served as a very good work-out to the two games with Virginia which followed Saturday and Monday.

SOPHOMORES WIN MEET

Johnson Leads Contestants With Twenty-One Points

The annual class track meet was won by the Sophomores Tuesday afternoon, when they captured seven first places, two second and three third places. Twelve events were held and the winners won first place in seven of the nine events entered. They were not represented in the two mile, quarter, or hurdles. Johnson was the biggest point maker of the meet. He won three first places and two second places for a total of 21 points. Johnson is a splendid athlete and should add much strength to the 'varsity. Ranson won the half easily, and showed that he is going to be a factor in the varsity meets. Rand did the mile in good shape, and came out ahead. He won a place in last year's 'varsity meet with V. P. I., and if he continues to improve, somebody's mile record is going to be smashed.

Following is a list of the events, the winner of places, and the time of the winner.

100 yard dash, Johnson '17, Blue '15, Andrews '17. Time 10½ seconds.

Shot put, Davis '18, Johnson '17, Hogan '16, 38 ft. 5 in.

1 mile, Rand '17, Pitts '16. Time 4 min. 58⅓ sec.

High jump, Johnson '17, Kanner '18, Hatcher '17, 5 ft. 5¼ in.

Quarter, McDuffie '16, Parker '19, Rimmer '18, 55⅓ sec.

Discus, Johnson '17, Davis '18, Hall '15, 99 3 in.

Half mile, Ranson '17, Webb '18, 2 min. 5⅓ sec.

Broad jump, Hatcher '17, Johnson '17, Sawyer '18, 20 ft 6 1-2 in Hurdles. Smith '18, Blue '15, 29 sec.

220 yard, McDuffie, '16, Graham '15, Hatcher '17, 25 sec.

Pole vault, Isley '17, Davis '18, Smith '18, 9 ft. 4 1-2 in.

Two mile, Upchurch, York.

The track meet with Wake Forest will be held here Saturday and the following men will probably participate for Carolina.

Smith, Johnson, Black, dashes.

Patterson, McDuffie, Rimmer, quarter.

Whiting, Ranson, Webb, half

Woollcott (Capt.), Smith, hurdles.

Raud, Pitts, mile.

Harrison, Upchurch, York, two mile.

Woollcott (Capt.) Johnson, Kanner, high jump

Wright, Hatcher, Woollcott (Capt.), broad jump.

Homewood, Isley, Davis, vault.

Johnson, Davis, Ramsey, shot put and discus.

JUNIOR ORATORICAL CONTEST

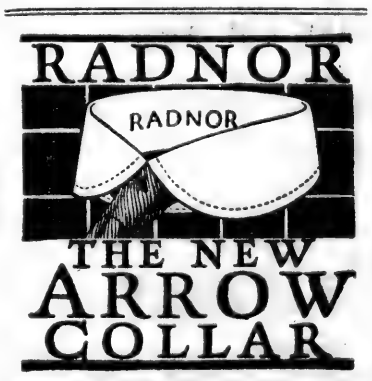
H. M. Blalock Wins Carr Medal With "Presidential Party Leadership"

The medal offered each year by Gen. Julian S. Carr for the best oration by any member of the Junior class of the University was won this year by Hubert M. Blalock. The contest was held in Gerrard Hall last Wednesday night and two representatives from both the Philanthropic and Dialectic literary societies competed for the medal. The subject of the winners oration was "Presidential Party Leadership." Blalock handled his oration in a splendid manner and displayed excellent preparation. The prize is a most coveted one and does honor to its winner.

The other three contestants were J. A. Kent, "Education, the Road to Prosperity;" Hugh B. Hester, "A New Program for Social Growth and Expansion;" J. O. Dysart, "The Course of Democracy in Europe."

The contest was the fourth one between representatives of the two societies. Dr. Charles L. Raper, Dean of the Graduate School, presided over the meeting, and W. R. Hunter acted as Secretary. The judges were Professors A. C. McIntosh, J. M. Bell, and W. B. McNider.

W. P. Fuller is taking a vacation at home in Bradentown, Florida.



Prof M. C. S. Noble spoke at Piney Grove School in Johnston County on April 2.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Ah, Junior week, we come to bury you with sad souls and sore toes; for verily you were a Flibberdigebbet Humdinger with green eyes and red stockings! You showed us how a college ought to be run and how a seventh heaven might well be conducted. And now they've got the nerve to ask us to get back to studying again—to promenade again with Math books instead of ladies on our arms.

But we had one time with our borrowed dress suits, midnight autos, pinching pumps, and Arboretum wanderers. Debates, dances, and, as a fitting denouement of the festivities, a victory over Virginia,—que voulez vous encore? We showed the old campus a good time. At night the voices of debaters from Manteo to Asheville, from Chemistry Hall to the Peabody Building, mingled the ship subsidy with the melting melodies of "Chinatown, My Chinatown" and "When Grown Up Ladies Act Like Babies."

One great god over all the revelry reigned supreme. Everybody adored, idolized, worshipped him! Everybody hastened to swear allegiance to him! On his altar we sacrificed sleep, toes, truthfulness, dollars, dignity—everything. Under his influence we became in our haberdashery as the lilies of the field and in our actions as the monkeys of the jungle. No, he was not Cupid. This mighty ruling deity, this omnipresent spirit, was the great god PEP!

But now even great PEP is dead and J. W. is buried. What a change! Last week we gazed upon "the light that lies in woman's eyes (and lies and lies and lies and lies);" now we must languish in the light of Dr. Pat's College Physics, "which is the extreme cause of the sensation of luminosity acting through a hypothetical medium." Last week we asked anxiously at the first sign of an uprising: "Do I need a shave?" Today we say: "Stand aside a second, whiskers, and let me pass." Last week we lame-ducked in pumps; now we lame-duck in earnest. Ah, the pity of it, Horatio, the pity of it!

But not all of Junior week is gone. The ladies seem to be with us still. We can't get rid of them, somehow. Their faces come between us and our books. And we still seem to hear in the Arboretum the rustle of their skirts, (this is an unwarranted exaggeration). Truly the cup that the Wilson girls took back with them is not the only thing of which the Hill has been bereft. The Manteo debatresses it is said, have their coal-cellars overflowing with hearts; while more than a few of the ladies "invited up" have to shovel the things off their doorsteps. Truthfully we may say that the Junior week ladies seemed as sweet to us as an eight-thirty grat seems to a man who has missd breakfast.

Blessed be the man who invented Junior week! And thrice blessed be the man who shall invent Sophomore week!

The April number of the Alumni Review will appear Monday, April 19. This issue will contain articles on the High School Debating Union, the Taft Lectures, Inauguration plans, the Virginia games, Junior Week and a full supply of Alumni notes.

DANCES A GREAT SUCCESS

Unusually Large Number Of Ladies In Attendance

Never has Carolina enjoyed a more successful set of dances than were held here last week. Every participant agrees that they could not have been more enjoyable.

Wednesday night the first dance was given by the Order of Gimghouls. The gymnasium was decorated in red and black, the colors of the Order, and lanterns hung from the network of bunting overhead. Refreshments were served at midnight. Messrs. M. N. Oates, G. M. Long, and T. C. Linn, Jr. led the dance.

Thursday afternoon at four o'clock the Order of the Gorgon's Head was at home at an informal dance in their lodge. The dance was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

Thursday night after the Senior Stunt the Junior Prom was held. The gym had been decorated for the occasion with red and black, the colors of the class, and white. At one end of the gymn 1916 was formed by electric lights, and 1915 was similarly displayed at the other. The dance was led by Messrs J. G. Cowan, F. O. Clarkson, and W. B. Cobb.

The Easter Germans were elaborately closed by the German Club dance Friday night. No prettier decorations have ever been seen at a Carolina dance. Blue and white bunting had been skillfully woven overhead into a checkerboard scheme, which made the gym unusually attractive. Carolina pennants were also prominently displayed throughout the decorations. At twelve o'clock salad and coffee were served. The leaders of the final dance were Messrs. W. O. Huske, R. C, Davis, and A. L. Zollicoffer.

All the dances were largely attended. Many alumni returned to the Hill for the occasion, and students from both Trinity and A. and M. came over.

Among the ladies present at the dances were:

Misses Vaughn and Camp of Franklin, Va.; Miss Coates, of Macon, Ga.; Miss Scales, of New Orleans, La.; Misses Tate and Mrs. Tate, of Norfolk, Va.; Miss Jones, of Sweetbriar, Va.; Miss Leonard, of Mt. Vernon, Ind,; Misses Patterson, Noble, Daniels, Wilson, and Sutton, of Chapel Hill, Misses Baldwin, Lewis, Stokes, Lloyd, of Durham; Misses Holiday, Manning, Busby, Silver, Sherwood, Telfair, Lee, and Leach, of Raleigh; Misses Dowd, Cansler, Fitz-Simmons, and Chambers, of Charlotte; Misses Borden and Miller, of Goldsboro; Misses Walsh, Taylor, and Adams, of Greensboro; Misses Wise, Florence Taylor, Mae Wright Taylor, and Worth, of Wilmington; Misses McKenzie, Overman, and McCubbins, of Salisbury; Misses Cowan and Stuart, of Asheville; Miss Davis, of Wilson; Miss Clark, of Rocky Mount; Miss Leak, of Wadesboro; Miss Cannon and Mrs. Cannon, of Concord; Miss Dalton, of Winston-Salem; Miss Hughes, of Newbern; Miss Shuford, of Hickory; Miss Small, of Washington; Misses Ruth Sedberry, May Sedberry, and Cotton, of Fayetteville.

The third annual interscholastic track meet of the high schools of North Carolina will be held in Chapel Hill Friday, April 16. The following schools have entered: Graham, Friendship, High Point, and Greensboro, and several others are expected. A trophy cup is awarded to the winner of the relay race. The following is the list of officials: Starter, Dr. Kent J. Brown. Time keepers, Collier Cobb, Jr., R. H. Wright, Jr., R. C. Spence. Announcer, C. L. Coggin. Judges at finish, C. L. Smith, Hazel Patterson, and S. W. Whiting. Scorer, J. O. Ranson. Judges of field events, R. M. Homewood, T. M. Price, and J. G. Ramsay. Referee, Phil Woollcoot.

N. C.--WAKE FOREST MEET

Woollcott and Wright Break Two State Records

Carolina's track team found no difficulty in winning the track meet from Wake Forest last Saturday when the two teams met here in their annual contest. Out of the twelve events Carolina won eleven first places, ten second places and five third places, making a totel of 92 points to their opponents 16.

Captain Woollcott cleared the bar in the high jump at 5 feet 9 1-2 inches and made a new state record. "Goat" Wright broke the state record in the broad jump, his new record being 22 feet 6 inches. Upchurch, a freshman, was a feature of the event. He won the two mile and then won second in the mile. Homewood won the pole vault with ease, and Davis found no trouble in taking first in the shot put.

Corolina meets Elon in track here next Saturday.

Following is the score by events.

100 yard dash, Smith, N. C., Johnson, N. C., Bird, W. F., 10 2-5 seconds.

Two miles, Upchurch, N. C., York, N. C., Harrison, N. C., 11 minutes 5 seconds.

High jump, Woollcott, N. C., Johnson, N. C. and Harris, W. F. tied for second, 5 feet 9 1-2 inches.

Half mile, Ranson, N. C., Webb, N. C., Barrow, W. F., 2 minutes 6 3-5 sedonds.

High hurdles, Woollcott N. C., Thompson, W. F., Davis, N. C., 17 4-5 seconds.

Shot put, Davis, N. C., Ramsay, N. C., Johnson, N. C., 40 feet, 4 inches.

Quarter mile, Patterson, N. C., Parker, N. C., Jordan, W. F., 54 2-5 seconds.

Carolina 11 first, 10 seconds, 5 thirds.

totals, Carolina 92; Wake Forest 16.

THE TRIANGULAR DEBATE

The third annual series of triangular debates between Carolina, Virginia, and Hopkins will be held Saturday night April 24. Carolina and Virginia meet in Baltimore, Carolina and Hopkins meet in Charlottesville, and Hopkins and Virginia meet in Chapel Hill.

The question is Resolved: That the policy of colonial expansion is desirable for the modern state. The debate here will be held in Gerrard Hall Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Immediately after the debate a banquet will be given in the Y. M. C. A. to which the visiting teams, judges, presiding officer, members of Debating Council, and all former inter-collegiate debaters are invited.

THE MAN AND THE HOUR

"The Man and the Hour have met. We are beginning a new chapter in the history and culture of North Carolina." Governor Craig spoke these words in his introduction of President Graham at the inauguration ceremonies in Memorial Hall Wednesday. They were the truest words spoken in a day of speeches the like of which old Chapel Hill has never seen.

There was once a student at the University who was the recognized leader of the college. He was a wonderful debater—his famous rejoinder against Georgia is a tradition today. He was an ardent athlete. He was deeply and sanely spiritual. He was a brilliant student. He was a writer—once serving as Editor-in-Chief of this paper. His professors say he was the best rounded man they ever taught. The character tests he stood and the examples he set live today on this campus vital factors for good. He became Librarian, then Professor, Dean, Acting President, then on Wednesday, President at the age of 38. That's the Man—President Edward Kidder Graham.

Within the three years the Triangular Debating Union has grown until it touches 100000 people. University Extension is distributing Professor-Lecturers, books, correspondence courses, and 5000 weekly copies of the University News Letter over this State.

The regular college attendance a few months ago on its upward swing touched and passed the 1000 mark. Every year sees the scholarship standard raised. "Service" is being made the greatest word in the English language. It is made to embrace learning, power, science, skill, self-sacrifice, and love. The first faint glow of a new day in learning, equal opportunity, health, wealth, good government, and social equality is edging the horizon. That's the Hour—today.

The Man and the Hour have met.

We are shaken with emotion when we realize that we are witnesses of one of the beginnings of one of the greatest movements toward a living Democracy this world has ever seen. The histories of the world contain no parallel of what we have seen with our own eyes these last few days.

But the Man is a growth from the soil of the Past of this place. And the Past is but the glorious movement of our older leaders. President Battle, the Pioneer; President Venable, the Builder; President Graham, the Leader; you were all three crowned at once, together, and equally on Wednesday, April 21, 1915.

AN ANSWER

To the Editor:

I beg the privilege of saying a few words with reference to your editorial of last week entitled "The Yackety Yack Again."

Your general idea, namely, that there should be a change, is in accord with the consensus of opinion. None more fully realize the desirability of a change than the present management. As a matter of fact, the editor and managers and the faculty committee have had the question under consideration since early last fall.

The object of this article, however, is not to discuss the general proposition, but to call attention to several erroneous statements in your editorial. The editorial was doubtless read by those directly interested in the proposed change, and I consider it important that their thinking on the subjec should not be based on inaccurate information.

In the first place, I wish to call attention to your statement that "Every page in the Yackety Yack, with the exception of those devoted to athletics, is paid for at the publisher's actual printing price by the interest or organization therein represented." To be specific, there are 53 pages in this year's Yackety Yack, exclusive of the liberal space devoted to athletics, that are not paid for. All told, 77 pages (out of 350) of material go in gratis.

Secondly, I wish to call attention to the following paragraph in your editorial:

"This mercenary element prevents it from being truly representative of our student life. Here is an all too frevent example: The Ddbating Council, an appointive, unimportant, very obscure committee, because it has the money of the societies behind it, will this year get full representation in the Yaceety Yack, while the Student Council, a body second in importance and influence to no student interest on the campus, has no moneyed sponsor, and thus passes unheralded and unsung."

As to whether the Debating Council is "unimportant" and "very obscure," I will not argue further than to say that I believe the Debating Council is ranked by student opinion among the most important student committees in the University. But as to the relative amounts of space devoted to the Debating Council and the Student Councils, I take pleasure in informing you that the Debating Council occupies one page, while the Student Councils' praises are sung in two whole pages.

You say, in substance, that the Yackety Yack is mercenary and unrepresentative of our student life. I will leave the question of its represntative character to be decided by all who read the book. The fact above stated,—that 77 pages of the book was unpaid for—would seem to refute the charge that the Yackety Yack is mercenary. But, broadly speaking, I admit that it is not absolutely free from the mercenary spirit. How could it be? Unendowed and nnbacked by any responsible organization, it must try to make ends meet; and "it takes money to make the mare go." The county and high school clubs may deserve space in the Yackety Yack. (Not one of them asked for it this year.) The Southern Railway, the Remington Typewriter Company, and various other business concerns may not deserve space. Yet the clubs are left out, and the business companies are put in. If this is reprehensible, the management pleads guilty to the charge. We frankly admit that money buys space and advertisement in the Yackety Yack. A condition where the moneyless and the moneyed enjoy equal benefits may be an ideal worth striving for, but I believe human nature must unfold for several more centuries before it will be attained.

Now you are preaching business-like methods for the Yackety Yack. The word "business-like" conveys to my mind the idea of being careful, methodical, and accurate. These commendable qualities are notably lacking in your editorial. It would be interesting to know just where you got the information you gave out in that editorial. At best it could not have been more than hearsay; yet a fifteen minutes investigation would have given you accurate information on the subject.

In conclusion, let me say that with you I hope that the annual will be put on a sound and business-like basis. My best efforts will be devoted to the attempt to put it on such a basis.

OSCAR LEACH,
Business Manager of the Yackety Yack.

As soon as the audience was seated, Governor Locke Craig came forward and in a few well chosen words expressed the magnitude of the occasion and the importance of the office into which President Graham was about to be inducted. "The Man and the Hour have met."

The invocation was then made by Bishop Edward Rondthaler of the Moravian Church.

Since Dr. Abbot Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University, was unavoidably detained by death in his family, Dr. Frank J. Gooenow, President of Johns Hopkins University, spoke first on "The Aspects of Higher Education."

President Goodnow, of Johns Hopkins University, explained the function and place of research in the American college. He declared that man could not arrive at the many problems of life exclusively through thinking processes. "I think it is fair to say, then, that the common attitude of man towards the phenomena of life has been one of what we may call thoughtfulness. He has speculated rather than observed, theorized rather than experimented."

With man's growing interest in science, a different mental attitude has been manifested, and this changed attitude has had a marked effect upon our educational ideals and methods. To quote Pres. Goodnow further: "In the first place I think we may properly say that the modern educated man, the scholar, if we may use that much abused term, is a much more modest man than was the case with his forebear. He distrusts broad generalizations, he abhors general theories, he has no faith whatever in panaceas for the ills from which society suffers.....He is convinced that every addition to our knowledge must come as the result of painstaking observation rather than of brilliant thinking.

"In a word I think we may say, that the most remarkable concrete manifestation of this changed intellectual attitude is that the scholar and the practical man have come closer together .....We endeavor probably more than ever before, to inculcate in those who are being educated the desire to find out as the result of research and investigation what are the actual facts and what is the real truth..... We must of course curb our enthusiasm for research and investigation so that it will not lead us to neglect other things of value. We must remember that we have a past as well as a future; that we even now know many things although we have much to discover and learn. We who have the young to teach must not forget our charges in the pursuit of the unknown."

Dr. Edwin Anderson Alderman, President of the University of Virginia, and former President of the University of North Carolina, was the next speaker presented by the Governor.

University of Virginia, took as his theme democracy, especially in its relation to education, and education, in its relation to democracy. He thus defined democracy, after tracing briefly its progress in the nineteenth century; "Conceived of as a ruling spirit in the heart of the individual, democracy means, according to the American point of view, faith in the ultimate rectitude of public impulse and the ultimate wisdom of trained intelligence."

Dr. Alderman continued: "If such, then, be the nature of modern democracy, it is very clear that the one thing it cannot do without is the school, and the one thing the school, high or low, cannot do without is a clear notion of how it can train all men not only how to perform the duties of free citizenship but can give all men an opportunity to obtain a fair share of the fulness of life.....In theory this whole undertaking is one daring, unified, correlated process, and at its summit stands the university, in a peculiar organic sense, the State University, existing both as the symbol and the servant of the spiritual insights and practical needs of its epoch." Dr. Alderman sees in the growth of education a corresponding growth in the spirit of democracy. "Life or death to American democracy depends upon whether its scheme of education shall be strong, and catholic enough to reach not alone the youth to be educated, but all the forces which surround him and which educate him—companions, family, community. The reorganization of political and industrial life on the principle of democracy, and stimulated by the elementary and secondary schools has brought into existence a new world of men. Refusal to administer to the needs of this new world would mean a menace to the body of civilization. To train the tenth man was the function of the ancient university. To train all men, directly or indirectly, is the duty of the American university within whose walls I am convinced the history and destiny of democracy will be shaped."

Dr. John H. Finley, President of the University of the State of New York, could not be present becauese of the failure of the Legislature of the State of New York to adjourn. Dr. Charles H. White of Harvard University presented the University of North Carolina with the best wishes of the former institution.

President Edward Kidder Graham was then fittingly presented to Governor Locke Craig by former President Francis P. Venable and the oath of office administered by Mr. Walter Clark, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

President Graham was then inducted into office by Governor Locke Craig, and the Charter and Seal of the University turned over to him. The President then came forward and made his inaugural address, an extract of which follows:-

The life of the University of North Carolina began with the life of the nation itself; and the period since its reopening in 1875 is the great period of material upbuilding of the North and West. The next great expansion will be the South, where will be made once more the experiment of translating prosperity in terms of a great civilization. It is to leadership in this that state universities are called.

State universities originated in the South, but they failed to develop there as democratic institutions because the section was aristocratic. They came into full strength in the West where, as an aggregate of various colleges of arts, applied science, technical and professional schools, they seek to reassert what past civilizations say to America, together with what America has to say for itself.

The state university is more than an aggregate, however, of institutions that express the culture ideals of culture as learning, culture as research and as vocation, as a university "it is a living unity, an organism at the heart of the living democratic state, interpreting its life, not by parts, nor a summary of parts, but wholly fusing them all into a new culture center, giving birth to a new humanism." The evolution of the state university and of the democratic state have been parallel as they move into the twentieth century from this new center of reality. Each has sought to make of its compartmental life an organism of constructive co-operation. From this new center they are already sending forth new and confident premonitions of fuller and more abundant life under equal opportunity to all of the powers of all men infiuitely to expand.

The Southern state university is at the vital center of the state's formative material prosperity in industry and agriculture, not only seeking to assist in solving their practical problems, but through showing their larger and deeper relations to make of them liberal vocations—not to save a man from business, but through it; to make of the cropper, a farmer, and of the farmer, man-on-the-farm.

As the organic instrument for realizing the highest aspirations of the living state, one inevitable quality the state university must have: it must be alive! sensitively and robustly alive in every vital part of it to the time and needs and place of the people it serves. Not that it would not illustrate in its life the traditions that have made its past nobly useful and beautiful, and seek guidance in the experience of the great of its kind; but that the need of every institution is to assert its original genius that it alone has and can have and that alone gives it value in the world.

As soon as the Inaugural Address was finished, greetings from the State Universities, Colleges, and Public Schools as well as from the Alumni, Student Body, and Faculty of the University were presented. Dr. G. H. Denny, President of the University of Alabama, gave the greetings from the state universities.

"I congratulate your new leader that he is to do his day's work on this campus where sincere educational practice has from the beginning prevailed. There may be, in your college administration, room for improvement in many directions and for a higher order of efficiency in many things; but there is one thing with reference to this institution which, despite all its limitations and all its shortcomings, may be said without fear of contradiction, namely, that its work is absolutely genuine and its ideals absolutely correct.....No intelligent man will dare question the outstanding fact that the University of North Carolina has ministered to the intellectual and spiritual life of this commonwealth with a rare devotion and an unremitting loyalty. Who can measure the height and depth of that service? It has strengthened and sustained and glorified the very fabric of your civilization. Without it the most splendid chapters of your history could never have been written. Without it the remarkable educational awakening that has within a generation attracted national attention to this state could never have been realized."

Next Dr. William J. Martin, President of Davidson College, presented the greetings from the colleges of the state. President Martin not only greeted President Graham as the representative of the various colleges, but also as an old friend, and wished him success and God-speed in this his new responsibility.

President Martin, of Davidson; spoke on behalf of the colleges of the state. He greeted the incoming president as follows:

"As a North Carolinian I welcome you to the head of our state's great university. As a Mecklenburger I speak for your old county when I rejoice with our citizens in your selection.... Youa brethren will confidently expect that this institution, born with our independence, cradled in the pioneer days of the republic, suffering with the lost but well loved Confederacy, and now, with our united country, upon a rising tide of progress, will, unner your guidance, Sir, yield its full share of service to the state and nation. We wish you and the University the richest blessings of the coming years.

Mr. James Y. Joyner, Superintendent of Public Instruction, spoke after President Martin on behalf of the public schools of the state. He expressed the wish and belief that the two fundamental educating systems, the University and the Public Schools, would come into close harmony with each other.

The five thousand alumni of the University were ably represented by Mr. George Stephens, of the class of 1896, who assured President Graham of their united good wishes and promised him their hearty support.

In a few well chosen words, Tom Boushall of the class of 1915, assured the President of the united support of the students in helping him carry out his high ideals for the University.

Dr. Lucius Polk McGhee, Dean of the School of Law, next assured the President of the hearty support and co-operation of the Faculty. The audience then stood and sang the University Hymn, and were afterwards dismissed with the Benediction by Bishop Edward Rondthaler, the academic procession leaving the building in the reverse order from which it entered.

From 2:15 to 5:00 the inaugural luncheon was served in Swain Hall to 1000 guests. Toastmaster Josephus Daniels after a short speech introduced Governor Locke Craig who entertained the assemblage for several minutes with his characteristic originality. The other speakers in order were: ex-president K. P. Battle, ex-president Francis P. Venable, Dr. Phillips of the chemistry department at the University of Toronto, Miss Reilley of Bryn Mawr, Dr. C. Alphonso Smith of the University of Virginia, and Superintendent Blair of Wilmington.

Six courses were served at the luncheon.

CAROLINA CONQUERS IN NORTH WINS THREE OUT OF FIVE

Team Finishes Season in Fine Style, Losing Only to Princeton and Virginia. The Season Closes With Friday's Game

CAROLINA 3 VIRGINIA 5

Virginia drove Williams from the box while Gammon held Carolina to three hits—and Carolina lost the rubber to Virginia at Charlottesville.

Our boys could not get together. They hit the ball hard but, in most cases, a Virginia player was right there to receive the drive. But away with excuses—let's to the story.

Williams started the game for Carolina and got by the first inning easily. In the second inning Virginia found him for 5 hits. These hits together with two errors and a base on balls gave Virginia four runs.

Shields then took up the burden and allowed just one Virginian to cross the plate in the 6 innings that he twirled. He seemed to have everything and got by easily enough. The one run off Shields came in the sixth when E. W. Smith hit for three bases and scored on a fielders choice.

Carolina's first run came in the third inning when McCall, Berkeley and Philips errored in succession.

In the fourth inning Honig hit over the right fielder's head for a home run.

In the ninth Bruce almost knocked Stickley off his feet with a line drive and scored on Bailey's drive to left field.

From a Carolina view point, the features of the game were the good pitching of Shields and the clever fielding of Honig in left.

For Virginia the hitting of Stickley and E. W. Smith and Stickley's fielding were the features.

The umpiring, tosay the least, rotten.

CAROLINA 13 V. M. I. 0

With Currie pitching invincible ball Carolina easily defeated the V. M. I. team at Lexington, Va. 13 to 0. Currie allowed eight hits but was unhitable when men were on bases.

The entire Carolina team hit the ball hard and timely. Capt. Woodall, Bruce, and Zollicoffer led the hitting with three hits each. Honig landed on one for three bases.

Bucher started the game for the cadets but retired in the third inning after he had allowed five runs. Pitts succeeded him and fared no better. The Virginians could not connect with the ball when a hit was needed. On the other hand Carolina hit the ball apparently at will.

CAROLINA 8 W. & L. 2

Showing a complete reversal of form after the Virginia game Carolina romped away with the game with W. & L. to the tune of 8 to 2.

Williams returned to the box the next day after his failure at Charlottesville and held W. & L. to four hits. One of these hits was a homer with one man on the bases. His speed was dazzling and the boys from W. & L. could do nothing with him.

In the second inning Zollicoffer beat out an infield hit and scored when Lewis's line drive went over the fence for a home run. Bruce and Bailey also secured a home run each—no one being on bases when those were hit.

In the fifth Bailey got on and scored on Lewis's two bagger to left field.

Three more runs were scored on mixed hits, bases on balls and errors.

DR. THORNTON OF UNIVERSITY OF VA., DELIVERS EXCHANGE LECTURES

Last of Series of Exchange Lectures is Delivered o Engineering Subjects, and an Account of a Visit to Panama

Monday night in Gerrard Hall Professor William M. Thornton, Dean of the School of Engineering of the University of Virginia, delivered the fisst of a series of lectures which he is to give here this week as exchange professor in the quadrangular arrangement between this University, Vanderbilt, Virginia, and South Carolina. Dr. Henderson in introducing the speaker told of the plans that had been made to carry on this system of exchange professorships each year.

Mr. Thornton gave an account of a personal visit to Panama as the guest of General Goethals, and told many interesting stories of the canal zone. He explained the system under which the Isthmus is governed, and spoke of the important part that several southern men had played in this great work. Dean Thornton especially praised the perfect system of sanitation that has been worked so successfully in that tropical region, and pointed out the surprising freedom from disease in its towns and cities. The lecture was prepared for the purpose of instructing laymen as well as those scientific training and succeeded admirably in its purpose.

During the course of his lecture he dealt with the fundamental problem of mechanics and materials with special treatment of deflection of beams. Professor Thornton gave an analasis of the methods used in the high schools in reference to the preparation they give a young man who is going to become an engineer, and likewise gave a series of suggestions as to how conditions might be bettered.

His second lecture delivered before the Elijah Mitchell Scientific Society, in Peabody Hall was a treatise of the fundamental problems from a graphical standpoint as applied to the progre and advance of mechanical m terials by the theory of resilienc

In his third lecture, Professo Thornton dealt with the theor of least work as applied to th same problem. This lecture also was delivered in the Peabody Building.

Prof. Thornton was educated at University College, Liverpool, serving an apprenticeship in the works there from 1884 to 1892 He served as professor in engineering at both University College, Bristol, and Armstrong College. He is vice president o the Association of Mining Electrical Engineers. He has also published papers from time t upon electrical and general engineering subjects.

Prof. Thornton is the exchange lecturer from Virginia, and is the first to appear at this institution in this series. The students of this Uuniversity welcome him and appreciate the beneficial ideas which he has given them. Although handicapped by a techi cal subject, he has made his lec tures most interesting to thos even who are not interested ordi narily in scientific subjects.

The exchange series is a new development of the idea of university extension and promises many beneficial results.

COBURN PLAYERS HERE MAY 5

Will Play Moliere's "The Imaginary Sick Man"

Contrary to somewhat widespread opinion, the comedies of Moliere are not of the "highbrow" variety that holds an appeal only for the serious students of the classics and those deeply learned in the drama. This is especially true of "Le Malade Imaginaire" (The Imaginary Sick Man) which the Coburn Players will give at Chapel Hill on May 5. It has been well said that Moliere is for all ages of men; for youth there is his comic invention, his drollery, his frank fun; for the older spectator there is appreciation of his insight into human motives and his marvelious skill in portrayen them, and for everyone who takes an interest in the comedy of human endeavor there is to be found in Moliere what he needs. Mr. Coburn has given his customary care and personal attention to every phase of the production of this addition to his repertoire, and it will be presented by a company of artists especially chosen for their fitness for the many sprightly parts.

Mr. C. G. Credle, '09, priucipal of the Carthage High School, attended the finals of the Debating Union with his teams.

THE BASEBALL TEAM

Not within the past four years has the student body evinced so little interest in the baseball team as this spring. We have had a fine team too. It has played winning ball. We have a good, popular, hard working Coach in Mr. Doak; yet the students have refused to get very excited about the team.

The cause is very simple, very disheartening to lovers of true Carolina athletics. The team is not in spirit a product of Carolina. Five of the regulars played on other college teams before they came here. Their motives in coming here, we do not know. We have our opinion.

We overheard a member of the Faculty the other day talking to a group of students. This man is a keen lover of athletics and not a man who would interpret athletic regulations from a hard, unsympathetic viewpoint. The substance of his remarks was, this is not a representative team. Very few of its members take an interest in college life or have any organic part in it. On the other hand, he said, the football team last fall came wholly out of the college life and was supported by the whole student body.

Two Seniors were watching one of the early season games. "I believe that every man on our team this year has played summer ball for money, except two," remarked one. "Yes," replied the other, "I guess A and B are all right."

"I was thinking of B and C," answered the first. Their estimate was probably a little too pessimistic.

We make no direct charges of any kind. We simply state that we believe a large number of students believe these things to be so. Where there is smoke there is apt to be fire. If anyone disagrees with these statements these columns are open to him. There will be only one more Tar Heel this year.

THE DEBATES

Last fall The Tar Heel objected to the efforts of the Debating Council to schedule a Fall Debate. Our objection was that there was not enough time to arrange and work up a debate. No debate was arranged; not because of our humble objections, but because of failure to get an opponent. The Debating Council argued that there was enough material in college to put out three teams and that the fall preliminaries would train men for the Spring Debates.

Saturday night, the first time in twenty years of intercollegiate debating, Carolina lost a series when Johns Hopkins defeated Carolina at Charlottesville. We won the debate against them two years ago and have lost the last two.

Our opinion, as before expressed, is that the Literary Societies and debating do not occupy relatively as important a position in student life as they formerly did. If Carolina is to maintain the past record some decisive changes or improvements must be made.

We would like to ask the Debating Council if they still think that a Fall Debate would help train and develop material. If they do, we suggest they arrange a Fall Debate NOW.

UNTIL THE DAY THEREOF

There are only about 152 working hours between now and final examinations. There is a limit to the things that can be done within that time. Every year there are the usual number who have put off parallel reading, laboratory work, reserving special reports until it is too late. This year there will probably be the usual number. Our advice is to let it be the other fellow.

This year has been filled with an unprecedented number of special events and interesting happenings. There have been wonderful opportunities to see national figures in political and educational fields.

We have participated in many, new, significant movements on the campus. But these are history. The question of the day is: are we going to let all these disturbers of the even tenor of recitations lower our standard of scholarship. In other words, are you going to let your 4 study degenerate into a 5, or your possible 3 into a 4 and so on up the line? There is a good probability that you will unless you make an unusual effort from now on.

LOCALS

The Catalogue for 1914-15 has come from the press and is being sent to high school students and others interested.

Dean M. H. Stacy delivered the commencement address at Granite Falls High School on Friday, April 16th. Mr. J. T. Hatcher, '14, is principal of this school.

Prof. Zebulon Judd delivered the commencement address at Nebo on April 16th; the commencement adress for the Lee County Schools at Jonesboro on April 22; and the comencement address for the Durham County Schools at Durham on April 23.

CAROLINA WINS AGAIN

Carolina Wins from Baptists in Big League Style

(Carried over from last week.)

In the second game of the series between the two institutions Carolina defeated Wake Forest 10 to 0. The winning of the other game has been called a fluke, but no such interpretation can be placed on the result of last Tuesday's game. With Shields pitching at his best and good allround support coupled with terrific clouting, the game was simply a walkover.

Ellis started the game for Wake Forest and lasted only two innings. A home run, a double, and five singles were made off his delivery before he was taken from the box. Moore, who took his place, allowed four hits in the remaining seven innings. Billings and Davis also assisted Carolina by making six errors.

For Carolina Honig lead in the hitting—getting a home run and two singles out of four trips to the plate. His home run was hit when three men were on the bases. Lewis and Patterson secured two hits each. Bruce also got a triple and Zollicoffer a double.

It is enough to say that Carolina played the game that she is capable of playing. The good people of Raleigh had a chance to see just how good a team Coach Doak has gotten together, both offensively and defensively. No such a hitting college aggregation has performed in Raleigh in many a day.

CAROLINA 8 NAVY 2

Carolina made a whirlwind finish and beat Uncle Sam's proteges by the rather one-sided score of 8 to 2. Up to the end of the seventh the Navy was leading by the score of 2 to 1.

Shields pitched for Carolina and worked out an excellent game—allowing only 5 hits. One man, G. Fisher, made three of the Navy's five hits.

In the seventh inning one hit together with a bunch of errors gave Carolina 4 runs. In the ninth, Carolina by hard hitting, scored three more runs.

Zollicoffer secured two hits, while Capt. Woodall hit a home run. Honig, despite his two errors, played a great game in left.

The features of the game were the hitting of Woodall and Zollicoffer and the fielding of Honig for Carolina and the hitting of G. Fisher for the Navy.

By hitting Williams hard and consistantly and by a good display of the knowledge of baseball Princeton beat Carolina 8 to 4.

Williams had an off day and the boys from Doggie Trenchard's Alma Mater seemed to take kindly to his offerings.

Chaplin for Princeton held Carolina to six hits.

Princeton worked the squeeze play on us and scored two runs when Woodall dropped the ball thrown by Pope to catch the man coming home.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET

Good Work of Linn Homewood Helps Friendship Win for Second Time

(Carried over from last week.)

The Friendship High School won first place in the third annual inter-scholastic track meet of North Carolina which was held last Friday. This makes the second time Friendship has won the cup and another victory will give them the permanent ownership of the trophy.

Forty athletes entered the contest, four schools being represented. The records of the teams were: Friendship 40, Greensboro 35, Graham 25, High Point 9.

Linn Homewood, brother of Roy, was the particular star of the event. He won 19 points for his team.

The Relay race was won by the Greensboro High School. Thir team was awarded a special cup for their victory in the relay

First places were won by the following individuals: One hundred yard dash, Losson Perry of Graham; high jump, Linn Homewood of Friendship; 880-yard run, Winfree Alderman of Greensboro; 120-yard low hurdles, Linn Homewood of Friendship; shot put, Sam Ray of Graham; 440-yard dash, L. M. Cannon of High Point; pole vault, Ryland Olive of Greensboro; one mile, Kemp Clendenin of Greensboro; broad jump, Linn Homewood of Friendship; hammer throw, Sam Ray of Graham.

STATE MEET MONDAY 3rd

Annual Collegiate Meet at Trinity in Durham

The State track meet will be held Monday May 3rd on the Trinity College grounds in Durham. There are four colleges entering the meet this year; A. & M., Wake Forest, Trinity, and Carolina.

About twenty-five or thirty men will comprise the team that goes from Carolina, and it is fully expected that they will give a good account of themselves. In the two meets held this year, Carolina has come out winner with the greatest ease, and several good times have been marked up. Two State records were broken in the Wake Forest meet, Woollcott going 5 ft. 9 in. in the high jump and Wright making 22 ft. 6 in. in the broad.

It is understood that each college will have a good sized delegation of supporters present, and there is no doul t but that quite a few Carolina students will attend.

DR. HENRY LEWIS SMITH

President of Washington and Lee Delivers Interesting Address

One of the best addresses of the year was delivered by Dr. Henry Lewis Smith, President of Washington and Lee, Tuesday night April 20th on the subject "Personality." Dr. Smith handled his subject in a very personal and adequate way and left a very lasting impression upon those who heard him.

He divided his talk into four methods of attaining and retaining personality. His first was health. Not particularly athletic ability but a good, pure, sound body with all the vitality which attends it. His second he called energy for want of a better term - that which makes a man succeed. In this he said, "Don't be a box car and have to follow other box cars. Rather be the engine which leads and draws the box cars after it. Be an engine an carry your own power."

In his third point he brought out the value of "Old fashioned love" between men. This he said is the basis of true warmheartedness, the stuff that makes sacrifice a pleasure—the lubricant of society

Height was his last topic. This is a matter of ideals. A man could have no great personality without high ideals.

His whole talk was well knit together by clear and apt illustrations and was so well handled as to be thought by many to have been the best lecture given to the Y. M. C. A. during the year.

Appendix to the University Dictionary.

Appendix, n. Something which, as everyone knows, ought to be cut out.

Chicken (boarding house), n. A Chapel Hill product known here as the aeroplane species, being composed entirely of wings and machinery.

Cream (boarding house), n. The skim of milk floating on the top of the water.

Degrees, n. pl. Things of which we shouldn't be so proud since every graduated thermometer has more of them than we can ever hope to acquire.

Freshman, n. An unnatural phenomenon, having the superciliousness of a Senior, the apparel of a Junior, and the audacity of a Sophomore.

Girl, A, n. What every Freshman aspires to have, what every Sophomore thinks he has, what every Junior has, and what every Senior thanks Heaven he has not.

Grat, n. Short for gratitude.

Kiss, n. "A heart-torpedo" (This must have gotten into the University Dictionary by mistake).

Physics I Lab., n. A paradise of ineffable perfumes, a heaven of sweet sounds, the sweetest of which is this, "You'll have to do it over again!"

War, n. A subject for Chapel talks.

Work, n. Only a habit. The last resort. A malady, the surest symptom of which is a neglect of Pickwick and the result of which is liable to be an attack of Phi Beta Kappa, if the patient is not careful. This affliction, however, is by no means prevalent, especially in spring.

THE UNIVERSAL PRAYER

Lord, make us pure and sweet and strong!
And oh, we pray Thee Lord, to set
Us on the Right Road sharp and long!
Lord, Lord, take Thou us from among
The crimson-poppied paths of wrong!—
(But not, O Lord, oh, not quite yet.)

II

Sure Lord Thou know'st how we despise
All luscious pleasures quite unfit
To aid aspiring souls to rise!
Lord, open Thou our sin-dimmed eyes!
Destroy the joy we wrongly prize!—
(But please, O Lord, please wait a bit.)

DI WINS FRESH-SOPH DEBATE

Stephenson and Rand for the Phi Oppose Snider and Ross for the Di

The annual Fresh-Soph debate between the Di and the Phi Societies was held Wednesday night in Gerrard Hall. The query was "Resolved, That a Literacy Test for Immigrants Seeking Admission to the United States is Undesirable." W. A. Stephenson and Oliver Rand representing the Phi upheld the affirmative, while C. L. Snider and R. M. Ross, Jr., from the Di defended the negative and won a two to one decision.

Rev. Mr. Starr, Dr. McNider, and Prof. Dargan served as judges. They report the debate "up to the standard."

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

Delivered By Rev. J. M. Mills of Washington, D. C.

The University sermon for the month of April was delivered by the Rev. J. M. Mills D. D., Washington D. C., who spoke on China with especial reference to the opportunities for service. He has no official position and has traveled all over the world, and as an impartial observer he has come to the decision that the Chinese Republic has come to stay, and that China will go farther and do more in the next fifty years than Japan has done in the last fifty. China was a republic in the past for 2,000 years and had rulers chosen from the lower walks of life, so that at one time the ruler was a bricklayer. Thus we see that China was the first Republic. China has 37 centuries of recorded history and any number of centuries of traditions behind her, and while China has been conquered she has never been changed but has rather assimulated her conquerers. China is the oldest of all civilized nations, having had many of the modern inventions and institutions centuries ago. She was the inventor of printing, porcelain, paper, and gun powder long before the present civilized nations of Europe had emerged from the dark ages. She has a newspaper, "The Chinese Gazette," which has been running since 713 A. D., and has definitely recorded accurate astromical observations from before the time Abraham came out of Urr of Chaldees. There was an encyclopedia published 500 years ago which contained 2300 volumes and which had an index of 63 volumes.

One may well ask then why China has been so backward in modern times. It is because of superstition and fear of evil spirits. But now the people are being educated out of these foolish beliefs and are making progress in enormous strides. Gen. Gordon believes that the Chinese will be the future rulers of the world, and Mr. Maxim, the inventor of the Maxim silencer and a military expert, believes that there will eventually be only three nations in the world,—the United States, Africa, and China. There are four reasons why China should become a great nation; first, because of her enormous extent of territory; second, because of her population; third, because of the big, strong, industrious, and economical character of her inhabitants; and fourth, because of her enormous undeveloped resources. In any meeting in which there are Chinese representatives they are the most conspicuous men there for their worth and dignity: first, because of the body of tradition behind them; and second, because of their education. The United States is the favorite nation with China: first, because the only Americans they know are missionaries; second, because they know we have no territorial designs on her; third, because of the indemnity collge, which was founded with the $10,000,000 returned by the United States from the Boxer indemnity fund; fourth, because of Anson Burlinggame, United States minister to China, whom the Chinese love and trust implicitly. It has even been said that the New China was "Made in America." This position of honor places upon us the responsibility as to whether China shall be Christian or Heathen. Let us hope we shall not be found wanting.

THE TRIANGULAR DEBATE

Carolina Splits Even, While Hopkins Wins Both

The third annual series of intercollegiate debates between Carolina, Virginia, and Johns Hopkins were held Saturday night April 21st. Carolina sent G. A. Martin and Wade Kornegay to meet Virginia at Baltimore. They defended the affirmative of the question "Resolved, That the policy of Colonial Expansion is desirable for the modern State," and won a unanimous decision from a committee of five judges.

Carolina sent C. E. Blackstock and W. B. Umstead to Charlottesville to meet Hopkins. They upheld the negative side of the query and were defeated by a three to nothing vote of the judges. All of Carolina's representatives have been more or less conspicuous in inter-society debates and it was hoped that they would be able to annex a double victory again, as in 1913. However, the triangle is not dissolved yet and Carolina stands a close second to Hopkins now.

The debate here in Gerrard Hall between Hopkins and Virginia was a much better debate than last year. A. M. Warren and T. J. Tingly from Hopkins won a four to one decision over C. N. Cox and B. C. Taylor from Virginia.

Mr. Warren was a member of the team that won from Virginia here last year. He was the particular star of the debate here this year, his rejoinder being especially effective. Mr. Cox from Virginia was a student here three years ago.

Immediately after the debate a banquet was given the visiting teams in the Y. M. C. A. Both of Carolina's teams report a very enjoyable trip.

South Wins From New Dorm

In a classy exhibition of the national pastime the sluggers from the South defeated the New Dorm squad last Saturday, the score being 9 to 5. The hitting of the South-men was the feature of the game. Fourteen bases were stolen, a home run knocked, s'teen errors made, and Graham held the New Dorm guys to one hit.

CAROLINA ENDS A MOST SUCCESSFUL BASEBALL SEASON

Win Easily From South Carolina, Guilford, Wake Forest, and Elon. Captain Woodall Gets Another Homer

Carolina administered a shut out to the game cocks last Monday when Leon Shields held them to six hits and no runs. The nearest they came to scoring was when Plaxico their fleet centerfielder hit for three bases, but he was left stranded on third. Catp. Woodall led the batting with three hits in four attempts, one being for four bases. Shields was master of the game at all stages, fourteen men being retired at the plate.

By winning from Wake Forest Tuesday, Carolina made it three straight victories over the Baptists. Currie pitched for Carolina and was invincible with the exception of the sixth inning when he was wild and allowed the visitors to score their four runs.

Patterson, Carolina's star second baseman, featured by clouting the ball for four bases.

Up to the eighth inning of the game with Guilford last Friday, the game was close and in doubt, the visitors leading at this time 2 to 1. In the eighth, however, Captain Woodall decided we needed a run or so, and proceeded to smash out a home run. This started a rally that netted six runs and the game. Mac Lewis got a three bagger with one on, and Marshall Williams got a batting average for himself by driving out a clean two bagger.

Our boys took advantage of a good opportunity to fatten their batting average last Saturday when they hammered out 16 hits for 14 runs. Bailey, our fast centerfielder, led in the slugging with four hits in five trips.

Captain Woodall celebrated his last appearance in college baseball by playing every position during the game, including the pitcher's position. As this was the last game of the season and an easy one, Captain Woodall allowed three men besides himself to occupy the mound.

BASEBALL TEAM BATS .270

Captain Woodall Leads Team With Average of .400

An analysis of the records of all the members of the baseball team shows that the team's average for all games played is .270 This is a splendid showing, and shows why we won all but four games. Captain Lawrence Woodall who played his last game of college baseball Saturday, led the team by hitting at a .400 clip. Out of 83 trips to the plate he connected safely 33 times, five of these hits being good for four bags. Paul Bruce, shortstop, comes second with a good average of .354, while Edgerton and Hart each have an average of .333. Zollicoffer also hit above the three hundred mark, his average being .306.

Following is a list of the team, their times at bat, hit, and averages.

SHIELDS IS CAPTAIN

Carolina's Premier Pitcher Will Lead Team

Captain Woodall Plays His Last College Base Ball

Shortly after the final game of the season last Saturday, Leon Shields, Carolina's star pitcher was elected captain of the base ball team for next year. The ability of Captain Shields to play two positions, pitch or play short, either of which he can do most creditably, makes him well fitted for the position of captain. Shields won seven of the eight games he pitched this year and for his splendid work on the mound, he well deserves the honor his team mates have given him. It is not definitely known yet how many of the old members of the team will return next year. Capt. Woodall is the only members who will be ineligible, he having played four years in college base ball. It is with much regret that the Carolina student body sees "Woody" leave the team. For the past two years he has shown himself to be not only the best catcher in the state, but an all round good fellow.

The season just ended has been one of the best in years. Of the 19 college games played, Carolina won fifteen and lost only four, making a total of 120 runs to their opponents 45.

Coach "Chick" Doak deserves congratulations for having coached such a winning team: captain Woodall deserves congratulations for having led his boys to victory so many times, and the entire team deserve credit and congratulations for having made this past season one of the most successful in years.

CAROLINA'S TRACK TEAM ENDS SEASON BY WINNING STATE MEET

Captures First Place With 64 Points, Trinity Second With 40, A. & M. Third With 35, and Wake Forest Last With 14

By scoring a total of 64 points Carolina was easily the winner in the annual state track meet which was held in Durham last Monday. Fourteen events were held and in nine of these Carolina won first place. Three second places, four third places, and two fourth places combined to make a total of 64 points. Trinity came second with 40 points, A. & M. third with 35 points and Wake Forest was fourth with 14 points.

Although no records were broken, and the times as a whole were not extra good, the meet was a great success and was most interesting. Many of the events were extremely close and hard fought, the 100 yard dash affording great enthusiaism and excitement by its closeness. Johnson of Carolina won this by a few inches, his time being 10 3-5 seconds.

Ratty Ranson won fame for himself by capturing the half mile, which he did by a good number of yards.

A. & M. won the high jump, although the height was only 5 ft. 7 in. Woollcott who holds the state record at 5 9 1-2 tied with Kanner for second place.

Good time was made on the two mile, it being won by Goforth of Trinity in 10 minntes 33 3-5 seconds. Upchurch of Carolina was leading on the next to the last lap but he got a notion he was on the final lap and began to sprint. He was unable to finish the remaining lap after his sprint and as York, our other man, lost his shoe, we did not get a place in this event.

Homewood easily captured first place in the hammer throw, but it cost him the pole vault as this was the next event. After his exertions with the hammer he could not go above 10 feet, while he usually goes several inches higher with ease. The pole vault was won at 10 feet 1 inch.

Patterson walked away with the quarter, taking first place with very little effort.

The main point getters for Carolina were Capt. Woollcott, and Homewood, while Matton was the feature for Trinity.

The track being a new one was rather soft and this may account for no better times being made. The meet was a decided success, and the officials did their work splendidly.

Following is a list of the events, the winners and their records:

100 yard dash: Johnson, Carolina; Bird, Wake Forest; Ruff, Trinity; Potter, A. & M.; 10 3-5 seconds.

Half mile. Ranson, Carolina; Abernethy, A. & M.; Powell, Wake Forest; Cown, Trinity; 2 minutes 9 1-2 seconds.

High hurdles. Woollcott, Carolina; McDougal, A. & M.; Thompson, Wake Forest; Hoyle, Trinity; 16 3-5 seconds.

Two mile. Goforth, Trinity; Harris and Scott, A. & M.; Newton, Trinity; 10 minutes 33 3-5 seconds.

220 yard dash. Black, Carolina; Ruff, Trinty; Bird, Wake Forest. Rocket, A. & M.; 24 2-5 seconds.

440 yard dash. Patterson, Carolina; Cordle, Trinity; Gant, A. & M.; Herring, Wake Forest; 72 3-5 seconds.

Mile. Milwee, A. & M.; Rand, Carolina; Garris, Trinity; Loftin, A. & M.; 4 minutes 52 seconds.

Low hurdles. Smith, Carolina; Powell, Wake Forest; Hoyle, Trinity; 29 1-5 seconds.

High jump. McDnugal, A. & M. Woollcoot and Kanner, Carolina tied for second place; Matton, Trinity; 5 feet 7 1-4 inches.

Pole vault. Matton, Trinity; Homewood, Carolina; Warren, Wake Forest; Giles, Trinity; 10 feet 1 inch.

Broad jump. Wright, Carolina; Matton, Trinity; Hatcher, Carolina: Herring, Wake Forest; 21 feet 7 1-4 inches.

Shot put. Davis, Carolina; McDougal, A. & M.; Farrar, Trinity; Cook, A. & M.; 38 feet 9 1-2 inches.

Hammer throw. Homewood, Carolina; Farrar. Trinity; Dysert, Carolina; Cook, A. & M.; 116 feet.

Discuss throw. Farrar, Trinity; Crowder, A. & M.; Davis, Carolina; 105 feet 3 inches.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL

Six Teams Still in Race for State High School Championship

The annual State High School championship contest in baseball is rapidly coming to a close, but six contestants remaining in the race. In the West the struggle is between Cherryville and Sylvan and the deciding game will be played in Cherryville on Saturday, May 8th. In the East the struggle is more complicated, being between Raleigh and Clayton who will meet in Raleigh on may 8th and New Bern and Washington who will meet on the same day at New Bern. The winners of these games will meet May 15th to decide the championship of Eastern Carolina. The Eastern and Western champions will meet in Chapel Hill for the final struggle for the championship of the State on May 22nd. These dates are merely tentative and may be changed. As usual a trophy cup will be awarded to the winner. In order to pay the expenses a small admittance fee of 25 cents will be charged.

W. S. Roberson was reelected Mayor of Chapel Hill on May 4th.

WHY IS A GRAT?

We are ending a four years stay at Chapel Hill. During that time we have gratted one class and one chapel. We had a perfectly valid reason each time. The reason we refused to grat was not because of any overweaning love of books or any Phi Beta Kappa aspirations. With us it was merely a question of character building and principle.

The defense of the grat seems to be that the student gets in places where the only way out is by cutting a class or two. Some professors advise men to grat particularly hard classes if they are not prepared. We would respect those men more if they advised the student to get drunk or do something else the result of which he can see more clearly. The inference, we always drew when we heard an instructor advise a student to grat was that the Professor wanted the student to understand that that particularly hard lesson would not be represented on Examination day. Its an admission of unthoroughness.

The student argues that he must avoid the hard lessons in order to keep his term standing up. In other words when you have a hard piece of work to do the best way to get it done is to run away.

We believe these attitudes toward cutting classes seriously damage the characters of many men here. We believe we know men here who have had their characters severely damaged.

But there are other charges to bring against the grat. When it gets toward the end of the month a great number of students take what grats there are left to them as a matter of course. They either go down town and loaf, play a game of cards, take a week end off the Hill or in some other way interfere with the efficiency of their work.

We have often wondered just what is the attitude of the average member of the Faculty toward grats. We believe that they have just accepted this evil. The most frequent charge against the college man is his inaccuracy and lack of punctuality and attention to details.. How can you expect anything else when he is EXPECTED to be off the job 8 per cent of the time?

MAJORS AND MINORS

"What's your major next year?" "What are you going to take for a minor?" Questions such as these have been very very common on the campus the last few days. They are being asked by the men who have to register under the new curriculum regulations effective next year for the rising Junior Class.

We think the change accomplished exactly what it intended to do: namely, to make a man think about his work seriously and definitely prepare himself for it. The fact that a man has to take a large per cent of his work for two years in one department and that he must squarely face that issue comparatively early in his college career is going to increase greatly our academic efficiency as well as the future usefulness of our graduates.

Unless we knew it for a fact it would be hard to believe that many men drop courses because the hours interfere with late sleeping; take others because text books are not necessary; shun others because note taking is required and let other inconsequential things divert their education. It has been a common sight to see a man mapping out a years work in a few hurried moments while standing in registration line. Men often take a course as the result of a casual unballanced remark of an aquaintance. Then, of course, there is the contemptible tribe of pud hunters who worry themselves thin dodging work.

We believe the new system will eliminate much of this.

THE FUTURE

It isn't typical of Americans to look to the future very far. This characteristic is supposed to be least often found in young men. It is with a great amount of pleasure, then, to note the enthusiasm with which the plan of Drs. L. R. Wilson and J. G. de Roulhac Hamilton and Mr. George Holton to preserve a pictorial review of the campus for the future generations has been met.

The plan is to keep a year file of all amateur kodak pictures and interesting news clippings and other mementoes with full data and preserve this year by year in the Library. The record will be a kind of "University Memory Book," so to speak.

All students are asked to contribute prints of their best pictures.

THE ANSWER.

Under the caption, "The Baseball Team", there apseared in The Tar Heel of last issue an editorial notoriously conspicuous for its base insinuations, brazentry of a one-man-opinion, and gross reflexions on the integrity of Carolina's baseball team, head coach, and faculty committee on athletics. Were it not for the fact that the editor sets forth wholesale insinuations without one iota of direct evidence and in giving voice to his trumped-up charges upsurps the organ of the Athletic Association, the article would not warrant a reply.

What is the pretext upon which the writer introduces his insinuations? Simply this: That not within four years have the students "evinced" so little interest in the baseball team. Right here an absolute denial is entered. The Carolina students that followed the tecm to Greensboro and later cheered the White and Blue to victory over Virginia in Durham showed as fine a spirit of loyalty as any athletic team could wish. Again on the home grounds, in the Amherst and Guilford games, when Carolina spirit and organized cheering meant tallies it was not given grudgingly. Would the author of the article have the a whole student body get frothy at the mouth, smear dormitories with green paint, and raise a "hullaboo" because some body crossed a goal line or made a home run? No, that's not true Carolina spirit—if you will observe it under high pressure, in the ninth inning rally when the visiting team is holding the big end of the scores, you will see it in its richest form.

But the editorial gathers invective and villification as it proceeds and in the second paragraph forthwith charges, "The team is not in spirit a product of Carolina. Five of the regulars played on other college teams before they came here." Now, that is a pretty kettle of fish! Because five of the members of the team were not nurtured on Chapel Hill beef, crossed bats with White Cross baseball nine, and then subjected themselves to a natualization test they have no rights as students in the University to participate in athletics. Fellows, what do you think of the absurd suggestion?

Admittedly it has strings to it, and the enforcement of such an idea would convert a state university into a hide-bound, close-guaged corporation. It would breed snobbishness and would have the unsalutary effect of establishing insurmountable barriers between the University and its sister institutions. No, the Carolina student body views with the same contemptuous attitude such a narrow-guaged athletic policy as it entertains the idea of a restriction of membership in its literary societies.

Why are not these five men referred to as products of Carolina? Every man of them are to the manor born North Carolinians. From Mars Hill, Hobgoop, Marshall, Concord and Raleigh these youthful boys come. Are these villages "the homes of all professional baseball players?" They have attended other colleges in North Carolina but is that an unpardonable sin against humanity? They have met all the rigid tests of athletic regulations applied by the faculty committe on athletics. Their proficiency in the classroom entitles them to a "clean bill of health". Let's examine the personel of these five players. Leon Shields, of Hobgood, attended the Atlantic Christian College in 1912, ihen came to the University, and is now a full-fledged Sophomore. Fred Patterson, of Concord, played on the Trinity College team in 1913, and then registered for a course in pharmacy. Bill Pope, of Marshall, came from Mars Hill Preparatory School. Paul Bruce, of Mars Hill, played on the Elon team in 1914, and came to the University to pursue studies in pharmacy. The writer is a graduate of Wake Forest and will obtain his A. M. degree from the University next commencement.

Although five of these players have played on other teams, (with the exception of one man) they have been resident students of the University for two years. Thirteen of the fourteen members of the baseball squad are North Carolinians, and yet the editor would practically deny them the privileges and opportunities of the University.

One other paragraph of the editorial deserves a single statement. Coach Trenchard absolutely denies the allegation that any Carolina athlete, to the best of his knowledge, has touched tainted money from professional ball. It is generally known that Southern universities admit college athletes to the privilege of making expenses while playing summer ball.

Behind all these unwarranted, unsupported insinuations what were the ulterior motives prompting the article? Why should the Editor-in-chief of The Tar Heel betray so sacred a trust as the confidence reposed by a student body when they committed to his charge the organ of the institution which he so maliciously and unwarrantly attacks? The student body unreservedly denounces such underhand methods, and the students have unmistakably demonstrated their feeling in the matter on the campus.

The ulterior reasons prompting the article may have been many, but this seems most feasible: A student voted all the honors in his Sophomore and Junior years, in his Senior year sees a rapid decline of that popularity. In the closing days of his college career he sees the last flicker of that vaunted popularity vanish. Like a man drowning catching for so feeble a prop as a straw, the editor grabs for something. He gathers a brickbat, in preference to a bouquet, and takes a broadside at the institution which has the loyal support of the student body—"our baseball team."

C. L. WOODALL,
Capt. 1915 Baseball Team.

ANOTHER ANSWER

As a member of the Carolina baseball team and a true lover of Carolina athletics I beg to disagree with some statements that were made in the editorial columns of the Tar Heel last week.

Before I begin my disagreements as to what was said I would beg to say that I believe such an article concerning the baseball team was wholly uncalled for by the student body; rather if such statements should of necessity be made, they should have appeared at the beginning of the baseball season and not at a time when all is over and no good whatever can be made of them.

But I do not disagree with all the statements made concerning the baseball team. At the first I wish to state that the fact that the students had failed to get very excited about the team was noticed and remarked by members of the team all during the playing season. In my opinion there was less interest manifested by the student body this year than last, taking all into consideration, but I disagree you as to the reason of this lack of excitement. The student body has taken interest in the team, but it has not got very excited because, as I have heard many students say, they expected the team to win anyway, and there was less reason for rooting and excitement. Whether or not this is true patriotism I shall not say. But considering the schedule of games played on the Hill and the ability of the team, how could such a feeling among the students be prevented?

You state that the cause of the lack of excitement to be that "the team is not in spirit a product of Carolina." I disagree most emphatically with such a statement. You point to the fact that five men of the regular team played on other college teams before they came here. Their reasons for coming here were to secure the college training which they could not secure at the institutions which they left. You would imply a wrong motive for the change each man made. To be specific, one man came from Trinity to take pharmacy, which he could not get a Trinity. This is his second year at Carolina and his first on the baseball team. Another came from Elon to take the course in pharmacy, since Elon gave no course in pharmacy. A third came from Atlantic Christian College to secure a higher college education. He was considered a man of prep school ability only and made the team in his Freshman year. The fourth came from Mars Hill, a school which yearly recruits the ranks of Carolina and Wake Forest. This man was in his second year at Carolina and made the team only this year. Likewise he was a valuable player on the football team which, you would have us believe, was in spirit a product of Carolina. But when the question of whether or not the football team was a product of true Carolina spirit arises, I must say that it was disheartening to me, numbers of the students, and hundreds of alumni, to witness last fall such a lack of Carolina spirit displayed by certain responsible men. No question was raised last fall concerning members of the football team or the playing of the team, although the latter caused widespread disappointment to Carolina men more than once, even though the team did win all but one game.

The fifth man came from Wake Forest to get his master's degree, having secured his bachelor's degree the year before. Any assertion that these men are paid to come to Carolina is unfounded and is unjust to them. If the players are paid I am sure of one they have overlooked.

And you will find the baseball team to be just as representative of the college as the football team was. Every man who makes a team plays his first year on that team. Because the football team last fall was practically the same as it was the year before does not necessarily mean that it was more representative of Carolina spirit than the baseball team this year with only three new men.

Two Seniors of this campus evidently have low opinions of every man on the team except two. Who those twoplayers are is a mystery. I know that every player on the team has played summer baseball. I have never played baseball for money myself and I feel that all the other players had as much sense of honor as I had when we signed the papers testifying that we had never received pay for playing baseball. No direct charges were made but it was very strongly implied that both some of the players had received money for playing and denied it, and were getting some compensation for playing on Carolina's team and denied it. It such is true in any case, a close observer has failed to find it. The players resent any attack upon their character, and the whole University suffers when the Carolina athletic situation is thrown out to the State in such a light.

The reception that the students have given last week's statements show that there is hardly a single man among them who believes such statements to be true.

DR. LUMSDEN SPEAKS

Delivers Splendid Talk On Typhoid and its Prevention

Dr. Lumsden of the U. S. Public Health Service delivered a most interesting and educating lecture in Gerrard Hall Wednesday night. Dr. Lumsden and Dr. Harrington are the men who are to lead the investigation work in Orange county.

Dr. Lumsden discussed Typhoid fever in detail and discussed the methods used in preventing the disease. He emphasized the fact that Typhoid comes from one and only one source, namely, from people In his talk, Dr. Lumsden gave several striking examples to show what serious results have come from the lack of knowledge concerning the prevention of Typhoid.

Following the talk by Dr. Lumsden, Dr. F. P. Harrington, also of the Health Service, showed some interesting and instructive pictures, which gave an idea of the unsanitary conditions that exist in so many parts of the country. In conclusion he asked for the assistance of every citizen of Orange county in making this the most sanitary county in North Carolina.

MR. GRAYDON DROPS DEAD

Popular Law Student Dies From Heart Failure

Augustus Tompkins Graydon, of Greenwood, S. C., a member of the Junior Law Class died srom heart failure in the Pi Kappa Alpha Hall Wednesday afternoon at 3:20, only four minutes after having complained of dizzinesss. He and several others were engaged in a desultory game of baseball on the green between Frat row and the Library. He suddenly complained of dizziness and inability to see and was assisted into the nearby hall. Dr. Abernethey arrived on the scene two minutes later but was unable to render any assistance. Dr. Lawson and Dr. Manning appeared a moment later. The body was carried to the Infirmary. Thursday morning the body was sent to Greenwood, S. C. The cause of the death was declared to be a leak in the heart.

Mr. Graydon was aware that his heart was in a bad condition. He had been forbidden by Director Lawson to take part in athletics and had obeyed the warning.

The deceased graduated from Auburn in the spring of 1914 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. Besides being prominent in the student life there he was manager of the football team in 1914 and previous to that a member of the baseball squad. He entered the law class here this spring and was not only an excellent student but very popular. Aside from the suddenness of the affair his death has spread a gloom over the entire campus. In spite of the shortness of his stay here Mr. Graydon, by his likable qualities and upright character, had won many more friends than the average would have done.

Mr. Graydon was 23 years old and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom to remove from this earth Augustus Tompkins Graydon; and

Whereas, the act of the Almighty deprives his family of a beloved son and brother, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the Faculty and students of the law school of the University of North Carolina, extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to his mother and brothers in this sad hour of bereavement; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the sorrowing family and published in The Tar Heel.

ALL CLASS BALL TEAM

Coach Kluttz Selects Ten Best Men From Class Teams

The following selections for an all class team, made by class coach Kluttz, are based on the all round work of each man, and is composed only of those who have played in the majority of the class games.

Catcher. There is no choice between Love and Clark. Both have good arms, run the game well, and are good hitters. A team must have two catchers, so Clark and Love are selected. Pou runs both of them a close race for the position.

First Base. Burnette gets this place for his all round good work. Long is his equal in fielding and hitting, but Burnette's base running gives him the advantage.

Second Base. Bill Allen of the Sophs get this place over "Red" because of his superior hitting.

Third Base. Kirkman has little advantage over Huske, but is awarded the position for his stick work.

Short stop. Whitaker and Beech both field this position well, but the latter is superior with the stick. Polk is better than either, but is needed in the outfield.

Outfield. Polk, Proctor, and Denning make up a fast outfield. All are good hitters and good base runners.

Utility. Rankin is the man for this place. He would make a good man in either infield or outfield.

Pitcher. Plyler is undoubtedly the best pitcher on the class field. He has plenty of speed and good control.

Following is the all class team, with their batting averages in games played so far:

pos.	name	average	class
c.	Love	.357	Jr.
c.	Clark	.333	Fr.
1 b.	Burnette	.286	Soph.
2 b.	Allen, Bill	.350	Soph.
3 b.	Kirkman	.384	Fr.
s. s.	Beech	.277	Jr.
l. f.	Polk	.296	Soph.
c. f.	Denning	.333	Fr.
r. f.	Proctor	.268	Soph.
p.	Plyler	.312	Jr.
utility	Rankin	.333	Fr.

Juniors Win Class Championship

By defeating the Freshmen Wednesday afternoon the Junior base ball team cinched the class championship. Plyler pitched for the Juniors, and as usual, was complete master of ceremonies. It has been mainly through the excellent twirling of this player, that the Juniors have been able to land the laurels. He has won every game pitched and has in most cases, scored a shut out. The game Wednesday was featuereless, being very slow.

Runs: Juniors.....3
Freshmen.....1
Batteries: Plyler and Love
Kinlaw and Clark.

Below is the nnmber of games won and lost by each of the class teams.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Lovingly we cast our gaze beyond the thick, black, impossible waves of the River Styx of Exams—and behold glowing, glimmering, and scintillating on the farther shore the visions of the Elysian Fields of the summer time, filled with moonlight and moonshine, queens and aces, 50 H. P. autos and 1 H. P. plows. But, as it is a different matter to look upon such visions and yet retain a cool head, we shall keep our eyes riveted upon our own bank of the aforesaid Styx. There the most noticeable thing (with the exception of a few white-and-blue low-necked skirts) is the presence of spring. She at least, is the most fashionable object to rave over at present. Long ago she entered by the Arboretum gate with her class dues and politics, loafing Seniors, and tinkling midnight mandolins. And now, ıaloed with emerald and girdled with green, she has conquered .he campus in the freshness of ıer verdancy. But chirk up, 1918, she hasn't got a thing on you!

Yet in spring in all its glory is one sadly solemn thought: This ime next spring Virginia will ıave gone completely dry and the South will be fast becoming an rid Sahara. Prohibition victoious in the South brings with it soft note of sadness. The paıos of the situation has expressın in the following lines from ıe Literary Digest:

'It is wrter, water, everywhere, and not a drop to drink!
Ve no longer hear the music of the mellow crystal clink;
: is useless at the fountain to be winkful of the eye,
or the cocktail glass is dusty,
and the South is going dry.
y the still-side on the hill-side in Kentucky all is still,
nd the only damp refreshment
mustbe dipped up from the rill;
'hat which made Milwaukee
famous does not foam in Tennessee, ınd the lid in old Missouri is as tight-locked as can be;
'or the egg-nog now is nogless,
and the rye has gone awry,
ınd the punch-bowl holds carnations, for the South is going dry."

But if the worst comes to the worst we can say in the words of old Omar: "Then bury me by some sweet garden side in a grave upon the turf of which soft moonshine may shed its mellifluous influence, at the head of which four roses may bloom and by the side of which green rivers may flow gently."

Under the influence of spring, Politics is also sporting out profusely. Campaign managers are buzzing around like bumble-bees, each one sure that he has at the most conservative estimate three-fourths of the vote of the entire class sewed up.

Nevertheless, in spite of Politics, Prohibition and Spring, "there's one more river and that's the river to cross"—and that's the aforementioned Stygian River of Exams. And some there will be who will sail across in safety and arrive in glory, and some who shall sink once, twice or thrice, and some who may stick in the mud on the bottom. But whatever happens we may keep the comforting assurance that the Elysian Fields are always waiting for us.

There will be reunions of the classes of 1914, 1910, 1905, 1900, 895, 1890, and 1865, during the coming commencement.

VAUDEVILLE SCORES HIT

Dramatic Club Stars Please With Novel Stunt

The Dramatic Club vaudeville stunt, given in Gerrard Hall, last Thursday night, was an experiment that proved most successful from every standpoint. As a matter of fact, the student body realized for the first time that they had a real first class vaudeville troupe in their midst. Every form of entertainment from high class music to an exhibition dance and a black face monologue was included in the bill.

The program opened with Meb Long's all star band composed of Meb Long, "Slick" Beckwith, Bob Page, and Charlie Mangum. This number was most enjoyable and received much well deserved applause. The second act was an exhibition dance by Sidney Blackmer and Miss Bruce Webb. Their able portrayal of the Terpsichorean art was well worth the price of admission.

Then came the finished musicians, Dr. Hanford, Professor Thornton, and Phil Branson in a high tone musical treat. Messrs. Thornton and Branson on the violin and mandolin were accompanied by Dr. Hanford on the guitar. This trio is an excellent one and held up their end of the program to perfection.

Following this, Professor McKie and Mr. Doub Kerr appeared in a ten minute farce comedy entitled "The Lunatics." The piece was a roar from beginning to end and was artistically handled by these accomplished Therpians.

Leon Applewhite, in a black face monologue, then made his appearance, and for ten consecutive minutes kept the house in an uproar. We would quote several of his gags, but he informs us that they have been copyrighted.

The sixth number was a clog dance by Wesley McIver and Fred McCall. This pair have few peers when it comes to shaking a hoof. They are simply great.

The closing number was "The Harmony Quintette" composed of "Big" Jones, Charlie Mangum, Enoch Simmons, "Slick" Beckwith and Stroup. This bunch have it all over Keith's men, mesmeizing minors seemed to be their specialty and you could have heard a pin drop when "Big" Jones started his foolishness in "My Baby Needs a New Pair of Shoes."

A sumptuous banquet was enjoyed by the Dramatic Association immediately after stunt.

BEAUTIFUL MAY DAY FETE

Campus Presents Pretty Scene—Miss Claudia Cheek Crowned Queen of May

A veritable corner of fairyland was presented in the beautiful May Day fete given on the campus May 1.

Children of all ages were presented in various pretty dances and impersonations. The wee tots gave mother goose lullabies, while the older children were shown in May pole dances and sketches. With much ceremony the lovely May Queen, Miss Claudia Cheek, was crowned Queen of May.

The concluding number was a minuet dance given by the following couples, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Winston, Miss Mary Henderson and Professor W. S. Bernard, Miss Mary Patterson and Wesley McIver, Mrs. James and Malcolm Oates, Miss Lilly Sutton and Bernard Kinlaw, Miss Josephine Daniels and Sidney Blackmer, and Miss Alice Noble and Leon Applewhite. Colonial costumes were used, and the different figures made a pretty event.

The directors deserve much credit for the splendid presentation

The Summer School this year promises to be the best which has ever been held. Many inquiries have been made and much interest shown concerning it.

Mr. E. R. Rankin of the Bureau of Extension was at Gastonia for a few days last week.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON SURE

Ten Letter Men Are Now Back Besides Good New Material

Judging from the present prospects, the University has every reason to look forward to a most successful football season and a team capable of realizing our highest football ambitions. "Barring an undue share of accidents and poor scholarship, with ten letter men back and the excellent new material that has shown up and is expected," says Coach Trenchard, "we are going to have a better team than last year's. As seems most probable, the line will be just as good, the backfield bettter."

The following old men, who played star ball last year, are back: Captain Tayloe, Ed Reid, Roy Homewood, Red Allen, Ramsay, Tandy, Gay, F. Jones, Wright and Parker, Hines, Fore, Meb Long, Williamson, Tennant, Metz, Royster, and Black should show up well after a year's experience or more.

The new men give excellent promise. Among them are: Earl Johnson, quarter-back, the captain of Raleigh High School; Craig, captain of Bingham Asheville;and the captain of Episcopal High School. Another strong new man is Cratch, a guard, weighing 236 pounds, who was a quarter-master sergeant of the U. S. army at Fortress Monroe where he played football. Others are William Blades from Randolph Macon Academy, full-back or half-back; Fitzsimmons from Woodberry Forest; Bill Grimes of Raleigh, a line man; Currie from Warrenton High School, tackle; and Bill Townsend, a good kicker.

Coaches Trenchard, Cunningham and Duff will coach the team this season. No better can be found. Coach Trenchard will take care of the ends. Coach Cunningham, of Washington, D. C. will watch over the backfield. He played half-back for Princeton where he received his C. E. degree in 1910. He was head-coach of Princeton, in 1911-12 and our coach last year. Coach Duff of Pittsburg, who played guard on the Princeton championship team in 1911, will take care of the line. He graduated from Princeton in 1912 and has recently been admitted to the bar of the state of Pennsylvania. For the past two years he has been head-coach at the University of Pittsburg and has turned out very strong teams defeating such elevens as the Navy, Carlisle Indians, Cornell, Penn State and others in the middle west. We undoubtedly have again this year the strongest coaching squad

Emerson Stadium Sea 3,200

WORK ENDS ABOUT OCT.

Field Big Enough for Tw Football Grounds and a Track

Opening day found the nev $30,000 athletic field, which i the gift of Dr. Emerson, a alumnus of the University, wel on the road to completion. Th new field will cover nearly twic as much ground as the old sinc the large waste stretch on th east side has been added to it.

The seating capacity of th new reinforced concrete stan will be 3,200. It will be divide into three sections. One of thes has already been complete Ground will be graded larg enough for two football field A track will be built one-thir of a mile around.

The track will be laid off a round the field with a quarter-mile lap and a hundred yard straight-away in front of the stand.

A net work of draining pipes will be constructed under a one-foot layer of packed cinders over which will be placed a layer of sand and clay, and this in turn will be planted in grass. This combination will give an excellent ground for football and baseball since it will remain well drained and solid during all kinds of weather. In past years the teams have suffered for sufficient drainage of the field but there will be no such trouble in the future.

The new stands ont the north border of the field are the most important addition to the University recently. They are made of reinforced concrete and will seat 1,600 people each or a total of 3,200. The first stand on the left of the field entrance will be enclosed with concrete walls and fitted out with two separate apartments containing a shower room, a drying room, a locker room and a trainer's room. The home team will occupy the section on the left of the main entrance opening on the field while the visiting team will occupy the remaining section on the right. The floor of the locker and shower rooms are to be made of cement, slanting gradually toward the center of the section.

The second stand will not be enclosed like the first but will be used for accommodating automobiles and other vehicles.

The roofing of the stand will consist of a combination of tarred felt and fine gravel and will be of double thickness.

This new field has been in demand for many years and its completion will mark an advance in athletics here. Besides the advantage of the new shower and

Ten Letter Men Are Now Back Besides Good New Material

Judging from the present prospects, the University has every reason to look forward to a most successful football season and a team capable of realizing our highest football ambitions. "Barring an undue share of accidents and poor scholarship, with ten letter men back and the excellent new material that has shown up and is expected," says Coach Trenchard, "we are going to have a better team than last year's. As seems most probable, the line will be just as good, the backfield bettter."

The following old men, who played star ball last year, are back: Captain Tayloe, Ed Reid, Roy Homewood, Red Allen, Ramsay, Tandy, Gay, F. Jones, Wright and Parker. Hines, Fore, Meb Long, Williamson, Tennant, Metz, Royster, and Black should show up well after a year's experience or more.

The new men give excellent promise. Among them are: Earl Johnson, quarter-back, the captain of Raleigh High School; Craig, captain of Bingham Asheville;and the captain of Episcopal High School. Another strong new man is Cratch, a guard, weighing 236 pounds, who was a quarter-master sergeant of the U. S. army at Fortress Monroe where he played football. Others are William Blades from Randolph Macon Academy, full-back or half-back; Fitzsimmons from Woodberry Forest; Bill Grimes of Raleigh, a line man; Currie from Warrenton High School, tackle; and Bill Townsend, a good kicker.

Coaches Trenchard, Cunningham and Duff will coach the team this season. No better can be found. Coach Trenchard will take care of the ends. Coach Cunningham, of Washington, D. C. will watch over the backfield. He played half-back for Princeton where he received his C. E. degree in 1910. He was head-coach of Princeton, in 1911-12 and our coach last year. Coach Duff of Pittsburg, who played guard on the Princeton championship team in 1911, will take care of the line. He graduated from Princeton in 1912 and has recently been admitted to the bar of the state of Pennsylvania. For the past two years he has been head-coach at the University of Pittsburg and has turned out very strong teams defeating such elevens as the Navy, Carlisle Indians, Cornell, Penn State and others in the middle west. We undoubtedly have again this year the strongest coaching squad

NEW ATHLETIC FIE

Emerson Stadium Sea 3,200

WORK ENDS ABOUT OCT.

Field Big Enough for Tw Football Grounds and a Track

Opening day found the nev $30,000 athletic field, which i the gift of Dr. Emerson, a alumnus of the University, wel on the road to completion. Th new field will cover nearly twic as much ground as the old sinc the large waste stretch on th east side has been added to it.

The seating capacity of th new reinforced concrete stan will be 3,200. It will be divide into three sections. One of thes has already been complete Ground will be graded larg enough for two football field A track will be built one-thir of a mile around.

The track will be laid off a round the field with a quarter-mile lap and a hundred yard straight-away in front of the stand.

A net work of draining pipes will be constructed under a one-foot layer of packed cinders over which will be placed a layer of sand and clay, and this in turn will be planted in grass. This combination will give an excellent ground for football and baseball since it will remain well drained and solid during all kinds of weather. In past years the teams have suffered for sufficient drainage of the field but there will be no such trouble in the future.

The new stands on the north border of the field are the most important addition to the University recently. They are made of reinforced concrete and will seat 1,600 people each or a total of 3,200. The first stand on the left of the field entrance will be enclosed with concrete walls and fitted out with two separate apartments containing a shower room, a drying room, a locker room and a trainer's room. The home team will occupy the section on the left of the main entrance opening on the field while the visiting team will occupy the remaining section on the right. The floor of the locker and shower rooms are to be made of cement, slanting gradually toward the center of the section.

The second stand will not be enclosed like the first but will be used for accommodating automobiles and other vehicles.

The roofing of the stand will consist of a combination of tarred felt and fine gravel and will be of double thickness.

This new field has been in demand for many years and its completion will mark an advance in athletics here. Besides the advantage of the new shower and

IN THE BEGINNING

With thoughts of June, July, and August still vivid in our minds, we enter with September on the one hundred and twenty-first year of the University's career. To those who are just making their acquaintance with Chapel Hill The Tar Heel extends greetings and condolence for the continued hot weather. To the old men The Tar Heel wishes to be remembered and hopes to act again as companion throughout the year. (Subscribe now.)

We refer to this year as the one hundred and twenty-first, however colorless numerals may be. As yet the year is a blank; all the color is yet to be applied. Naturally, we trust that when the colors are put aside next June, the brushes will have made no careless strokes upon the canvas. So with hopes that our energies will not lag and that our ambitions will not go straying, we set up our easel and go to work.

CONTRIBUTIONS

The filling of The Tar Heel columns is a prerogative which the editorial board is desirous of sharing. A paper put out continually by the same small group of editors will naturally exhibit the errors common to those men. For suggestion and correction, therefore, we are dependent upon our readers, and we trust that they will not hesitate to express their feelings through these columns. News items are always gladly accepted and contributions of an editorial nature are received with no less thanks. Why shouldn't The Tar Heel be some what of a forum in which news is given out and discussed? If it is interesting to hear one man's comment on a happening, it is much more so to hear the comments of a dozen. Our readers are urged to contribute to The Tar Heel at all times.

FOOTBALL

Just as naturally and with as little deviating as the magnetic needle points toward the North, college interest is directed in September toward football.

Carolina's prospects are encouraging. Ten letter men have returned, good new material is on hand, and the effective coaching trio, Trenchard, Cunningham, and Duff, will act as trainers.

As anyone can see, it means much to have so many old men return. It means that instead of beginning the year with raw material, we can play our first game with experienced men—men who are already familiar with Carolina's coaching system and who have played for two or three years in 'varsity games. We are able to put out a team early in the fall more experienced—by virtue of the same system of coaching maintained each year—than some of our former teams have been late in the season.

Our thanks and earnest support are due the coaches. To Head Coach Trenchard, whose energy and enthusiasm are never failing; to Coach Cunningham, at whose return to the University we all rejoice; and to Coach Duff, whose record as a football player and as a coach is of the highest, we all promise loyal support.

THE BOOK EXCHANGE

One of the most serviceable of the Y. M. C. A's. enterprises is the Book Exchange, which has developed to unexpected proportions this year through the agency of the University.

Everyone who was in college two years ago remembers that the Book Exchange started out with a homemade bookcase and a small assortment of old books. This year, since the University authorities have taken up the matter, it has expanded so as to tax the capacity of the former Y. M. C. A. game room. Not only can old books be bartered but new ones bought outright.

All student necessities from blue books to erasers are for sale.

A pleasing peculiarity of the Book Exchange is the fact that it is profit-sharing. Each purchaser is given a coupon for the amount of goods bought, and at the end of each month receives a refund in proportion to the amount of the Exchange's profits.

Attention is called to the fact that business is carried on throughout the entire day during the present rush season. The hours to be maintained during the rest of the year will be announced later.

Prof. Bernard Head of Greek Department

Professor W. S. Bernard will take charge of the Greek Department this year. He will be assisted by Mr. Preston Epps.

Subscribe to the Tar Heel, $1.50 per year. See F. S. Bradshaw, M. B. Fowler, or C. S. Harris.

The University's cooperative book store has at last become a reality. The book exchange will be run on a profit sharing basis, with J. Tucker Day as Manager, at the Y. M. C. A. Building.

Speeches in Chapel by Students, 7:30

CELEBRATE COLLEGE NIGHT

Reception at Library Given in Honor of 1919

Tonight, Thursday the ninth, is "College Night" All students will meet together in Gerrard Hall at seven-thirty and after hearing speeches there for a while, will proceed to the library where there will be ladies, refreshments and a receiving line.

"College Night" is the mass-meeting held by the Y. M. C. A. to initiate the new men into the ways and ideals of the University and to get them acquainted with their class-mates, the older men and the faculty.

Francis Bradshaw, President of the Senior Class, will open the meeting in Gerrard Hall with a speech explaining the University's honor system Merril Parker, President of the Y. M, C. A. will preside over the meeting. He will discuss the position of the Y. M. C. A. in college life, both from a religious and social viewpoint. He will point out to the men what the Y. M. C. A. is doing in its various activities for the students, the mill people around Chapel Hill and the negroes of the community. Phil Woollcott, captain of last year's track team and is visiting the Hill and will next discuss athletics in the University and the possibility of physical development in the college man's life. The next speaker, W. B. Umstead will explain the position of the Literary Societies in the college man's life. T. C. Linn, editor-in-chief of the Tar Heel, will discuss the various publications of the University. Charlie Coggins, president of the Dramatic Association will show the part played by the Dramatic and Glee Clubs in University life. The last speech will be made by Coach Duff, our new line coach, who will discuss the football prospects for this year.

MAGAZINE LOSES AULD

Phi Society Will Elect New Editor-in-Chief

B. F. Auld, Editor-in-Chief of the University Magazine for this year, will not be back. His absence will leave the position of editor-in-chief vacant. The Phi Society, which elected Auld head of the Magazine, has the privilege of electing his successor. The election will probably take place at the next meeting of the Phi Society.

The first issue of the Magazine will be out about the first of October. Auld secured a position with the Pennsylvania Railroad this summer and has decided to keep it rather than come back to college.

NO SUMMER CAMP THIS TIME

Coach Trenchard Gives Following Reasons

This year there was no summer football training camp held. It was thought best not to hold the camp this year for several reasons. First, the team could not get the same quarters as they had last year. Second, the expenses of the camp could not be sufficiently reduced. A reduction was a necessity on account of financial depression (low cotton, etc.) in the State. Third, of the entire squad only two men would be ineligible through their studies Fourth, twenty-two of the best players would return to college and there were fine prospects for some good new material.

By Our Freshman Contributor

We hear that our former instructors, Mr. Frank Graham and Mr. John Lasley, are going to Columbia and Johns Hopkins respectively this year on scholarships. We wish them Bon Voyage and sincerely hope that they will come to harbor safely and escape being blown up by German mines and submarines.

CHANGES IN PROFESSORS

Dr. Patterson to Be With the American Arms Co.

Dr. A. H. Patterson, Dean of the School of Applied Sciences, has been granted a year's leave of obscence. He has accepted a very flattering offer from the American Arms Company of New York. He will be supervisor of the inspection department and will leave in a few days to take charge of his new work.

Though the University will feel keenly Dr. Patterson's abscence, yet it has been fortunate in securing Dr. Harrington as his successor. Dr. Harrington received his Ph.D. at Clark University and later studied at the University of Berlin. He was instructor of physics at Williams College for three years.

Frank Graham has gone to Columbia University on a fellowship.

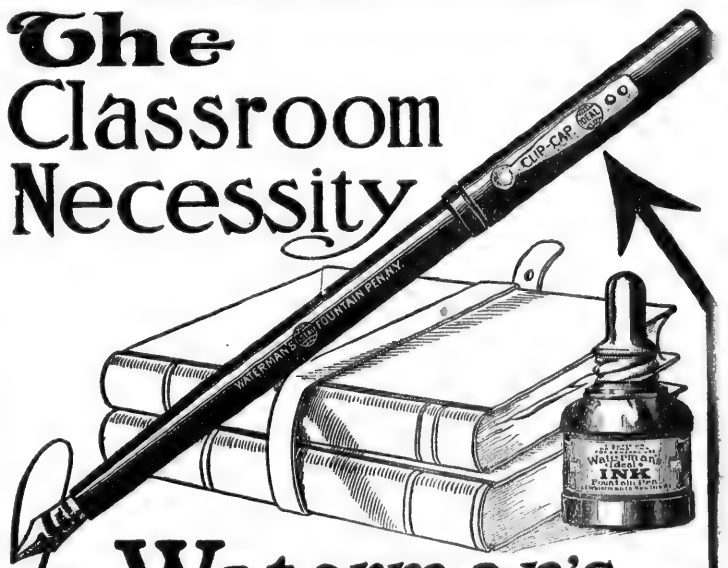
Dr. Geo. A. Harrer will instruct in Latin here this year. For the past few years Dr. Harrer has held the position of Latin Instructor in Princeton, where he received his Ph. D.

Mr. E. W. Turlington, B. A., who after having been graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1911 has been studying in Oxford College, England, where he went on a Rhodes Scholarship, has returned and will also instruct in Latin.

Mr. W. W. Pierson, B. A., alumnus of the University in 1910 and of Columbia in 1915 will take Mr. Frank Graham's place in the history department.

Mr. W. W. Rankin, after a year at Harvard, is back to instruct in Math.

Mr. J. W. Lasley will go to Johns Hopkins on a fellowship.



Passed State Law Board

At the recent meeting of the Law Board of the State last year's Law class was well represented. Some of those who passed are:

Miss Margaret K. Berry, B. H. Mebane, A. W. Graham, J. S. Cansler, A. R. Hornick, Bernard B. Vincent, and Seymour W. Whiting, Harry Stubbs, and Julian Hart, formerly members of the University Law school, also received their licences.

The flag and flag-pole, last year in front of the Old East Building, is now conspicuously absent. During the Summer-School a wind storm bent the pole so badly that it had to be removed.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Several New Teams on List This Fall

FIRST TWO GAMES HERE

"1915 Schedule Better Than Last Year's" Says Coach Trenchard

The schedule of football games for this season is as follows:

Oct. 2nd
Citadel at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 9th
Wake Forest at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 16th
Georgetown at Washington D. C.
Oct. 23rd
V. M. I. at Greensboro
Oct. 30th
Georgia Tech. at Atlanta
Nov. 6th
Clemson at Charlotte
Nov. 13th
Davidson at Winston
Thanksgiving
Virginia at Richmond

It is a noticeable fact that this year's schedule differs considerably from last year's. Georgia, Vanderbilt, the University of South Carolina, Richmond College, and Virginia Medical College are absent from the list of teams. Georgia and Vanderbilt have refused to play us this year because they had too many hard games without ours. The University of South Carolina and Richmond College also declined to give Manager Norris a game because they were broken up too badly last year in our games; and for the same reason Virginia Medical College disbanded its team after our game and may not play football again for some years.

The first two games, which will take place here, will both come on Saturdays. As the varsity grounds will be in no condition to be played on the class field will probably be the scene of these games.

Coach Trenchard expresses himself as well satisfied with Manager Norris' schedule. "This season's games and their arrangement makes a better schedule than last year's. We do not have this year two long trips coming together in mid-season like the Georgia and Vanderbilt trips last year." On to Richmond!

Football Men Lost This Year

This year the Carolina football team will lose Fuller, Winston, Bridges, Foust and Huske. It is still doubtful whether Boshamer and Cowell will be back or not. Both of them have secured jobs during the summer which may sossibly prevent their return Huske will be out of school on account of eye trouble.

Virginia this year loses Evans (center), Gooch (quarterback), Gillette (end), Barker (tackle), and Word (hal-back). According to Virginia papers all five of these men, with the exception of Word, have played four years, and are therefore ineligible.

dressing department over the old system, the inconvenience the gym shower room so crowded in the last few years will be remedied. The work on both stand and grounds will probably be finished about the first of October.

952 MEN REGISTERED BEFORE WEDNESDAY NIGHT; 323 ARE FRESHMEN

Former Registration Records Broken; All Rooms Filled; The Most Successful Year Yet Expected

The University commenced Monday, the sixth of September, a year that promises to be its biggest and best, its most brilliant and most helpful. Former registration records have already been broken.

Last year by September the 17th, eight hundred and eighty-five students had registered and that was one hundred more than the year before had boasted of. This year, before six o'clock Wednesday afternoon, there were registered approximately nine hundred and fifty-two men. About three hundred and twenty-three of these are freshmen.

What the number of registrations this year will be it is difficult to predict as yet. Some estimate it at twelve hundred; many think it will not be so high. It should, however, be well over eleven hundred, according to the present prospects. Last year, after the seventeenth of September about one hundred and forty men registered. This year the number should be somewhere around two hundred. This added to the number of men who will register during the next few days and the result added to the nine hundred and fifty-two already here should run the figures up to eleven hundred at least.

Evidences of a University full to the brim and ready for a most successful year may be seen all over the campus, Chapel Hill and the surrounding country. Practically every available room on the campus has been taken for a month or more. Many boys who have not secured their rooms are finding out that even those out in town are occupied. Trunks stand piled up on the street near the post-office until their owners can find rooms in which to put them. The Registrar's office has been crowded since Monday with new and old students.

Everthing points to a bigger and better year than ever before.

UNIVERSITY OPENS TODAY

At Noon Registrations Number Nearly a Thousand

The collegiate year of 1915-16 is now under full steam. The University Station—Carrboro Special as well as the various automobile lines operating between here and Durham have poured in a continual stream of students since Monday morning. As usual, there was assembled a crowd of cab drivers, pressing club agents, and mercantile firms.

The Alumni has been the scene of the most heated action since registration began Monday. There were crowds of students studying the catalogue, lines of students waiting to pay their money and get their Chapel seats, not to omit the members of the faculty who were approving schedules and accepting the proffered coin.

All this went on today with the result that today at noon nine hundred and ninety-eight students had registered.

In order to celebrate fittingly so auspicious an opening, formal exercises were held in Memorial Hall at twelve o'clock. After the singing of the University Hymn, Mr. Moss made the invocation. President Graham next spoke of the changes made in the faculty, and the improvements made in the various University buildings during the summer.

Dean, Stacy, after being presented by President Graham, spoke on the principles of success in college life in his effective manner which is familar to all the old students and readily gained the attention of the Freshmen.

President Graham next spoke about the relation of the college to practical affairs. His address commanded the same rapt attention with which University audiencies always hear Dr. Graham. The exercises were concluded with the singing of "Hark the Sound" and the benediction by Mr. Starr.

Before tonight the number of registrations will probably have left the thousand mark some distance behind.

Immediately after this meeting a reception in honor of the incoming Freshmen will be held in the Library. Each new man as he enters will be asked to write his name on a slip of paper and pin it on his coat. He will then pass through the receiving line, which will consist of the Y. M. C. A. Advisory Committee and their wives, with President Graham and Mrs. Graham at the head of the line. Ice cream and cake will be served by the young ladies of Chapel Hill.

"College Night" should be this year a fitting climax to a most succesful opening.

E. L. Applewhite and J. E. Hoover, who were elected to serve on the Tar Heel Board this year as Associate Editors, will not be back this year. The Athletic Association will meet during Chapel period in Chapel as soon as possible to fill their vacancies.

Emmit Robinson, Bill Ervin, Himan Battle, and Bobo Tanner took a trip to the exposition this summer in an Overland, sold their car for about $500 and came back by rail through Canada.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity has sold its house to the Phi Delta Theta's. The old Phi Delta Theta house is now being used by the Sigma Chi's who have in their turn sold their hall to the Beta Phi's.

It is rumored that there are yet a few Chapel seats left, but the number is hourly decreasing. If you are still cherishing the hope of getting one, see Dr. Wilson. Go early and avoid the rush.

in the South. We should consider ourselves peculiarly fortunate in securing these coaches and feel indebted to them for they come at a considerable financial sacrifice.

In 1912 Coach Duff assisted Coach Cunningham to coach Princeton. This fact insures a certain uniformity of plans and tactics, which will be a great advantage to the team.

The team, as Coach Trenchard says, will always want and need the old Carolina support and will be worthy of the best brand. Coach Trenchard further says that he will appreciate "any suggestions from students, faculty, or alumni and any information about the man who has the athletic ability and yet who doesn't come out ond try, in fact, any information that will increase tne efficiency of the squad."

The interscholastic football championship between the high schools of the eastern and western parts of the state will be held here again this fall.

The triangular debates which will be announced later, promise to surpass those of all other years in both interest and in the number of schools entered.

SCRIMMAGING TO START IN DAY OR SO FATTY COWELL TO BE BACK SOON

McDonald, Georgia Tech. Quarter, Not To Be Here. Fatty Cowell To Be Back Soon.

Since football practice started the number of men, usually about 65, on the football field in the afternoons have done little except throwing, catching, and kicking the ball. The coaches have been getting as many men into condition as they possibly could, considering the number of candidates and the scarcity of football equipment. Next week however, will begin a change. Scrimmage will start about the first of the week, or possibly the last of this week. "Fats" Cowell will be here, if not next week, soon after it. Beginning soon the coaches will carry on their work of reduction, and will finally reduce the varsity squad to fifty players. The other players will, it is hoped report to C. E. Ervin, coach of the class teams. This week the players' measurements and statistics will be taken. The training table, to be at Coach Trenchard's probably, will commence in a short time. Captain Tayloe says that by the end of next week he hopes to have things in full swing.

The interest in football has steadily increased until even this early in the season there have been out for practise in one afternoon as many as seventy-five men. There are more who are anxious to come, but the managers have been unable to scrape together enough material to furnish them all. In order to provide sufficient equipment, the coaches think that they will have to make a small reduction in the number of men. It is hoped that the men thus taken off the squad will begin practise with the class teams where the coaches can still look them over. If they show extra good "stuff" there they will be taken back on the squad. The work of reduction may commence this week. The statistics concerning each member of the squad will be taken. These deal with the player's height, weight, age, etc.

Cowell Back

The line will be greatly strengthened by the addition of "Fatty" Cowell. He has been under a contract to finish some work, which he will be able to complete in a few days. With Cowell, Tandy and Jones together our line will be a regular Rock of Gibraltar. Cowell is probably one of the best guards in the South; Big Jones is in the some boat (said boat ought to be pretty well loaded); and Tandy is said to be more like a German forty-two centimeter shell than anything else. "Fats" Cowell's exact date of arrival is not known but he will come sometime within the next few days.

McDonald Rumor False

It was at first reported that Allen McDonald, for two years Georgia Tech's star quarter, would be here. However the coaches say that is this only a rumor and that there is no foundation to the statement. It is probable that the rumor was started because of the fact that McDonald's brother, who will be here next year, spent a few days here this summer with manager Norris.

Varsity and Class

It is the plan of the coaches to keep fifty men on the squad this year. This will give them the opportunity of having a varsity team and its substitutes as well as a scrub team and its substitutes, In this way the varsity men can get the greatest benefit of our excellent coaching and at the same time a man has a good chance to get on the varsity from the scrubs.

It has not been definitely decided when the class teams will be started, but it is thought that it will be the first of October. C. E. Ervin, an old letter man, has charge of the class coaching this year. Ervin has been unable to get out for the varsity on account of his eyes and his course in medicine. He is a good man and well fitted for his work. It is expected that the space back of the South Building will be straightened up and that Coach Ervin will practise his teams there. They will play their games on the old class field, if it can be so arranged. The prospects for good class teams are exceedingly bright this year. Every fellow in college should go out for them.

Coach Trenchard desires it to be emphasized that he wants all men to report on the varsity field who have kept back because of a lack of stuff to wear just as soon as the reductions are made.

REPRESENTATIVE AT LARGE!

Hunt Begins Friday Morning. Will be Caught, It Is Hoped, Monday

Friday morning during Chapel period nominations will be in order for a representative-at-large on the Student Council. This man may come from any class or school of the University. The election will not take place till Monday at the same time.

Senior Law Class Representative

At a recent meeting of the Senior Law Class, A. H. Wolfe was elected as the representative of the Law School to the Student Council. Oscar Leach was elected representative to the Greater Council. Oscar Leach was president of the Senior Class here, 1914. Wolfe was president of the Senior class of 1910.

HOUSE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Other Men on Magazine Board. Six Issues This Year

The first meeting of the University Magazine staff with its new editor, Mr. Robert House who was elected by the Phi Society last Saturday night, was held in the magazine room of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night at 8:30. Plans were discussed for the work of the Magazine this year. The members of the editorial staff who will have charge of the various departments are as follows:

W. T. Polk, assistant editor; J. A. Capps, editor of Around the Well Department; S. J. Ervin Jr., exchange editor; W. H. Stephenson, editor of the Sketches; F. H. Cooper, poetry editor; and McDaniel Lewis, literary editor.

There will be six issues of the Magazine this year, two appearing before Christmas and four in the spring. The first issue will come out November 1st. All contributors are requested to have their contributions in by October the 12th. It is hoped that the student body will take an active part in making this year's Magazine a real success.

1917 Meets

The Class of 1917 held its first meeting as a Junior class in the Chapel at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Ratty Ransom the Second, was elected manager of the Junior football team. Baity was elected cheer leader. An assessment of 50 cents was declared to meet the Yackety Yack bill of $28 and other class dues and expenses. A suggestion for a class smoker was readily accepted. It will be held in a week or two. The smoker committee consists of Wilson Dalton, Rattle Ransom, Bill Allen, E. L. Mackie, and Sam Ervin.

THE TAR HEEL VACANCIES

Because three of The Tar Heel associate editors elected last spring did not return to college this fall, the burden of putting out the first two issues of the paper has been borne by the five members of the staff remaining faithful. Heretofore it has been customary for the editor-in-chief and the managing editor to fill such vacanies by appointment until the Athletic Association could meet. Last spring when two such vacancies occurred on the staff, the then editor-in-chief and managing editor, in doubt as to their ability to fill the vacancies wisely witout learning something of the ability and interest of the applicants, instituted a contest which lasted two weeks and resulted in the selection of three interested and capable editors.

In consideration of this successful experiment, it seems most advisable to fill the existing vacancies by the identical means used last year. The appointments made as a result of this contest will, of course, have to to be ratified at the next meeting of the Athletic Association.

THE MIDNIGHT HOUR

The matter of schedules, while apparently settled last week at registration, is still with most of us a somewhat of an open question. With hours for lectures decided upon, we still have the larger part of our time to make disposition of ourselves.

However much we may like or dislike to follow any definite system about our lives, we must still acknowledge the efficacy of regularity. It would be foolish for anyone to advocate the systematizing of all the details of our life here, but it is still a fact that the men in college who observe some regularity in their college courses aside from that demanded by the college bell, have accomplished most.

One particular thing, the importance of which some of us are inclined to underrate at night and overestimate in the morning, is sleep, a reference to which subject so frequently treated in verse and prose, should be accompanied by an apology. This hackneyed matter, however, has a certain degree of importance. Otherwise, why do such eminent men as the football players retire early; why was the Plattsburg Camp always asleep last August by ten-thirty; or why do the Kaiser's whiskered bomb-throwers, excluding those in the Zepphelin service, lay aside their implements by ten o'clock? College life is a great experience, and much of it we realize is to be enjoyed after ten-thirty. The great difficulty here, however, is the fact that one is always in poor form to enjoy the delights of the subsequent day.

CONTRIBUTE TO MAGAZINE!

In about one month the University Magazine will go to press. Although at present we have no material from which to print a magazine, a magazine shall go to press at that time even if we have to write it ourselves; for it is the purpose of the editors to get the Magazine out on time.

Now the Magazine offers a tremendous opportunity of expression, and it is by no means the desire of the editors to monopolize this opportunity, or to exploit it for their own desire to appear in print. We do not desire to publish our own material save as it shall win in competition with material coming from sources not editorial. Nor, to our knowledge, have former editors ever so desired. The case is this: Each year the editors are confronted with the task of publishing a magazine, and at the same time there is an appalling dearth of material to choose from. The editors, therefore, are compelled to relinquish their true function of editing material handed to them, for they must create material for their own editing. Thus there arises the condition that the Magazine becomes the organ of a clique, and not an expression of the real literary effort of the University. At times in their efforts to get material the editors get together the frame-work of an idea, hand this frame-work to some man possessed of a vocabulary, and beseech him to decorate it tastefully by the next issue. A magazine developed in this way is in danger of being a fungus growth on, and not a natural development out of, the life that it seeks to interpret.

We conceive that the function of the University Magazine is to stimulate the life of the University and to give expression to this life. It can do so only by crystallizing the entire literary effort of the students. We urge, therefore, that the Magazine be allowed access to whatever literary effort that exists in our life here. Doggie's slogan "The development of as many men as is possible" applies to the pen as well as to the pigskin. We are students in a great University, a place that is keenly alive to the problems of an age that some historian at least will record as great. It is our age at any rate, whether great or not, and in it each one faces the problem of working out his own destiny. Under such stimuli, we know, there is being experienced a vital knowledge of the reality of life that must find utterance, unless indeed we are "scripturally inarticulate" through sheer inertia.

We urge you to face the problems of life here sincerely and alertly. Record the reaction of your own nature to these problems, and let us have them. Your work may assume the form of a story, a poem, an essay; write it out and let us have it. You may think that it is not good enough, and it may not be, but if you keep working out this principle of the sincere expression of a sincere life, and make a practice of recording it, the effort will do you good; incidentally it may make a magazine. Keep at it;—contribute!

STUDENTS WORK WAY

170 Already Applied to U. N. C. Officials for Work

Every year a large number of students find means of paying a part, if not all, of their college expenses. New men soon realize this when they step from the car at the post office and confront the hosts of agents and boarding house managers. These agents and boarding house managers are usually upper classmen who have secured their positions by their own efforts.

But there are many new men who come to the Hill expecting help and who must have it to remain here. The self-help committee has taken charge of this class ,and by systematic work has made it possible for a maximum number of the most needy to earn some of their school expenses.

This year over one hundred and seventy-five men applied for various jobs. Forty of these were placed in Swain Hall immediately and several have been added later. These men earn their board by waiting on the tables, washing dishes and other kitchen work. In addition there is posted a waiting list of those whose cases were not quite as urgent as those of the chosen, but who are held in readiness to take any vacancy. The committee has adopted a new plan which is helpful to both the applicant and the interests of the dining hall. Any student who can fill a table with ten of his friends secures a position as waiter of that table regardless of the next in order on the waiting list.

There are numerous other methods to which students resort such as working gardens, cutting grass, piling wood, attending to the several church houses and building fires for some private home. Besides this there are several employed at stenographic work in the office.

The sale of pennants, athletic goods, clothing, and such furnishings are still deemed profitable by many students. And there are a thousand other ways of earning money in spite of the fact that Chapel Hill is a small town and the opportunities which are so often found in large towns or cities are not to be found here.

The contest for the selection of three associate editors of The Tar Heel will begin this week; only freshmen are ineligible for the contest. All those interested are requested to meet in The Tar Heel Room of the Y. M. C. A. Friday night at nine o'clock.

GYM AND POOL CROWDED

Average Physique of Freshman Class Smallest Yet

The regular classes which were supposed to have started last Monday nave been postponed on account of the number of new men yet to take the physical examination.

At present the gym is almost full for the two sections meeting three times a week. It is probable that all men from 160 to 180 pounds in weight, and who are in perfect health will be excused from the exercises.

It is interesting to note that the average physique of the Freshman class is much smaller than that of any preceding class, while the age average is about the same, 18 1-2 years.

There have been no exceptional records in this registration. The best record is held by G. O. Hodgin with a lung capacity of 480.

New improvements consisting of a more flexible springing board, reenameled baths and pool, and a more easily regulated and effective pressure are noticeable.

The swimming pool has been over-crowded during the past week of hot weather and will probably continue so for quite a while.

Dr. Kirkland Here

Dr. J. H. Kirkland, who for many years has been the Chancellor of Vanderbilt University, has consented to make the address here University Day, which comes on October 12. For some time before going to Vanderbilt Dr. Kirkland was a tutor of Greek and Latin in Wofford College. We feel very fortunate in securing such a notable speaker for this occasion, for, besides being an eminent scholar, Dr. Kirkland is also a renowned lecturer.

Japanese Student in the University

This summer Mr. K. Kato was employed as steward of Mr. Isaac W. Emerson's private yacht "Margaret." He reports that they spent most of the time at New York City with the exception of a few short cruises. Mr. Kato is pursuing studies leading to an A. B. Degree. Mr. Emerson is the gentleman who donated the University its new stadium.

N. C. CLUB MONDAY NIGHT

Membership of Club May Be Limited to Fifty

The North Carolina Club will hold its first meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Monday night, Sept 20, at 7:30 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting will be to start the organization of county clubs and plan work for the present year. Both the organization and the work of the club will be somewhat new this year. There were last year about fifty men who got into the spirit of the work and took a more or less active part in the investigation and studies. These are the men who will take an active part in beginning anew the organization next week.

It has been proposed to limit the membership of the club to fifty; thus doing the work more thoroughly and at the same time more efficiently.

Last year 117 economic and social subjects of importance in North Carolina were worked out in the N. C. Club headquarters, seventeen of which appeared in the University News Letter and were reproduced by the papers throughout the State—some of them in other states.

This year the club proposes to do an even more extensive work. Already some of its members are at work on such subjects as pauperism, blindness, homicides, suicides, and similar subjects connected with North Carolina life. The results will not only give the distribution of these social maladies in the State, but will give the rank of N. C. with the other states in the Union.

Alt students interested in investigations and studies of their mother State and home counties are urged to come out Monday night.

IN THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Thirty Already Registered. Many More Expected. Six Working for Ph. D.

The graduate School this year bids fair to outdo that of last year, 30 being already registered and many more expected in the next few days and after Christmas. The registration for the whole year in 1912-13 was 26, in 1913-14, 42, and last year, 1914-15 the number reached 50.

The Graduate students in the summer session reached a total of 53 of which 48 were working toward an M. A. This was an important growth as there were only 23 in the summer of '14.

Six of the men registered so far are working toward a Ph. D. Degree, the rest are working towards M. S. or M. A. Those trying for their Ph. D. are: C. B. Carter, V. A. Coulter, W. C. George, J. B. Huff, W. W. Rankin, and H. R. Totten.

N. C. Men at Convention

This summer the University was very ably represented by Dr. Herty and Dr. Wheeler at a meeting of the American Chemical Society at Seattle, Washington. Dr. Herty is now in New York attending another meeting of the chemists.

Habit is the strongest factor in human life. We see this fact demonstrated by the return of many graduates and post-graduates whom we did not expect to see again. Most of them are here just for a short time but some will remain longer. Among those present are:

THE FACULTY TAKES HOLIDAY

Where the Faculty Spend the Summer

President Graham was in the North for a few weeks.

Dr. Dey taught in the summer school and spent the remainder of the summer at Willoughby Beach, Va.

Dr. Branson spent some time in Boston in the latter part of the summer.

Dr. H. V. Wilson spent most of the summer at Beaufort, N. C. in the Biological Laboratories.

Drs. T. J. Wilson, Cobb, Bullitt, Wagstaff, Toy, Daggett, H. H. Williams, Stacy, Manning, and Walker spent the summer on the Hill.

Dr. Wheeler was at Seattle for the meeting of the American Chemical Society.

After summer school Dr. Hamilton went to his home in Hillsboro.

Dr. Herty spent most of the summer in Maine. From there he went to Seattle to attend the meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Mangum spent the summer doing research work in the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Venable spent three weeks at Nags Head.

Dr. Greenlaw spent the summer at Long Island.

Dr. Raper taught in Knoxville, Tenn. for six weeks and then went to Paterson, N. F.

What The Y. M. C. A. Did

With a membership of 235 to date the Y. M. C. A. promises to exceed previous years in serving the student body and those under its influence. The Y. M. C. A. played an important part during the week of registration by aiding new students in every possible manner. First of all representatives were sent to meet all the trains and welcome and assist the new men to the Hill. During registration days writing paper and ink were furnished for the new students to write home. The bureau of information, which was established for the further assistance of the first year men, was used to advantage by a great number of them. One of the most important works of the bureau was the room list, which aided all Freshmen and old men applying to find a room. This list is still available to room seekers.

College night, held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. proved a big success. The crowd gathered in Gerrard Hall about 8 o'clock last Thursday to hear various phases of college activities presented by different student leaders.

Meb Long's famous string band made a decided hit with the delightful music furnished from time to time during the meeting.

After physically exhausting the band by countless encores, the meeting adjourned to the library building a few minutes later where a unique reception for the new men followed. True to the appealing announcement—refreshments and young ladies were present.

An organ recital was given here last Friday evening at eight o'clock by Mrs. A. S. Wheeler in the Methodist Church. Mrs. Wheeler used the new pipe organ recently purchased by the Methodist Church and her recital consisting of hymns and music from the great operas and the old masters, was enjoyed and appreciated by all present.

NUMBER REGISTRATIONS 1087

1087, Including 5 Co-eds, Had Registered by Wednesday Night

After climbing steadily for nine days the registration list in the bursar's office has pulled up to 1087. The 1000th registration card is held by R. W. Sparger of the Junior Class. Of the 1087 students now registered five are co-eds. One of these is a Senior, three are specials, and one is a first year med.

Dr. O. E. Brown of Vanderbuilt University to Be Here.

Dr. O. E. Brown, professor of comparative religions in the Vanderbilt University, will arrive in Chapel Hill Friday afternoon and will make an address to University in Gerrard Hall Friyad night at 8:15 o'clock. The subject of Dr. Brown's address will be, "The Principles That Should Guide a Man in College Life."

On Saturday night at 7 o'clock, Dr. Brown will speak on "Living up With Christian Forces." This meeting is at 7 o'clock to accomodate the literary societies who have willingly postponed their meetings from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

On Sunday night at 8 o'clock, Dr. Brown will deliver the annual Bible Study Rally address. Bible study groups were numerous on the Hill last year and from all indications will have a larger attendance this year. It is very fortunate that Dr. Brown will be here to start these old groups and probably several new ones off

Dr. Brown is the most popular speaker of the Blue Ridge conference---appealing especially in a charming and sympathetic way to young men. No one who can possibly attend should miss these important meetings. Similar meetings will be held once a week throughout the college year. Old men and new men should plan to make these meetings a pleasant part of their college routine.

Hillsboro Chautauqua

A large Chautauqua will be held in Hillsboro sometime within the next ten days. This will benefit not only Hillsboro but the whole county. The matter has been guaranteed by ten of the leading citizens of Hillsboro and consequently is an assured fact. One day will be called "Community Service Day;" this should appeal to the University forces concerned in Community Service work. The probable date of the Chautauqua is Sept. 24, 25, 26, and 27.

Kaiser's Friend Coming

We have been very fortunate in getting Mr. Poultney Bigelow to lecture here sometime in the last week of this mouth. Mr. Bigelow is an intimate friend of the Kaiser and has recently returned from abroad where he saw the Emperor.

Professor Tom P. Cross who was formerly connected with this insiitution and is now Professor of Celtic Literature at the University of Chicago has published a paper in the March issue of the Journal of Philology entitled, "The Celtic Elements in the Lays of Lanval and Graelent." Friends will be interested to know that the new volume published by the North Carolina Folk Lore Society will contain an article on "Witchcraft in North Carolina," from his pen.

Y. M. C. A. STUDENT CONFERENCE

To Be at Guilford College, Distinguished Student Workers There

The student conference of the North Carolina Young Men's Christian Associations will be held at Guilford College, September 23-26. It will be held under the Interstate Executive committee of the Carolina Y. M. C. A's. The first session will be held at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, September 23.

There will probably be eight delegates from the University--Tom Boushall, Bob Wunch, Barney Pitts, E. L. Mackie, Peter Lynch, Merrill Parker, Irvin Parker and Hermas Stevenson.

The purposes of the Conference are:

1. To discuss the principles and methods of the various activities of the Student Association in the light of the experience of the delegates present, and under the guidance of expert leaders.

2. To train leaders for Bible and Mission Study Classes.

3. To unify the Christian spirit of the students of the State.

4. To give inspiration for the undertaking of larger tasks.

Among those who have agreed to be present are: Dr. W. D. Weatherford, Student Secretary of the International Committee for the South; Mr. R. W. Barnett General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Hang Chow, China; Mr. C. G. Hounshell, Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement; and Mr. T. C. Boushall, General Secretary of the University Association.

Henry Foust, O. C. Nance and Harry Grimsley were visitors on the Hill the early part of this week.

Bob Reynolds has written a scenario and put on the screen a five reel drama entitled, "Captain Bob of the National Guard." It is a romance in which our old friend Bob is the dashing hero. Prominent figures in this photoplay are General Leonard Wood of the U. S. Army and the Honorable Josephus Daniels of the Navy. An effort is on foot to bring this live photoplay to the Pickwick, the reel home of good pictures in Chapel Hill.

SQUAD STARTS TO WORK IN EARNEST

Training Table and Tri-Weekly Meetings

50 Men Left on Squad; Everything Points to Brilliant Opening Oct. 2

With the first game only a week from Saturday the Varsity football team is rapidly "getting right." Snappy scrimmaging has commenced. Coach Trenchard has started a training table at his house with fifty-six players eating there, the squad has been reduced to fifty men and two night meetings a week are held to discuss football rules and tactics. A slight but interesting change has been made in the rules this year.

On Saturday a week, the first game of the season will be played here on the Hill with Citadel of South Carolina. The Tar Heel team is rapidly getting into shape and things are moving with a rush. Last week several cuts were made in the squad, which had grown too large. From eighty-five men who reported for practice, fifty men have been chosen and kept on the squad. Those men who are dropped will report to Coach Ervin on the new class field back of the South building and try out for the class teams.

Judging from the work done in the large squad on the Varsity field by the men who were dropped, the class teams will be strong and the championship will be hotly contested.

Regular meetings are being held at night thrice a week by the Varsity squad, and a thorough study of the rule book is being made. Coach Trenchard suggests that anyone who knows football and who would be willing to officiate this fall at the High School contests throughout this section of the state, should come to these meetings and thoroughly familiarize himself with the rules.

The scrimmages are on and the new men are showing up well. With a powerful line, that charges low and hard, and a strong, fast, well balanced back field, Carolina has a team that will make a record. With a man like Duff to handle the line, Cunningham the backs and Trenchard the ends, much may be expected.

The training table was started Sunday at "Doggie" Trenchard's and the following men were selected by the coaches for the table:

Black, Blackmer, Blades, Hines, Tayloe, Blount, Reid, Long, Jones, Gay, Tandy, Grimes, Jones, Cratch, Love, Homewood, Royster, Tennent, Ramsay, Tayloe, Metz, Townsend, Wright, Parker, Allen, Craig, Hogan, Crawford, Pearson, Denning, Watkins, Johnson, Fore, Bellamy,

DR. KIRKLAND HERE OCT. 12

To Make Principal Speech University Day

Dr. J. H. Kirkland, Chancellor of Vanderbilt University, will deliver the principal address here on University Day, October 12. So far as is known at present, the program of exercises on Oct. 12 will be similar to last year's program. University Day is always an interesting event. It is the first holiday during the year. It is the first time after the opening exercises of the new college year that the whole University community comes together. The exercises are always inspiring and helpful. On this day hundreds of the alumni come back to the Hill to renew their acquaintance with fond memories of the past.

Dr. Kirkland is a native of Spartanburg, S. C. He received his A. B. degree from Wofford College in 1877, and his A. M. in 1878; he received the Ph. D. degree from the University of Leipsig in 1885; the University of North Carolina has conferred on him the degree of LL. D.; Missouri University and Wesleyan have both done likewise; the D. C. L. degree was conferred on Dr. Kirkland by the University of the South in 1902. Dr. Kirkland was professor of Greek and German, Wofford College, 1881-83; he traveled and studied abroad, 1883-86; was professor of Latin at Vanderbilt, 1886-93, and has been Chancellor of Vanderbilt since 1893.

From all these evidencies of intellectual ability, it would be putting it mildly to say that Dr. Kirkland will deliver an interesting and instructive address.

HEALTH IMPROVES 50 P'CT

No Lydia Pinkham Vegetable Compound Ad, but Plain Infirmary Note

It is interesting and pleasant news that comes from the Infirmary at this time, saying that so far there have been but eleven men examined by the physicians in charge whom it has been necessary to consign to wards. Whereas, for the exactly corresponding time last year, twenty-one men were placed in wards. This shows that the health condition of the students for the two first weeks of college this year has been about fifty per cent better than last year.

The voting in the Chapel Monday morning for the election of a representative-at-large resulted in the election of Lee H. Edwards.

'TO ADVERTISE OUR STATE'

Is Purpose of N. C. Club; 60 At First Meeting

More than sixty men came to the first meeting of the North Carolina Club on Monday night, at the Y. M. C. A. No officers were elected but at the suggestion of President Graham a committee was appointed to make nominations and report them at the meeting next Monday night. The club will hereafter meet in the Y. M. C. A. every other Monday night.

Sixty men is a rattling good start and the club promises to be one of the best ever. Prof. Branson stated the purpose of the club—to advertise North Carolina—and gave the club a good send-off by making a number of invaluable suggestions as to how it should be conducted and for what it should stand. Besides this Prof. Branson offered a number of very fine topics which can be worked up by various members of the club. These topics cover very well many of the economic problems with which the State has to deal, such as mineral and timber resources, water power and manufactures, soils and seasons. It is Prof. Branson's idea to have these topics subdivided in such a way that each member of the club will have a good subject to work upon, which will not only be of value to the University students and members of the club, but will be of interest to counties, State and country at large. By this means the club aims to further in North Carolina for home seekers, and those interested in present economic problems.

Growing from a mere handful of members, the club now has over sixty members, each interested in making the club a success. In less than a year, it has worked out many problems which have received publication in a great many of the State publications and newspapers, and which have rendered valuable help to those interested in the economic problems confronting North Carolina.

DR. BROWN GIVES TALKS

Lectcres on Ideals, Accomplishment, and Bible Study

Dr. O. E. Brown, Professor of Religions at Vanderbilt University, invited by the Y. M. C. to lecture here, spoke to the students in Chapel Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights. Friday night he spoke on "The Principles That Should Guide a Man in College Life;" Saturday night on "Living Up With Christian Forces;" Saturday night he stressed the value of Bible study.

Dr. Brown's first speech was one dealing with ideals and principles. The substance of his talk was in part this:

A college career is no episode in a man's life, but the place where he first has free will and therefore where he begins first to build principles to stay with him through life. He should stick to his ideals and follow the "vision spleudid;" he should think out things for himself and act true to his conscience; he should always be a helpful factor in his community; should prepare himself for service to society and should line up with God.

On the second night Dr. Brown gave some "don'ts." To sum up, he said, Don't be a snob, dod't be a bookworm, a miser of your knowledge and faculties, but line up with the active Christian forces in the world, and accomplish.

In the final address of his series, Dr. Brown presented to a good audience in a masterly manner the value of Bible study. The address was opened with the thought that the Bible is the greatest strengthening agency that man has, and that it has been the greatest force in the building of the greatest nations, men and civilization that the world has ever knowu.

PICK QUAKES--2 NEW MOVIE MANSIONS

Bruce Stroud Builds Fine New Picture Show Brockwell Doing Likewise

PICTURE IT TO YOURSELF

More Pictures, Better Pictures, Five-Cent Pictures

Two new film-flickering tabernacles, canned-drama palaces, emporiums for kinodrome exhibitions, will soon be flip-flapping away right merrily in Chapel Hill, in addition to old Pickwick. Picture it to yourself. Impossible? Well, its so.

From Arabian Nights rumors and Baron Munchansen speculations the following facts have been painstakingly gleaned:

Within 60 days Messrs. Stroud and Robinson will put in operation a new movie show costing $5,000, and having a seating capacity of 480. It will be located back of the B. B. Auto Station where ground is already being broken up in preparation of its erection. It will be 50 by 100 feet; the Orange Lumber Company has the contract. On the ground floor will be the picture show and a garage; the upper story will have rooms for rent fitted out with running water and the latest conveniences.

The erection of this new picture show will naturally hit Mr. S. J. Brockwell, owner of the Pickwick, a hard blow. But he will rather burst the proverbial gallows than be outdone and is reported as saying that he will spend more than any five thousand rather than be run out of business. Therefore he is going to build another picture house himself. It will be exactly to the west of the B. B. Auto Station, will have an auditorium 24 by 130 feet and will seat 600. It will be a 5 cent show, and will commence to dispense joy among the student body about the time of the Christmas holidays. The picture show will not fill the whole building. In a few words, Mr. Brockwell expects to have a combination movie, cafe, cigar-stand, garage, dormitory, etc. running in full blast next door to his competitor's theatre.

Pickwick will continue to run as usual. Should these pictorial phantasies be realized an exceptional opportunity will be presented to students for the cultivation of an appreciation of the higher forms of amusment and the development of the aesthetic sense generally. And what though our culture may be called nickel-plated? We shall have had a feast of films.

THE ATHLETIC FIELD

An individual receiving a gift an express gratitude audibly; ac half dozen can, or a score. But when the gift is to thousands, it becomes impossible for each recipient to file past the doner with words of appreciation. The gratitude of many, while it cannot be spoken individually, can be expressed collectively.

As the Emerson Athletic Field progresses, as the grandstands, which we have pictured to ourselves, rise step on step and the field itself is being prepared, we extend to Dr. Emerson anew our gratitude for his interest in the University, his generosity, and the peculiar suitableness of his gift.

THE TENNIS ASSOCIATION

As is known to all the old students, the tennis courts are ruled over by the benevolent organization called the tennis association, admission to which may be had for the asking and a dollar. In fact, anyone desiring to play tennis is required to be a member of this association, and it is said that after the 1st of October anyone unwilling to pay the required dollar, will be asked to retire from the courts. The reason is simple. Neither the University nor the Athletic Association maintains the courts. The cost of laying them off, putting up posts and repairing backstops must, therefore, be bourne by those who play the game. Thus those interested in tennis long since organized, for their mutual benefit, an association, which has come down to our present day. The association extends to everyone interested in tennis a cordial invitation to join.

STILL ACTIVE

It is pleasing to see that after all the favorable and unfavorable comment to which the literary societies have recently been subjected, they are still in active operation, undismayed at being accused of senile decay and unelated because they were subsequently warmly flattered.

It is pleasing to see that they still live, because they are still serviceable. They have lost the administrative power that they formerly exercised in the college, but they are still self-sufficient as literary societies. Beeause they have lost their governing power they probably approach more nearly what their names signify, literary societies. It can hardly be considered the function of such societies to direct student government, and now that some of the power which they formerly claimed but which was theirs only by assumption, has been taken over by other bodies especially organized to exercise it, who should worry? As literary societies they are still adequate.

They still cultivate debate and oratory; they still publish The University Magazine; and jointly with the fraternities publish The Yackety Yack; they still offer valuable practice in parliamentary procedure and opportunity for making friendships. While they are as liable to error as other student institutions, and while they are not the toll gates to the turnpike of success, they are wholesome institutions whose undefinable influence is entirely for the good.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS

Hubbel, Representative of N. C. at Oxford, on Hill

The Rhodes Scholarship examinations will be held in Raleigh the fifth and sixth of October. Mr. Paul E. Hubbel, formerly a student at Wake Forest College, at present represents North Carolina at Oxford. Mr. Hubbel was on the Hill Wednesday. His foreign address is Jesus College, Oxford, England. He will be glad to answer personally any inquiries that a prospective candidate may wish to make. Additional information may be obtained from President Graham.

Candidates must be between 19 and 25, unmarried, and must have completed at least their second year at college. To qualify for the appointment the candidate must pass the Oxford entrance examination. The examination is not competative but merely qualifying, quite elementary and not difficult. It includes arithmetic (either the elements of algebra or geometry), Latin and Greek. Having passed the qualifying examinations the candidates present themselves before the Committee of Selection of their state, which makes the appointment on the basis of a man's previous scholarship record, his character, his qualities of leadership, and his fondness for and skill in outdoor sports. Mr. Rhodes' ideal was neither the "grind" nor the "sport", but the all-round-man.

These scholarships started in 1889 by Mr. Cecil Rhodes and embracing America, Germany and the various British possessions, are tenable for three years. They are of a value of $1,500 annually, a sum sufficient to meet the expenses of a college student at Oxford, including vacation traveling.

It is hoped that the young men of our high schools, colleges, and Universities will realize that the Rhodes Scholarship is a goal worth striving for, and that more will put forth the effort required to gain it.

Monroe Business Manager Glee Club

The Glee Club met Tuesday night and elected William Monroe business manager for the coming year. A committee which was appointed to look into the matter of getting a singing leader will report at another meeting of the Club Monday night.

At a meeting of the Student Council last Monday night Oscar Leach was elected a member of the council. It is customary for the representatives to choose a man who has had previous experience in student government.

On their way to Harvard to take up advanced work, W. T. Joiner, L. N. Morgan, Raymond Taylor, and Dossey Pruden--all alumni of the University--recently spent a few days on the Hill. Joiner and Pruden will take up Law at Harvard; Morgan and Taylor, English.

K. D. Battle, Frank Winslow, C. W. Tillet, Jr., Frank Graham —all of the class of '09, arrived in Chapel Hill Tuesday and spent a day or two with President Graham.

Mr. Leon Applewhite who was a member of the Tar Heel Board last year, is now on the reporting staff of the Greensboro Daily News.

Mr. R. M. Homewood is in charge of the drawing store-room this year. The store-room has been moved from the basement of the Alumni to the Y. M. C. A.

A new engine of 115 horse power has been installed in the University Power Plant to take the place of an old one which has been out of commission.

Camera Club Meets in Chapel Friday 2:15. A Feeless Club!!

On Friday afternoon of this week at 2:15 in Gerrard Hall Mac Lewis who is Chairman of the Committee on Photographs for the Yackety Yack will meet all the men in the University who are interested in taking pictures. He will offer prizes to the men who get the greatest number of pictures in this year's Annual; and he will also instruct you what kind of pictures will be wanted. This organization of the Camera Club has three purposes. First, To secure more and better pictures for the Yackety Yack, thereby making our Annual of personal interest to a larger number of students. Second, To secure a collection of this collegiate year's snapshots for the Library Album. And Third, To promote the interests of first class photography on the campus.

Be on time and get enrolled in the Camera Club for this year. There are no fees, and if you prove competent you will be furnished films free to take pictures for the Yackety Yack.

Baseball Prospects.

The Varsity baseball men who have returned to the Hill this year are:

Hubert Baily, Mac Lewis, Marshall Williams, Fred Patterson, Currie, Hart and Hardison.

Among the old men who showed up well last year and who should show up still better this year are:

Kinlaw, Sheek, Bill Allen, Red Allen, Coleman and Jeanette.

Meb Long to Lead Fall German.

The German Club met last Saturday at 2:15 in the Alumni Building. A number of men were put up for membership and passed. Rusty Davis, Meb Long and Zeke Cowan were nominated for the position of leader of the German Club's fall dance. Meb Long was elected. Next, two assistant leaders had to be chosen. Bill Monroe, Fab Shipp, Rusty Davis and Zeke Cowan were nominated. Davis and Cowan were elected.

Messrs. J. H. Allred and G. W. Smith are instructors in solid geometry this year in place of Mr. W. S. Wicker, who graduated last year. Mr. Smith won the William Cain prize in mathematics last year. It is given to the one making the highest grade on math. 11-12, which is calculus and analytic mechanics.

Virginia's Line-up.

The University of Virginia began football practice with the following line-up:

White and Flannagan, ends; Ward and Stillwell, tackles; the two Coleman brothers, guards; G. Anderson, center; Berkeley, quarter-back; Mayer and Ed Anderson, half-backs; and Pace, full-back. Thurmon, who played prep school ball at the Episcopal High School and at Mercersburg, will probably do Virginia's kicking this year. He weighs 185 pounds and is said to be an excellent punter. His punts averaged 65 yards the first evening out. Dave Wilson, who played end on Virginia three years ago, is back but will be ineligible, because he was at Woodberry Forest last year in the capacity of tutor and coach. McKay of Sumpter, S. C., who played a brilliant game against the Tar Heels last year for Davidson, will probably play for Virginia this season.

Currie Manager '18 Football Team.

The class of '18 met in Gerrard Hall Wednesday at 2:10 for the first meeting of their Sophomore year. W. H. Currie was elected football manager, and Charles Davis was elected track manager. Definite arrangements were made for a class "smoker" to be held at an early date. The class assessment was placed at 50 cents for the fall term. With a yell for '18 the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Lindo Brigman, of Rockingham, N. C., a member of the class of 1905, has recently been appointed Post Office Inspector, with headquarters in Philadelphia. This is a coveted position, for besides the honor it brings, the place pays a liberal salary. Mr. Brigman attended the Summer Law School here this year, and if he had not received the appointment as Inspector, he intended to stand the Supreme Court examination, and begin the practice of law.

The Juniors opened up class football practice Tuesday in the new class athletic field back of the South Building. Only eight or nine reported, but all the squad will be out this week with the intention of winning the class championship which they so narrowly missed last year.

W. C. Crosby will speak before the community club Friday, September 24th, at 4 p. m. on the subject of moonlight schools and illiteracy. He will speak at the Peabody Building.

FRANK GRAHAM

Made Y. M. C. A. Address Tuesday—"The Battle-ground of Character"

Mr. Frank Graham in opening the Y. M. C. A. meetings for the year, spoke in the Y. M. C. A. to a crowded auditorium Tuesday night. His subject was "The Battle-ground of Character." He brought out very forcibly the ruinous effects of drinking, gambling, dishonesty, immoral living and shirking of duty upon health a id character.

The Y. M. C. A. meetings this year will be held on Tuesday nights as usual. A member of the faculty or an experienced Y. M. C. A. worker will address each meeting.

Those interested in the track team will be glad to hear W. A. H. Gantt of Virginia track fame registered as the 1,099 student. Patterson is quoted as saying that he expects Gantt to make a good man.

U.N.C. TENNIS REGULATIONS

Association Elects Officers Reduces Fee to $1.00

At a recent meeting of the Tennis Association the following officers were elected: William Proctor, President; William Steele, Secretary; Raby Tennant, Treasurer.

The membership fee for the coming year was fixed at one dollar. The first of October was fixed as the final day for the payment of this fee; after that time, no one who has failed to pay the fee will be allowed to use the courts.

It is a rule of the Association that a court may not be reserved for the four o'clock period earlier than twelve-thirty. Any member desiring to reserve a court should place on one of the posts a sign such as follows: Reserved for 4 o'clock by .....Date..... Any notice, if put up before twelve-thirty, is subject to removal by any other member of the Association desiring to use the court.

The first man reaching a court after the dinner hour has the right to use that court until four o'clock. A member desiring to use a court during the period beginning at two o'clock may hold a court until two-thirty by putting a net across it, not earlier than two o'clock.

The rumor that the Tennis Association will be combined with the Athletic Association this fall is a mistake. They still remain separate organizations, and any one intending to play tennis is requested to join the latter.

N. C. DEBATING UNION GROWS

Frank Jarrell Carries the Scheme Into Teennessee

The high school debating union of the University is rapidly widening the scope of its influence. During its three years of existence the Union has met with wonderful success. In 1913, 90 schools participated in the debate; in 1914, 150 schools; and in 1915, 250 schools. The indrcations are that the contest this year will be the largest and most successful of all. But that is not all—the influence of the Union has gone beyond the bounds of the State. Recently there was a movement to establish this same system in Tennessee. A student from the University of North Carolina, J. Frank Jarrell, class of 1916, was behind this movement. Jarrell has recently been appointed by the Tennessee Superintendent of Public Instruction to work out a similar plan for the high schools of Tennessee. Jarrell is principal of the high school at Normandy, Tenn. Last year, while a student at the University, he served on a committee appointed by the Dialectic Literary Society to assist the standing committee in working out details for the debate. Thoroughly imbued with the igreat possibilities offered to such a debating union, he took the matter up with the state superintendent of public instruction soon after his arrival in Tennessee. That official became interested in the proposition and appointed Jarrell chairman of a committee to work out the details for such an organization in Tennessee. This committee has gotten in touch with the North Carolina Union and has requested the latter to assist them in working out plans for a high school debating union in Tennessee. The Tennessee system will probably be a little more complicated than the North Carolina system.

When is a cigarette Sensible?

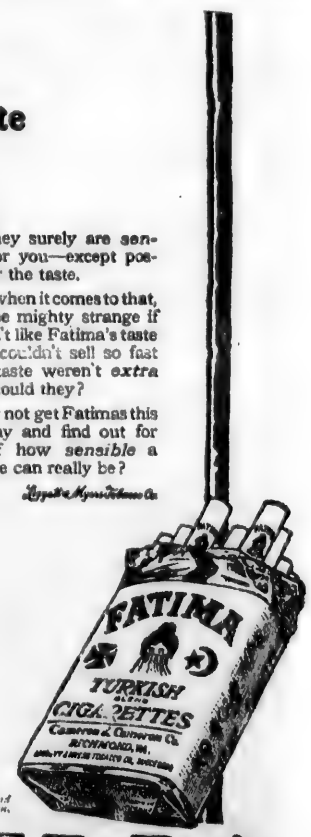
A cigarette is not sensible for you if it leaves your taste and your smoke-hunger a little bit unsatisfied.

—nor if it bothers your throat or tongue

—nor if it makes you feel "mean" after smoking your usual number.

None of these things will happen to you if you find (and stick to) the right cigarette.

But the cigarette that is right for one man may not be right for another. For instance, Fatimas may not just suit your taste—in spite of the fact that they are the best-selling cigarette costing over 5c.



Fatimas ARE cool and friendly to the throat and tongue—and they will NOT make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

So they surely are sensible for you—except possibly for the taste.

And when it comes to that, it will be mighty strange if you don't like Fatima's taste—they couldn't sell so fast if the taste weren't extra good, could they?

Why not get Fatimas this very day and find out for yourself how sensible a cigarette can really be?

Scrimmage Lineup

There was a twenty minute scrimmage on the football field Wednesday afternoon. Cratch, Gay, Tandy, Ramsay and Metz were out of the game, suffering from injuries.

The lineup was as follows:

Center, Jones, J., and Crawford.

Guards, Grimes, Harrell, Tayloe. J., Jones, F.

Tackles, Royall, Hogan, Proctor, Tennent.

Ends, Homewood, Hudgin, Williams, Fitzsimmons, Wright, Love, Watkins, Pike, B Hamy.

Quarter, Allen, Long, Johnson, Blackmer.

Concluded from first page

Royall, Proctor, Newell, Harrell, Williams, Dortch, Tanner, Scales, Ambler, Davis, Jeannette, Harris, Andrews, Pike, Craig, Currie, Ingram, Calvard, Monroe, Clarvoe, Fitzsimmons, and Craig.

A change has been made in the rules this year, time being taken out, except when ball is actually in play. This means that there will be 60 minutes of actual play and on this account stricter training rules must be observed. All men are under pledge.

The coaches will add men or take men from the training table at any time.

Bill Tillett, captain of the 1913 team has been assisting the coaches during the past week.

STUDENTS' DREAM TO BE REALIZED

Electric Car Line Thru Chapel Hill

MAY BE FINISHED IN 15 MONTHS

Work Starts Soon

The bond issue for the Alamance, Durham, and Orange Electric Car Line was held on Saturday, September 25, and carried by a large majority both here and in Carrboro. Chapel Hill will be one of the main stations on the road, thereby insuring cheap and quick trips to Durham. The road will probably connect with the Burlington and Graham line.

The work will commence, the promoters hope, in a few months. The only thing now delaying the construction is the Durham bond issue which will be held soon. Durham township has the controlling vote, but it is not doubted that this will be favorable.

Mr. Junius H. Harden, of Burlington, president of the line operating between Burlington and Graham, is pushing the plans as rapidly as possible. He will be on the Hill within a few days and a detailed account of the road will then be obtained from him.

In Chapel Hill township the votes were 158 to 9 in favor of the issue. In another township it was carried by only one vote.

It is rumored that the road will be in operation in fifteen months. Although the contracting company has been given five years, there is no reason to suppose it will take near that long.

UNIVERSITY DAY APPROACHES

"Patriotism—a New Interpretation" Theme Dr. Kirkland's Talk

Hundreds of alumni, visitors, students, and townspeople are expected to be present when the University celebrates its 121st anniversary, October 12. The regular form of exercises will be followed out. The academic procession will form at 10:30, and headed by the faculty and special visitors to the Hill will proceed to Memorial Hall where the regular University Day exercises will be held.

The principal speaker of the day will be Dr. J. H. Kirkland, Chancellor of Vanderbilt University. Dr. Kirkland, an eminent speaker and writer, some of whose attainments were noted in the last issue of the Tar Heel, is one of the most prominent college promoters in the country. The subject of his address will be "Patriotism—a New Interpretation."

The High School football rules will be ready soon.

DAY OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP

Rally Day Oct 29; Auto Parade; Lunch; Better Baby Contest

The citizens of the town assembled in a sort of mass meeting last Monday night and decided to hold the Rally Day exercises for this year on Friday, October 29. Mayor Robinson was made chairman of the meeting and Mr. James Patterson secretary. Prof. Noble stated the object of the meeting and of Rally Day, which, briefly, is to bring about closer relations between the people living in the rural districts and those living in town. It is to be a day of good-fellowship, and will be mutually advantageous to town and country. All the entertainments and exercises of the day will be free, and all that the people from the country are expected to do is to bring along a basket of Orange County products ready to be eaten. Prizes will be offered for the best exhibitions of various farm products. The dinner for the public will be spread on a long table out in the open, provided the weather permits; otherwise, it will be in old Commons Hall. It will be a dinner like they used to have "in the good old days," where every one felt at home and acted the part. A general committee was elected which is to have charge of making the arrangements for the "Big Day." This committee is composed of Prof. Noble, Mr. James Patterson, Mesdames M. H. Stacy, W. D. Toy, and E. K. Graham.

The Better Baby Contest is going to be one of the most interesting features of Rally Day. There will be an automobile parade through the streets of Chapel Hill, and out to Carrboro and back. The public schools of the county are going to be asked to form a line and march through Chapel Hill.

U. N. C, AT GUILFORD CONFERENCE

Our Delegates Report A Fine, Enthusiastic Meeting

The Carolina representatives who attended the Y. M. C. A. convention held at Guilford, September 23-26, report a most successful trip. The meetings were kept alive with speeches by prominent Y. M. C. A. workers and open-to-all discussions. Among the speakers present was Mr. Eugene E. Barnett, Carolina's representative in the foreign field, who made an interesting talk on missionary life in Hangchow, China. Mr. Barnett came to America with his family in June and intends to return to China next January. He will visit the University during the latter part of October.

Davidson had the largest representation at the conference, sending 27 delegates. Trinity sent 15, Elon 14 and A. & M. college 12. The six men who represented the University were: T. C. Boushall, E. L. Mackie, Marion B. Fowler, P. F. Lynch, George Lay, and Bob Wunsch.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

Their Practical Value and Effect of War on Them

Since the last issue of the Tar Heel, which carried an announcement of the approaching examinations for the Rhodes Scholarship, to be held October 5 and 6, some inquiries have been made, particularly as to the practical value of an Oxford career and as to the effect of the war upon the Rhodes Scholarship. A brief answer will be attempted here to these inquiries.

The Rhodes scholar's Oxford career may be divided into two nearly equal parts, the time spent at Oxford and the time spent away from Oxford. The half of each year spent away from Oxford may be devoted to travel, to study of modern languages or of social and economic conditions, or to any one of a number of pursuits the practical value of which is clear,—clear at least to one who measures value in any other terms than those of dollars and cents. The time spent at Oxford is of practical value, too, though one must be somewhat of an idealist to appreciate fully the practical value of the Oxford training.

The Oxford training is in reality a very practical training, with the definite aim of equipping men for action. Oxford is not practical, however, in the same sense in which the University of Wisconsin is practical. There are some extremely good practical courses of study at Oxford, in Science and Medicine as well as in other subjects, but it is not by reason of having these courses that the Oxford training is practical. Oxford is practical in that she gives a point of view and an inspiration which must issue in action. Oxford is practical because she has a habit of producing men—Gladstones, Peeles, and Asquiths—who shape the thought and guide the action of the British Empire.

Turning now to the second of the inquiries mentioned in the beginning, it is necessary to say that of course the war does have an effect upon the Rhodes Scholarships. It does not impair the fund of the Rhodes Trust, but it does impair the Oxford which Rhodes scholars enjoy. Practically all the able-bodied Oxford men, except the Americans and the Germans who are numbered among Oxford men, are with the British colors, and Oxford is naturally not the same in spirit or in anything else so long as the war lasts. We must bear in mind, however, that it is two years from now till the time a man taking the Rhodes examinations next week would actually go to Oxford. By the end of that time, it seems that the war must be over. Then it will be a rare privilege indeed, which the Rhodes scholar will enjoy, of coming into intimate relations with men who have fought through hard campaigns and had their lives deepened and enriched by suffering and sympathy as well as brightened by the good-fellowship of the military camp. It will be a great privilege, too, so soon after the war, to be able to visit the scenes of great battles and to talk with the people of both sides and visualize the whole stupendous drama of which we are now the remote and perplexed spectators.

SENIOR SMOKER SUCCESS

1916 To Have One of The Fruitful Affairs Every Month.

The Senior Class, which is customarily considered the most conservative of those connected with The University, showed most initiative this year by being the first to hold a smoker; and since they found it pleasant, they have decided to hold one every month.

The sixty-one members present at this first smoker, held last Friday night at nine o'clock in the Y. M. C. A., did not procrastinate when President Bradshaw, in opening the entertainment, directed their attention—as if he thought it were not already directed—to the large table covered with sandwiches, fruit, cakes, candy, and stogies, which latter did not meet with Mr. Umstead's approval but were defended by Messrs. Hunter and Goforth.

Of the faculty, Dr. Greenlaw and Dr. Chase were present. Dr. Greenlaw spoke facetiously of the various prevailing ideas of college life, and becoming serious, spoke of his own. "College activities are good things," said he, "but we should not forget that we are in college primarily to study—to interpret our lives by what we can learn, through study, of the past."

Dr. Chase spoke of the faculty's plan to give a series of lectures later in the year on the meaning of a college education and on the natures of some of the professions The class heartily endorsed Dr. Chase's suggestions and decided to appoint a committee to confer with the faculty in this regard.

Of the student speakers, Mac Lewis, who came first, commented on class football, not from unalloyed motives, as Hugh Hester later explained—Mac is agent for athletic goods. Bill Umstead said something about tying up the political game, and Hoke Black, falling into his elocutionary stride, spoke touchingly of the prodigal and concluded with a wave of his hand and a reference to Tolstoi. Bob House spoke of nothing more alarming than sleep; Charlie Coggins was strangely brief; and Adam Thorp when called upon for the class poem, stood up and sat down.

Soon thereafter the class adjourned to the open, sang a song or two, and yelled for themselves and the college at large. Bill Umstead was soon heard to go caroling down the campus to the post office and return silently.

The registration Thursday at 3 p. m. was 1119.

HOW INDIVIDUAL PLAYERS LOOK

Hot Weather---Light Scrimmage

FOOTBALL EXAM HELD MONDAY

Prospective Lineup Saturday

The first real scrimmage of the season was held Saturday. For nearly an hour two strong teams battled up and down the field. Long end runs, crushing line plunges, forward passes, one after another in heat and dust kept the large crowd which lined the field, on their toes. There were a great many substitutions due to the heat and dust. but the men bore up well and the showing was good. Blount at full back, Hines at half, Blackmer at half and quarter did splendid work. Blades showed up well on defense.

The lineup for Saturday's game, so far as it is now possible to tell, will be as follows:

Center, Tandy or John Jones; guards, "Big" Jones, Tayloe, J. Grimes and Cratch; tackles, Gay, Ramsey, and Tennent; ends, Homewood, Wright, Love, and Metz; quarterback, Allen, Long, Johnson, and Blackmer; fullback, Parker and Reid; halfbacks, Tayloe, (Captain Dave), Townsend, Black, Blades, Blount, and Hines. It is still uncertain whether Tandy and Ramsay will be able to play in Saturday's game or not. Gay went back on the field yesterday, and has been in the scrimmaging of the past two days. It is regrettable that "Fatty" Cowell will not be back in time for Saturday's game.

The scrimmages this week have been light on account of the heat. The lines have been at work, breaking through and improving their strength and force in the charge. The backfield men have had hard signal practice with part of each afternoon devoted to falling on the ball, tackling the dummy and going after forward passes.

Tuesday afternoon the ends were sent down under punts to tackle—the quarterbacks, Long, Allen, Blackmer, Johnson, and Fore running the punts up.

Final preparations for the game Saturday will be made Friday afternoon and a light scrimmage will probably be held to work out certain plays. The best ground gaining play is—(censored).

On Monday night 44 members of the varsity squad were given an exam on the rules. Of this number only the following 16 men passed, Allen, Blackmer, Blades, Fitzsimmons, Grimes, Hines, Hogan, Johnson, Jones, J. Love, Proctor, Ramsay, Royall, Tandy, Townsend, and Wright. This is a very poor showing. All men who failed and those who did not take the exam will be given a chance to pass on Friday. Johnnie Jones made the best

PICTURESQUE PHRASES

If John Smith passes ten summers at the beach and doesn't learn to swim; if he spends ten winters in the mountains and doesn't learn to tramp; or if he spends ten years at school and is subsequently heard to use a triple negative, what excuse is the poor boy to offer? The man who spent ten nights in a bar room and didn't learn to drink explains that he didn't care to cultivate the habit.

It would seem surprising to hear a college graduate use a double negative, but it is true that every year students leave the University who fail to incorporate in their conversation some of the fundamental points of grammar. To say that they are unacquainted with the rules they violate is to judge them too leniently. It is hardly probable that one of them would use a double negative in writing, and yet they know that there is no fundamental difference between the written and spoken language.

We are like the obese minister who ordered everything on the menu except the date and the name of the hotel and of whom the waitress remarked to the cook, "He believes in being good to his self." We are too indulgent to ourselves in the matter of conversational language. We do not realize the importance of clear and correct self-expression here where we are surrounded by friends who realize that we know better. When, however, we go to strange communities where our new neighbors will judge us by our speech and general bearing, we shall probably find it difficult to give up the expressions which here lend picturesqueness to our conversation.

DORMITORY LIFE

This paper does not attempt to be so personal as the Ladies Home Journal, and in discussing dormitory life does not intend to give any illustrative stories such as "Why I Left My Roommate" or "How Algeron and I Came to Blows." There are several less minute details of dormitory life which might be more carefully adjusted.

Naturally, every man rooming in a dormitory is interested in the general welfare of that building, but there is no one man or group of men delegated to see that everything goes on well there. If the occupants of each building would elect two or three of their number to act as a house committee whose duty it should be to look after, in a general way, the welfare of the dormitory, many small things which now go unmanaged could be more satisfactorily regulated. This does not mean that there would be delegated to each dormitory a branch of the Student Council to enforce any sort of arbitrary discipline. Such house committees would have only such authority as the occupants of the different dormitories in open meeting should grant them. If the roomers in the South Building, for instance, should decide that they required less uproar at night, they could hold a meeting, determine just how much nocturnal noise would suffice, and authorize a house committee to regulate all excess. On the other hand, if the occupants of a building suffered from ennui, they could just as easily appoint a committee to increase the din. In any case there would be no imposition of outside authority; the South Building would govern itself.

Such a committee would be found serviceable in more ways than can here be enumerated.

Every man who has lived on the campus knows how little intimacy there is between the various occupants of a dormitory. Oftentimes men rooming on the first floor of a building hardly know the names of the boys who climb the stairs to the second and third floors fifteen or twenty times a day. It might be possible sometime in the future to have in each building a comfortably equipped social or club room where men rooming in the same dormitory would have occasion to see each other oftener than at present and thus become better acquainted.

It is said that at the summer school the students put their cards outside the doors so that they could at least know each other's names. This practice might prove beneficial even during the winter term.

These are mere suggestions gathered from various sources about a subject which might well be treated in greater detail.

Tar Heel Contest

The Tar Heel contest instituted week before last has resulted in the selection of Blackmer, Sedberry, and Hartshorn.

As was stated at the opening of the contest these appointments will have to be ratified by the Athletic Association at its next meeting. The work submitted in the contest was generally of a high order. The editors are grateful to all the contestants for their continued interest and regret that there are no more opportunites for selection.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW OCT. 11

Dramatic Club Gives First Attraction of the Season

The Dramatic Club Ltd. will put on a vaudeville act in Gerrard Hall Monday night, Oct. 11. The old Dramatic Club stars who are on the Hill will take part, featuring new acts, while several new men are expected to appear before the footlights for the first time.

The program will be varied and suited to the most hypercritical taste. It will consist of music, dancing, acrobatics, juggling, and professional acting.

The prices will be twenty-five and fifty cents. Tickets will be on sale at Eubanks early next week.

THE BATTLE MEMORIAL

$5,000 Parish House Back of the Episcopal Church

The new parish house of the Episcopal Church, which has been dedicated to Dr. Kemp Plummer Battle and his wife, is now under construction. The contractors hope to have it ready for use by Nov. 1.

The building, which will cost $5000.00, will be of the same architectural style as the Chapel of the Cross. It is to be used for the Episcopal Sunday School, and as a meeting place for all Church organizations.

A Pep Test

There will be a mass meeting in Gerrard Hall Friday night at 8:00 o'clock to organize the yelling for Saturday's game with Citadel. The new men got an idea of the yells in Chapel Thursday night, and it is hoped that they will fall in with the upper classmen at this meeting and give the team the support that it deserves.

With "Practical Christianity" as his subject, Francis Bradshaw delivered the second of the weekly Y. M. C. A. talks Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A.

THE PHILOLOGICAL CLUB

Elects Officers for Coming Year. Dr. Toy President

The Philological Club, composed of members of the faculty connected with the language departments met Tuesday night Sept. 21. Officers elected for the ensuing year are:

President, W. D. Toy.
Vice-President, Oliver Towles.
Sec. and Treas., H. M. Dargan.

Dr. Howe was elected to the editorial board of the Journal of Philology to take the place of Dr. Bain, deceased. Dr. Greenlaw is editor-in-chief of this publication which has already attained a wide reputation due to its scholarly articles. It is sent to many libraries and learned societies both in the United States and abroad.

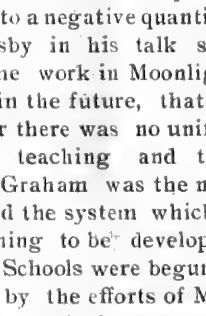
The club will meet on the third Tuesday of each month and original papers will he read. Graduate students in the University may be associate members of the club.

Kenneth C. Royall, '14, a Phi Beta Kappa man and assistant editor of the Yackety Yack, has recently been elected one of the editors of the Harvard Law Review. The Review is now in its 28th year and is one of the leading law publications of the country.

At the first meeting of the first year Med Class the following officers were elected:
W. R. Stanford, President; Jimmie Price, Vice-President; N. C. Riddle, Secretary; and H. M. Brinkley, Treasurer.

Dr. C. L. Raper will deliver an address at Jacksonville, the latter part of October.

ILLITERACY IN N. C. GREAT



Third Most Illiterate State in Union Striking Talk by Mr. Crosby

Dealing with the work carried on by the Moonlight School System, Mr. D. C. Crosby of the State Educational Department and head of the department of Moonlight Schools in North Carolina, spoke to the University students and to the Community Club of Chapel Hill in the Peabody Building September 24. The Moonlight Schools are new to most people in the State, and Mr. Crosby is sincerely endeavoring to develop a system by which the per cent of adult illiteracy may be reduced to a negative quantity.

Mr. Crosby in his talk said that all the work in Moonlight Schools is in the future, that up to last year there was no unified system of teaching and that President Graham was the man who devised the system which is now beginning to be developed. Moonlight Schools were begun in Kentucky by the efforts of Mrs. Cora Stuart and the movement spread from state to state. It is a fact little known that one-seventh of the voting population of North Carolina can neither read nor sign their own names. This means that one-seventh of our homes are devoid of books and magazines and that many homes are without the Bible. Only two other states, New Mexico and Louisana, have a greater per cent of adult illiteracy than our own. Everybody in the United States knows this but us, and it is time to wake up. However we hope that when the census is taken in 1920 there will not be one single adult illiterate in North Carolina!

Prof. E. C. Branson will deliver an address at Holly Springs on Oct. 8th, on the subject, "Come, let us live with our children."

N. C. CLUB OFFICIALS CHOSEN

Prof. Branson President; E. R. Rankin Chief Steerer

The North Carolina Club met on Monday night in the Y. M. C. A. with Prof. Branson presiding. After the roll call the committee appointed to nominate the officers for the year was called on for its report. Prof. Branson was selected for president; Mr. S. N. DeVault for secretary, and Mr. Marion Fowler for treasurer. The Steering committee nominated was Mr. E. R. Rankin, chairman, J. A. Capps, T. C. Boushall H. B. Hester, E. L. Mackie and R. E. Price. The Publicity committee chosen was Mr. R H. Thornton chairman, R. C. Vaughn, J. F. Hackler, W. H. Stephenson and S. J. Ervin. These nominations were immediately passed on by the club. Interesting papers on North Carolina Mineral and Forest resources were given by J. H. Allred and Lester. A general discussion on these subjects then took place.

The nominating committee was composed of Dr. Hamilton, Robert C. Vaughn and Cecil Rymer.

Concluded from first page

grade with 94. Blackmer, Tandy, Wright were the only others who made a grade of more than 80. Dortch was the lowest with 40. The passing mark was 75. The majority of those who failed made over 70.

There are about sixty-five men on the squad and each position is to be red-hotly contested. Homewood is playing his usual good game at end, but his class work has kept him from the field several afternoons. His poor condition makes him slow going down after the forward passes and the punts. Wright and Love are doing good hard work. Wright is the fastest man on the field. Love is showing much better form than last year and is working harder. He is not as fast as Wright but is better at breaking interference. Metz, another end, is showing good form on offense and in blocking approaching tackle. He is heavy and strong but is slow getting down under the punts. Watkins has shown much speed and catches forward passes fairly well. Bellamy has also shown good form but is rather light. Hudgin is a new man at the game but is strong and heavy. He is working hard. Williams is a strong rangy man with fight but inexperienced. Royster has shown up well as a punter and handler of forward passes but is slow. Fitzsimmons, Jeannette, and Craig are among the others who are doing good work. Tandy, Ramsay, and Cratch are still on the injured list. Grimes, Tayloe, J. Royall, Proctor, Tennent, Craig, Harrell, and Currie are showing up well in the line.

The line is not charging hard enough nor is there enough snap in it. Coach Duff is working the men hard as there is much improvement to be made in the line.

All the backfield candidates are going good and it will be a fight for a regular berth on the team. As many men as possible will be used in the game Saturday.

"A sensible cigarette— that's what I want"

There are a number of good, sensible cigarettes on the market—Fatimas are not the only ones.

But Fatimas are the best-liked and best-selling of all the cigarettes costing over 5c.

Of course, your taste may be different—you may not like Fatimas as well as all these thousands of other men do.

But you can't deny that they are worth trying—not only for the delicious taste that has made them so famous, but also to see just how SENSIBLE they really are—how COOL and comfortable to the throat and tongue and how free they are from after-effects.

Clip out these tests and see if you can find any cigarette that meets them as well as good old Fatimas do.

Commons Hall Given to University By Owners

Old Commons Hall, built primarily for a ball room in 1885 and later used as a gymnasium and dining hall, will soon be deeded to the University, according to the decision of the stockholders of the University Gymnasium Association in session here last week. The papers have not been signed yet but that is a mere matter of form that will be carried out later.

Back in 1885 a number of young men, students of the University, desired to have dancing at the college. The then "modern dancing" was however prohibited by the faculty regulations. Consequently they formed an association and purchased the building now known as Commons Hall. As Commons was rented to the University for a gymnasium except when the dances were going on, these students called their organization the gymnasium association. The building has been in the unbroken possession of the association ever since.

At a meeting held last week in the office of Dr. R. H. Lewis, President of the Association, there were present besides Dr. Lewis, Dr. K. P. Battle, Dr. F. P. Venable and Mr. Jos. P. Cheshire, Jr. Votes from those present and from the absent stockholders by proxy carried the motion to convey the building to the University.

QUERY FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

"The U. S. Should Greatly Enlarge Its Navy

The query which will be discussed this year by the schools having membership in the High Shool Debating Union of North Carolinais: "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the policy of greatly enlarging its Navy."

Every secondary and high school in the state is invited to become a member of the Union and participate in the contest of 1916. Every school that enters will, as in the past, be grouped with two others for a traingular debate, each school putting out two teams, one on the affirmative and the other on the negative. The schools winning both debates will be entitled to send their teams to the University to compete for the state championship and the Aycock Memorial Cup. The triangular debates will be held throughout the State the latter part of March and the final contest at the University early in April. The exact dates for these contests will be decided upon later.

Since its inauguration three years ago by the literary societies and the Bureau of Extention of the University, the High School Debating Union has met with splendid success. Three comprehensive State-wide debates have been held and schools and communities alike have been benefited by them. Last spring the State-wide contest was participated in by 250 schools and 1000 student debaters, and it is a safe estimate that fully 50,000 people from first to last heard the discussions over the State on the question of subsidies for the merchant marine. The committee hopes that this year every school of secondary nature in the State will enroll in the Union for the discussion of the question of the enlargement of the United States Navy.

IN MEMORIAM AD BUSTER

Official Dog of the University Taken Away By Owner

Buster has left the University. Every upper classman knows and feels the effects which his unfortunate departure will have upon the campus life of Carolina.

Last Friday at noon Mr. Dixon, the original owner of the dog decided to take him to the country. Every inch of the way to depot was rigorly contested by the unwilling dog.

It is supposed that Buster first made his appearance on the campus about 1907, but no one really knows when he became a factor in the life of this campus. At least eight classes have graduated from the University during his stay here and to each class he has become a pleasant memory. Twice he has been honored with his portrait in the Yackety-Yack, and hundreds of individuals have entered his picture in their memory books. He loved to mingle with the crowds at the post office, at chapel, on the sidelines, around the well. At every mass meeting he was present. At every football and baseball game his cheering voice was heard whether Carolina was winner or loser—only his hair was yellow. Buster was an institution on this campus.

A movement is on foot to petition the owner to return him either as a gift or as a purchase. The student body feels that the old faithful Buster belongs to the campus by ties that supersede the mere claims of personal ownership.

FIRE!!!

Soph's Cigarette Will Burn Tomorrow Night

On Friday night the Sophomore class of the University of North Carolina will have a "puncture"—beg pardon! a "blow out." For the past few days shipments of bananas from Alaska and tobacco from Germany have been mobilizing at Carrboro. Also that "sparkling stuph" from Richmond—you know, that W. J. Bryan Grape Juice—has been flowing into storage reservoirs, which will overflow Friday night. The silver chord will be loosed from around the cigarrette bag, and the William Jennings ooze bottles will be "busted" at the punch bowl.

Come all ye Sophs who are weary and emty bel—(oh!) and thirsty and you will get unto yourselves hot air, dampness, and your money's worth.

Who? Sophs
Where? Y. M. C. A.
When? Friday, 9:30 P. M.
HOW MUCH??? $0.25 or 25 pennies.

Every week 7000 copies of the University News Letters are printed at the University Press and sent out all over the State.

CAROLINA WINS FROM CITADEL 14-7; SHOWS LACK OF FORM AND "PEP"

Black and Townsend Were Carolina's Only Ground Gainers. Citadel Puts Up Spirited Fight.

Carolina's 14-7 victory over Citadel Saturday was a severe shock to Carolina supporters who had expected the University to win by at least six touchdowns. The hot weather, which seemed to give the South Carolinians "pep", made Carolina listless.

After a 40 yard run Townsend made Carolina's first touchdown in one minute and 45 seconds of play. Black made possible Carolina's other touchdown when he gained 17 yards on successive runs. Sheppard made Citadel's only touchdown on a forward pass five minutes after Carolina's first score.

Tandy began the game by booting the ball to Bolton, of Citadel, who was unable to hold it. Citadel gained 3 yards in the first rush but failed to advance in two succeeding attempts. Citadel kicked 25 yards to Long, who returned the ball 5 yards. Reid gained 4, following which Townsend, in a spectacular broken field run made the first touchdown of the season. The tally was made in 1 min. 45 sec. of play. Tandy kicked goal.

Tandy kicked off behind goal, and ball was brought out to 20 yard line. Citadel gained 4, 3, and 3 more for first down. Citadel advanced 5 and N. C. was penalized 5 for offside, making another first down. Bolton went 3 yards around left end, which was followed by 2 yards through center and 5 through tackle for first down. By steady small gains two more first downs were made, Tandy being hurt and Jones, J. substituted in the process. With the ball 12 yards from her goal, the Carolina line showed her first signs of life, as a result, the following two attempts netted only 1 yard each. At that moment the game cadets pulled off a successful pass from Weeks to Sheppard, making their touchdown within 5 minutes of Carolina's. Weeks kicked goal and tied the score.

Citadel kicked off to Ramsay who returned 2 yards. When Carolina gained only two yards in two attempts, it was decided to take the defensive, and Long made a beautiful punt of 70 yards to Weeks, who was downed in his tracks by Wright. Citadel gained 9 yards, was penalized 10 and kicked 10. Carolina made first down in two 5 yard rushes. Time up.

Second Quarter:

Reid made 5 through center. Tayloe made 3, and after two failures N. C. had to give up the pigskin only 5 yards from goal. Citadel kicked 30 yards and Long returned 20. Long went 8, Reid gained 1; Citadel recovered the ball when Dave Tayloe fumbled. Citadel kicked 30, Long returned 5, and Citadel was penalized 5. Long gained 4, Tayloe gained 1, and a successful pass, Long to Homewood netted 15 yards. Here such Carolina braves as were not already asleep dozed off, and Townsend lost 2 yards, Tayloe fumbled a pass from Long, Townsend failed to gain and Citadel took possession of the ball. Citadel kicked 30 yards, Townsend failed to advance, forward pass failed, and Long punted behind goal. Citadel took ball on

THE FIRST GAME.

Playing the first football game of the season is like trying out a new battleship—it may or may not come up to expectations. But after the first trial the engineers have a better basis to work on.

We were all too confident of a victory Saturday. This probably accounts for the fact that the team let up when they had made the first touchdown—after which they naturally found it difficult to come back.

CLASS SMOKER.

The plan of having monthly smokers, which was instituted by the Seniors and adopted as well by the Juniors, has few opponents among those who wish to see the classes more unified. The matter of class unity has occasioned much class banquet oratory and for exposition should possibly be left until the opening of the feasting season, in February. Of everything, however, that has recently been said in public concerning this virtue, the Senior who briefly suggested that class smokers be held once a month has probably accomplished more toward securing class unity than several others who have dealt with the subject in the abstract.

If, at the frequent smokers, the available topics for didactic speeches should be exhausted, it might not be inappropriate to require of each speaker a good story instead of an abstract of ethics.

PUBLISHING AN ANNUAL

The Yackety Yack has no way of bringing its cause before the student body weekly or monthly as in the case of the other college publications because it can come out only once a year, and then improvements and suggestions are offered too late for that copy. The only way the editors and managers can interest the students in the annaal is through the columns of the publications and through personal contact with the students themselves. On College Night the publications were presented collectively by one man who outlined the aim and scope of each. It is the purpose of this article to outline particularly the work of the Yackety Yack Board and ask for the co-operation of every man in the University, because only in this way can our year book be an accurate portrayal of our life here,—as is its primary purpose.

The Yackety Yack aims to be not exclusively, but largely, a Senior Book which the graduate can preserve as a memoir of his last year at Carolina; so the book will give the most attention to the graduating classes. Next in importance are the outstanding events of the college year, including celebrations, gifts, and the activities of the various teams and organizations. Finally, the aim is to portray the life of the student in all of its phases, by snapshot, cartoon, in writing, adding especially the humorous events to give it zest and attractiveness. The whole to be in keeping with the "Spirit of Carolina,"—strength, dignity, and life. Such are the aims of the editors and managers.

As to how the students can aid in getting out the book, the following ways are offered to make it a representative book. First, the purely mechanical work of collecting and collaborating statistics has to have your aid. You must hand in your statistics soon, and not have any hesitancy in doing so because the editors cannot hunt you up individually. Seniors must fill out the blanks provided for them and deposit them in the box in the Alumni Building. Law, Medical, and Pharmacy Seniors must deposit their statistics in the boxes placed in their respective buildings.

Second, you are asked to help in gathering campus snapshots. Turn them over to Mr. McDaniel Lewis, or any other member of the Board. Third, hand in all jokes, good anecdotes, drags, satire, and other matter including poetry, original and otherwise, which you think might be acceptable to the editors. And finally, if you draw or know of anyone who draws, get to work and hand in the results. The editors will decide on its eligibility.

In carrying out these suggestions the University will be assured of getting a volume of greater interest to a large number of men, thereby making the Yackety Yack more truly "our book." —F. O. Clarkson.

Boxing, Fencing, and Wrestling Here

The Greater Council held a meeting Monday night for the purpose of organizing. A committee was appointed to see about establishing wrestling, boxing and fencing in the University. The matters of Peanuts in the Pickwick, and better conditions for studying at night were discussed.

Professor Horace Williams will deliver a lecture before the Charlotte Alumni Association at their annual banquet on the night of University Day, October 12.

JUNIORS HOLD SMOKER

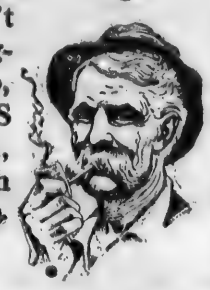
Talks Made by Members of the Student Body

The Junior Class held a smoker in the Y. M. C. A. Friday night which consisted of a business meeting, and a feast of punch, fruit, sandwitches, and eloquence. As there were no members of the faculty present, the eloquence was supplied by The Three Wise Men of former Junior and Senior classes, Leach, Boushall and Bradshaw; and intermittently, but spontaneously, by Mr. R. Y. Watkins. Hugh Hester, on behalf of the Yackety Yack and its readers, gently suggested that the class have a group picture in the annual this year instead of the customary individual pictures, but the class led by its president, Jim Capps, immediately killed the proposition by voting for individual pictures unanimously.

The meeting started off in a most businesslike manner with the election of R. Y. Watkins, better known as Wat, to the position of manager of the 1917 basketball team. It assumed a siill more busiuesslike air when the crowd charged from all sides on the table of "eats" in the center of the room.

After the feast the orations were delivered. Oscar Leach spoke on class taxation and the expediency of publishing the names of those class dead-beats who persistently refuse to pay their class dues. Hugh Hester then made his short-lived picture proposition. Tom Boushall talked on the changes for the good that different classes had effected in the University. He told how the class of 1913 had instituted the Student Council and the Debating Union and had suppressed the evil of bogus checks, how 1915 had originated a standard class pin, and he concluded by suggesting that 1917 leave some memorial by which it might be remembered here. Following his suggestion the class voted that money be appropriated for a cup, to be given each year to the class winning the football championship. Francis Bradshaw concluded the speaking by impressing upon the class the responsibility resting upon it especially in aiding the University in its great work of getting in closer touch with the State.

The smoker adjourned not long before twelve o'clock after the class had decided to make it a regular monthly affair.



Tennis Tournament Soon

Plans for a Tennis Tournament are rapidly maturing and the conditions and drawings will soon be announced. Sixteen men entered by Wednesday noon and several more are expected. Only two Freshmen have entered so far, these being Powell and Jewitt. The rest of the contestants are old men. With so much good material out the chances for a winning team are very bright indeed. Tournament play will start Friday if the weather permits.

There has been some talk of a team of four men instead of two as last year in order to allow of two double teams, but until the Athletic Council has passed on these plans nothing definite can be announced.

Rev. John H. Griffith, rector of St. Mary's Church in Kinston, will preach the University sermon here October 17.

LIGHT ON CITADEL GAME

How Carolina Played in the First Game and the Trouble

Carolina opened her football season by defeating Citadel 14 to 7 on the class field Saturday. The small score made by the Carolina team was a great disappointment to all as it was expected that it would roll up at least 25 points. It was a lesson, however, to the men on the squad showing how easily a lack of spirit may lose a game.

The only spirit evident was on the side-lines. The whole team played listlessly, the line never charging, the backfield never plunging as it should. They went on the field expecting to have a walkover, and they were fooled. They found themselves up against a clever, fighting, hard-working team. In the first three minutes of the game, on the second play that was run Townsend scored a touchdown after fighting his way through a broken field. This touchdown gave the team a feeling of over confidence and they seemed to quit there and then. There was a lack of offense and defence. The line did not shift with Citadel's formations, thus leaving one end to break an interference of four men. The line did not break through on the defence nor did they charge under the Citadel line on offense.

The generalship on offense was not bad although several bone-head plays were made. We should have put the ball over the line when we had it twice within Citadel's ten yard line. Long should have run himself through center more. When it was seen that our interference was not working well we should have tried more forward passes. In running with the ball Townsend and Black stood out above the rest of the backs. Townsend cut in on his runs in fine form, and returned a kickoff 60 yards through the Citadel team. Black made our second touchdown possible by successive gains. Blount gave the only exhibition of line-plunging in the entire game when he went over for a touchdown.

The game was slow and time was taken out many times. The "jawing" going on between the two teams was almost incessant.

The ball was handled well by the quarters both in receiving punts and in passing to the backs. The several fumbles were caused, with one or two exceptions by the fierce tackling of the Citadel men. In punting Citadel was easily outclassed.

Our line seldom opened a hole for the backs and in most of the line plays the backs faced only a pile-up. Tandy and Jones, however, passed well and Ramsay recovered several fumbles and made good tackles. Our tackling lacked the spirit that Citadel's had.

The material is here, however, the coaches are the best. The varsity has learned its lesson.

The entire squad will be subjected to the hardest kind of scrimmage work all the week, and a decided improvement may be expected.

CLASS FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Freshmen and Juniors Get Good Start
Sophs and Seniors Delayed

The Freshman team is the only one which has started football practice in real earnestness. Coach Charlie Daniels has had the men out every afternoon for the past few days learning signals and new plays. There are about thirty-five men, and with one possible exception, all of them have played football before. Their prospects are exceptionally good, and unless they are traditionally "off," (judging by last year's Freshman team), they should be heard from before the season is over.

The Sophomores have been delayed for a few days, owing to the fact that they have not had a coach, but Daniels will most likely whip them into shape sometime soon. Manager Currie has written to Raleigh and Greensboro for games, but he has heard nothing yet.

The Juniors have started off with flying colors, and want it expressly understood that they intend to wind up in the same way. Manager Ranson has written to Guilford College for a game, but this has not yet been heard from. The Seniors have not started yet.

As yet it is hard to pick any stars, but as soon as some of the clouds clear up it is expected that they will twinkle.

Elisha Mitchell Meets

"A YOUNG MAN WHO WON OUT"

Subject of Weekly Y. M. C. A. Talk Given by Mr. Edgar Long

Mr. Edgar Long of the University faculty made a very strong and entertaining talk to a number of students last Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. The subject, "A Young Man Who Won Out," was admirably brought out by his contrast of Daniel with the young Babylonian men of his day.

Mr. Long pointed out that "the young college man who wins out today must adopt the simple, temperate standards of living which made Daniel a winner even in a foreign court against a prejudiced race."

Editor House and his magazine staff report that material is coming in for the first issue which goes to press October 12 Students are urged to turn all material in at once.

MINES AND FORESTS OF N. C.

Natural Resources of Our State Discussed by N. C. Club

With a vim and vigor that must end in success, the North Carolina Club continues its work of investigating and discussing the various social and economic problems confronting the State. At its last meeting Mr. J. H. Lassiter of Northampton county briefly detailed the forest wealth of the State as follows:

"Nearly twenty million acres of woodland containing 430 billion board feet of standing timber ranks North Carolina among the first four states of the Union. Our farm wood-lot products, mainly firewood, were worth $11,000,000 in the census year, which was more than that of any other state in the Union. Consuming our wood we have 33,000 saw mills, 117 furniture and refrigerator factories, 138 carriage and wagon works, 12 car and general construction shops."

Mr. J. H. Allred, of Surry county, reported on our mineral resources:

"The wealth produced by our mines and quarries last year was nearly $3,800,000, this being almost a three-fold increase since the census year. Our mineral resources have a remarkable range and variety, many of them possessing great economic value. On the whole, the mineral resources of the State have been poorly developed. Here is a source of wealth far greater than our enterprise in this direction."

The next meeting of the North Carolina Club will be held in the Reading Room of the Y. M. C. A. Monday night, October 11, at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. H. M. Smith, of Henderson county, will speak on "Our Prominence in Manufactures." Mr. M. H. Randolph, of Mecklenburg county, will discuss "The Variety and Adaptability of Our Soils and Resources."

The band has started practice and expect to have music in the air in a few days. Hugh Prince has been elected manager of the noise makers.

"Busy Bees" On Carolina Campus.

Last May a swarm of Italian honey bees, coming in a direct line from the athletic field, settled on the big oak overshadowing the campus well. Nothing more was thought of this incident until a few days ago when it was noticed that the bees, having entered through a knothole, had made a permanent home in the huge limb next to the ground The nest must take up a considerable part of the limb, for the swarm seems to be an exceptionally large one.

There is also a swarm of long standing in the old Davie Poplar. Other cases have been noted in which honeybees have taken a sure refuge in the bosoms of our oldest and most appreciated shade trees on the campus.

COULD YOU HAVE PASSED IT?

A Few of The 26 Questions Asked on The Football Examination

What is the penalty for a second eligible man touching a forward pass before it touches an oppnent?

When a foul is made by a defensive team when the opponents have the ball on the defensive side's 5 yard line, which would take the ball in the end zone? if the full penalty was enforced, what distance penalty is enforced?

Define two kinds of "off sides."

What are five requisites of a fair catch, except from a punt out?

If a forward pass from the field of play, hits the goal post before striking the ground, bounds into the field of play and a player on the side making the pass falls on it, which side is entitled to the ball and where is it next put into play?

Charlie Coggins succeeded in getting up the "old pep" in a mass meeting Tuesday night. The various Carolina yells were rehearsed with much vigor and speeches from Coach Doggie Trenchard and Coach Duff were heard.

Concluded from third page.

20 yard line, and made first down on a 5 yard gain and a penalty on N. C. Citadel advanced 4 1-2 yards more, when time was called for first half.

Third Quarter:

Tandy back in game at center. Citadel kicked and Townsend returned about 15 yards. Carolina failed to gain. Townsend lost 1 yard, pass Tayloe to Reid netted 1 yard. Tandy drop-kicked behind goal, ball brought back to 20 yard line. Citadel failed, then advanced 1 yard, 5, and then 1. N. C. penalized 10 yards. Citadel penalized 15 yards for hurding. Black substituted for Townsend. Citadel penalized 10 yards for offside. Citadel made only 4 yards in three downs and punted 30 yards to Allen, who did not return. Blount went in for Reid at full. Black failed and then made 8 yards and then 3 more for first down. On a forward pass from Dave Tayloe, the ball after bouncing around promiscuously on the heads of two or three of Carolina's defenders, chanced to alight in the arms of Love and was transported 20 yards. The two following plays, including a fake pass, were unsuccessful, as was Tandy's attempted field goal. Citadel brought ball 11 yards from her 20 yard line. Stevens went in for Bolton, and Royall for Gay.

Citadel was penalized 10 and kicked 30. Black took ball 6, 1 and 6 yards for Carolina. Time up with ball on Citadel's 25 yard line.

Fourth Quarter:

Black 4, Blount 2. Black fumbled and Dave Tayloe recovered. Black 9 yards for first down. Black 3 yards and 1 yard, Blount took ball 6 1-2 yards to within 1-2 yard of goal. Blount made second touchdown for Carolina in a rush through center. Tandy kicked another perfect goal.

Carolina kicked off and Citadel's return of 18 yards stopped by Blount who made a rough tackle. Citadel gained 7 yards. Metz substituted for Homewood. Citadel failed to gain. Grimes went in for Jones, and Blackmer for Tayloe. The rest of the game was a series of fumbles. Citadel attempted three forward passes, muffing each, after she had gained possession of the ball on a fumble by our crew. During the last ten minutes Bolton replaced Jeoffards, R., Palmer supplanted Palmer, A., and Reynolds usurped the place of stevens. Carolina tried to infuse new life into the team by substituting Hines for Blackmer and Johnson for Allen. On Citadel's third fumble, Carolina recovered the ball and gained 2 yards. Time up.

Chick Doak will be on the hill about the 15th of this month. Basketball practice will not start before then. The prospects for a good team are very bright, for all of the old men are back and several new contestants also. Manager Homewood will publish a schedule of this season's games in the next issue of the Tar Heel.

The committee on Alumni Organization, consisting of W. S. Bernard, '00; T. J. Wilson Jr., '94; and E. R. Rankin. '13, have sent out letters to some 3000 alumni inviting them to the University Day exercises and recommending that if they cannot attend they hold a meeting of their own for the purpose of kindling loyalty and enthusiasm, and of informing themselves more fully of the University's work.

When is a cigarette Sensible?

A cigarette is not sensible for you if it leaves your taste and your smoke-hunger a little bit unsatisfied.

—nor if it bothers your throat or tongue

—nor if it makes you "feel mean" after smoking your usual number.

None of these things will happen to you if you find (and stick to) the right cigarette.

But the cigarette that is right for one man may not be right for another. For instance, Fatimas may not just suit your taste—in spite of the fact that they are the best-selling cigarette costing over 5c.

Fatimas ARE cool and friendly to the throat and tongue—and they will NOT make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

So they surely are sensible for you—except possibly for the taste.

And when it comes to that, it will be mighty strange if you don't like Fatima's taste—they couldn't sell so fast if the taste weren't extra good, could they?

Why not get Fatimas this very day and find out for yourself how sensible a cigarette can really be?

CAMPUS AND STATE UNITE TO CELEBRATE UNIVERSITY'S 122 ANNIVERSARY

Dr. Kirkland Gives New Interpretation of Patriotism; Many Telegrams Wishing "Many Happy Returns"

Tuesday, Oct. 12, the University celebrated Founders' Day, commemorating its one hundred and twenty-second anniversary. As usual the classes and faculty assembled at the Alumni Building at ten thirty in the morning, led by the band marched to Memorial Hall. The faculty in their caps and gowns, the classes, displaying their banners and colors, and the band, playing a lively march, formed a procession befitting the importance of the occasion.

When the audience was assembled in Memorial Hall, Rev. Homer W. Starr commenced the program by pronouncing the invocation, following which the University Hymn was sung lustily by the entire assembly.

President E. K. Graham introduced the speaker of the day, Chancellor J. H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt University, in a few eloquent words; expressing the gratification of the University in having as its guest the far-seeing man who has played such an important part in making Vanderbilt what it is today. Dr. Kirkland's subject wass "Patriotism, a New Interpretation."

He emphasized the power of the influence of the individual in preserving a good government and a happy country. He showed how our country in the last century has grown rich through the wonderful inventions and discoveries that have revolutionized commerce and industry, but how it has not attained happiness for the red flag of anarchy still is flaunted in the hearts of our cities The true patriotism according to Dr. Kirkland is to take a personal interest in our civic problems and strive to eradicate the causes that breed dissension and misery.

After Dr. Kirkland's address, Dean M. H. Stacy read the names of former University students who had become deceased since last University Day. President Graham then read a few of the congratulatory messages received by him from various Carolina alumni. The loyalty of the University alumni is testified by the number of messages received not only from this State, but from Carolina men all over the country. Following are one or two extracts from the most characteristic messages received:

"Thirteen lusty young Tar Heels in banquet assembled, send their heartfelt greetings to their Alma Mater, and their congratulations on her one hundred and twenty-second birthday."

Boston Alumni Association,
Chas. S. Venable, Sec.

"Congratulations on the brilliant prospects of the University this year. Best wishes for their fulfillment from a family in exile"

Dr. A. H. Patterson,
New Haven, Conn.

"The University of North Carolina—the best asset of the State, and may the State realize it."

Walter Murphy,
Washington, D. C.

TEAM LEAVES FRIDAY TO MEET GEORGETOWN

Both Teams of Same Weight; Carolina Line the Faster

Friday afternoon at 5:15 twenty-two players and the coaches will leave for Washington, D. C., where they will meet Georgetown University on the gridiron Saturday.

Georgetown has a strong heavy team, and the game will be the hardest Carolina will have until Thanksgiving. Our team showed great strength in the Wake Forest game Saturday and steady improvement has been made all this week. By long hard scrimmages the coaches have whipped into shape a fiighting machine of twenty-two men that will be hard to beat.

Georgetown played Princeton Oct. 2 and held them to a 10—0 score. Princeton, however, had only been out on the field a little more than a week and had instituted a new coaching system. The game ended with the ball in Princeton's possession on Georgetown's 1 yard line.

On Saturday of last week Georgetown defeated the weak Navy team 10—0. The Georgetown backs made many good gains on wide end runs because the Navy ends played in too close; and on the old fashioned cross buck they completely baffled the Middies.

SECOND VAUDEVILLE WAS SHINING SUCCESS

Memorable Medley of Music, Dance And Fun

The Dramatic Club Vaudeville Monday night, coming at a time when something was neeeded to break the monotony, was a decided success. It was a laugh from start to finish for those who witnessed it. This is the second Vaudeville given for the Y. M. C. A. and Dramatic Club; and it was even more ably presented than the first. There was music, tumbling, dancing, juggling and minstrelsy in many forms, from the time that the curtain rose to the tune of the "White and Blue of Carolina" by Meb Long's Band till the entire company closed the program with "Hark the Sound." That the performance was a success from every standpoint, was the verdict of all those present.

Meb Long, with Bob Page, Chas. Mangum, and Slick Beckwith composing an inimitable Band, started the program with a medley of popular airs. They were encored and encored till Meb had exhausted his musical vocabulary and had to sit down. Francis Clarkson and Clyde Fore came on next with some well executed Gym stunts which they performed with professional precision. Next came Sid Blackmer and his partner, Bruce Webb the incomparable, in a most graceful presentation of of original fancy dancing. The audience applauded this pair again and again, and would not be satisfied till Snake Simmons and Chas. Coggin had pulled off their parody on the Kiss Waltz. Buck Wimberly followed with a solitaire act in which he entertained the audience with some very clever juggling, a song and a joke or two sandwitched in. This act was followed by Upchurch and Rush, a black-faced pair who stuttered with their feet. William Wright with his familiar fiddle and his Gypsie friend, Slick Beckwith, played some catchey songs on a violin with guitar accompaniament. Following this, Sid Blackmer, recited two poems from Kipling and Robt. W. Service. Blackmer's interpretation of their works was admirable and received due applause. Phil Branson, a beer bottle, two guitars, and Chas Mangum next gave some Hawaiian music that suspassed the original quintette. The closing number was a minstrel in which Slob Jone's scrap iron quartette gave some close harmony; Coggin and Simmons as end men recounted some touching short stories; and it was a demonstration of minstrelsy such as had never been seen in our historic Chapel before.

It would be hard to tell which act was enjoyed most; certainly the entire performance was a delightful diversion.

CAROLINA ELEVEN GIVES WAKE FOREST A 35 TO 0 DISAPPOINTMENT

In a Bitterly Contested Struggle Carolina Used Forward Pass With Success and Finished Strong

Frequent passes, brilliant runs, numerous fumbles, ideal football weather, an abundance of pep, and a fight-to-the-finish spirit characterized Carolina's 35 to 0 victory over Wake Forest on the Class Field Saturday which Wake Forest desperately sought to avert by almost every method known.

The Wake Forest players entered the game confident of a victory or a close game, and the result was a serious disappointment to them. Thep kept their hope strong, however, until the fourth quarter; for up to that stage of the game Carolina had scored only 10 points. The Baptists' defence then broke completely, and in the fourth quarter Carolina scored 25 of her 35 points, 19 of which forward passes over left end put across the line.

Wake Forest's play became more desperate and bitter as Carolina's score increased. Injuries, substitutions, penalties and little battles of a purely personal nature between the linesmen, became frequent. Captain Tayloe and Wright, of Carolina, and Riddick, of Wake Forest, were injured to such an extent that they had to leave the field.

The nebulous atmosphere of Carolina's play made it hard to single out any particular stars; but Captain Tayloe's 82 yard return of a kick off, Long's punting, passing and running, Love's two touchdown's following his pretty catches of forward passes, and Reid's line-plunging were shining features of Carolina's play. The frequent fumbles of the Tar Heel team, however, dimmed the brilliancy somewhat. Wake Forest made her best gains in the first half from forward and lateral passes, aided by Billings' quick and sure throwing; but in the latter part of the game the Carolina backfield succeeded in breaking up the attempted passes.

Carolina scored in the first, second and fourth quarters. Tandy's drop-kick from the 20 yard line furnished the first score. Long's 15 yard run around left end in the second quarter made it 10 to 0. In the fourth quarter Hines' touchdown, which put the finishing touches to Tayloe's 82 yard run, added to two touchdowns by Love and one by Davis on forward passes made Carolina's total 35.

The line up was as follows:

Carolina	Position	Wake Forest
	Left End
Wright		Harris
	Left Tackle
Royall		Blackmon
	Feft Guard
Cowell		Parker
	Center
Tandy		Abernethy
	Right Guard
J. Tayloe		Howel
	Right Tackle
F. Jones		Moor
	Right End
Homewood		Holding
	Quarterback

MUSICIANS TO TAKE TWO ONE WEEK TRIPS

Epps and Wright to Direct Musical Syndicate

It is necessary to be a diversified musician these days indeed to pass even the preliminary requirements of the combined Orchestra, Mandolin Club, and Glee Club. As membership in this triple entente is to be restricted to the customary number of thirty, every successful applicant must demonstrate his talents in at least two branches of music.

The Glee Club and the Orchestra have already selected their squad of performers, though it is probable that the process of canning will be followed out in the first few rehearsals. The Mandolin Club held its try out Tuesday, Oct. 12.

Preston Epps who directed the Glee Club last year is again acting in that capacity, while W. C. Wright is conducting the Mandolin Club and the Orchestra. The musicians plan to make two tours of one week each, one this fall and one in the spring. The fall trip which begins Dec. 6 and includes the week following, will cover the western section of the State and may include Asheville. The definite itinery of either journey has not as yet been arranged. The spring trip will be toward the coast.

UNIVERSITY DAY

Universities, conversely, to "grown up ladies," rather proclaim than conceal their ages. So in all printed matter dealing with University Day and in the Memorial Hall proclamations, the twelfth of October was referred to as the University's one hundred and twenty second birthday. As universities go, we are just middle-aged, and not qualified to adopt that air of venerableness that the Sorbonne and the University of Bologna are entitled to. These institutions, however, have gathered their age year by year, which seems to be the one really satisfactory way to mature.

So it is appropriate that we celebrate the passing of another of the units in which age is measured. What has passed with the expired year should possibly be narrated, according to the historian's custom of devoting one chapter to peace and ten to storm and stress. We feel, however, that while the University has been at peace with itself and the world during the past year, it has developed steadily, and at present continues to grow more successful in its aim to serve the State.

HE FOOTBALL SEASON

While we can feel encouraged over the outcome of the game with Wake Forest, we have no reason to be inflated with expectations of continued success. As a general rule, we are all liable to fall into the error of considering our future struggles hardly more difficult than those of our past. Our most recent victory tried our strength in a way, but by no means to the same degree to which it will be tried in the games yet to be played. When we consider the fact that the game Saturday was Wake Forest's first, that it was held on our field where we could bring all our substitutes into play; when we consider that the coming games are to be played with much stronger teams, in our opponents' territory, where our full string of substitutes will not be available, the difficulty of our situation appears more nearly in its true proportions. We have no reason to exploit our virtues, but every reason to work hard and consistently throughout the entire season.

THE BAND

You have heard our band. It has been organized almost two weeks and has played in public three times. It made its first appearance last Saturday at the game. And as the players came on the field with their instruments they were greeted with laughter. Why?

Because the band has been a joke for years. Each fall incomplete sets of antiquated music are brought out and struggled over until Thanksgiving; then since it is not self-supporting, the band becomes an object of charity. Speches are made justifying its existence and exorting the students to give of their much needed cash to support it, this they do most unselfishly; and the band gets to Richmond. Last year Mr. Warren gave fifteen dollars out of his own pocket to get it there. And once there was it worth while? Well, its preliminary concert Thanksgiving morning was not so bad, but when needed at the game that afternoon it was played out. The desultory and infrequent rehearsals during the fall had neither developed confidence nor the necessary 'lip.' This has happened annually, and the band has come to be recognized as a failure.

Now there are three reasons why this is so. 1. Lack of music and lack of coaching; 2. temporary organization; 3. attitude of students.

This year Mr. C. T. Woolen has offered to provide music. This year, too, the band is fortunately composed of musicians experienced enough to require little instruction. But the last reason has yet to be lived down. It is the same old trouble experienced in the matter of yells. Many look down on the band as they do on cheering; they "lack the courage of their convictions." They want to hear a good band as they want to hear good yells, and yet they would not like to be seen yelling or taking an active part in the band.

The 1915 band has made a good start and justified its own existence. Last Saturday it put more pep into that crowd than had been known for many a moon, yet it had a repertoire of only 5 pieces, three of which were played by ear. New music has been ordered, and regular practice provided for. Steps will be taken for permanent organization. We hope to have a band that will last all the year and continue in coming years. We need a good band. When we get one, then arrangements may be made for its permanent support; for if it proves worth while, the Athletic Association, now on paying basis and with every prospect of a surplus in the future, should be able to support it financially.

Now get the right attitude. College Spirit should be centered around the band—and is in all of the larger institutions. Don't knock, but show that you have as much patroitism as those who constitute the band by getting out and cheering as heartily and openly as they play their instruments And remember, the band is not for the band or for the team only but for everyone in college.

DR. WOODBRIDGE TO GIVE McNAIR LECTURES

Distinguished Philosopher from Columbia

Professor Frederick James Eugene Woodbridge, of Columbia University, will deliver the McNair lectures here February. Professor Woodbridge is a man of much note and wide experience. He has occupied important places in the Philosophy Department of Minnesota. After leaving there he took up studies in Philosophy in the University of Berlin. Professor Woodbridge is at present editor of the two philosophical journals of America, and also is a member of the philosophical associations of this country. Furthermore, he holds the position of Dean of the Graduate School at Columbia, and is also head of the Philosophy Department of that institution. It will probably be remembered by many that Professor Woodbridge represented Columbia University here at President Graham's inauguration last spring.

The first of these McNair Lectures, established by an endowment in the will of John Calvin McNair, class of 1848, was given in 1908. Their object is "to show the mutual bearing of science and religion upon each other and to prove the existence of attributes of God from nature. They have been given by such distinguished men as Dr. D. S. Jordan, President of Leland Stanford; Professor Henry Van Dyke; Dr. George Vincent, President of the University of Minnesota; and Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, President of Yale.

Phi Chi and Junior Orders Initiate

The Junior Order of Gimghoul initiated last week Grimsley Taylor, Tom Strange, Hugh Smith, W. R. Allen and W. T. Polk. The Junior Order of Gorgon's Head initiated George Norwood, Frank Shamburgher, S. F. Telfair, M. E. Robinson, "Goatie" Wright, Graham Ramsay, and Professor Hanford.

The medical fraternity of Phi Chi took in Carlisle Morris, Hunter Sweeney and Douglas Cannon.

Appeal to Every Citizen

"In view of this state of affairs it is evident that our republic must make its appeal to every citizen. Not to the consuls alone, but to every man who loves his country has the order gone forth to see to it that no harm comes to the state.

Dr. Kirkland continued by saying that we should rejoice in these duties of citizenship and should regard ourselves as a part of the goverument.

Pittsburg University, the team that Coach Duff coached before coming here, completely overpowered the Navy Saturday by the score of 47 to 12.

EXPERIENCE is a good school, but that ain't any excuse for always stayin' in the same class. When you're done tryin' out the "pretty fair" smokes, try VELVET, the smoothest.

122nd Anniversary

Concluded from 1st Page

Carolina's recent graduates, Phil Woollcott and "Ratty" Ranson. A number of other alumni clubs, and a host of individuals sent greetings.

After the greetings had been read, "Integer Vitae" was rendered by the University Quartette and following this the college song was sung. Rev. Dr. Smith said the benediction.

In the afternoen, between the hours of four and six, President and Mrs. Graham gave an informal reception to the members of the faculty, the alumni, the senior class, and members of the student council. The receiving line was composed of members of the faculty and their wives. The beauty of the mansion was added to by very attractive floral decorations.

Cream, cakes, and mints were served by the young ladies present. On the lawn, Mrs. Dey and Mrs. Henderson presided at the punch bowl.

The University's birthday was remembered throughout the State, as well as on the campus. Members of the faculty assisted the old students in doing homage to their Alma Mater, giving addresses before alumni clubs in many sections. Tuesday evening, Professor W. S. Bernard spoke in Rocky Mount, Professor Horace Williams in Charlotte, Professor E. C. Branson in Rockingham, and Dr. Mangum in Raleigh. Wednesday night, Dr. Archibald Henderson spoke in Winston-Salem; and Presikent Graham was scheduled to speak in Concord, but wan unable to do so.

Dr. Kirkland's Address

A full synopsis of Dr. Kirkland's address, the chief feature of the day, follows.

"I esteem it a great honor to have a share in this important occasion. It is not an ordinary celebration held in memory of some individual or to perpetuate some one name. It calls to mind the history of more than a century. The story of this small village enlarges to dimensions as large as the state and as wide as human interest. University Day becomes North Carolina Day and many names and different memories are recalled by the friends who take part in it.

"It is significant that the movement for state education began in the South. North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia were pioneers in this work, although the movement was later carried on elsewhere to perfection. It is significant too that those early educational movements had their origin in the efforts of a few determined leaders. They were not the outgrowth of an educational system prevailing in the state. They were not created by surplus wealth seeking a field for investment. Those movements were the expression of great convictions that all material development and political growth were directly related to the outcome of education.

"Those early leaders were patriots in the highest degree. Jefferson was a type of all when he linked the work of founding the University of Virginia with his work in writing the Constitution of his country.

"In the past these educational institutions have fulfilled their promise. They have been instruments of public service, models of public opinion, guardians of liberty, promoters of culture and religion. Their task changes with each generation. Again they must help to find a new interpretation of the law and duty of public service, a new definition of patriotism and a new meaning of liberty. The state calls always to its citizens for unselfish service. One era is a military one; another age calls for enlargement of territory and pioneer enterprises; another calls for material development; another for constructive statesmanship and power of organization. When this University was founded in 1795, the task it was expected to perform for the state was far different from its obligation to-day. Since that time the state of North Carolina has changed and our whole country has changed. The thirteen original states have increased to nearly half a hundred and four millions of inhabitants have grown to one hundred millions. The little strip of territory along the Atlantic Seaboard has widened and expanded until it has reached the golden gates on the shores of the broad Pacific. And thus the face of our country has changed and the spirit of the people has developed.

Inventions Change Life

"Aside from our territorial growth let us look at our commercial development. All the world has changed in the last century. One might write volumes on the inventions and discoveries that have been made. Some of these have come with startling suddenness: some slowly, a step at a time. Some have changed the current of history. Consider for one moment the changes that have come with the development of railroad transportation. One hundred years ago a governor of the State of New York in a public document commended the digging of canals, but warned against the vain hope that steam railroads could ever be of material advantage to this country."

Dr. Kirkland then showed how recent inventions have revolutionized our industries and commerce.

"Look for a moment at the details of life and compare these with the life of one hundred years ago. Some of us may find sufficient contrast in the days of our childhood. Our homes are new in every detail, our domestic economy is altered, our apparel is changed, not in fashion only, but in every detail of manufacture and composition. Changes have taken place in every task. The farmer of to-day has his planters, reapers, binders, threshers, and cultivators. He uses a new vocabulary, he lives in a world of new duties and new experiences. Our cities are climbing to the sky. The very face of the earth looks upon the stars with a new expression. A gold dollar may be practically unchanged since fifty years ago, but all evidences of wealth-stocks and bonds are now issued on forms of industry unknown fifty years ago."

But Unhappiness Remains

"These changes are not merely on the surface. They reach deep into the heart of society and have affected the history of government itself. If an angel had announced one hundred years ago the great changes in store for the world, how the strength of one man was to be equal to that of ten, who would not have believed the millenium to be approaching? But has happiness increased? Have we not seen even in these latter days the beginnings of our most serious questions—the development of capitalism on the on the one hand and the new industrialism on the other? When was ever poverty so deep, wealth so grinding, or power so remorseless as in these latter days? Whole volumes are written to-day on the tendencies of modern capitalism. The government is enlisted in the struggle between those who control wealth on the one hand and those who furnish labor on the other. The socialist has come boldly forward with a program for a new form of government and a new order of society. Under cover of darkness the red flag of anarchy is raised in the very forum of our cities. Many hearts are failing through fear, and who can foretell the end?

Appeal to Every Citizen

"In view of this state of affairs it is evident that our republic must make its appeal to every citizen. Not to the consuls alone, but to every man who loves his country has the order gone forth to see to it that no harm comes to the state.

Dr. Kirkland continued by saying that we should rejoice in these duties of citizenship and should regard ourselves as a part of the goverument.

"From this standpoint, it is plain that the duty of the citizen does not end with the casting of the vote, no matter how honestly or intelligently. It involves further interest in and study of all social and civic problems and an effort to make such study an effective factor in influencing legislation.

"There are many problems of government that need much investigation. The right line of action is not always clear and real differences of opinion may sometimes exist among citizens equally honest and patriotic. The task here is one scientific investigation in which all agencies, public and private, ought to unite. Congress and state legislatures should in such cases appoint commissions for the purpose of investigation. Party politics ought to give way to a campaign of education for the general good. Universities should be called in to aid in such studies and to furnish men for the task. Such problems worthy of this method of treatment of the great questions of finance, of currency, of the relation of gold to silver, of free coinage—once of silver, now of gold—of banks and bank regulation. Other problems are those of taxation, the best methods of raising revenue for the state, city, and federal government. This involves our great question of the tariff. Still others are the now over-shadowing problems of the relation of the government towards combination of capital and towards the needs of the labor. Right here is the sharpest struggle of present times, the bitterest warfare and the most persistent antagonism.

"For the settlement of these problems patriotic citizens must exert themselves. Our favorite method of working to-day is by establishing societies for furnishing information on some special subject, for agitating in favor of some special reform. But while the most effective service is usually rendered by large societies, one individual may sometimes start a movement of national significance. Again and again there is one leader—man or woman—who starts a work of national importance and becomes in a small community the radiant point of some special form of civic service. A poem may be written or an article for a daily, and from this may date a new era. A cry was uttered on the street, "Remember the Maine!" It was repeated by the press, caught up by public speakers, and finally brought on war between two nations. A book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin", contributed more largely than can be definitely estimated to the abolition of slavery and a great civil war.

"A few years ago in the city of Boston an extensive civic reform was undertaken. For two weeks meetings were held continuously in no less than thirty-three districts of the city. On the last day of the rally a large body of young people gathered in Fremont Temple and swore the young Athenians' oath, administered by a judge of the Superior Court, to fight for the ideals and aims of their city, both singly and collectively. May we not enlarge this oath to-day and make it not only a pledge to our city, but to our state and common country?

"Our nation was born in a spirit of devotion. Our government was wrought out with care and devotion. Our liberties have been maintained at a sacrifice of treasure and blood, and who knows how often still these expenditures may be called for to preserve our freedom? A Canadian boy employed in the civil service lay dying in Rhodesia. With a smile on his face he said to his friends, "It is glorious to die for the expansion of the empire." If it is glorious to die for territorial expansion, why is it not also glorious to live for the expansion of life, for the uplift of humanity, for freedom of the spirit, for the perfection of civic character?"

Carolina gains 8 on the next two downs, is penalized 15. Long kicks 50. W. F. makes 5 through the line, then gains 23 on a pass by Billings; loses 14 on a fumble. Long intercepts a W. F. pass on her 28 yard line and gains 2 yards. Ball on Carolina's 30 yard line. Long punts 30, no return. Three successive times Wake Forest passes, all blocked by our backs. W. F. punts 33 to Long, he returns 7. Half out. Carolina 10; Wake Forest 0.

Third Quarter:

Billings kicks off 50, Reid returns 22. W. F. penalized 5. Reid 8 through line. Carolina fumbles, W. F. recovers; Tayloe beautifully blocks forward pass, Carolina blocks three more Baptist passes. Carolina's ball, Townsend fails to gain, Carolina penalized 15, ball goes over. W. F., gets 15 on a pass, but loses 8 on a fumble, pass fails, ball goes over to Carolina, Long's blocked kick goes 15 yards, W. F. gains 10, ball 25 yards from Carolina's goal. Wake Forest penalized 10. Billing's drop fails, Townsend recovers the ball, Long punts 40, ball in midfield. W. F. loses 7 when Royall makes pretty tackle, Tayloe intercepts pass, Carolina gains 3, 0, then fails in long forward pass which Homewood barely touches. Long punts ball to W. F. 15 yard line, W. F. punts to Long, Townsend goes 50 yards through the line, Reid 4, W. F. penalized 5, Carolina's ball 15 yards from W. F. goal, Carolina fumbles, W. F. recovers, Homewood blocks W. F. punt, which W. F. recovers, W. F. punts 30 yards and Long returns 5. Quarter out. Carolina 10; Wake Forest 0.

Fourth Quarter:

Carolina's ball in midfield. Townsend makes 2 through the line, then 15 around right end. Reid gains 1, forward pass fails, Carolina tries another pass which Love catches and carries 35 yards for a touchdown. Townsend fails to kick goal. Carolina kicks off to W. F. 20 yard line, she returns 10, Long intercepts forward pass and gains 3, Long makes 2 through the line, Love 15 on forward pass, Long 8 around left end, Ball now on W. F. 8 yard line, Black goes through right tackle for 7 yards, Carolina penalized 15 yards on next play, Love receives forward pass and goes 15 yards for his second touchdown. Carolina fails to kick goal. When Wake Forest kicks off again Captain Tayloe makes an 82 yard run through the entire Baptist team, but is tackled in 2 yards of the goal, a line play leaves the ball almost straddling the Wake Forest goal line. Hines goes around left end for a touchdown, making the score 29 to 0 when Johnny Jones kicks goal. Blount mades a 15 yard return of Wake Forest's next kick off, Long gains 3, punts 40. Allen put in for Long, Fitzsimmons for Bellamy. Ball on W. F. 30 yard line, Hines makes 15 around left end, 5 more through line. Ball goes over on W. F. 10 yard line. W. F. kicks 30. Allen returns 11, Carolina makes 15, then Black makes forward pass to Davis, left end, who goes over goal line for last touchdown. W. F. kicks off again and Carolina carries the ball up the field to W. F. 30 yard line and the game is over.

Final score—Carolina 35—— Wake Forest 0.

BOXING, WRESTLING, FENCING

Council Appoints Committees. Old Commons May Be Used.

The committees of the Student Council who were appointed to look into the matter of establishing boxing, wrestling, and fencing here are as follows: Boxing, Capps and Coats; Wrestling, Crouse and Ramsay; Fencing, Mackie and Armstrong.

An effort is being made to obtain the use of the old Commons Hall, which could be fixed up with mats, etc. It is asked that all of those who are interested in any of these three sports wi help tne committees to get things whipped into definite shape as soon as possible. Professor James, who was the premier fencer of the Eastern Atlantic States, will probably coach the fencing. All men who are at all interested in these sports are asked to co-operate with the men on the respective committees right away.

Carolina Receives Gifts

During the summer Carolina was the recipient of a number of appreciated gifts. Of these the first was a check for $1,000 given by the class of 1905 upon the completion of the first decennial after leaving the campus. Thru W. T. Shore, secretary and treasurer of the class, the check has been handed to President Graham to be used by the University in whatever way seems most advisable. Another gift of $400 was received from the class of 1910 to be used as a loan fund and contributed in honor of the late W. R. Edmonds, '10.

Two gifts made to the Library were the Bain memorial collection comprising 600 or 700 volumes from the private library of Latin and Greek classics of the late Dr. C. W. Bain, and a collection of prehistoric relics from Indian mounds. The Bain memorial collection was presented to the Library by the colleagues of Dr. Bain in the faculty. It was also accompanied by the gift of his card indexes and notes through Mrs. Bain. The Indian relics were the gift of Rev. G. W. Lay, rector of St. Mary's School, and formed originally a part of the collection of the late Henry C. Lay, of Telluride, Colorado.

WHAT U. N. C. IS DOING FOR HER FRESHMEN

Y. M. C. A., Faculty, Upper Classes Smooth The Way

With the large increase of freshmen at the University of North Carolina this year, comes a greater responsibility to the authorities and the upper classmen. This body of new men must be made to feel at home, as well as initiated into the spirit of college life. They must be supervised and aided in those problems which arise during their first year at college. In order to get the freshman started right and to enable him to make the most of his college career, he is being aided and directed this year more than ever before. No parents need fear to send their sons to college for fear of the lack of adult advice, good friends, religious, mental and physical training. All these are offered to the freshman who enters the University.

Continuation Committee

That the man who is intending to come to the University may realize that the upper classmen have a genuine interest in him, and that when he arrives on the Hill he may find a friend who is ready to help him, the continuation committee was organized at the close of last term. This committee consists of 35 men from the three upper classes with Mr. Lee Edwards of Wake county as chairman. The work of this committee extends through the scholastic year. President Graham sent the names of prospective freshmen this year to Mr. Edwards, who allotted a certain number of names to each member of the committee. Each member then wrote a personal letter to each man assigned to him. Correspondence was carried on with 206 men all of whom, except two, attended the University this fall. The member asked the man to whom he wrote to come to the University, and upon arrival there to look him up. When the freshmen reached Chapel Hill they were met by these members of the continuation committee who aided them in finding their rooms, in registering, and in getting their baggage from the station. At the first Chapel meeting the freshmen and the committeemen met and became acquainted with each other. A few days later another meeting was called, Freshmen handbooks were distributed, and college activities, the honor system, and the problems of student government were explained. The new men are expected to consult with any member whenever he may see fit, and the committeemen in their turn are expected to keep in touch with the freshmen. The purpose of this committee is to promote friendships among the freshmen and the upper classmen, to give them any aid or advice which they may desire, to stimulate their interest in University activities, and to encourage them to pursue those activities in which they were interested while they were in the high school—as debating or athletics.

Faculy Advisors.

Last session also saw the inauguration of a new system of bringing the faculty and the freshmen more intimately in touch with each other.

A committee of 34 members of the faculty (in addition to Profs. Stacy and Daggett) was formed. Eight or ten freshmen are assigned to a member of this committee who acts as the advisor to the men througout the year. The purpose of the committee is threefold.

In the first place, any freshman is at liberty to consult his advisor at any time on any subject which he desires. The committee also endeavors to make the freshman feel at home by inviting him to his home and introducing him to his family. Furthermore, when a new man is not doing well in his work, he is called before the Dean and his trouble remedied if possible. At the end of the year the student meets his advisor who aids him in arranging his course for the next year. This system has resulted in the establishment of a closer relation between the faculty and the students.

Library Instruction.

Dr. L. R. Wilson is also giving a course of library instruction to the new men. This course is given to the eleven sections of Freshman English. There are 75,000 volumes and 700 periodicals in the library. Dr. Wilson is instructing them how to use to the best advantage this large quantity of reading matter. He shows them how to find books by their titles, numbers, or authors, by the use of the card catalogue. He is also showing them how to find material in the magazines with the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature, and other reference sources. This instruction is given with the view of impressing the freshmen with the importance of becoming well-read during their college career.

This year a special section of shelves near the librarian's desk has been filled with books, carefully selected for freshman reading. Here the men may examine the books at leisure, and thereby become sufficiently interested as to take them out for further reading. Many books pertaining to various aspects of college life are among the number.

Gym Work.

Every freshman has an opportunity to participate in some form of athletics. Compulsory drillwork and exercise in the gymnasium are required of every freshman. The freshman class is divided into sections of 65 men, meeting three times a week. Little attention is paid to muscle building, but great stress is placed upon the development of a well-rounded man. The importance of the work lies in the effort to keep the men physically sound, in order that they may attend to their daily classwork properly. Freshmen may also take an active part in other athletic activities such as football, track and tennis.

The Y. M. C. A.

In addition to the continuotion committee the Y. M. C. A. is also doing things for the freshmen. Bible classes meet every Sunday, and a special course in the life of Christ is given to the first year men. If the student desires to enter social work, he can teach in the Sunday schools and night schools. The reading room of the Y. M. C. A. building is always open to the student. At the opening of the University, the Y. M. C. A. promoted the college night exercises, which were intended to give the new men a knowledge of the University, its organizations, and spirit. After these exercises a reception was held in the library under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

In the Y. M. C. A. building a new profit-sharing bookstore has been established which supplies all the students of the University with books at cost.

However, their having defeated the Navy need be no cause for alarm. Pittsburg swamped the same Navy team last week 47—12 and Duff who coached Pittsburg last year, says we have a better team than Pittsburg and are improving steadily. The teams that will meet at Georgetown Saturday average about the same in weight. Georgetown has the advantage of the experience gained in playing Princeton and the Navy and has a fine punter. We are faster in the line, are as heavy throughout and have a punter equally as good as their star, Dempsey. Their best lineman is Gormley who plays left tackle.

The following men will start the game: Tandy, center; Tayloe, J., Cowell, guards; Ramsay and Jones F., tackles; Homewood and Wright, ends; Reid, Townsend, Tayloe D, and Long in the backfield. The second team has not been picked and it is not known yet who the other eleven men for the trip will be.

Leaving here by machine the team will go to Durham and catch a train for Raleigh. At Raleigh Seaboard Pullmans will be taken straight through to Washington. The squad will probably leave Washington late Saturday night to return to the Hill.

FIRST ROUND TENNIS TOURNAMENT PLAYED

23 Contestants. Walke, Herty, Capehart Among Winners

The Varsity Tennis Tournament started off this week in fine style with twenty-two contestants. Drawings were made the first part of the week with the first round to be played by Wednesday night and two days each for the other rounds. Owing to the rainy weather not all the matches in the 1rst round have playen; and those played have been rather slow, the winner nearly always winning in straight 5ets.

The results so far as follows: Proctor nefeated Nims, Powell defeated Yokley, 'Rube' Jernigan defeated Allred, Perry defeated Lynch, Capehert defeated Fenner, Gwyn defeated Page, and Rutledge defeated Jewett.

Ogburn and Cooper, and Wilson and Combs have not played yet.

EX-MAYOR [illegible] W. YORK SPEAKS HERE IN MARCH

To Give Weil Lectures In American Citizenship

George B. McClellan, ex-mayo of New York and one time strongly endorsed as Democratic candidate for President of the United States, will deliver the "We Lectures in American Citizenship" at the University of Nort Carolina next March. Mr. McClellan is now a professor of economic history in Princeton University; and, for several years, has been voted the most popular professor there. He served the Democratic party in the National Congress for eight years and for two years as Mayor of New York City, which is the busiest post in the United States with the exception of that of the President.

"Mr. McClellan is without a peer in the United States in the field of economic history," said Dr. Archibald Henderson, chairman of the University Lecture Committee. "The series of lectures which he will deliver here March 29, 30, 31, bid fair to constitute one of the most important events of the year at the University. Mr. McClellan is, moreover, an authority on Italian politics and city government, and is the author of numerous books on these subjects."

FOOTBALL ELECTRICAL SCORE BOARD

An Even Hundred Lights on It To Be Used Saturday.

Carolina is to have the unique opportunity of following Saturday's football game by means of a score board operated entirely by electricity. Two weeks ago the Athletic Ass'n gave to the Electrical Engineering Departmen carte blanche in the designing and building of an efficient electric score board. The new scoring device has been steadily under construction in the Electrical Laboratories by the Senior Electric Class under the direct supervisio of Professor Daggett.

To give some idea of the magnitude of the invention, the background is a black board twel feet long and three and a h feet high. The indicators lights of various colors numb ing an even hundred. If the used were to be strung in a continuous line, it would extend fr the Athletic Field to the P. Office. Every time the ball is into play nine switches are mov Several persons are necessary to the proper operation of the boa The position of the ball on field to a yard will be shown all times. At a glance one m see the number of downs and yards to go. At every play distance through which the moves is represented. The bo also indicates the man who the ball, where the ball goes, h it goes, by whom it is stopped, the position of the ball before and after the play.

It may be remarked that notwithstanding this new feature the continuous reports, prices will be lower than in the past.

E. P. Andrews was initiated into the Beta Theta Pi fraternity Tuesday Night.

THE EXTENTION LECTURES

University Professors to Speak Throughout The State

The members of the faculty of the University, working through the Bureau of Extension, will this year continue to give lectures throughout the State whenever their services are asked. The lectures offered generally fall into three groups:

I. Popular lectures of general interest.

II. Specific and technical lectures for Women's Clubs, Study Clubs, Teachers' Institutes, Teachers' Meetings, Farmers' Meetings, Y. M. C. A. Gatherings, and Chamber of Commerce Meetings, etc.

III. Lectures or addresses for special meetings, such as commencements, patriotic and dedicatory occasions, Memorial Day exercises, conventions, etc.

The only charge incident to the giving of a lecture is for the traveling expenses of the speaker.

A little booklet containing the names of the professors offering their services and the subjects that they have volunteered to speak on will soon be gotten out by the Board of Education and distributed all over the State. Applications should be addressed to E. R. Rankin, assistant director of the Board of Education.

Last year this system of lectures was offered by the Bureau of Extension, and schools and organizations all over the State were eager to avail themselves of the opportunity thus offered. More than 30 professors last year volunteered to speak on 130 subjects.

500 Room on Campus—600 Outside

"The University buildings contain one hundred and sixty-five double furnished rooms, and eighty-two double unfurnished rooms available for the accomodation of students." In spite of these big sounding numbers only 502 students can be accommodated comfortably "on the campus." This means that at the very least 600 students of the University of North Carolina have to room "somewhere out in town."

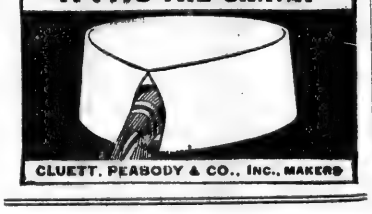
CO-EDS.

Seven co-eds have thus far registered in college. Four of these, namely, Misses Barton, Wilson, Bryan and McGlamery are taking special work; two, Misses Watson and Picard are pursuing A. B. degrees; Miss Miller is doing post-graduate work.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE FOR CLASS TEAMS READY

Juniors and Freshmen Play First Game Friday

Through the colaboration of the managers and coaches of the class teams the following schedule of class football games has been made:



Juniors vs Freshmen Oct. 15.
Seniors vs Sophs Oct. 16.
Sophs vs Freshmen Oct. 21.
Seniors vs Juniors Oct. 23
Juniors vs Sophs Oct 30.
Seniors vs Freshmen Nov. 4.
Sophs vs Juniors Nov. 6.
Juniors vs Freshmen Nov. 9.
Sophs vs Seniors Nov. 13.
Freshmen vs Sophs Nov. 18.
Seniors vs Juniors Nov. 20.
Seniors vs. Freshmen Nov. 23.

Class football will start tomorrow with the game between the Juniors and the Freshmen. There are various predictions as to how the game will end, but at any rate the game will be a close and interesting one. The Juniors have the advantage of a much heavier line and a slightly heavier backfield. However, the Freshmen have a backfield which, although not so heavy, is composed of a fast bunch. In case the game resolves itself into a punting contest, the Juniors will have the advantage of Coleman's big toe, and the Freshmen will depend on the kicking ability of Shepherd. Coleman punts like an old hand at the game, and if he had the build he would be a wonder. The men on the Freshmen team who have shown up well for the past few days are Hazelhurst, Culbertson, Green, and Shepherd. For the Juniors Eagle, Coleman, Ransom, and Harris have shown up well. The game will be played on the present varsity field.

The Sophs got down to real work Monday and have shown both pep and form. As yet it is rather hard to ascertain the relative strength of the teams, but the Sophs have a good chance of getting in the finals. They will have practically the same team that they had last year with one or two exceptions. They have earnestly stated that they at least expect to score this year. Their line will be somewhat stronger than it was at the first of the year, owing to the fact that they will get some good material from the varsity field.

This year the Seniors are to have a heavy line and a good backfield. They will liven things up a bit if they will only get down to real practice. A guess at their backfield would be Lewis, Patterson, Huske, and Pike. All of these men have had experience and should make a good showing. The two games Friday and Saturday will give a fairly good indication of the relative strength of the teams.

Inauguration Pictures

The University is in possession of moving picture films of the inauguration of President Graham last April. During the summer school the reels were run locally by the Pickwick in connection with a regular performance. Governor Craig, Secretary Daniels, President Graham, the march of the different classes and representatives of learned societies and colleges, were splendidly caught by the camera, and the pictures were especially clear and interesting. The reels will probably be shown throughout the State during the winter.

BEST LIVESTOCK AND CROPS

N. C. The Place For Them According To Paper In N. C. Club

At the North Carolina Club meeeting in the Y. M. C. A. reading room Monday night Mr. M. H. Randolph of Mecklenburg County delivered apaper on "Agriculture in North Carolina, Variety and Adaptability of Seasons." He said in part:

"Good soils and favorable seasons are the two most important considerations in crop farming and livestock industries. North Carolina has the two assets in rare combination.

"The mean summer temperature of the state is 76 degrees while the mean winter temperature is 40 degrees. Thus we know nothing of the extremes of heat and cold suffered by the North and West. Furthermore short and mild winters coupled with an abundance of rain give North Carolina a distinct advantage as a live stock region. Pigs, lambs, and poultry can be raised with ease throughout the state."

He concluded his talk by showing that the soils of our state are equally as favorable as the seasons.

A Good Example

The Wake County Club, which met last week in the Y. M. C. A., decided to send the Tar Heel to every high school in Wake county. Besides this, personal letters will be sent by the club to every male member of the various graduating high school classes in which the aims of the University will be set forth. In this way the club will try to let these prospective students see why they need the University; and why the University needs them.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

Would that we might obey the inspiration of the muses and give unto the world a profound dissertation on what happened last Saturday, in the form of an editorial! But no, THE BOARD decrees that we must chronicle the Gossip of the Dressing Room, so bring unto us a safety razor blade of fine steel and a bottle of Coca Cola, for our pencil and our wits must e'en be sharpened. We will take our text from the Second Book of Samuel, wherein a similar circumstance is set forth. As it is written of the chosen people so it was with us, even as the Prophet, Doggie, did foretell.

The hordes of the Forest of Wake descended upon us like the Philistines upon the children of Israel; three hundred strong they gathered together and did come to Chapel Hill upon a special train.

And they went out and stationed themselves on the east side of the Class Field, and our men did occupy the West side. Then there arose and went out eleven of these Philistines who did challenge eleven from our number to rise up against them.

And the Coaches addressed our host, saying, "now let your hands be strengthened and be ye valiant, and neither forget ye your signals, for ye must smite these men that they trouble us no more."

Then did our eleven proceed against them, and the trumpets blasted, and we did kick the ball unto Wake Forest. And it came to pass that there was a great scrimmage and our host did smite them sorely. And our brave Slob Jones when he did Wake a Forest guy to the fact that his blood was upon his own head for butting against us, spake unto him as he arose and girded up his loins, "Brother, I verily almost breaked thy necketh, did I notteth? But be not disheartened, pick up thy headgear and go thy way." And he did nurse his bones and limp unto the bench, grumbling as he went, "Yes, confound thee, thou didst knotteth my spine even as a mariner's rope." And the like did happen when Metz did crown him a man and many times in the day, and we did cheer for the Woodsmen as they went down in defeat, for they were brave but the Lord was not on their side.

And it came to pass that they did try to blow through Reid as through their native Forest, but they did butt against something Blount. It fain was Riddickulous when they did get Black eyes right and left, and Long did Love to pull off those forward passes. And our men did shout unto them and say, "Now watch ye, and do not get Gay, for we are all Wright, whereas ye are getting too rusty. We will even treat you Royally, though you may get Grimey with Chapel Hill mud." Now the battle raged until the setting of the sun and when they went down in defeat before us they retreated on their Special Train because it is said of them that they preferred their native Forest to our Homewood.

Picnic On Campus Rally Day

The students, the faculty, the citizens of the town and surrounding country are looking forward with much joy to Rally Day, October 29. On this day Chapel Hill will be the center of happiness, good cheer, good fellowship, and good eatables for this section of North Carolina. The various committees are at work to make this day a great success. All are working hard and pulling together, and they report that matters are progressing so splendidly that they can assure every one some degree of pleasure on Rally Day. Perhaps the most interesting feature of this day of good fellowship, looked at from the point of view of the student, is the picnic on the campus.

TELEPATHY, CHANCE AND ROMANCE COMBINED

All Figure Largely In "The Witching Hour"

In selecting "The Witching Hour," by Augustus Thomas for production this year the Dramatic Club has undertaken to present a type of play very different from anything hitherto attempted. The author of the play is a man quite well known as one of the leading figures in modern American Drama. Mr. Thomas uses as the themes of his dramas questions that are engaging the public mind and for this reason his productions have always enjoyed successful runs. Two of his plays deal with the telepathic theme. The "Witching Hour" is one. The mental telepathy theory was a favorite subject for discussion several years ago and was handled by playwrights as well as by psychologists. The "Witching Hour" by Mr. Thomas is probably the best dramatic treatment of the question.

The complication of the "Witching Hour" arises from the lack of self restraint on the part of a young man because of an inherited trait—The power of mental suggestion is a strong factor in determining the course of the events of the plot. The mental telepathy theme is used freely throughout the play but by no means dominates it entirely. Besides several very dramatic situations there are two love incidents in the play. The situations of the play are carefully and strongly woven together, making the plot interest strong. Louisville, Kentucky and Washington, D. C. are scenes of the action of the play.

An excellent variety of character is found among the various personages of the cast. The role of Jack Brookfield, a professional gambler, is the principal part in the play—always calm, even in the greatest personal danger, generous, cool and calculating when engaged in his business of gambling, but still retaining his gentlemanly instincts; a man whose moral fiber is not killed by his love for gambling, but one who is still enough of a man to be able to let the best in him overcome his weak side. It is his natural dominance of other people and his control over himself that make him very adept in the exercise of mental telepathy. From the standpoint of character interest the role of Justice Prentice, an old man who comes with him in his old age many

FOUR MILE CROSS-COUNTRY RACE HERE NOV.

Trinity and A. & M. Have Already Entered

Hazel Patterson, captain of the Varsity track team has issued a call for prospective candidates for the track team to meet at the Gymnasium every afternoon at 4:30 to begin practice. Captain Patterson states that there will be a four-mile cross-country held here on the Durham road some time between November 19 and 25. It will probably be held on the 20th of November. All of the colleges in the state have been asked to participate in this race, and it is thought all will do so. Trinity and A. & M. have already been heard from, and both have agreed to enter men in this four-mile race. The other colleges have not yet responded to the invitation to take part in the meet, but there is no reason to suppose that they will not have strong representatives here when the big day arrives.

The following are some of Carolina's men who are going to try out for the four-mile run: Gannt, who ran the two-mile race for Virginia at the S. I. A. A. meet in Baltimore, and won first place over "Fido" Smith, a former Carolina track star; Upchurch, whose record last year puts him among the foremost long distance runners of the state; Rand, whose past two years on the track team have proved that he is a hard man to beat; Yorke, Jimmie Harrison, and Captain Patterson.

Medals will be given to three runners who are the first to complete the four-mile trip. The man finishing first will be given a gold medal; the one finishing second; a silver; and the third one, a bronze medal. Each college will be allowed four representatives in the race who will count. The team scoring the smallest number of points will be the victor. The first man to finish will count 1 point, the second man, 2 points; the third, 3 points, and so on.

The Athletic Association has promised to furnish a coach for the men, but so far no contract has been signed for one. Meanwhile, Captain Patterson and the older men will undertake to do the coaching. All Freshmen who are interested in this form of athletics are urged to come out and try for a place on the team. The man who comes out first for Carolina will get his sweater monogram just the same as if he had made the regular Varsity track team.

An Invitation

"The football team and the student body of the University of North Carolina are cordially invited to attend the dance given by the Greensboro Cotillion Club at the Country Club at nine o'clock on the evening of Saturday, October the twenty-third, nineteen hundred and fifteen."

38 TO 0 TELLS THE TRAGEDY OF GEORGETOWN AGAINST CAROLINA

Gilroy the Villain; Ran Off With Four Touchdowns For Georgetown. Carolina Offence Weak; Made 1st Down Only Once

Six touchdowns and two extra points from goals gave the blue and gray of Georgetown a 38 to 0 victory over the blue and white of Carolina Saturday in Washington. Georgetown's defence was almost impenetrable while her offence was powerful.

Carolina was outplayed, according to the Washington papers, in every department of the game except one—punting.

The field was muddy and the ball slippery, but even these circumstances did not excuse all of Carolina's fumbles.

Gilroy, left-half, who made four of Georgetown's six touchdowns, was the most brilliant star of the game. Tandy, Homewood and J. Tayloe were towers of strength in Carolina's line. But the University's offence was poor, for the Tar Heels made their first down only once during the whole game. The Washington Post said:

"The stubborn resistance of the sturdy warriors from the far South was short-lived. Twelve minutes after the start of hostilities, Center Tandy, mainstay of Carolina's line of forwards, uncorked a bad pass to Quarterback Loug on kick formatoin.

"The ball evaded Long's grasp and quick as a flash "Red" Cusack, veteran flanker of the local force, broke through and pounced on the elusive pigskin. This gave Georgetown just within Carolina's teritory. There was an excuse for Tandy's error in that the ball had been rendered slippery by by bounding on the soggy turf But the turn seemed to set Georgetown's powerful machine in motion and only two plays were required for the first score.

"'Petey' Wall hit left tackle behind splendid interference for five yards. Gilroy was sent thru the other side, and this sterling player didn't stop until he had crossed the Carolina barrier 35 yards away, twisting and squirming thru the struggling mass, evading tackles after tackles until his task had been completed."

After this first score Georgetown's efficient machine settled down to steady work and seemed to have little trouble in turning out five more touchdowns.

The line-up was as follows:

Georgetown	Position	Carolina
	Left End
Cusack		Wright
	Left Tackle
Ward		Ramsay
	Left Guard
Mahlum		Cowell
	Center
Fitzgerald		Tandy
	Right Guard
Barron (Capt)		J. Tayloe
	Right Tackle
Gormley		Jones
	Right End
Corcoran		Homewood
	Quarter Back
McNamara		Long
	Left Half
Wall		Townsend
	Right Half
Gilroy		D. Tayloe
	Full Back
Leighty		Reed

Score by periods—Georgetown, 6, 14, 12, 6—38; Carolina, 0, 0, 0, 0—0.

Detailed Account

First quarter:

Carolina won the toss and chose to defend the south goal. Fitzgerald kicked to Reed, who returned ten yards. Long tried center, using Reed, but failed. On a fake kick formation Long found an opening for five. Tandy's pass to Long on punt formation went wide, Corcoron tackling for a loss of 20 yards.

Long punted to Georgetown's 35-yard line; Georgetown gained but little and the ball went over to Carolina. Long tried Tayloe and Townsend without gain, then punted 40 yards. Georgetown in her turn was forced to punt, giving the ball to Carolina near

HELPFULNESS

To those who want to be of service, the diverse branches of work offered by the Y. M. C. A. may prove suitable.

The Y. M. C. A., as the words might signify, does not restrict itself entirely to religious work. One of its extra-religious activities is teaching moonlight schools. Within short distances of Chapel Hill there are numbers of illiterate people. These the Y. M. C. A. is endeavoring to give, at least, some fundamentals of education. These efforts have met with encouraging response; the student teachers have lacked enthusiastic co-operation from the rural districts. In fact, the number of those attending the schools is increasing all the time; which naturally requires an increasing number of teachers. The Y. M. C. A. is, therefore, calling for volunteers; not to enter the foreign fields as missionaries, but to teach here in our own community. The Y. M. C. A. believes that anyone who enters this work is permanently benefitted. The spirit of helpfulness, they say, "blesses him that gives and him that takes." Teaching by night, furthermore, is complementary to our diurnal activities as students.

The conducting of night schools is only a part of the diversified work of the Y. M. C. A. There are other branches equally interesting, equally helpful. Assistance is needed to continue these various enterprises, and it is hoped the volunteers will be many The men who anticipate taking part in this work will find the meeting next Friday night in the Y. M. C. A. at eight o'clock of genuine tnterest.

MARGINS

It is irritating to a dealer in country produce to have his rival's tomatoes preferred just because they are slightly larger and firmer. It is disappointing to an actor to be dismissed from a company because his articulation is only slightly less clear-cut than his competitor's. The footpall player feels chagrined to be left behind when his rival, who is only a little more skilled than he, leaves in the red automobile for the big game. We are rather vexed than discouraged to lose out by a mere margin, because we realize that what resulted disastrously might possibly have ended in victory. But defeat by a margin is none the less a sure defeat.

We sometimes challenge the justice of this condition, as though by our arguments we could rearrange the entire affair. None of us can make the law of margins inoperative. None of us, by objecting can make a nine foot bridge span a stream of ten feet. Yet what virtue can twelve inches have if nine feet have none?

An engine with a hundred pounds of steam pressing it to act, may still be motionless; but five pounds added may urge it from its indolence.

One piece of fabric may be less elegant than another only by the slightest margin, but for that slight difference that latter cloth is chosen?

The difference between success and failure is not always measured, like hay, in bulk. Success oftentimes depends on such delicate points as can only be estimated in troy weight. There is oftentimes only a slight margin between mediocrity and excellence, possibly an hour of work, a third trial, a little practice. In the modicum there is such potency that oftentimes the man who is willing to spend a little labor on an article which satisfies another person, achieves superiority, where superiority is synonymous with success.

VICTORY AND DEFEAT

About success there is a pleasing quality which makes us glad. We are proud and happy, and feel greater confidence for the future.

Defeat is provocative of quite as many feelings. It confirms the pessimist's gloom, making him more courageous as a prophet, and oftentimes causes even those who have held high hopes to become complainers.

Of these two outcomes which may result from any effort, defeat, being the more pertinent, is the more fitting to discuss.

To the man incapable of higher feelings, defeat has no virtues. It means mortification, discouragement, and sullenness. These, however, are only the worse half of the feelings that defeat arouses. The true man oftentimes receives through favor a stimulus which any number of triumphs could not engender, an impetus to remove his weaknesses and retrieve his failure. Not stunned but stimulated to exceeding effort, he sets about with sober hope to win.

"So let it be with Caesar."

This year's contest of the High School Debating Union promises to be very successful. A large number of schools have enrolled and others are entering the lists daily. The number enrolled last year was 250 but it is expected that this number will be exceeded this year.

CRITICAL COMMENTS

G. U. Game Greatest Disgrace Since Virginia's 66 to 0

U. N. C. FORGETS TO FIGHT

Coaches Are Now Putting the Team Through Some Rigorous Work

There is not a man at Carolina who is not ashamed of last Saturday's game. The alumni feel the same way about it. It is the greatest disgrace Carolina has had to suffer since Virginia defeated us 66 to 0. What was the trouble? Here is an extract of a letter from an alumnus which partly answers the question:

"Our team knew enough to hold Georgetown to two touchdowns. A great many of the alumni who are paying for better coaching say that the team didn't give us what they had. Can a coach inject a desire to win? Is there any way to make a yellow team fight? These are questions which we are asking each other."

We do not agree that our team is yellow, but we cannot dispute the fact that they did not fight. How else can we explain last Saturday's tragedy? There is no excuse for, and no justification of it. Why didn't they fight, then?

Our players seem to have the idea that they are being coached solely for the Virginia game, that all other games are inconsequential, that it will be time enough to fight when we play Virginia. They lack the agressive spirit which is half of a victory, and are content to take the detensive rather than the offensive. Our team is not lacking in ability or in experience; most of our players have played together at least two seasons, and have trained under the best coaching system in the South. There is no denying that Georgetown played professionals, and that they were heavier than our team. But they did not have us hopelessly outclassed, for in the first quarter, we held them about evenly. Also at the beginning of the second half we put up a spurt and stayed with them for a while. Carolina broke through Georgetown's line repeatedly and several times threw them for losses. But our team seemed to think they couldn't be expected to beat a team of ringers like Georgetown; and most of the time just stood around waited until the game was over, so that they could see the sights of Washington.

Long punted well during the entire game, but made to two or three fumbles. partly due to poor passing. Homewood and Love lost their heads completely, while Big Jones appeared to be in a trance, from which he never awakened. Johnny Cotton Tayloe was the only man on the team who acquitted himself creditably, althongh Dave Tayloe was not lacking in fight while he was in the game. The backfield was put and stayed put; even after the offensive plays had passed the line, they failed to get in motion.

When anything unexpected happened, our men invariably stood open-mouthed waiting to see how it would turn out, instead of running in and doing something. Even if they had done the

CALL TO COLLEGE MEN TO SERVE HUMANITY

Rev. John Griffith Delivers University Sermon

Before the audience that filled Gerard Hall last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. John H. Griffith, Rector of the Episcopal Church of Kinston, N. C., delivered the first University sermon of the year, from the text "Jesus took him by the hand, and lifted him up, and he arose." (Mark 9-27). Mr. Griffith is a scholar, as well as an orator of no mean ability. He has an agreeable personality, good poise, and a commanding voice. He held the rapt attention of his hearers from his first word to his "amen."

The burden of Mr. Griffith's sermon was a call to University men for lives of service to God through service to humanity. This was the same call that came to him twenty years ago, through the instrumentality of a University Alumnus, in obedience to which he left the "Old Dominion" upon his ordination and came to North Carolina, and for twenty years has ministered to human lives.

He pointed out that just so long as society permits the conditions to continue which manufacture criminals, just so long will society reap the reward, and that there is a powerful call to college men to rise up in the strength of their might as leaders of public opinion and put an end to the abomination of our penal institutions, which instead of curing the criminal, nine times out of ten only develop his criminal tendencies.

He concluded his sermon with this interpretation of liberty:

"To serve another's need
Right heartily
In thought and word and deed
That's Liberty!"

gentle recollections of his youthful life and who finds enjoyment in collecting paintings and in books, is second to that of Jaek Brookfield. Lew Ellinger, the thoughtless, good-natured and unscrupulous gambler is a character who cannot fail to interest.

It is the author's personal interest in the theme and situations of the play that make the piece interesting. He has the power to give his situations and set forth his exposition with the interest of a man who has actually seen what he is describing.

Following its first production at the Hackett Theater, New York, in the fall of 1907, The "Witching Hour" had a very successful run of several years.

The coaches and the manager of the Dramatic Club hope to have the play ready for presentation by Dec. 3. The presentation of the play on the Hill is to be followed by a trip through the Eastern part of the state.

wrong thing, it would have been better. Gilroy is only human, and he will fall when tackled hard, as anybody else will. We just didn't hit him as hard as we could; for that would have been hard enough.

It is true that Georgetown had good interference, but is that any excuse for Gilroy's run through our whole team on a kickoff?

A self-satisfied man never gets very far, neither does a self-satisfied team. If our team feels that it did all that was expected of it last Saturday, then it is a failure, and we can't expect to beat Virginia, or anybody else. It is the opinion of the coaches and all who know our team that Georgetown should not have beaten us more than two touchdowns at the most, and that all over two were the result of "laying down" on our part.

The coaches are putting the team through some of the most rigorous work they have ever undergone; and they state that, rather than put a man on the team who is not up to the standard, they will leave the place open and play with ten men.

JUNIORS DEFEAT FRESHMEN

Win the First Game of Class Season By Score 37-0

By taking advantage of their weight and previous experience in class football, the Juniors defeated the Freshmen Saturday by the score of 37-0 in the first class game of the season. For the first quarter the Freshmen were entirely in the air and were unable to put up any show at all against the line plunges and end runs of the Juniors. The first score for the upper classmen came in the first four downs as the result of two long end runs by Bacon and a brace of other plays. However, the Juniors failed to kick goal and it was only once that they registered a point in this way from their six chances. Before the first quarter was over another touchdown had been added to their credit. In the next quarter the Freshmen strengthened some and in the last half they braced up sufficiently to give the Juniors a chance to use any surplus "pep" that they might have.

For the Freshmen Shepherd and Gooch were the distinct stars. Shepherd at quarter seemed to be entirely at home when running his team. For Juniors Gilroy Bacon and Brickley Coleman were the main shows. This was not such a bad start for the Freshmen considering that made by the Freshmen last year.

It has not been definitely decided when the Soph - Senior game will be played.

V. M. I. FACES U. N. C. WITH VICTORIOUS RECORD

Nelms and Cole Her Stars On Offence

Virginia Military Institute, which Carolina plays Saturday in Greensboro, has not yet been defeated. She has won from Hampden-Sidney 25 to 7; from William and Mary 19 to 6; from Galludet 7 to 0; and from Richmond College 13 to 6. She is to play the University of Virginia Saturday week.

The game with Richmond College to k place Saturday. The lineup which V. M. I. used and which she will probably use against Carolina follows:

Cullom	C
Heflin	R G
Griffith	L G
McCormick	R T
Pitts	L T
Massie	R E
Goodman	L E
Cole	R H
Nelms	L H
Harris	F
Gray	Q

The V. M. I. college paper referring to the Galludet game said:

"The entire V. M. I. team played exceptionally good ball, and if it had not been for fumbles, the score would have been much larger than it was. On three different occasions V. M. I. hammered the visitor's line for first down after first down and the result each time was that the ball was carried to within a few yards of the goal. Three touchdowns would surely have been made, had it not been for fumbles.

" 'Archie' Nelms and 'Ed' Cole were the features of the game. Nelms' end runs were his best ground gainers, but this does not mean that he did not gain thru the line. Heavy and fast as 'Archie' is, he was able to hammer the tackles for a gain whenever Gray called on him. On the secondary defense he was a wonder, and whenever he dove, a sure and hard tackle was always the result. The other backfield star needs no introduction to our readers here. Cole has always been a consistent ground gainer. Whenever it wasn't Nelms around end it was Ed, and as in other games he always gained. He waded through the Washingtonians' line innumerable times for from six to ten yards, and made some beautiful tackles. What was said in this latter capacity of Nelms may be justly said of Cole. These two men certainly made a wonderful backfield pair."

When is a cigarette Sensible?

A cigarette is not sensible for you if it leaves your taste and your smoke-hunger a little bit unsatisfied.

—nor if it bothers your throat or tongue

—nor if it makes you "feel mean" after smoking your usual number.

None of these things will happen to you if you find (and stick to) the right cigarette.

But the cigarette that is right for one man may not be right for another. For instance, Fatimas may not just suit your taste—in spite of the fact that they are the best-selling cigarette costing over 5c.

Fatimas ARE cool and friendly to the throat and tongue—and they will NOT make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

So they surely are sensible for you—except possibly for the taste.

And when it comes to that, it will be mighty strange if you don't like Fatima's taste—they couldn't sell so fast if the taste weren't extra good, could they?

Why not get Fatimas this very day and find out for yourself how sensible a cigarette can really be?

mid-field. Then it was that Cusack broke thru the line and recovered Tandy's poor pass to Long on Carolina's 40-yard line.

From this point the ball was over on two plays, Wall hitting left tackle for 5 and Gilroy contributing his first long run forthe score.

The quarter ended, Carolina 0, Georgetown 6.

Second quarter:

Carolina's forward pass failed, Long punted over. Play was resumed with the ball in Georgetown's possession on her 20-yard line.

Wall failed to gain and Maloney punted 25 yards. Long fumbled and Corcoran recovered the ball in a scramble outside the lines. Gormley made 4 off tackle. Wall was sent off tackle for 8. Capt. Tayloe, of the visitors, was hurt in the scrimmage and was relieved by Black. On the next play Gilroy broke away for 40 yards and his second touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked goal.

Gilroy received the next kickoff on the five yard line and fought his way behind interference the entire length of the field for another touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked off, the ball going short, starting play on Carolina's thirty-five yard line.

Georgetown was in possession of the ball within ten yards of another score when time was called. Score—Georgetown 20, Carolina 0.

Third quarter:

Carolina fumbled the next kickoff and Gilroy recovered. After a series of gains for Georgetown and penalties for both sides, a fumble gave Carolina the ball on her own three yard line.

Georgetown was penalized fifteen yards. Another penalty this time of five yards was against the home team. After trying to go around the flanks, Long resorted to punting. But the Georgetown forwards broke through, blocking the kick. The ball bounded back of the goal line, where Capt. Barron recovered for a touchdown. Barron missed goal.

A little later a forward pass from Gilroy to Corcoran netted another touchdown. The quarter ended Carolina 0, Georgetown 32.

Fourth Quarter:

Maloney punted 30 yards to Long, who was downed in his tracks. Once again the Carolina eleven failed to gain and Long punted 35 yards to Gilroy. The latter, by another brilliant exhibition; tore his way over 50 yards for the final touchdown. O'Connor kicked off to Reed who failed to gain. Maloney received a punt and ran it back 25 yards.

CRIPPLED CAROLINA TEAM AND V. M. I. BATTLE TO A 3 TO 3 TIE

Tandy Kicks Drop From 43-Yard Line. Carolina Shows Her True Form in the Fourth, But Tie Stands

With seven regular players out of the game on account of injuries Carolina was caught napping by V. M. I. in Greensboro Saturday and held to a 3-3 tie.

Although outweighed several pounds to the man V. M. I. had the fight that Carolina lacked on both offensive and defensive and repeatedly broke through our line and threw the runner for a loss or held stubbornly in the pinches.

Tandy stepped back after the first quarter had gotten under way and dropkicked a goal from the 43 yard line for Carolina's only score of the afternoon.

V. M. I. made one first down in the period, which was a result of a perfect forward pass, forty yards being gained in the play.

It was in this first quarter that the Virginians seemed destined to score a touchdown. They worked the ball up dangerously close to the goal line. But Carolina braced at this point and held them for downs.

In the second quarter V. M. I. scored a goal from the 35-yard line in two attempts. Carolina recovered the first drop kick which went short and then a costly fumble by Blades directly in front of the goal posts, gave them the ball. McCormick kicked an easy goal and tied the score.

Carolina started the third quarter with a rush and seemed intent upon putting a touchdown over. Homewood started the drive when he blocked a punt in midfield, which Grimes recovered. This was followed by a 15-yard forward pass to Love giving Carolina her initial first down The cadets held and Tandy was called on to drop kick. The kick was low and wide; V. M. I. gained possession of the ball within her 20 yard line. An intercepted forward pass attempted by V. M. I., followed by two perfectly executed forward passes by Carolina and two short runs by Blades and Black put the ball inside the V. M. I. five yard line. Black was called on for an end run on fourth down. He was thrown for 5-yd. loss and the ball went over. This proved to be our best chance to score a touchdown.

In the last quarter Carolina worked up fight and really played football. Long contributed an end run of 35 yards, the longest of the game, and followed it up with passes one to Love and one to Reid which netted another 30 yards.

Another forward pass to Love put the ball dangerously close to V. M. I's. goal but we lost the ball on the next play.

V. M. I. punted to Long who made a fair catch on the 40-yard line. Tandy attempted a place kick but it was blocked and our last chance to score went glimmering.

A large crowd attended the game and the fine singing of the Normal girls was a feature. All in all the game was a fine clean struggle.

For Carolina Love, Homewood, Tandy and Boshamer starred. Boshamer played hard getting in almost every play. Long's punting and forward passing were excellent.

The backfield played loosely thruout, never showing any figh or speed and fumbling nineteen times Carolina recovered only 2 of the fumbles.

The lineup and summary—

Time of periods, 15 minutes.

Officials—Referee, Mr. Henderson, Ohio Wesleyan; umpire, Mr. Randolph, University of Virginia; field judge, Mr. Carver, Washington and Lee; timekeeper "Bull" Thompson.

Substitutions—North Carolina, Black for Denning, Long for McDonald, Parker for Black.

V. M. I.,—Bertchey for Cole, Fecheimer for Nelms, Booker for Goodman, Mason for Fecheimer, L. Pitts for Massey.

REV. J. J. D. HALL TELLS OF GALILEE MISSION

Berates All Sham and Self-Satisfaction

Rev. J. J. D. Hall of Philadelphia delivered a strong address here Monday night to a large and interested audience. The speaker was for seven years chaplain of the Alabama state prison, and later in charge of the Galilee Mission in Philadelphia. During the past seven years he has had over 10,000 converts.

Mr. Hall is of a different type from the speakers usually heard. He is a man who goes to the point without any apologies—speaking plain truths in a plain way. At times he amused the audience with his keen humor but again brought them back to

PRES. GRAHAM RECEIVES LL. D. FROM LAFAYETTE

Attends Inauguration There. Returns By New York

President Graham returned to the Hill Tuesday from his trip to Eason, Pennsylvania, where he attended the inauguration exercises of Dr. J. H. McCracken, ninth president of Lafayette College. At the luncheon given in connection with the inauguration President Graham made one of the speeches. Among the other speakers there were such distinguished men as Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company; Winston Churchill, the author; the president of the University of Missouri; and the Governor of Pennsylvania. After the luncheon the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon President Graham.

More than two hundred representatives of institutions of learning were present at the exercises, which were the most elaborate that have taken place at Lafayette in all its ninety years of history.

The inauguration exercises proper were begun Wednesday morning, October 20th, with the installation and inauguration address of Dr. McCracken, following which nineteen honorary degrees were conferred. Then came the luncheon at which President Graham spoke.

The Lafayette student band of sixty pieces, which according to Dr. Graham was truly excellent, did valiant work throughout the day.

After the luncheon President Graham watched the football game which Lafayette had scheduled that day for the diversion of its visitors. He then went to New York, where he saw among other sights the great suffer-age parade down Fifth Avenue, pictures of which have been so numerous in the recent papers.

CAPEHART AND COMBS LEFT IN TOURNAMENT

They Play; Loser Plays Those Beaten By Winner

The varsity tennis tournament is very nearly completed; only two contestants remain who have not been beaten. They are Capehart and Combs, with the odds favoring Capehart.

The loser in this match will have to play the runner up in the round before to decide who is to be the other man on the team. If arrangements are completed for a four-man team there will be of necessity another tournament.

GEORGIA TECH SCORES 166 IN FOUR GAMES

Her Best Punter and Grouud Gainer Out of Game

Carolina's game with Georgia Tech next Saturday will probably be the hardest one Carolina will have until the Thanksgiving game. The Tech games played thus far and their scores are as follows:

Georgia Tech	52	Mercer	0
" "	21	Davidson	7
" "	57	Transylv'ia	0
" "	36	U. of La.	7

This gives the Techs a total of 166 points to their opponents 14. Carolina has scored 52 to her opponents 48. However, it is not fair to judge by these scores, for the real Tech schedule begins when they play Carolina. The Georgians will be greatly handicapped by the loss of Preas and Struppa. Preas is recognized to be one of the best kickers in the South, while Struppa made three touchdowns from end runs in six minutes of play in one of the games. Morrison, Johnston, Fielder and Spence will probably make up the backfield. Senter and Goree are the ends.

An extract from the Georgia Tech college paper says:

"The Jackets' play is not as smooth as it will be later on. The fumbling, however, has been less than in Tecn teams of the past. The secondary defense is at times lax in hustling in to meet the play, permitting it to come to them. The line is charging hard, but shows a tendency to charge too high. The charging on the offensive, has not been as crisp as it should be, especially on that shift formation of the Jackets. The team has weight, height, speed, experience, plus numbers. If it can learn football of the advanced stages from next Saturday on, it is going to be a hard team for any to handle this season.

"Morrison's head work at quarterback and judgment in selecting

EXCHANGE PROFESSORS

Dr. Wardlaw of South Carolina To Come Here

The exchange professorship between the Universities of North and South Carolina, Virginia, and Vanderbilt University, which was instituted last year and proved entirely successful, will be continued this year. The lecturers have already been chosen. Dr. Henry Van Peters Wilson will represent the University of North Carolina at Virginia. Dr. Patterson Wardlaw, head of the school of pedagogy and professor of Education at the University of South Carolina, will come to Chapel Hill. Dr. Charles W. Kent, profesor of English literature at the University of Virginia will go to Vanderbilt. Dr. L. C. Glenn, professor of Geology at Vanderbilt University, will represent that college at the University of South Carolina.

EXHIBITS, ATHLETICS, PARADE AND MOVIES

All Feature Prof. Noble's Rally Day Friday

Rally Day Oct. 29, promises to be a big success and to fulfill its purpose, viz, to bring the people from the country to Chapel Hill and give them a day of fun, pleasure and profit.

The first thing on the program is an automobile parade starting at ten o'clock at the postoffice, to Carrboro and back.

There will be pictures shown, illustrative of farm life, poultry-raising, etc. These pictures will be entirely free. In addition, there are to be various other features, of which the singing contests by the Sunday schools is not the least. "These Sunday schools," said Prof. Noble, "are very good Sunday schools, and the singing is the best in North Carolina." After the singing entertainment, there will be seme athletic contests, such as potato, three-legged, and rainy day races.

A place will be provided for those who bring their dinner to eat it in picnic style. But alas! this glorious part of the exercises is not free——to students.

Then there will be an exhibition of farm products, sewing, canned goods, etc.

Prof. Noble has expressed his thanks for the aid the students will render in furnishing a band, doing some "stunts," and giving a vaudeville performance.

The Servant In The House

On November 15th, The William Owen Company will present William Rann Kennedy's great play "The Servant in the House" in Gerrard Hall. As there is but one change of scenery in the play, the limited stage in Chapel will be adequate for its presentation.

It was decided by the committee on lyceum after much consultation that the regular star course would be replaced this year by one or two big attractions in the fall and spring; and to put something that would be really worth while. This drama is an exceptionally strong one, and one which is recognized by critics as a part of modern literature. Dr. Greenlaw in his course on modern drama once spoke of it as "one of the strongest modern plays since Ibsen." On account of the heavy guarantee required to get the play here it will be necessary to put the tickets on sale some time ahead. All the seats downstairs will be sold by coupon tickets and a part of those upstairs will be reserved. Tickets will be placed and reserved about November first. The prices will be fifty, seventy-five cents; and a dollar.

Basket ball practice started the first of the week with initations of a number of new contestants. Old Commons Hall is being used instead of the regular court in the gymnasium.

THE SITUATION.

Neither The Tar Heel, the University, nor the State are satisfied with the showing that the team has made in the last two games. We would all perforce be content if we thought the team incapable of better playing; but our discontent is based on the firm belief that our football players have ability which they have not displayed; and in our high estimation of their capacity we find ourselves dissatisfied with their actions. We have no desire to pass judgement on the team, or to cite and criticise its shortcomings; but as students of the University and citizens of the state, we are all anxious to have Carolina well represented. We are confident of the team's ability to win, and believe that that latent energy can be developed by spirited effort.

Nor are the students entirely unable to help bring about this result. By making the team feel that they are with it, they can add new life to that organization The spirit of cheerfullness and cooperation cannot pervade the student body without making itself felt in the team. We must work in unanimity, cheerfully, hopefully, and with determination.

YALE'S ACTION

Of the manifold articles which have recently been printed by the various papers in regard to the disqualification of several Yale athletes, a mere statement of the case suffices to show how other institutions deal with this unpleasant and serious situation.

"The Yale University baseball team decided to postpone indefinitely the election of a successor to Captain Milburn, who with four other players has been disqualified for violating the Yale eligibility rule concerning the playing of 'Summer baseball.' No explanation of the action was made.

"The disqualification of the players has caused one of the greatest sensations in years at Yale. Press dispatches from Cambridge today indicating that Harvard would be willing to waive the intercollegiate agreement owing to the technical violation, were read with interest. It was stated, however, that Yale, having taken its stand, would not change its policy."

MR. ALFRED NOYES

The Tar Heel learns with pleasure that Mr. Alfred Noyes will make his second appearance in Chapel Hill on November 10.

Mr. Noyes, a poet of marked distinction, is a man of thirty-five years, not yet so aged as to lose active interest in matters which concern young men. He himself, while a student at Exeter College, Oxford, was an oarsman of enviable skill and a swimmer of no little endurance. Though he is a poet, he is not characterized by the fiery eyes and eccentric actions which fiction, supplemented by our own imagination, attributes to those who cultivate poesy.

Of Mr. Noyes and his poems, all who heard him in Gerrard Hall one spring night year before last have pleasant recollections. To hear a poet read his own great poems is to have their meaning increased twofold. Nor is it often that any of us have an opportunity of hearing a recognized poet. Whether Mr. Noyes reads from his own writings or whether he lectures on some aspect of literature, he should have a large and interested audience, pleased at having this occasion to hear him.

MAGAZINE OUT NOVEMBER 1

Stories By Telfair, Pike, and Lindau. To Have University Seal on Back,

The prospects for the first issue of the University Magazine at present are very bright. The editors have had much material submitted, from which they intend to put out a capital number. In the first issue, which will come from the press November 1st, there will appear an article by Mr. Edgar Turlington on life at Oxford University; also a historical sketch by H. G. Goode entitled "The Waldenses;" and short stories by Samuel Pike, Telfair, and Lindau. This issue will also contain a number of shorter articles, sketches, and poems.

A departure will be made as to the form of the magazine this year, It will not adhere so strictly to certain formal departments, but will be more evenly balanced, representing to a greater degree a coherent literary unit. The cover will be somewhat different, bearing the University seal on the front. With the hearty cooperation of the student body, 1915-16 should be a banner year in the history of the magazine.

Dean M. H. Stacy delivered an educational address at Trenton, N. C., Tuesday morning. This address was one of a series of lectures given at the Chatauqua there at that time.

The Sophomores won from the Freshmen Wednesday by the score of 15 to 7. Much improvement has been made by the Freshmen since their game with the Juniors.

NEW OPPORTUNITIES FOR ASPIRING ATHLETES

Monograms May Be Given for Boxing, Fencing, Etc.

It has always been a question whether college athletics are for a few who happen to be gifted in certain branchee of sport, or whether an opportunity exists for all students to participate who desire to do so. In the last few years, athletics have become more general at Carolina, with the active interest that has been shown in building up class football, baseball, basketball, track and tennis. There is still quite a number of men, however, who are unprovided for, since only a minority in each class have a chance to make the class teams. In order to enlarge the field, it is necessary to introduce new branches of athletics, and plans are being considered at present for the establishment of fencing, boxing and wrestling with the old Commans Hall as a special gymnasium for these activities.

The most feasible method for regularly carrying on these sports seems to be the organization of clubs, which would purchase the necessary equipment as club property. Professor James, who was champion fencer of the eastern Atlantic States in 1911-12, has been consulted as to the organization and continuation of these clubs and has offered some practical suggestions, besides consenting to become actively interested.

Mr. James thinks the organization of three separate clubs would be the most desirable plan, since the equipment in each branch would be different, and probably the members would want to specialize in one. The boxers and wrestlers could practice under the direction of students who are already fairly proficient in these manly arts, but the fencers would require special instruction. Mr. James is willing to place the benefit of his experience at the disposal of those interested in fencing. It would require some three months of individual training to develop sufficient skill so that practice could be carried on among novices, however.

Should these sports be permamanently introduced, there is little doubt that they would be officially recognized by the athletic council, and monograms awarded as in the other existing forms of athletics.

Mr. Alfred Noyes Here Nov. 10.

Mr. Alfred Noyes, the celebrated English poet, will revisit the Hill the 10th of November. Mr. Noyes will address the students in Gerrard Hall and will probably read from his poems. Last year he spoke in a crowded chapel and it is almost certain that everyone here now who heard him then will not miss hearing him again. The thanks of the student body are due to Dr. Henderson for securing one of the most interesting and inspiring poets of our time.

Dr. C. L. Raper will speak at Jacksonville Oct. 30th. I. M. Bailey, '13, is principal of the school there. This is the first of a series of lectures to be given by University professors under the auspices of the High School.

Dr. H. W. Chase will speak at Holly Springs the 8th of November.

The Vital, Throbbing, Human Play

OUTCAST

By Hubert Henry Davies

Author "Cousin Kate," "Molluse," Etc.

O. LeRoux Goforth, Local Manager.

Concluded from first page

the seriousness of Christian life.

At times Mr. Hall seemed quite hard on the college student and graduate, but explained his position as not one in opposition to college education but eternally opposed to the self-satisfaction that the college graduate poss sses on account of his A. B. degree. The speaker recommended the B. A. degree of the Galilee Mission, which he claimed is "Born Again," as one which no college can confer, or give a greater honor. Mr. Hall is something of the Billy Sunday type, and his talk, which was of a breezy naiure, quite took the breath of some of the more staid and dignified of the audience.

After the services a large number of students gathered around him discussing for over an hour various phases of Christian work. This is indeed an indication of the forcefulness with which he presented his cause. And the stand which some men took there for Christian life evidenced the power with which he spoke.

The main burden of his talk in recounting some of the incidents of the Galilee Misssion rescue work was that no man can descend to so low a social strata or be so morally degraded as to be beyond the saving power of Christ. His active antagonism to the self-satisfied well-to-do educated non-Christian man was also made evident.

Ralph Graves, '97, Honored

From New York comes the news that Ralph H. Graves, who graduated from here in 1897, has been appointed City Editor of the New York Times.

For two years after his graduation Mr. Graves served as librarian of the University. In 1889 he went to New York and became a reporter on the Times. Later he moved to the Evening Post, where he served as City Editor. About three years ago he returned to the Times. The honor that now comes to nim follows the death of Arthur Graves, who was the Times' City Editor for about 15 years.

The Times has now a circulation of about 330,000 and is generally recognized as one of the best newspapers in the United States.

$151 MILLION INCREASE

N. C. Crop-Increase in 15 Years Great Water Power Neglected

In a paper on the "Diversity of Products in North Carolina" read at the North Carolina Club meeting in the Peabody Building Monday night, R. E. Price of Rutherford County showed that our crop values have increased in the last fifteen years $151,000,000. He then showed how adaptable North Carolina soil is and to what extent diversification may be carried on.

W W. Eagle, in discussing "Water Power in North Carolina," said: "Our State abounds in potential water power power which is yet undeveloped. Figuring on the basis of 75 per cent efficiency our potential minimum water power is 578,000 horsepowers, and our work in this particular is first in the South. But we are using for manufacturing purposes only 64,000 horsepowers—or just one-ninth of our total potential water power. We should see to it as a State that more of this dormant energy is bridled and put into active use."

High School Football Games

The High School Football Contest is attracting much attention throughout the State. Goldsboro defeated Kinston; Greensboro, coached by Mac Lewis, defeated Winston-Salem; Charlotte and Statesville played to a tie; Davidson High School defeated Statesville.

A large number of schools are participating in the championship and interest is high. The final championship game will be played in Chapel Hill sometime during the first week in December.

ORANGE COUNTY GEOGRAPHY

A Geography of This County by Professor Noble to be Out Soon.

The Teaching of County Geography is the title of Bulletin No. 12, which will be the first of the Extension Bureau to make its appearance this year. The author of this Bulletin is Professor M. C. S. Noble, Dean of the School of Education. The title and author combine to make it at once interesting and worthy of further investigation.

Bulletin No. 12 is intended to serve as a model for the writing and teaching of geography in the counties of the State. The author has taken Orange county as his basis, having made a careful geographical study of this county. He has also included a bit of Orange county history noting prominent citizens, such as Archibald DeBold Murphy, William Horne Battle, John P. Manning.

The Bulletin is to be splendidly illustrated with twenty or more cuts and maps, and will be issued in a large edition. The manuscript has been seen by a great number of teachers throughout the State, and they say that the Bulletin will be a great help in teaching county geography.

"THE WITCHING HOUR" CAST

Ten Characters Compose Cast. Candidates Showing Up Well

Though the cast for "The Witching Hour", the play which the Dramatic Club is to present this year, is by no means settled upon, rehearsals have gone sufficiently far to indicate certain possibilities among the material—both old and new. The original play has fourteen characters in all, but by the elimination of one or two useless ones, and a small amount of doubling, it is possible to give the play with only ten characters.

The difficulty of the parts demands a higher order of talent, and for that reason the selection of the cast nas been delayed. The following men have shown possibilities, and will probably appear in the final cast, though the list is subject to such changes as seem advisable.

Brookfield, Charlie Coggin and Sid Blackmer
Hardmuth, J. Y. Jordan
Clay Whipple, Telfair and W. B. Pitts
Judge Prentice, Gregory Graham
Henderson } George Green
Denning }
Servant, Wimberly and Towler
Ellinger, Telfair and Pitts
Viola, Bob Garrett and Bruce Webb
Helen, Bob Garrett and Bruce Webb
Alice, R. P. McClamrock and McMillan

The final selection in the cast and the itinerary of the trips will be given next week.

SENIORS 6; JUNIORS 2

Whole Senior Backfield Stars, Bacon and Ranson Look Good

By blocking the Seniors' punt and tackling Mac Lewis, who recovered the ball behind the goal line, the Juniors were enablee to score a safety, and thus prevent what have been a 6-0 defeat. As it was when the game ended the Seniors had 6 oranges and the Juniors had to be content with 2 lemons. The Seniors scored their only points when Lewis on the 40 yard line, passed to Harrison, who managed to put the ball across the goal line. Except for the unsportsmanlike conduct of one or two of the players, the game was one of the best class contests which has been seen here in some time. One thing which accounts for the smallness of the score is the fact that the quarters were only seven and a half minutes. The affair was mostly one of giving and taking in which the Juniors were handicapped by the absence of Coleman's "educated toe."

For the Seniors the whole backfield starred. Patterson, Huske, Pike, and Lewis all carried the ball for substantial gains. Julian Hart at tackle knocked holes in the Junior line big enough for the whole Senior backfield to sift through. The work of Bacon and Ranson was of great help to the Juniors.

Concluded from first page.

plays is going to be of immense value to the team. His judgment has been faultless this far and, under fire, he is as cool as the next one. One other factor. In Spence, full back, the Jackets present a drop-kicker, something the team has lacked in the past. There is not a man in the backfield that cannot throw a forward pass well, which will keep the opposition in the air as to who is throwing and where it will be thrown, better than any one thing."

GEORGIA TECH GAME

Tech's Strong Team Wins 23 to 3

TANDY AVERTS SHUT OUT

Georgians Take 13 from Carolina in First, 10 in Fourth

Unable to get her offense to working and weakened by the absense of Captain Tayloe, Carolina in a hard fought battle went down in defeat at the hands of Georgia Tech in Atlanta Saturday by the score of 23 to 3.

Tech aided by powerful interference for her backs and cleverly executed forward passes, scored three touchdowns, two in the first quarter, one touchdown and a field goal in the fourth. Tandy saved Carolina from a shut out by booting a pretty field goal from the 35 yard line in the second quarter.

Played under a bright October sun, a trifle warm for football, the struggle was so intensely fought that time out was frequently called and changes in the line up were numerous.

Carolina was outclassed in every department with the exception of punting where Long outshone any of the Tech punters, sending long twisting spirals far down the field time and again. Our line charged well and fought hard. Tech was not able to gain through our line with much success, but our team work looked slow in comparison to theirs.

Individually a few Carolina men held their own. Homewood played his usual hard fighting game. Tandy, carrying the brunt of our defense, fought nobly until he was carried from the field, worn out by continually stopping play after play but not until after he had recorded Carolina's only score by sending the drop kick spinning through the bars in the second quarter, John Tayloe, Carolina's hard working guard, played splendidly as he always does, and not only stopped many plays but broke through several times and spilled Tech men for a loss.

The Carolina offense was feeble and could not gain on runs or forward passes. The entire Tech team played splendid defensive ball. As many as three men hit every runner every time he started. Spence, Senter, Goree, and Morrison hammered Carolina's line, while Strupper and Fielder starred in end runns. It was the latter's 38 yard run that gave Tech her first score. Strupper put the ball in striking distance with a 20 yard run similar to Fielder's; later in the quarter line bucks carried it over. Tech scored again in the fourth quarter, mixing end runs with forward passes. It made no differ-

MR. ALFRED NOYES HERE NOVEMBER 10

His Poetry Rich in Beauty, Vigor and Patriotism

The visit of Mr. Alfred Noyes, the English poet and peace advocate here November 10 at a time when his country is engaged in the greatest war of its history has a strong interest for the peaceful Americans. Perhaps no other English writer is as hopeful of peace and has decried the doings of the planners of war as Mr. Noyes has.

His poems on England show his love for the great empire, his pride in her past struggles, and his faith in her present power. He is very fond of painting the the golden, romantic side of life in the wonderful Elizebethan age—the knights, their life, the relations and gatherings of that great circle of writers that have perpetuated the life of Elizabeth's reign in their works, the English galleons striving on the sea against the then mighty Spain. His "Drake," an epic, tells of the growth of England under Elizabeth and Sir Francis Drake's part in the strengthening of the empire.

Mr. Noyes has the power to tell a tale full of romantic scenes with a new fresh vigor that is characteristic of him both as a poet and as a man. Probably no other poem of his reading last year made as strong an impression as the romantic poem, "The Highwayman." A simple incident such as the common barrel-organ played in the London streets is material for one of his most rhythmical poems. Again he takes incidents that the strongest naturalist would have selected but in his hands these incidents pass through the lights of romance and come out full of life and color. It is his close sympathy with all phases of life and his healthy outlook combined with powerful poetic imagination that give his poems their great force and appeal. His very artistic combinations of words, the repititions that occur occasionally adding to the rhythm, his power to paint even ordinary scenes as well as naturally beautiful pictures in nature with a wealth of high color—are some of his most prominent qualities as a poet.

In order to visit the University it was necessary for Mr. Noyes to come south from Philadelphia. His visit to the University gives the student body an unusual opportunity to hear the most vigorous and inspired poet of the time.

NOTED SINGER HERE

Mme. Howe--Cothran Sings Friday Night

HERE IN PEABODY B'LD'G

Singer is Sister of Dr. Howe and Niece of President Wilson

A musical treat is in store for the students and the Universify community in the Song Recital that is to given by Mme. Howe-Cothran in Peabody Hall, Friday night at 8 p. m. She has sung with remarkable success in many places in this country and abroad.

Mme. Howe-Cothran, a sister of Dr. George Howe and a niece of President Woodrow Wilson, is a pupil of Ross David and by reason of her remarkably clear and sweet voice has been heard enthusiastically by large audiences lately at the Bandbox Theater and at the Hotel Plaza in New York, at the President's summer home at Cornish, N. H., and at the White House in Washington on several occasions.

The following article was taken from the Musical Courier after her recital of the Plaza Hotel:

"Mme. Howe-Cothran, the distinguished and talented pupil of Ross David, recently sang at the Hotel Plaza, New York. As President Wilson's niece her appearance was awaited with interest, and when she sang there remained no doubt as to her ability to please. Her voice is of a beautiful quality, which, combined with her personality and delightful charm, make her a prime favorite."

She will be assisted by Mrs. A. S. Wheeler at the piano and Mr. Phil Branson on the violin. Seats may be secured at the Carolina Drug Store at 50 cents each.

Freshmen Defeat Guilford

The Freshmen defeated Guilford last Saturday, 13 to 12. Guilford outweighed the Freshmen 20 lbs. to the man, but the latter fought hard throughout the game, taking advantage of Guilford's inexperience.

The Freshmen made both of their touchdowns in the first half on long end runs and forward passes.

In the last quarter Guilford came back strong and the men of '19 had to work to keep them from scoring more than two touchdowns.

Fumbling was frequent on both sides but the Freshmen were generally able to recover. Captain Sheppard of the Freshmen was the decided star of the game and his generalship was the outstanding feature of the Fresh team.

EUGENE BARNETT TELLS OF Y. M. C. A. IN CHINA

Tells University Students of Chinese Students

Mr. Eugene E. Barnett, Carolina's representative in the mission fields of China, spoke before the student body Sunday night on China and the Y. M. C. A. movement there. He made the Chapel talks Monday and Tuesday mornings.

For five years Mr. Barnett has been stationed at Hangchow, China. He is a graduate from the University and was general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here in 1908—1910. In 1909 he was selected as one of Carolina's representatives in the intercollegiate debate with Pennsylvania.

Mr. Barnett left China in June and is spending six months in this country in the interest of a project which has for its object the erection of a $50,000 building in Hangchow. Half the sum has been raised already. The government has given a site of two and a half acres in the heart of the city. Mr. Barnett left Chapel Hill Tuesday afternoon for the North.

Speaking informally of China and the student movement, there Mr. Barnett said:

"It is wonderful to note the avidity with which the Chinese students assimilate the ideas and customs of the countries to which they go for work in higher education. They take on many of the better elements of our life. The one thing which impresses them most is the Christian home life of America.

"China offers unlimited opportunities to American students. There are growing opportunities for Americans to teach in Chinese schools. The greatest openings are those offered to teachers, doctors, preachers, administrators, engineers, and men of business ability."

The Clemson Game

The Clemson team which Caro- plays Saturday, with an average weight of 158 pounds, is strong on the defensive and weak on the offensive. The results of Clemson's games so far are as follows:

Clemson	94,	Furman	0
"	6	Davidson	6
"	3	Tennesesee	0
"	0	Auburn	14
"	0	U. of S. C.	0

An informal dance was given at the Zeta Psi Hall Saturday night to a few visiting girls. They were Miss Helen Dodson from Fayetteville, Miss Kate Northrop from Wilmington, and Misses Margaret Thomas and Collier from Durham.

Mr. Jeffries has left Chapel Hill to take a position in the powder factories at Dupont.

FIRST MAGAZINE OUT

Make-Up and Contents Unusually Good

SEVERAL NEW FEATURE.

Contains Interesting Articles and Stories and Apt Editorials

The first number of the University Magazine for 1915-16 has just come from the press, and both in mechanical make-up and literary excellence it represents a worthy achievement. It is not too much to say that it represents a distinct advance in magazine editing, as compared with the magazine of last year. Editor House's editorials are apt, thoughtful and sincere. The idea of placing the editorials in the beginning, though not new in practice, is a departure for this magazine, and furthermore a wise departure. In this way the contributed articles are thrown together and the magazine is not separated into two parts, as it were. The editorial board has wisely discarded a few of the departments of last year, which were distinctly used as fillers and detracted often from the general character of the magazine.

The Magazine is the one college publication which should by all means maintain a distinct literary tone, and should publish the best literature created by the students. Originality and merit in any article should be the reasons for publication. The present editors are starting out in a fair way to realize this. They are determined to give prominence to any article that has the necessary spontaneity and literary flavor.

Mr. Edgar Turlington's essay on "The Oxford Spirit" should be read by every Carolina man, both for the information it contains and the pleasing way in which it is given. Mr. Goode's article on the Waldenses is interesting, and is suggestive as well. He might have profitably spent a little more time in revising his material.

Two poems are contributed this month, both of better quality than the general type of Magazine verse. It is unfortunate that Mr. Epps, in "To Tennyson," changed the rhyming scheme in the last stanza. Mr. Lindau's poem shows sympathetic appreciation and a sense of melody. Mr. Pike's story has much life and go to it,—in fact, it is the type of narrative we would like to see in the Magazine often. The stories of Mr. Telfair and Mr. Lindau are good, but a little discriminating revision would have improved them.

RALLY DAY

With all the bed-coverings, farm products, and cooked edibles on display in Memorial Hall, with the parade down Main Street, with the moving pictures, and the afternoon games in the class field, Rally Day approached a county fair in extensiveness. In fact, it took the place of a county fair in this community and proved altogether successful. The day's procedure was both interesting and instructive. It was a pleasant opportunity for the people of the community to assemble for their mutual enjoyment in this place that the state has set aside for the benefit of its citizens.

Such an occasion is not without benefit to a community. By the various exhibits, one man can see what another is doing, and thereby profit; and the opportunity for sociability is not one of the unimportant factors of the day. Rally Day deserves to be made an annual affair; it is possibly now evolving into a county fair.

THE MEANING

A certain senior, who is not without mental acumen, remarked the other day that he had spent two years of his course at the University before he was able to find out what a college education is really meant to do for a man. Nor is this senior's experience exceptional. How many of us, freshmen and seniors, know what a college education is really meant to do for us? How many of us know why we are required to study Latin and Mathematics? How many of us know the relative values of the different things we do in college?

With the purpose of throwing light on this hazy subject, various members of the faculty, with the cooperation of the senior class, have agreed to make a series of talks, a schedule of which will appear in the next issue of the Tar Heel. These talks are to be thoroughly informal and are to be made by men whose connection with college, both as students and teachers, qualifies them to speak on the subject. They will be interesting to every student in college, freshmen, seniors, sophomores, and juniors.

OUR COURSE OF ACTION

Although Carolina has not been so successful in football as her advocates here hoped, we should still not be at all discouraged. Our conviction that we have excellent football material is as strong as it ever was; and we shall not be satisfied until the team shows its latent ability, for ability it has. Nor can we hope for victory unless we are all willing to give our utmost to the cause, unless every student is willing to do everything in his power to cheer and help the team, and unless the team itself is willing to work and fight until the last. Victory is not so whimsical as to light upon us unprovoked. She loves great altitudes, and is so fond of soaring high when passing Chapel Hill that we shall have to make especial effort to capture her. When we have finally drawn her down from the clouds, the only sensible course of action is to crop her wings and house her under the new grandstands, to be ever our own.

CROWD ENJOYS RALLY DAY

Automobile Parade Has 40 Cars. Races Interesting

Everybody connected with Rally Day Friday has cause for rejoicing. It was a decided success. An unusually large crowd was present. It is said that there were more people here from the country than have ever been known to attend the commencement exercises. The various committees on arranging Rally Day are to be congratulated on the manner in which every feature of the day was carried out.

The automobile parade was an interesting feature of the day, turning the main street of Chapel Hill into a metropolitan thoroughfare with its 38 cars. One man said, "I never saw so many many 'Fords' in my life."

The entertainment by the students was most enjoyable, and the visitors seemed to appreciate the efforts to give them a pleasant day. Free moving pictures were shown at the Pickwick, and free pictures on poultry raising, hog raising, and tomato canning were shown in Gerrard Hall. The singing by the various Sunday school choirs was of a high order and was enjoyed by all present.

The athletic contests were very amusing and interesting. There were potato races by the boys, a fifty-yard dash by the girls, a hundred-yard dash by the boys, and a rainy day race by the girls which convulsed the crowd with laughter. In trying to put on her rain coat, overshoes, etc. hurriedly, a "fair one" actually fell in her suit case.

All told, it was a great big day in the history of Chapel Hill and Orange county, and everyone had his share of the fun and good fellowship.

CAROLINA DRAMATIC CLUB CHOOSES CAST

Witching Hour Given Here Dec. 3; Raleigh Dec. 6

The Carolina Dramatic Club is now in full swing, and it promises to put out one of the highest productions that it has ever tried, in the "Witching Hour," by Augustus Thomas. The Club is practising every day, and it expects to be in first class condition by the 3rd of December, when it will give its initial performance at home. On the 4th it will play in Durham, and on the 6th at St. Mary's in Raleigh. Other trips are under consideration, but the final program has not been definitely decided upon.

In selecting this play, the Club has undertaken one of the hardest and highest class plays that it ever put out. The complication of the plot, rising out of the mental telepathy theory, together with an interesting love motive makes the drama one of the most interesting plays of our time.

The final cast has been chosen; it will be as follows:

Jack Brookfield,	Chas. Coggin
Prentice,	Greg. Graham
Judge Henderson, Denning,	Geo. Green
Hardmuth,	J. Y. Jordan
or Sid Blackmer
Clay Whipple,	W. B. Pitts
Ellinger,	G. L. Wimberly
Viola,	Bruce Webb
Alice,	W. D. McMillan
Servant,	Barber Towler

The usual extensive eastern trip will not be taken this fall; but the western trip in the spring will be longer.

The Southern Championship

Saturday's results eliminated at least two teams for the Southern championship, leaving Auburn, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech in the ruaning, with Auburn and Vanderbilt apparently having the edge on Tech in defensive playing. Vanderbilt on comparative scores seems to have the best offensive team in the South, having scored 461 points without its oppents scoring, while Auburn, as lasi year, has been winning by small scores but keeping their goal line uncrossed.

Georgia Tech has been scored on several times, but have yet to meet a team which could stop Fielder, Spence and Johnston consistently.

Virginia had an easy contest with Virginia Military, the only featnre uncovered being the fact that Thurman still can be counted on to score on drop kicks. Virginia meets Vanderbilt at Charlottesville next Saturday.

Juniors Beats Sophs 19 to 0

By getting away with some long passes and pulling off a number of end runs, the Juniors were able to defeat the Sophs Saturday by the score of 19—0. The entire game was marked by pep and fighting spirit. Altho outweighed in almost every position the Sophs stuck to the upper classmen, and during the entire performance they showed the Juniors that they were not going to be run over and trampled in the dust. Williams, Coleman, and Bacon were the main ground-gainers for the Juniors; while Jennette, Horton, Prophit, and Farthing showed up well for the Sophs. Horton intercepted a

WHAT THE 1915 MEN ARE DOING OUT IN THE WORLD

Location and Occupation of Last Year's Class

Interesting statistic gathered from various sources show that the class of 1915 is, for the most part. located in North Carolina, but that many have scattered to distant states. There are, among the number, 20 teachers, 19 graduate students, 17 business aspirants in various fields, and a few who are doing the unusual.

The teachers are connected mainly with High Schools in the smaller towns, many of them occupying that position so full of awe to the little school boy, the position of principal.

Of the men still seeking educational training about half are registered in the University; others are at Harvard, Chicago and Hopkins. Those in the University of North Carolina this year are as follows:

K H. Bailey, medicine; D. L. Bell, law; T. C. Boushall, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; J. T. Day, business department of the University, C. E. Irwin, medicine; Seddon Goode, A. L. Gaither, E. Y. Keesler, O. H. Pickett, J. V. Price, S. F. Scott, W. R. Stanford, C. T. Smith—graduate work.

The following men are studying this year in other universities;

SEPTEMBER MORN

She is coming—dear little Miss "September Morn" clothed in the form of a three act musical comedy witn songs, jokes, scenery and girls—lots of them. Carl George, the original joy bug, is the bright particular star of this musical fun carnival, which will be presented by Le Comte and Flesher's specially selected company of fifty.

"September Morn" is the joint work of Arthur Gillespie and Aubrey Stauffer. That they succeeded in their efforts is attested by the remarkable hits scored by this brilliant musical comedy during its long Chicago run at the La Salle Opera House. Comedy predominates "September Morn" but the delicious foolishness is intersperced with charming musical numbers introduced by a remarkable chorus of singing and dancing experts who trip through the Hesitation, Fox Trots and other modern dances fetchingly. The scenery and costuming are brilliant. A great cast among which includes sparkling Jo Taylor, "The American Gaby Deslys", Carl George, Curt Vance, J J. Fatton, James Barber and Walter M. Welfit. DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

ESSAYS—No. I, OF FORTUNE
(With all due respect to Mister Bacon.)

Now all wise men, to decline the envy of their own virtues, make a show to ascribe them to Providence and to Fortune; for so they may better assume them, and, at the same time shift their responsibility if their virtues come not up to expectations. Now our team is analagous to the wise man, and therefore, if it hath been less fortunate than we have hoped, let none of us be knocking of it for most of us know not whereof we speak. You know you can't always sometimes tell—etc., and then it's harder to ascertain where you're at from where you sit than lots of folks dream of, and hence we may theorize and explain why we did not beat Georgia Tech from now until Bryan becomes President, and still be as far from it as Tub Craig is from Phi Beta Kappa.

We should remember, as the Latins have it, "Fortuna nimium quem focet, stultum facit." Fortune makes him a fool whom she makes her darling;—and we have no wish for ourselves or our team to be made fools of, although Griz Tayloe thinks he is somebody's darling, whether it be Fortune's or not, we cannot say. Overt and apparent virtues bring forth praise, but there be other virtues that are more admirable, among which is adversity, which always doth precede wholesome prosperity. Now we have had our adversity, so let us have hope and pull like unto the very dickens.

The way of Foetune is like the milky way, which is a meeting ground of a number of small stars not seen asunder but giving light together. And so our team, each man contributing his proportion to the light of the whole, will shine before men, as soon as they become adjusted and polished up. And what though the moon, which is Virginia, seem to outshine everything in sight, when we know there be planets in our system which could make the moon look like a shrinking violet in daisy time.

While we remember that, Formosa facies muta commendatio est.—(Transloted for those taking A. B. 3 and B. S. courses) —a beautiful face is a silent commendation; still silent commendation is not what our team needs, even if we are all qualified to give it. Yet it is better than commendation, at that.

JUNIOR SMOKER FRIDAY

The Second of The Monthly Smokers Tomorrow Night

On Friday night, Nov. 5th, at 9:30 the Juniors will hold their second smoker this year, in the Y. M. C. A. The first one was such a success that it was decided to make them monthly affairs.

These smokers are not merely social gatherings of the Juniors to enjoy each other's company. The class of '17 is determined to render lasting service to the University which will make it memorable. The smokers are a means of getting the class together to formulate and project such altruistic ideas as may seem practicable.

Every Junior is expected!

When is a cigarette Sensible?

A cigarette is not sensible for you if it leaves your taste and your smoke-hunger a little bit unsatisfied.

—nor if it bothers your throat or tongue

—nor if it makes you "feel mean" after smoking your usual number.

None of these things will happen to you if you find (and stick to) the right cigarette.

But the cigarette that is right for one man may not be right for another. For instance, Fatimas may not just suit your taste—in spite of the fact that they are the best-selling cigarette costing over 5c.

Fatimas ARE cool and friendly to the throat and tongue—and they will NOT make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

So they surely are sensible for you—except possibly for the taste.

And when it comes to that, it will be mighty strange if you don't like Fatima's taste—they couldn't sell so fast if the taste weren't extra good, could they?

Why not get Fatimas this very day and find out for yourself how sensible a cigarette can really be?

MR. ALFRED NOYES DELIGHTS U. N. C. WITH READINGS FROM HIS POEMS

Sincerely Appreciative Audience Hears Great Poet's Songs of Power, Beauty and Romance

Mr. Alfred Noyes delighted the large audience in Gerrard Hall Wednesday night. Mr. Noyes is a man of strong personality and he thrilled his audience with expressive reading of his already expressive poems. He read his poems in such a manner as to bring out all the rhythm and music. It was indeed a rare opportunity to listen to Mr. Noyes paint such wonderfully vivid pictures. He was continually greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Noyes is not the sort of man that one would naturally expect to see as a great poet. His hair is not long and shaggy, and his eyes do not roll around in "fine frenzy." He does not sigh and gasp and lisp his words, or exhibit any of the qualities which we are so accustomed to think of as belonging to poets. On the other hand, Mr. Noyes is a strong, robust, athletic-looking man. Infact he was captain of the rowing crew of Oxford University, where he was graduated. He isstill a young man, being but thirty-five years old.

The first poem which Mr. Noyes read was his "Nelson," and the second was a poem written since the outbreak of the present European War, and is an answer to the statement which has come from Germany, the state can do no wrong. In this poem Mr. Noyes asserts that there is a power above the state. Not once did the speaker mention the bitter enemy of his country—Germany.

Among the poems which produced the heartiest applause are "The Highwayman," "The Lord of Misrule," and "The Song of Sherwood."

"The Highwayman" is a romantic poem which portrays vividly the love that a tavern keeper's daughter has for a highwayman, and how she warned her lover against the king's soldiers, even though she knew it would mean certain death to herself. When the girl's lover, the highwayman, heard of his sweetheart's tragic death, he recklessly exposed himself to the soldiers and was shot down. The poem is masterfully constructed and brimming over with the magic spirit of romance.

"The Lord of Misrule" is a narrative poem of the days of Queen Elizabeth told by an old inkeeper.

"The Song of Sherwood" is a beautiful lyric calling upon Robin Hood and asking him to come back to his native forest.

DAVIDSON'S CHANCES

Presbyterians Have Hard-Working Team and Good Tacklers

Carolina's game in Winston-Salem Saturday with Davidson, which is the last one before we hit Virginia, should prove at least to be an interesting tea-party. The Red and Black have shown plenty of fighting spirit, but so far they have won only two and tied one out of the five games played. They have scored 71 points to their opponents' 41. So far the games and their scores have been as follows:

D	0	W & L	14
D	6	Clemson	6
D	7	Geo. Tech	21
D	45	Wofford	0
D	13	Ro'oke Col	0

For Davidson, Black in the backfield and White in the line have done especially well. Younger on right end and C. Walker as punter have also shown form. The following is an extract from the Atlanta Constitution. "The Davidson bunch impressed everyone with their clean and sportsmanlike manner of playing, the men doing the cleanest tackling done here in many seasons."

5 SOPHS ENLIGHTEN WORLD

Correct a Historical Error and Rectify Universal Unbelief

It is quite evident that the historians of the past and present have allowed themselves to overlook a historical fact of momentous importance. It is these seemingly small, yet important corrections (which are daily coming lo light either by means of the latest development in mathematics or through the discovery of ancient manuscripts) that prove the falsity of those historical facts handed down to us from obscure writers. The correction is this (and it might be well to say, that five Sophomores revealed the truth by their answer in a recent history quiz given by Dr. Wagstaff): Christianity was introduced into England 55 B. C.

Famous Orator to Speak On "The Making of a Man"

Mr. William Jennings Bryan will speak here in Memorial Hall Sunday morning, November 14, at eleven o'clock and probably again at two-thirty.

The student body, faculty and townspeople are invited to hear Mr. Bryan's morning talk, the subject of which will be "The Making of a Man." Mr. Bryan will bring Mrs. Bryan with him.

Mr, Bryan, it is understood, is accepting absolutely no remuneration for his trip and speeches, but is coming complimentary to the University community. He was invited by the Y. M. C. A.

If the weather is fair Mr. Bryan will probably come through the country from Greensboro with Mr. A. L Brooks of Greensboro in the latter's car. He will probably leave Chapel Hill Sunday night.

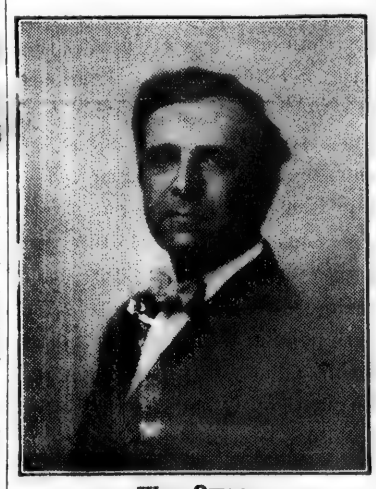
MADAME HOWE-COTHRAN

Charming Singer Delights Music-Lovers

The song recital, given in Peabody Hall on last Friday night by Mme. Howe-Cothran, niece of President Wilson and sister of Dr. George Howe of the University faculty, was a distinct success in every particular. A large audience attended the recital, and the singer won the admiration of all with her sweet voice and charming personality. It was, indeed, a superior entertainment, such as could be best appreciated by those who are themselves trained in music.

Madam Howe-Cothran was assisted by Mrs. A. S. Wheeler at the piano and Mr. Phil Branson on the violin.

HARVARD BARS TRADESMEN



Harvard has instituted another precedent and put the lid on book agents, laundry men, tailors, loan agents or any other sort of tradesmen who might seek to do business with the students after the formal opening of the University. The ban is not only placed on the members of the commercial gentry for the opening days of college when business is sure to be rushing for them, but it is to be kept in place throughout the year. The only way that the tradespeople can gain legitimate access to the campus is when they have been summoned by a student and then they must retire as soon as the business has been transacted.

SERVANT IN THE HOUSE

William Owen's Company Gives Play Here Nov. 15

The play to be produced is "The Servant In the House," written by Charles R ann Kennedy. William Owen heads the company of artists, and the author, Mr. Kennedy, has assisted Mr. Owen in the coaching of the cast.

"The Servant in the House" contains a story that goes to the fundamentals and so touches the common heart. It depicts the love of a father for his child, carrying that love through his poverty, degradation and bitterness. The child, when too young to realize her father's condition, has been placed in comfortable circumstances, but her heart still cries for her father as her father cries for her. How that love like a magnet draws them together is beautifully told in the play. Like a song of praise through play moves the figure of Manson, the embodiment of the ideal, the vision of love and truth toward which the world, in spite of wars, sorrow, and poverty, is slowly moving.

Wm. Owen.

William Owen, who heads the company of artists who are to present "The Servant In the House" on the Lyceum platform the coming season under the Redpath management, was for twelve years at the head of his own company. He has selected the players for this cast from among actors of experience whom he has known for years. Mr. Owen is also known in educational circles. He has addressed a very large per cent of all the colleges, high schools and women's clubs in the middle west.

Since he was twenty-two he has appeared in nothing but leading roles. For two weeks he played a leading role with Julia Marlowe in McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, and in the original run of "Josephine, Empress of the French," he appeared with Rhea, the great French actress, in the Broadway Theater, New York.

The Juniors licked the Freshmen on Tuesday by a score of 31 to 0. Referee: Mr. Boshamer.

CLEMSON DEFEATED

Carolina Shows Traces Old Time Form

9-7 FAILS TO TELL TALE

Carolina Puts Up Strong Offense, Keeps Ball in Clemson Territory

The game last Saturday was an encouraging event for Carolina. The small score of 9 to 7 by which Carolina won from Clemson makes the game seem closer than it really was. Carolina had the "ups" throughout the game, holding Clemson well and frequently throwing them for a loss. The ball was kept in Clemson's territory except when Harris intercepted a forward pass in the second quarter and carried the ball to our 20 yard line.

On the offensive, Carolina beat through Clemson's heavy line for substantial gains on almost every down. Tayloe played with all the drive of his old time form, although he retired from the game of his own accord after he had made a hard tackle which injured his old Georgetown wounds. McDonald's broken field running was a sensation until he too was hurt.

The absence of Tandy from center was felt; Jones who had taken his place being injured in the first quarter, and Currie who played his first inter-collegiate game being substituted. Three attempts at a field goal by Long, that failed, might have been successful had Tandy done the kicking.

Reid and Parker both showed their ability in line plunging, tearing through Clemson's defense with great force. The entire backfield produced the necessary smash. Carolina was twice within Clemson's five yard line when time was called. After Clemson made her first score, the Tar Heels immediately retaliated by marching through them for a touchdown. There is no doubt but that Carolina could have piled up a much larger score had she so desired.

On the offensive, Tayloe and Cowell, guards, were impregnable, while Ramsey and Boshammer, tackles, did their duty well. Homewood and Love, ends, were fast and aggressive, and broke up Clemson's interference consistently.

Far from being a "defeated" team, the Tar Heels are building up steadily. Recovery from injuries which have thus far made it impossible for Carolina to put her greatest force into the field at any one time is the end most hoped for by the coaches at this stage. The absence of a summer training camp this year was a

AFTER-SUPPER SINGING

Tuesday night at the after-supper singing there were twice as many students present as chose to join in Monday night, when Mr. Epps set the plan on foot. This matter of singing is a thing which grows on one and becomes better liked the more it is engaged in. No musical knowledge or especially constructed temperament is necessary for participation in these songs. The director has no intention to develop a squad of perfected voices; there will not even be a chance for anyone to be "canned." Everybody is invited and everybody is welcome, be he low tenor or high base. There are very few people who do not enjoy singing. Whatever a man's musical tastes, he generally enjoys his own singing. That is his prerogative; and Directer Epps is offering him an opportunity to exert it. Before long a supply of books containing standard songs will be ordered for use at this half-hour of singing after supper.

It would be a fine thing, as President Graham remarked in Chapel the other morning, if we could establish the custom of class singing on the campus. This is a thing that plays a large part in the life of other colleges, and would be here as well, if we would all set about to establish it. It is certainly possible to hope that such may be the outcome of the present after-supper singing.

BARNETT

Mr. Eugene E. Barnett, an alumnus of the University and a recent visitor here, is already prominent in the work which he has undertaken in China and is becoming more conspicuous all the time on account of the success which has attended his efforts. By virtue of his enthusiasm and ability he is ranked high among the men who have undertaken mission work in China. He is a worker of unusual vigor, even if one consders his work merely in a material light. The University endeavors to raise toward the defraying of Mr. Barnett's salary between $300 and $500. Mr Barnett himself raises between $5000 and $8000 a year toward furthering Christianity in China—for such things as building churches, Y. M. C. A.'s, from which more widespread Christian influence can emanate.

Contributions made to the Barnett Fund thus bear rich increase. After our mite has left our hand and been forgotten, the good which it has helped in bringing about is still working! In fact, any generous deed, though its efficacy seems to have its end with the accomplishing of a definite purpose, has not such an ephemeral influence as we think. It acts often like the pitcher created by Hermes for Baucis and Philemon which had a continual flow of milk from the secret spring in its earthenware side. These little kindnesses that we may do may yet rise up and bless us.

Pay your subscription when it is due. It is due NOW!

THE NEWS LETTER

With last week's issue, the first volume of the University News Letter is complete. The paper is just a year old.

The News Letter, because it does not treat of campus affairs, has less influence at the University than outside. Its field is the state, not the campus. It makes an intensive study of North Carolina's social and economic problems; it states facts and suggests improvements. At present, 7,000 copies of the News Letter are being sent over the state each week. There are probably few more popular clip-sheets in North Carolina than this paper. A recent article in the News Letter treating of taxation in one county in North Carolina was reprinted by ninety papers in the state. The University is to be congratulated upon its Bureau of Extension, and the Bureau of Extension upon the News Letter, one of its most serviceable activities.

ALFRED NOYES

Mr. Alfred Noyes has come to Chapel Hill for the second time, and of his second as well as his first visit it may well said, in the words of a former editor of this paper:

"Poetry takes on a new aspect before the picture of the writer and the sound of his voice. No man can listen to him and then believe that poetry is a printed word on the paper page. You may read all day from Manly's English Poetry and your heart may never beat the faster. But let a real poet speak to you and he lifts you out of yourself by the power of his own soul."

If there is verity in the adage that whatever happens twice will occur a third time, we shall look forward to a third visit from Mr. Noyes.

NEW LECTURE SERIES BY FACULTY MEMBERS

Purpose is to Show Aims of College Education

In addition, and by way of supplement, to the lectures which have already been announced for this fall, a new series has been arranged as follows:

Nov. 19th. The Choice of Studies. Dr. E. A Greenlaw.

Dec. 1st. The College and Scholarship. Dr. F. P. Venable.

Dec. 10th. What a College Ought to Mean to a Man. Dr. L. A. Williams.

Dec. 17th. The Purpose of the College of Liberal Arts. President E. K. Graham.

The titles of the lectures are self-explanatory, and the speakers themselves known to every student. This series of lectures is under the auspices of the Senior class, every member of which expressed himself at a recent smoker as being heartily desirous of hearing expositions on these subjects. The object of the lectures is to clarify in the student mind the real aim of college education. The lectures will doubtless be largely attended, no less on account of the subjects to be discussed than on account of the able speakers who will present them.

JUNIORS' SECOND SMOKER

Class of '17 Strong For Singing. Messrs. Moss and Thornton Talk

Holding the second of their monthly smokers, the Juniors convened in solemn session around the punch bowl Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. and did at least two original things. They decided to take steps to promote singing on the campus and founded a brand-new kind of a committee—a Standing Committee, composed of five men appointed to confer with any Junior about to leave college and question him as to the advisability of such a step.

Mr. Moss, between puffs of his cigar, gave a conversationally informal talk on the modern tendency to make religion a part of everyday life. Mr. Thorton spoke on "Sports and Sportsmen", sports being the men who look on; sportsmen, those who do the work.

In addition to the Standing Committee, composed of Fowler, Dalton, Hyatt and Rand, a Stunt Committee also was appointed consisting of Hartshorn, Lindau and Polk,

Speaks In North Cities To Branches American Chemical Society

Dr. Herty left Wednesday afternoon of last week for a ten days trip through the North. In the course of the trip he spoke in the following places: at Philadelphia, before a combined meeting of the Franklin Institute and Philadelphia section of the American Chemical Society; and at Ithaca, Buffalo, Rochester, and Syracuse, before local sections of the American Chemical Society. He completed his trip at New York City, where he attended a meeting of the managers and advisors of the National Exposition of Chemical Industries, held to formulate plans for the second exposition which will be held in New York next year.

PATTERSON CAPTAIN OF BASEBALL TEAM

Last Year's Popular Second-baseman Chosen

Fred M. Patterson, Pharmacy '16, was elected captain of the varsity baseball team for the season of 1916 last week. He succeeds Leon Shields who did not return to college this year. Before coming to Carolina Capt. Patterson played first base on the Trinity college team for one year He was kept out of the game for the greater part of the season of 1914 here by a broken ankle. For the season of 1915 he played second base for Carolina, batted .391 and fielded .945, at the same time being one of the best base-runners on the tean. This summer he was captain of the Dillon, S. C. team and led the team in batting with an average of .335.

Cross-Country Preliminary

The preliminary race for the four-mile cross country race was held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The following men were in the try-out and finished in the order named: Upchurch, Raud, Nims, York, Barber and Hennessee. The four first men named will represent Carolina in the State Intercollegiate meet which will be held here November 20th. Gannt, the noted Virginia runner was not well Wednesday, and so did not enter the race. He will, however, be given a chance on next Saturday to win a place on Carolina's squad, when he will run against Barber, the man who finished fifth on Wednesday.

CAPEHART AND COMBS WIN IN TOURNAMENT

Two More Men Needed; May Play Trinity Soon

Interest in activities on the tennis courts this week is focused on the second varsity tournament for the purpose of selecting the last two men to compose Carolina's four-man tennis team. The two men who went through the series of eliminating contests, held last week, were Capehart and Combs.

The team chosen this week will be a sort of scrub or second team. If it acquires enough skill in the game to play standard college tennis it may have the privileges awarded to the first team. Those who survived in the rounds Monday and Tuesday were: Herty who defeated Prince, Walker who defeated Wilson, Proctor who defeated Shamburger, Powell who defeated Page, Jernigan who defeated Royster, Perry who defeated Rendleman.

The tennis association hopes to accomplish more this year than it did last year in sending its team on trips. Capt. Capehart has written Elon, Guilford, and Trinity asking for tournaments. Partial arrangements have been made to play Trinity in Durham the latter part of this week. Very probably Carolina will meet her neighbor college in singles Friday and doubles Saturday.

Mr. C. B. Hoke, for two years head of the science department of Winston High School, will be the successor of Mr. Jeffries in the Chemistry Department here.

NEWS LETTER FINISHES YEAR OF SERVICE

Whole Country Recognizes Its Value To State

The University News Letter's first birthday came on November 10. Considering its youth it has already gained a most enviable reputation for service to the State and the University. Fifty-one issues have been published during the last year.

Unlike most of the press clip sheets, it is published during the vacation as well as during the regular term. The editors have taken a vacation of only one week. This policy grew out of the idea that the News Letter is busy advertising the State and not the University; and North Carolina is in session all the year.

It is an evidence of the fact that the University is not thinking first and most of herself, but first and most of North Carolina. And so one of the alumni has said, "It has been the best advertisement for the University because it has not been an advertisement of the University."

At present the circulation is 7,000 copies a week, and it might as easily be 20,000, for each day's mail brings requests for the paper. The people who request this are people who have never had any direct help from the University before. There is also an increasing call for the paper from people outside of the State.

This paper is devoted to a critical study of the problems and opportunities of North Carolina. Despite this fact it has been of great value to different states and indeed to the whole country. This is evidenced by the fact that some of the largest and leading dailys of the country have recognized it and praised it for its worth. Among these are found the New York Times, The New York Post, Illinois Free Press Dispatch, Seattle Morning Times, Atlanta Constitution, and many others, all of which have quoted from it and have printed editorials about it.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

My dear Matilda:—Our football team has won a game, so I thought I would write to you. I didn't see the game, but I saw the continuous report, which is a big blackboard with fancy colored electric light bulbs all over it, and three fellows setting in front of it to a table, and one fellow with a red sweater hollering and telling them what lights to light. Everybody was smoking cigars and by and by the smoke got so thick that if it hadn't been for this hollering, we wouldn't have known what was going on. The day before, the Y. M. C. A. Book Exchange declared dividends, so I didn't have to write home for a quarter to get in with. You can usually get in Chapel free, but whenever there is anything going on, they always sell tickets for it. Well, those lights started to turning on and off all by themselves and I don't see how they did it either. I always turn mine off by putting it in my bureau drawer.

Some fellow named Littlejohn kicked off to big John Tayloe, and he started running down the blackboard. The fellow talking so much said Littlejohn got hurt. The light didn't go out, so I don't reckon he got killed.

We didn't have anybody to yell for us, but those Clemson farmers had a sparrow-faced cheer leader and 2000 spectators and a whole bunch of peculiar yells, so the reports said, and I guess that's the reason they made a touchdown in the first ¼ of the game. Anyway we telegraphed a bunch of yelling down there that took all the disheartenment out of our team if they had any, and from then on they played right pert. When they called on McDonald's name, those lights ran about the board so fast till it made you think of Gilroy. Those Clemsoners tried to get back at us with a snake dance after the first ½ of the game, but it wa'n't any use. We had got ahead of them in the second ¼, and from then on we just did like we were rooster fighting with them; didn't try to gad all around the field, because we had to rest up for the walk to the railroad station which is 4 miles from where Clemson is at, so Archie Gay says.

The thing I don't understand is, if they can play so well by telegraph, why is it they don't play by telegraph and leave the team home, instead of sending them way off and causing so much expense. Another thing, they wouldn't have to miss so many classes, and then we could see them play right out here on our own field, and send all of the plays away to the team they are playing against, and they could send us their's. I don't see why nobody never thought of that before.

You know what I told you down by our chicken yard fence just before I came away to be a college fellow Matty. I didn't have time to finish it because one of those little turkeys went to squawkin under there after it and couldn't get out, don't you remember, and you ran off and I didn't get to see you no more. Well, someday I'll be in the legislature, and then you'll wish you hadn't done me that way.

Write to me soon and tell me how the little shoats are getting along, etc.

Your fellow,
HEA.

CAROLINA SHOWS HER HIDDEN POWER WINS FROM DAVIDSON 41 TO 6

MacDonald Makes Four Touchdowns; Tandy, Long and Homewood Star. Team Looks Surprisingly Good.

Invigorated by the cold, brisk weather, and inspired by 1,800 cheering spectators, including some 200 stylish Salem girls, the Carolina and Davidson football teams met and contended in their annual struggle at Winston-Salem last Saturday. Those who left the grounds a few minutes early to avoid the rush were satisfied that that the score was 41-0 for Carolina, but in the last part of the game, when Tandy, Cowell and some of the others had repaired to the hotel to dress for the dance at Twin City Club, Davidson took it out on our scrubs and ran a touchdown over them. They failed to kick goal.

The game began in the first quarter, but not until the second period could it be said to have really gotten started. The first fifteen minutes were more like signal practice for Carolina, and although the lighter Presbyterian team did prevent any scoring, this was mostly due to a lack of ability to penetrate our line.

In the second quarter with the ball Davidson's 14-yard line, Reid gained seven yards over right guard, and McDonald followed with seven around left end for a touchdown. Tandy kicked goal. During the same period, with the ball on Davidson's 31-yard line, our men came across with the required punch. Tayloe gained five yards; McDonald eight; Long made two around right end, and McDonald followed with seventeen. Reid gained two over center, and McDonald travelled the four yards between him and the goal line, making a second touchdown. Tandy again kicked with precision, scoring a goal.

Still another touchdown was made in the second quarter; this one by Homewood, who, while he has played four years of star football, has never had the pleasure of making a touchdown for old Carolina. Blocking a kick, he recovered the ball and dashed through the scattered Davidson team for a tally. He was soon the delighted recipient of numerous congratulatory telegrams from Carolina students who saw a continuous report of the game in Chapel Hill. "Yank" did the kicking stunt once more.

Early in the third quarter, Tandy tried a drop-kick, but for the first time, his effort was unsuccessful. With the ball on Davidson's 20 yard line, Tayloe gained six yards around right end. Parker made seven and McDonald seven for a touchdown. Tayloe punted out to Long on the twenty yard line, and Tandy kicked goal.

In the last period, Carolina made steady gains until the ball was on Davidson's six yard line. Signals were called for a touchdown, and McDonald obeyed orders for the fourth time, increasing our score six more. Tayloe punted out to Parker, who fumbled.

Only one more touchdown was scored by Carolina. Walker, of Davidson, punted to our 30 yard line, to Long, who broke off a piece of glory for himself when he ran through all of Davidson's eleven for a touchdown. This made six touchdowns for the Tar Heels, four of which McDonald scored. That McDonald boy is a sensation when it comes to getting ground behind him.

Tandy's great strength is the

TWO INTERESTING LECTURES COMING

Drs. Sledd of Wake Forest and Croissant Speakers

The University Lecture Committee announces two new lectures for the autumn, to be given under its auspices The first lecture will be given on Tuesday, November 30th, by Professor Benjamin Sledd, of Wake Forest College. Professor Sledd enjoys an enviable reputation as a poet, man of letters, and head of the department of English at Wake Forest College. His collected verse, in several volumnes, notably "From Cliff and Scaur"(1897), "The Watchers of the Hearth" (1902), and "Margaret and Miriam" (1908), are widely known and appreciated. During the past year, Professor Sledd held the Kohn Travelling Fellowship, and spent his time in travel in Europe and the East, which gave him unusual facilities for observing conditions in Europe since the outbreak of the Great War. The subject of Professor Sledd's address, whtch should have unrivalled interest for everyone, is "Impressions Abroad in War-Time," giving some authentic glimpses of the Great War.

On Monday, December 6th, Professor Dewitt C. Croissant, General Field Agent of the Simplified Spelling Board, will address the University audience on "Our Language and Our Spelling." Professor Croissant was graduated from Princeton in 1899, later conducted research in English and Germanic philology at Munich, and subsequently won the Charles Scribner scholarship and his Ph. D. at Princeton. Professor Croissant is now a member of the English staff of the University of Kansas. His subject is one of general interest, and one effectively presented by the lecturer.

WAS A GREAT PLAY WELL PRESENTED

"The Servant in the House" Enjoyed By Audience

Charles Rann Kennedy's great play, "The Servant in the House," was presented to an enthusiastic audience in Gerrard Hall Monday evening, November 15. The nature of the play hardly invites boisterous applause, but it was clear, from the silence of the audience and the craning necks in the gallery, that every word in this wordy play was followed eagerly. Though the play contains too little action, especially in the first three acts, the dialogue is so penetrating that one's attention is fixed from the beginning – or at least the middle – to the end. There are a number of stirring dramatic moments; also a number of scenes in which the emotion is pitched high and is sustained with remarkable skill. The story, merely as a story, is hardly unusual; but the manner in which it is made to evolve through the conflict of character with character, and the ideas with which the story is freighted, are the outstanding elements of greatness in the play.

The presentation was eminently successful. The setting, a simple interior, was easily managed because it sufficed for all five acts. The acting was excellent. The "gentleman of necesssary occupation," Mr. Robert Smith, was interpreted with great skill and gusto by Mr. William Owen; he was, so far as acting ability is concerned, the centre of interest. The other members of the cast, with perhaps one exception, were entirely adequate, if not distinguished. Mr. McConnell, as the Bishop of Lancashire, was sufficiently deaf and unctuously villainous. Mr. Byron, as the Vicar, maintained a high level of excellence, without ever rising to the lofty—and the same may be said of Miss Sarah Wiley, as "Auntie." The difficult part of Mary was played by Miss Margaret Ulrich, whose youthful grace and naively emotional, half-chanting voice quite captured the audience, or at least the gallery. The tincture of sentimentalism inherent in her part was not accentuated. The one exception to the inadequacy of the cast was Mr. Lindquist, who, as Manson, lacked the magnetism essential to his part. His slow, drawling speech was monotonous; his presence was not impressive.

On the whole, the performance of "The Servant in the House" was one which will not be quickly forgotten.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN SPEAKS TO THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY

Great Orator Draws Large Audience to Memorial Hall Sunday; Makes Two Speeches

The magnetic name of William Jennings Bryan drew into Memorial Hall Sunday morning at eleven o'clock in spite of the raw rainy weather, an audience of almost 1500 people—students and townspeople,—at least one-third of whom were women.

Mr. Bryan discussed the European War in his morning speech,—its magnitude and danger to neutrality; the false philosophy from which it has sprung, that might makes right; and finally the way out and the road to peace. He spoke again at 2:30 p. m. on "The Making of a Man."

Mr. Bryan's last trip to the University was made about 1895. President Graham, in his introduction said: "Since then a great many things have happened to us, the world, and to Mr. Bryan. No man has been the center of a more complex struggle for human rights, no man has been buried more times with more envious ostentation and no man has risen more regularly to the championship of what he believes right."

The central thought in Mr. Bryan's first speech is contained in one of his graphic sentences; "If the dogs in Europe won't stop fighting, don't let us get hydrophobia over here." Thruout, balancing his love of peace was his hatred of the "jingo editors," who, as he said, actuated by hope of gain, are trying to plunge our country into war by advocating undue preparedness and attempting to scare the people with the bugbear of a possible conflict with Japan or with the fate of Belgium. In this connection Mr. Bryan said: "I am a journalist and proud of my profession but not all of its members. If we ever have a war I think the jingo editors ought to be put on the front line and be allowed the glory of dying before anybody else." He furthermore said, "You can no more judge the sentiment of a peace-loving nation by the ravings of the jingo editors than you can measure the depth of the ocean by the foam on its wave."

Mr. Bryan emphasized the fact that this war is not a family war but one arising from a false philosophy and well expressed our feelings when he said that for every soldier boy that falls in European battlefields the wail of sorrow that goes up there finds an echo in America. He denounced preparedness as a "scaring back and forth."

In showing the causes of the great war Mr. Bryan asserted that Europe had the machinery for war, but not for peace; that her guns were more efficient than her treaties.

"I believe a hundred years from now," said he, "the names of Woodrow Wilson and mine will be linked together as those of two men who helped to make war impossible."

TRINITY DEFEATS CAROLINA IN TENNIS

Another Match With Trinity May Be Played Soon

Trinity defeated Carolina last week in tennis by winning the doubles and one of the single matches. The score of the doubles was 11-9, 6-4, 6-0 against Carolina. In the singles Combs defeated Lambeth of Trinity 6-4, 6-4. Capehart was defeated by Anderson of Trinity, the Southern intercollegiate champion of 1913, by the score of 6-2, 6-2.

Carolina made a good showing and had many chances to win the match in doubles. Combs was weak at times in pinches; otherwise Carolina played a strong game. Capehart showed unusual form in getting his serve in the court. He made several aces in the game.

In singles Combs played a strong game and easily defeated his man. He showed much better form than in the doubles. Capehart, however, was nervous in the beginning of the singles with Anderson. He regained his composure too late to come back and defeat the champion.

This is the first match game in

FOOTBALL

The ability which, we have always felt, lies in the team has begun to manifest itself. We do not doubt that Saturday marked an amelioration in the team's course which will end Thanksgiving in a way that will make us all proud. In fact, we are confident of it.

AS TO OPINIONS

Oftentimes, we attend the speech of a well known man more on account of curiosity to see the man than to hear him speak. This sort of curiosity is generally satisfied when we have seen the man once; if we go to hear the man speak a second time, the chances are that we take interest in his ideas.

Sunday morning, wet and chilly as it was, Mr. Bryan drew an audience large enough to fill Memorial Hall, a building whose seating capacity is not often taxed. Many of those who composed Mr. Bryan's morning audience were, no doubt, moved to attend by curiosity. Since, however, a considerable crowd, in fact, most of the morning audience, came to hear the afternoon speech, we would be inclined to think that Mr. Bryan's ideas interested his hearers.

Some of us confess this timorously, if we confess it at all. Many of us reject Mr. Bryan's principles, less because they seem to us untenable than because they are unpopular. Some of us have real reasons for disagreeing with him; the prejudice of some of us may be traced to the cartoon's humorous appeal. Too many of us are inclined to accept a man and his doctrines at the valuation which popular favor affixes. We proclaim, as worthy, the man whom the populace approves. In college we consider, as our great men, such of our fellowstudents as the consensus of opinion calls great; but him whom the populace refuses to call a good fellow is not likely to receive from us undue commendation. We gladly assist in establishing, on his pedestal, the man whose virtues are acclaimed by the multitudes; but far be it from us to elevate an inch the man whom our right thinking fellows have said shall bow down.

Because Mr. Bryan is not one of popular-favor's elect, a number of us are likely to regard his remarks as interesting but, after all, something said by Mr. Bryan. The Tar Heel does not wish to make an ally of either the former Secretary's sympathizers or opponents but merely to suggest to each one of his hearers that now is an excellent time for a little independent thinking. If each one of us will disentangle ourselves from borrowed opinions and hereafter try not to accept at their face value views which others pass on to us as being based on truth, we will have profited by Mr. Bryan's visit, whether we believe in billions for armament or the conversion of even our present dreadnaughts into plowshares.

NEW COURSES

Despite the fact that the academic school already offers numerous and diverse studies, more courses will, no doubt, be added from time to time. The students are always pleased at any extension of the curriculum; many of them would be particularly glad to hear that a course in general physiology had been established.

A considerable number of students who do not care to take a regular medical course, are still desirous to learn something of their physical make-ups. As it is, most of us who have taken academic work leave college with lamentably little knowledge of our own bodies. Most of us are ignorant as to our digestive systems, as to the properties and relative values of foods. Most of us have to eat the various combinations of food to learn that some are indigestible. Our position is that of the automobile owner who knows nothing more of his car than how to steer and stop it.

From the student's point of view, a course in physiology would certainly be a very practical thing. If a comprehensive and yet not too technical course could be given in the academic school, the class would not go wanting for members. There is, we believe, a genuine desire on the part of many academic students to learn more about the human organism than they, at present, have opportunity to learn from the courses leading to the A. B. degree.

THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE

In Chapel Hill we have always had a dearth of theatrical performances. The Star Courses, with their stereotype wit, have endeavored to fill up this gap but have left most of it open. This year we have had, and are glad to have had, "The Servant in the House," a play of much higher caliber than any that has been produced here except those of the Dramatic Club.

Those responsible for the presentation of "The Servant in the House" in Gerrard Hall last Monday night are to be congratulated. We are indebted to them for having introduced a higher type performer and a higher type performance than we are accustomed to expect from the so called, Star Courses.

SIX MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS HAVE 300 PUPILS

100 University Students Volunteered To Teach

The Moonlight School movement in Chapel Hill Township started in splendid fashion on the night of November first. Subsequent meetings will follow for three nights a week throughout November. Six schoolhouses have been opened at the following points: Smith's Level, Fowler's Schoolhouse, Calvander, Clark's Chapel, Orange, and Mount Carmel. The number registered for attendance varied from forty to to seventy-five at each place, with a total of three hundred.

Three schools are taught by University students, under the direction of Thomas Boushall 1915, of Wake county, now Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The Association asked for fifty teachers. Over one hundred students responded; fifty-four of these have been selected, six being assigned to each school under a principal. Mr. J. B. Huff, of Buncombe, is Principal of Mount Carmel. F. F. Bradshaw, of Grange, at Calvander; R. B. House, of Warren, at Orange; Ralph Stockton, of Forsyth, at Clark's Chapel; Harold Knorr, of Pennsylvania, at Fowler's; T. C. Boushall, of Wake, at Smith's Level, and General Superintendent. Marion Fowler, of Durham, has charge of the Carrboro Night School, which runs six nights a week; and Barney Pitts, of Mecklenburg, the two negro night schools, that run five nights a week. Each of these has 65 enrolled.

The success of the Moonlight Schools is in part due to the fact that they are the outgrowth of Sunday Schools successfully conducted in these school neighborhoods by the University students for the past ten years.

Trinity, Wake Forest, Davidson, and A. & M. will send representatives here to compete in the State meet.

GIRLS--SONGS--JOY

Books and lyrics by Arthur Gillespie, music by Aubrey Stauffer, staged by Frank Tannehill, Jr., dances by Virgil Bennett, and sent entour by Le Comte and Flesher direct from its great Chicago success comes "September Morn" a musical comedy built for laughing purposes only. Plenty of comedians, beautiful girls, songs of the whistling kind, it went with a boom—one hundred and fifty nights in Chicago and could have stayed one year but the tremendous demand for it on the road caused its owners to venture forth for a tour. Managers Harris & Freeland has this attraction booked for an engagement of one night soon, better make your reservation with Manager Goforth now ere 'tis too late. Advt.

SOPHS TIE SENIORS

Unexpected Tie Ties Up Class League; Equal Chances For Pennant

Tuesday afternoon the Soph and Senior football teams battled to a scoreless tie. Both teams came within their opponents ten yard line but could not carry the ball over. In spite of the Senior advantage in weight the lighter Sophomore team played rings around them at times and deserved to win the game. The result was a surprise to all.

In case the Sophs win from the Seniors next Saturday each clsss team, with the exception of the Freshmen, will have an equal chance at the championship. The Seniors beat the Juniors, who in turn beat the Sophs and the Sophs tied the Seniors; thus making a complete chain in which team mentioned has beaten the team that beat the team that beat them—except in the case of the Sophs who tied tied the team that beat the team that beat them. Take a day off and figure it out.

If the Sophs win from the Seniors next Saturday—and they have an equal chance—the Juniors and Seniors will have to play a game of elimination, the winner of which will play the Sophs for the class championship.

Mr. W. S. Rankin Speaks

"Chastity, and its Relation to Character" was the subject of an address delivered by Mr. W. S. Rankin of the State Board of Health, before the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night. Mr. Rankin traced briefly the four stages of a man's development, dwelling longest on the third stage which he called the stage of the individual and in which he included his audience. Summoning testimony from science and the Bible, he showed in a forceful manner the great importance of living clean, pure and upright lives not only for better physical development but for the aid it gives to the building of character.

New Extension Bulletins

Two Bulletins arranged by the Bureau of Extension have just come from the press. Bulletin number 12, which is the first issued this term, deals with the teaching of county geography and is written by Prof. M. C. S. Noble, Dean of the School of Education. Taking Orange County as a basis, the most helpful and at the same time practical methods of teaching geography in the counties of the state are discussed. The Bulletin is well written and profusely illustrated with cuts and maps.

Bulletin number 13 offers a series of extra-mural courses by correspondence for which, under certain restrictions, credit may be had for a degree. Those courses included are drawing, economics, education, engineering, English, German, French, and other courses.

This Bulletin also gives the subjects of the 135 extension lectures to be delivered by various members of the faculty this year to North Carolina communities.

Campus Singing

The after supper singing has met with a great success. There have been an average of about forty or fifty out each night, and there seems to be a good amount of pep and harmony. The aim of the movement is to give the campus a better and more spirited atmosphere. It seems that there should be no trouble about getting the desired results from this movement while it is under the management of Mr. Epps. Not only do the men learn something about singing, but also about the songs themselves. Books containing popular college songs and also some of the latest rags have been ordered, and with the arrival of these the real stuff will begin to flow. Everything from "Onward Christian Soldiers" to "Marching Down the Field" is being sung. All are invited to come out and take a part. The music starts at 7 p. m. sharp.

Gay '18 Basketball Manager

The Sophomore class held a meeting Tuesday and elected Archie Gay basketball manager. The following committees were appointed: The Financial committee to pass on all class expenditures: Armstrong, Chm., M. P. Young and Stockton. The committee to arrange the next smoker, which will be held about the middle of December, is composed of Stephenson, Chm., H. V. P. Wilson, Jr., Dewar, Sparr, Oettinger, Sawyer and McClamrock.

Dr. C. H. Herty at a recent meeting of noted industrial chemists, was elected to serve on the Advisory committee for the 1916 National Exposition of Chemical Industries to be held in New York. Dr. Herty was chosen chairman of this committee for the coming year.

Mr. J. G. Baird, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, will speak at the Methodist Church Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. This speaking will be given under the auspices of the Chapel Hill Lodge, but the public is cordially invited.

The rumor, current on the campus for the last few days, that Boshammer and McDonald were ruled off the team on account of not having made the required grades in their work is without foundation. McDonald, it is reported, made no x's last month and Boshammer made only one.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have,

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect Clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

Dear Matilda

You have'nt answered my last letter yet, and I wouldn't write you either, but we play Virginia University next Thur., and as I am going to Richmond to root for the boys I wont get to write any next Thur, which is regular day for corexpoundence. Did you get my last letter, and if so, why didn't you? I wish to goodness you would go after your mail some times instead of taking it for granted that you haven't got any. I always go after mine fully four or five times a day, because there might be some circular in the box that was mailed after the mail was put up. The notice of fines from the Dialectic Society, of which I am a member, and from the library, and letters from Mr. Stacy sometimes usually come between mails, too. So that ought to be a lesson to you.

I started to tell you that Univ. of North C. of which place I am one of those which attend, will be played by Virg. Un. next Thurs. Every body is trying to borrow a suitcase, because you have to carry suitcases to Richmond, at least everybody does it. I don't see why either, because most of them are empty. Ive never been to Richmond before, but they say it is quite a place. I guess that our team will be glad when the game is over, because until then, Dr. Trenchard who is our coach, wont feed them any rations except beef broth and toast and warm milk. And besides wouuldn't it be fine to go and take in a picture show with your girl, after you had beat Virginia and had a square meal? May be I will be a player some day: I went out for the freshmen team this year and made the squad.

Mr. Chas. Coggins, who is the man which wears the red sweater at the continuous report is drinking dopes every day now, so he can get up a lot of pep. In fact I even saw him smoking a cigar that Mr. Carroway, who I think is a member of the Law Faculty, gave him, today. He was acting crazy right after that, so I guess it didn't agree with him.

Mr. Hon. Bob Reynolds, who wrote the moving picture seen-airio Capt. Bob. of the Horse Marines, and who acted in same, and ran for Congress in the mountain district last time, and who used to play football for Carolina, was in the other night, and he said he hoped we would beat Virginia, and so did Wm. J. Bryan when he was here. With such prominent sympathysers as them, we are sure to win. I sure wish you could see the game. As soon as I get to be capt. I will let you know, and you can come and see me play, and we will do what I said.....

With more love than you could command from any other fellow in the county,

Yours without a struggle,

which Combs and Capehart have ever participated. This fact is to show that Carolina really has the drive in tennis but the men were erratic on account of this being their first match game.

Captain Capehart is trying to arrange another match with Trinity to be played on the Hill soon. If this match can be arranged the interest and support of the student body will go far toward helping Carolina win.

When is a cigarette Sensible?

A cigarette is not sensible for you if it leaves your taste and your smoke-hunger a little bit unsatisfied.

—nor if it bothers your throat or tongue

—nor if it makes you "feel mean" after smoking your usual number.

None of these things will happen to you if you find (and stick to) the right cigarette.

But the cigarette that is right for one man may not be right for another. For instance, Fatimas may not just suit your taste—in spite of the fact that they are the best-selling cigarette costing over 5c.

Fatimas ARE cool and friendly to the throat and tongue—and they will NOT make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

So they surely are sensible for you—except possibly for the taste.

And when it comes to that, it will be mighty strange if you don't like Fatima's taste—they couldn't sell so fast if the taste weren't extra good, could they?

Why not get Fatimas this very day and find out for yourself how sensible a cigarette can really be?

TEAM IN GOOD FORM

Hard Play Takes Place of Early Slump

TRAINED TO THE MINUTE

Team Not to Stay in Hotel Before Game and Hear Yells

With the great Virginia game only a few hours off the Carolina squad continues its earnest work in preparation for the contest. The team is not over-confident as has been the case in previous years. The team is confident, however, of its great strength, latent for two months, but brought out in the last two weeks. For more than a week the squad has been drilled in practice every afternoon until too dark to see the ball, and then after supper they have met for signals and rehearsal of the plays.

The scrimmages during the week have been costly in that Parker, star full back, a consistent ground gainer and a tower of strength on defense, suffered a fractured collar bone and will be out of the game for the year. Blades, one of the best substitute backs, has gone home on account of an attack of grippe. The rest of the squad is in good physical condition and will put up a fight till the final whistle blows on Thursday afternoon.

The position of left end is still unsettled, Hogan and Love being the chief contestants. Jones has been fighting hard during the week for a position at tackle and in every scrimmage he has starred. His great weight and strength and the pep and form which he has developed are very pleasing to the coaches. Black and Blackmer who were shifted to end on account of the injuries to Wright and Metz, have been shifted to the backfield to fill the vacancies made by Blades and Parker.

Captain Tayloe is in the best condition he has been in this season, and the predictions are that he will make this, his last college game, the best game of his football career.

Virginia has an enviable record this year and boasts of their team as the finest in the history of the institution. With a 10-0 victory over Yale, a 35-10 victory over Vanderbilt and having held Harvard to a 9-0 field goal score, she may justly feel proud. The one defeat by Harvard is her only defeat this season although Georgia gave her a scare.

Our record has been a poor one, due somewhat to injuries to good men early in the season and to the poor physical condition of the entire squad through most of the season. However the coaches have worked with one object in view; to have the team in top form on Thanksgiving day. After the Georgia game last year, which we won by the score of 41

INTERESTING FACTS SHOWN BY STATISTICS

Virginia's Backfield Lighter Than Carolina's

Figures, comparative scores and tabloid forms of numerals reveal many interesting facts in regard to the Carolina football aggregation.

The North Carolina squad averages about three pounds to the man less than the Orange and Blue. The average weight of the Carolina first team is 171.5, while the average weight of the Virginia regulars is 174.5. Carolina's backfield averages 165.7 pounds to the man; Virginia's backfield averages 158. The bulkiest man in the Carolina backfield is Captain Dave Tayloe who weighs 171; and he is pitted against ex-captain Mayer, Virginia's heaviest backfieldsman of 170 pounds.

Virginia's line has a considerable margin over Carolina in avoirdupois. The average weight of the Tar Heel line from end to end is 175; the average weight of the linesmen from Virginia is 185. "Fatty" Cowell, Carolina's left guard, weighs 196; while Virginia's bulkiest linesman, Stillwell, right end tips the scales at 200.

It is a coincidence that the best kickers on each squad are also the tallest men on their respective squads. For Virginia, Thurman and Stillwell, the newly discovered punter, both stand six feet one; whereas Carolina's principal punter, Long, stands six-one, last year's punter, Dave Tayloe, is six-two and Tandy, Carolina's old reliable dropkicker, is of the same height.

Carolina has in Capt. Dave Tayloe and Roy Homewood two members of the regular team who are serving their fourth year in the White and Blue uniform. Virginia's two bulwarks of strength, Capt. Harris Coleman and ex-captain Mayer, will also don the Orange and Blue uniform for the last time this Thanksgiving. But next year Carolina will see such of her first string men leave as Ramsay, Cowell, Tandy, Reid, Parker and Love. That, however, is a problem for the future and not for the present.

BAND PREPARES TO ACCOMPANY THE TEAM

Will Leave the Hill Wednesday Morning

The University Band, twenty strong, will leave the Hill for Richmond Wednesday morning, filled with "Tar Heel Born's" and "On to Victory's."

A competent instructor has been engaged for the occasion, and through his services the music will be greatly improved.

For the past week the Band has been practicing every evening, and together with its music and the voices of five thousand loyal "Tar Heel" supporters, Carolina should be able to get up the old "pep."

On Thanksgiving morning they will play in the Jefferson Hotel, where this year they hope to create even more enthusiasm than they did last year, as they have a new collection of songs and pieces.

ATTRACTIONS IN RICHMOND

Dance at the Jefferson and "Omar" There Thanksgiving Night

Those who go to see the Virginia game will find other attractions in the Hilly City on Thanksgiving Day. "Omar, the Tentmaker," Richard Walton Tully's sumptuous Persian spectacle, will be at the Academy of Music Thursday afternoon and night. Guy Bates Post will take the leading role. Tickets matinee, 25c to $1.50, evening 50c to $2.00. At the Strand Theatre the Grayce Scott Company will present "Strongheart," a comedy drama of modern American college life. Besides these there will be plenty of movies at the Bijou, Lyric, Little, Colonial, Iris, and Superior Theatres. There will be a dance at the Jefferson Hotel Thursday night.

All students are urged to be at the Jefferson Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the big mass meeting. The band will be there.

Gorgon's Head Informal Dance

The Junior Order of the Gorgon's Head will be at home to the students and faculty at an informal dance in their lodge Friday afternoon, December 3rd, from four to six o'clock.

PLAYERS TO BE NUMBERED IN BIG GAME

Cut this Out and See Who's Who in Richmond

A number will be sewed on the back of each player's sweater this year so that they may be easily distinguished in the confusion of the battle. The players who will probably start the game and their respective numbers are as follows:

No. 3. Love, l. e.
" 8. Ramsay, l. t.
" 15. Cowell, l. g.
" 19. Tandy, c.
" 16. J. Tayloe, r. g.
" 14. Boshammer, r t
" 5. Homewood, r e
" 22. Long, q
" 26. D. Tayloe, l h
" 23. MacDonald, r h
" 29. Reid, f

The numbers of some of the scrubs who are likely to get in the game are as follows:

No. 1. Hogan
" 2. Metz
" 9. Jones
" 17. Grimes
" 18. Gay
" 20 Craig
" 21. Currie
" 24. Allen
" 27. Hines
" 28. Black
" 30. Blount
" 31. Blackmer

MANY PROMINENT PERSONS TO BE AT GAME

Governor Craig and President Graham to Go

At the Virginia-Carolina game in Richmond Thanksgiving there will be many men and women of prominence in both states. Among those from North Carolina who will lend dignity to the occasion are Governor Craig and Mrs. Craig. From Chapel Hill President Graham, Mrs. Graham, Dr. Archibald Henderson and Mr. Louis Graves will attend. Mr. Graves, formerly one of the best quarterbacks Carolina has ever had and now private secretary to the President of the Board of Aldermen of New York City, is spending a few days with President Graham.

PAPERS PRAISE TEAM

Transformed Since The Georgia T. Game

VIRGINIA FEELS SHAKY

"Carolina at Maximum Speed" "Best Material in 10 Years"

Football speculation, reasoning and arguing have filled the Hill from the time we beat Citadel 14 to 7 until we trounced Davidson last Saturday. With each game the dope has changed with the varying fortunes of the team. Virginia critics have called our football aggregation the "million dollar mystery," referring to the expensive coaching system and the uncertain results obtained. With the Virginia game looming up only two days distant, it is interesting to notice in the criticisms of Virginia and Carolina newspapers the puzzling influence on forecasts of the latest developments. In general the splendid come back of our men since the Georgia Tech. game has occasioned much favorable comment, and Tar Heels are optimistic about Thanksgiving results.

The Charlotte Observer, reporting the Davidson game, says:

"Carolina is at maximum speed the Blue and White squad on edge for next Thursday. Rising peoenix-like out of the very ashes of disaster and defeat, there goes against Virginia on Thanksgiving, a Carolina football aggregation which is destined to surprise both friend and foe. Weeks ago when the news came Southward that Virginia had beaten Yale and that Carolina had been smothered by Georgetown, the dopesters, along with the pessimists, began to prophesy the result of the Thanksgiving game. As matters went from bad to worse, they claimed to hear strains of the swan song arising from the old University campus.

The Georgetown game was lost 38 to 0; a fairly insignificant V. M. I. team held Carolina to a 3 to 3 tie, and Georgia Tech trampled over the White and Blue, 23 to 3. "The Virginia game will be a mockery," was the cry which began to swell in volume as defeat followed defeat.

"Then came the change. Carolina's eleven was in a moment transformed from a broken and defeated squad to a formidable football machine. How it happened no one knows. Even the coaches can give no satisfactory reason for the transformation. Yet somehow, though still smarting from the punishment inflicted by Georgia Tech, the Carolina squad that went out of Atlanta was not the same squad that entered that city."

Other comments from the Charlotte paper which sum up the general situation will be of inter-

THANKSGIVING

Just a decade ago Carolina won the game with Virginia. In many respects that season was similar to the present one. We had lost several important games—Pennsylvania 17 to 0, Navy 38 to 0, V. P. I. 35 to 6. The team had started the season poorly with only a 6 to 0 victory over Davidson; many of the players were out of the game on account of injuries. The whole squad, however, struck their pace before the end of the season, and, determined to win, they met Virginia. With every man working persistently, the team advanced down the field. The whole Carolina backfield broke loose, the line was impenetrable; they went thru Virginia for three touchdowns. (which then counted 5 points)

No one can fail to notice the resemblance between the 1905 season and that of 1915. Until the Clemson game we were lax in team work; but since that time we have steadily increased in proficiency until now we stand at our highwater mark. Virginia on the contrary, probably reached the highest point of her power in the Vanderbilt game. We meet strong opponents Thanksgiving Day but we meet them with a fighting team, a team which is capable of great things, a team which has our confidence and our heartiest cheers. We know that every man will do his best, and we, for our part, will play the most active sideline game possible.

Nor will all the Carolina cheering be carried on in Richmond. The students who remain in Chapel Hill will not attend the continuous report silently. All over the state there will be enthusiastic interest in the game. No doubt detachments of Carolina supporters in every town in the state will spend a part of Thursday afternoon in telegraph offices waiting for news of the Richmond game to be click-clicked down from Virginia. We feel that when the telegraph operator hears that news flowing through his instrument, he will smile; that when he has deciphered it for the men crowding the office, they will smile; that when it appears in the Friday morning papers, the state will smile and cheer.

FARMERS VISIT UNIVERSITY

Members of Farmers' Union Take Dinner Here Thursday

The visit to their State University Thursday of the farmers who had been in attendance at the state-wide Farmer's Union meeting, held in Durham this week, is perhaps of greater significance than anything which has occurred on the Hill this year.

At least one hundred and fifty of them came over from Durham in automobiles. They were welcomed by President Graham in Gerrard Hall where the students and faculty assembled to greet them. After the meeting in Gerrard Hall, they were given luncheon in Swain Hall, and after luncheon they were shown over the campus and buildings, and so got a good idea of what their university is like.

Mr. Barrett, President of the National Farmers' Union organization said that he had never heard of a gathering of farmers visiting a state university, and that usually in their meetings, when the state university was mentioned, it was for the purpose of giving it a "cussing." Turning to President Graham, Mr. Barrett said: "You must be a wonderful man to be able to get all the people to look upon you and your institution with so much favor."

Spectators' Tickets To Dances

A few days before the fall dances, a limited number of spectators' tickets will be delivered to the presidents of the four academic classes, who will, in turn, give them to the first persons who request them. These tickets of which there will be 150 in all, will admit spectators to the balcony after eleven thirty. The number of tickets is necessarily limited because the balcony itself is not unduly strong and its capacity therefore limited.

Spectators are requested not to stand on the stairway. Tickets will be collected at the doorway but returned to the spectators when they retire. Any man on leaving the building, in case he should not care to return, is at liberty to give his ticket to any one else who desires to witness the dance. The sole object in using these tickets is to limit the number of spectators and thus protect their interests as well as those of the dancers against the unsafety of the balcony. Different tickets will be used for the two dances.

The Team's Program

The Carolina team (destined to defeat Virginia Thursday) will leave from the gymnasium Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. It will take the 11:10 Seaboard train from Durham, spending the night in Ashland, Va. Resuming the trip Thursday the boys will arrive at Richmond about 11 o'clock. A game is to be played at 2:30. They will be entertained at a show, "Omar, the Tentmaker," and a dance at the Jefferson Thursday night, returning Friday.

FIRST FACULTY LECTURE

Dr. Greenlaw Talks on "The Choice of Studies."

Dr. E. A. Greenlaw gave the first of the faculty lectures in Gerrard Hall Friday night. His subject was "The Choice of Studies" and his lecture was thoughtful and helpful.

Its purpose was to focus attention on certain Carolina conditions. Dr. Greenlaw in the beginning of his lecture said that there has been too much sampling of courses by students who characterize a good course as one in which the professor shows a proper regard for the student's feelings. Such conditions as this cause us to consider what the curriculum is, and why it exists.

The speaker said that in gaining true manhood the college can help us much. Universities have been criticized for their failure to give studeuts something more than words and forms—personalities. Our present curriculum, however, supplies us with a means of interpreting life through a well rounded course in science, history, and literature.

Science gives us knowledge of the laws of nature. It is a search for accuracy and truth. The career of Huxley, his serious purpose and thoroughness illustrate what science has to give to the student. In science the theory of progress holds in contrast to literature where there is not necessarily progress. Such progress makes the teaching of science deal with the very latest things of today; e. g. we must study engines by studying the engines of today. Such is not true of literature; words written centuries ago are true and applicable today.

We must define our attitude toward the curriculum. We must determine whether it is to be active or passive. We have in far too numerous instances the passive attitude. We want to be educated without any effort on our part. Such an attitude of listlessness is notorious in college. But we must get our interpretation for ourselves. To know is a struggle. We must hate philandering, slovenness, sentimentality we must hate mental inertia; we must face facts and not be over-confident. We must bring the truth to bear on life as seen in science, literature or history, or on life as seen in the cabin or the factory. The studies offer to us an invitation to the search for truth. The curriculum is not the college, the athletic team, the debating team, the long roll of students, the material furniture, do not constitute the university. The university is the combining of teachers and students in the search for truth.

Dr. Raper Honored

The announcement that Dr. Charles Lee Raper, Dean of the University Graduate School, has been invited to present a paper before the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress, which meets in Washington December 27 to January 4, brings one to the conclusion that the Scientific Congress will be a University of North Carolina occasion, in that three leaders in University life will read papers before the Congress. President E. K. Graham and Dr. C. H. Herty have also been recipients of invitations similar to the one received by Dr. Raper.

EXPERIENCE is a good school, but that ain't any excuse for always stayin' in the same class. When you're done tryin' out the "pretty fair" smokes, try VELVET, the smoothest.

"As the day of the game approaches, thousands of old Carolina men will begin to drift into Richmond from all directions. Year after year they come to see that game, hoping and longing for the day when Carolina shall bear Virginia's scalp southward. For 10 years they have come to see that game, only to turn homeward disappointed. But they will come again this year and in larger numbers than ever before.

"Last year this loyal throng came to Richmond with a feeling that victory was a last within Carolina's grasp. Carolina had won 10 straight games, scoring 362 points to her opponents 60. Virginia won eight games and lost one.

"This year Virginia trampled over Yale, held and outplayed Harvard, and has won every other game yet played. Carolina has won four games, tied one, and lost the two most important combats to Georgetown and Ga. Tech. The Carolina boys have scored 105 points to their opponents' 84.

"But previous comparative showing is an inaccurate prophet of future results. In 1905, Carolina lost to Pennsylvania, Navy, and V. P. I., and tied A. & M., but won from Davidson, V. M. I. and Georgetown. Virginia won from A. & M., Bucknell, Davidson, and George Washington, but lost to the Indians, V. P. I., and the Navy. In that year, Carolina crushed its old rival 17 to 0. Likewise in 1903, after losing its three most important games of the season, V. P. I., Kentucky, and Georgetown, Coach Olcott's bunch of veterans sprung a surprise on Virginia, beating her 16 to 0."

In the light of such past experiences, we cannot fail to be optimistic.

A Richmond paper remarks as follows:

"North Carolina's rapid development during the past fortnight has thrown a big scare into Virginia's football camp. This fear has been strengthened by reports brought back by Virginia scouts who saw the Chapel Hill squad in action against Davidson. They declare that the Old North State team as at present constituted is composed of the best material seen at Carolina in ten years. Head Coach Varner stated tonight that he felt more uneasy over the outcome of the Thanksgiving Day battle than he had over any previous game on Virginia's schedule."

Concluded from first page

to 6, the score of the Davidson game this year, the team slumped. After a terrific battle with Vanderbilt it lost to Virginia The Vanderbilt team did not put up a good game against Virginia this year. They missed tackle after tackle and allowed the Va. backs to run wild. The Carolina team that faces Virginia on Thanksgiving is better than the team that defeated Vandy at her best last year. The team is trained to the minute and is in the same condition now that they were in at the Georgia game last year.

On Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. the varsity squad consisting of about 30 men and the coaches, will leave for Richmond arriving there about five o'clock in the afternoon. A new policy will be tried this year, a policy that Northern colleges have practiced successfully. The team will be allowed to relax from the strain under which they have been working, and all thoughts of football and the game will be laid aside. They will not be allowed to hear the comments of the crowds on the respective abilities of the two teams, nor will they be allowed to hear the yells around the hotels before the game. The yells aid wonderfully during the game but do not have the same effect on the men in the morning while they are resting.

Of the backfield substitutes Hines is the first choice. He is fast and a fine broken field runner. His tackling is also sure and hard. Jones, F. is the next best choice for the line while Gay, Grimes, Currie, Royall and Proctor are all good.

AIMS OF STUDENT COUNCIL

Wishes To Impress On Each Man His Individual Responsibility

This year the Student Council is endeavoring to impress upon the mind of every student the fact that he is an organic part of student government. Through the medium of chapel talks, through University publications, and by personal effort, the Council is laboring to further this aim. It wishes to bring the individual student to a realization of the extent to which he is really responsible for the success of student self-government. Members of the Council believe that every man in the University is just as vitally concerned, and should be just as actively engaged, in the positive work of self-government as is the Student Council. Every effort is now being put forward to imprint this fact upon the mind and conscience of each student

Carolina Debates

According to plans recently matured Carolina is to meet George Washington in debate at some date in December, the query being, Resolved, that the United States Government should own and operate all telegraph lines in the United States, constitutionality conceded. Carolina has the negative. The debate will be held here and is creating considerable interest as it affords Carolina the opportunity of winning the series in which both Universites have won one debate each.—Alumni Review.

News comes from Virginia that Mayer is in the hospital suffering from injuries received in scrimmage.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE SHOWS COMING STARS

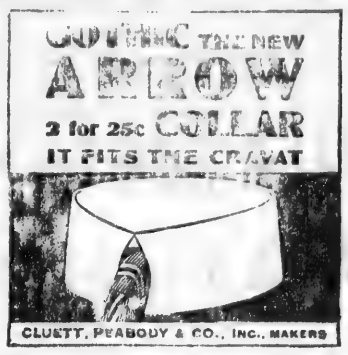
Coach Doak Says Prospects Look Good to Him

"All I can say is that the prospects look pretty good," said Coach "Chick" Doak, in reply to a query concerning the basketball outlook for this season. He said further that a number of the new men are showing up good in practice, among the number mentioned being Blue, Poag, Patterson, Perry, Cuthbertson and Rutledge.

There are several of the old men on the football squad and will not report for practice until after the Thanksgiving game. These are George Tandy, Raby Tennent, Meb Lorg and Rusty Davis. Johnson (Captain). Holding, and Andrews of last year's squad are out for practice every night and are showing up "top notch" form.

The schedule has not yet been definitely decided upon, but it will probably appear in next week's issue of the Tar Heel. Coach Doak, however, states that there will very probably be two games on the Hill before the Christmas Holidays.

MUSICAL CLUBS TO PERFORM HERE DEC. 2



Program of Vaudeville, Rags and Classic Music

The combined musical clubs of the University, including Glee Club, Orchestra and Mandolin Club, will give their concert here in Gerrard Hall, Thursday, Dec. 2nd at 8:00 p. m. The program is entirely new and better than ever, embracing a wide range of music, from excellent orchestral renditions of the classical harmony, to the raggedest rags of those ragpicking mandolinists.

The performance will be perpetrated in two acts, the first a purely musical one, the second interspersed with vaudeville stunts and light musical songs. This widely diversified repertoire gives everybody assurance that no one's taste will remain ungratified. Tickets for the concert will be placed on sale at Eubanks.

High School Football

The game for the High School football championship of the State will be played here December 11. Charlotte has the championship of the Western part of the State; Greensboro, Raleigh and Wilmington are contending for that of the Eastern.

Mr. A. W. Graham, Jr., has the distinction of being one of youngest attorneys in the State to argue a case in the Supreme Court. He was granted license recently and on the following day faced the learned men of the Supreme Bench without a tremor.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have.

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect Clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

Matilda dear!

At last I have heard from you, as you probably know without my saying so, and I was sure glad to get the postal. The picture of all those cows reminded me of home and of you, my little snooksie ooksie. It is mighty nice of Mr. Hirshey to enclose postal in his chocolate, isn't it? By the way, who gave you that cake of chocolate that the post card came with? I'll bet it was that red headed Gabe Simpkins. But he can't slip anything over on me. You just wait until I come home, and I'll bring you 2 cakes and some chewing gum too.

But let us not discuss matters of love Matilda when there are more pleasant subjects, and besides I'm not 21 yet.

All you can hear around the campus now is "on to Richmond." The first team and the scrubs have been having secret practice all last week. The scrubs are trained to play just like Virginia and I think they have big V's on their jerseys, so our team will get used to seeing them and won't shy.

Carolina's priceless gem, which is what our team is called in our college song, will catch the train for Richmond Wednesday morning. The U. N. C. band will go on the same train and keep up the fighting spirit of the team by playing tunes for them. This is certainly a fine idea, for it is enough to make a fellow mad to hear that band. By the time they get to Richmond they ought to be sore enough to lick two Virginia's.

We had a mass meeting Monday night up in the chapel. Charley Coggins was toast master, and he started out by saying that it takes pep in the students to put pep into the team. The band then gave a selection to show how bum it sounded without a bass drum. After the selection, a collection was collected to buy them a bass drum.

Some of the professors made speeches about what they used to do in the old days, and then different men on the team gave orations saying they would put their very best material into the game and therefore we would probably beat Virginia. This sounded mighty encouraging to me, because I bet my roommate 35 cents on the game. If I win I will make it three packs of Hershey's.

Give everybody my love except Gabe.

Your fellow,
Hez.

Students' Use of English

Next year the Department of English expects to provide a course for upperclassmen who, though they have credit for English I-II, obviously need further training in English composition.

The Department suggests that it might be well at this time to warn students that unless their writing is satisfactory during the present year, they will be required to take the above course next year.

Why Fatimas are a Sensible Cigarette

What makes a cigarette sensible?

It must be delicious to your taste, of course. But the fact that Fatimas please the taste of most men—they outsell any other cigarette costing over 5c—doesn't by itself, make Fatimas sensible.

Fatimas are a sensible cigarette because they also give you cigarette comfort.

They are cool. That means comfort to the throat and tongue. And better yet, they never make you "feel mean." The mild Turkish blend of all pure tobaccos in Fatimas takes care of that.

Stick to Fatimas and you'll discover at the end of every long-smoking day just what cigarette comfort means.

And you'll realize that you've found the one cigarette you'll want to stand by—a sensible cigarette.

Why not try Fatimas today.

DR. HENDERSON TO READ "PYGMALION"

To Give Shaw's Brilliant Play in Peabody, Dec. 9

Professor Henderson has promised to read the "Pygmalion."

This will open the series of Faculty Readings, given under the auspices of the Student Activities committee, for the purpose of affording contact with good literature unexplained.

The reading will take place in Peabody Building, Thursday next, December the ninth, at eight o'clock.

"Pygmalion" is the latest and most widely discussed of Shaw's plays. Incidentally, with Mrs. "Pab" Campbell as the heroine, it was a hit of last year's Broadway season.

The legend of Pygmalion, though somewhat shopworn is still unfaded. Shaw placed it in a present-day setting and injects into it all the vivacity and irony that distinguishes his interpretation of modern life. In the transformation of a flower seller of the London streets to the flower of a London drawing room; the author offers a commentary on modern education. He may not offer it consciously, but there it is. The other motive of the play—and distinctly a Shawian one—is woman's suit of man.

That Bernard Shaw's biographer will add much to the understanding and appreciation of one of Bernard Shaw's plays goes without saying. The personality of the author and the personality of his interpreter combine in promising one of the most delightful features of the lecture season.

PROF. SLEDD TELLS OF HIS WAR IMPRESSIONS

Says None Of Nations Know Why They Are Fighting

Professor Benjamin Sledd of Wake Forest college delivered a lecture in Gerrard Hall Tuesday evening on "Impressions of Europe in War Times." Professor Sledd held the attention of his audience at all times.

After telling about England before war times, Professor Sledd entered upon his main theme—that is, his impressions of warring Europe. He stated in the outset that none of the nations know what they are fighting for or why they are fighting; that the Germans say they are fighting for their country, the French say they are fighting for their freedom, and all the other nations give some such reason why they are at present engaged in such a gigantic struggle. Professor Sledd characterized the war

VIRGINIA DEEEATS TAR HEELS--SCORE 14-0

Carolina Loses Game, But Wins Astounded Admiration of Friends and Enemies

CAROLINA REPEATEDLY RESISTS VIRGINIA'S FIERCE RUSHES

Virginia, Her Great Power Taxed to the Utmost, Wrests at End of the Game Two Touchdowns from Crippled Tar Heels

To strive mightily, to fight as it for life, to resist powerfully and successfully through a great first half the famous Virginia offense and finally, crippled by the loss of three of her best men, to lose—was Carolina's fate in Richmond Thanksgiving.

Battling brilliantly and valiantly to the bitter end, Carolina's wonderful fighting eleven lost by the score of 14 to 0 to the greatest team that ever wore the Orange and Blue of Virginia.

One touchdown late in the third quarter and another in the fourth was the utmost which the noted Virginia offence could tear from the fighting Tar Heels. "The backfield which crushed the Yale defence," said the Charlotte Observer, "was pushed to ts utmost to assemble these twc touchdowns, and the defence which kept the Virginia goal inviolate from Harvard feet was at times hard pushed to withstand the savage attacks of the Carolina backs. Except for two fumbles at critical moments; the Blue and White would probably haue emerged with a tie score, so potent was its defence wnen danger threatened. Undoubtedly, according to veteran spectators at the annual classic, the exhibition of fight that afternoon was the most wonderful and astounding display of courage ever revealed by a Chapel Hill team."

The game was played in ideal football weather and the multitude of spectators jammed against the fence and packed in the bleachers and grandstand was record-breaking.

Carolina played Virginia to a standstill in the first half. Every Blue and White player fought as if his very life depended upon keeping Virginia from crossing his goal-line. In the first quarter, Carolina with the ball on her two-yard line three times threw back the Virginia onslaught led by the mighty Mayer and Anderson.

In the second half, fighting desperately but terribly crippled by the loss of Tandy, Cowell and MacDonald who were taken from the game badly injured, Carolina was borne behind her goal line twice by the Orange and Blue attack.

No one man outshone his teammates throughout the game by spectacular plays but every man did his best effectively when his best was demanded. After giving due honor to Mayer, Berkley, Sparr and Anderson, the Charlotte Observer mentioned Ramsay as "a tower of strength in the line, often breaking through and throwing the fleet Virginia backs for losses." Of some of the other Carolina player one of the Richmond papers said:

Never before have spectators at a football game in Richmond had the privilege of seeing such wonderful defensive end play as that shown yesterday by Homewood at right end and Boshamer at left end. The two wing guardians played practically perfect, and the Virginia backs found it impossible to pass them.

Jones was a tower of strength in the Carolina line. Both his defensive and offensive work were superb; especially in the first and second quarters. Just at the end of the first quarter he opened a good hole for McDonald to plunge through, and then took Mayer out of the secondary defense.

One of the prettiest pieces of defensive work in the whole game occurred in the third quarter when Cowell broke through and threw Mayer before he got started on an attempted end run.

The fight put up by the Carolina forwards on their two-yard line in the first quarter will long linger in the memory of those who saw it. The Blue and White line was simply impregnable, holding like the proverbial "stone-wall." On the fourth attempt to carry the oval over, J. Tayloe broke through and downed Mayer in his tracks.

"Auld Lang Syne" was being played by the Virginia band when Tandy put his boot to the oval at 2:35 o'clock. Carolina's musicians played "Marching Down the Field" at this tense moment.

Play Starts

Tandy kicked off to Berkeley, who brought it 30 yards to the 40-yard line. Virginia tried one play and lost ground. Thurman kicked 65 yards up field. It was Carolina's ball on the 20-yard line.

Tayloe went through right tackle for four yards, falling over his own man. Tayloe clipped off three on the other side of the wall. A punt was then sent down the field. So fast were the Carolina ends that Berkeley let the oval hit the ground,

Virginia had the ball on the Carolina 45-yard line. Two line plunges got five yards. Sparr couldn't gain and Thurman kicked, the ball going outside. Carolina was off-side, making first down for Virginia. Mayer got two yards through right tackle. Anderson made seven yards and Sparr made it first down. Mayer clipped eight yards on the left. Tandy threw Sparr for a loss. Reid got "Bunny" Berkeley for a two yard loss and the Carolinas threw Mayer back on the next play. Virginia was penalized five yards for off-side. Thurman dropped back for a drop kick from the 35-yard line and failed. It was Carolina's ball on

GEORGE TANDY 1916 FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

Carolina Center Chosen Thanksgiving Night

George Tandy was elected captain of the Carolina football team for next year at the team's annual banquet at the Murphy Hotel in Richmond after the Thanksgiving game. Tandy throughout his three years on the Carolina team has been one of the most brilliant and dependable players, both on offence and defense, and his dropkicking has won more than one game for the Blue and White.

He was given the position of all-South-Atlantic center in 1913, 1914 and 1915 by various sporting editors.

In this year's Virginia game he displayed a remarkable courage and nerve. Although his collar-bone was broken in the second play of the game, he continued to play until the third quarter and despite his injury put up such an excellent game that a Virginia man said afterwards that he had never seen any man play as great a game as Tandy did that day.

GLORIOUS FALL DANCE WEEK HERE

Entertainments Galore; Terpsichore vs. Minerva

The remainder of the week will be very full from the view point of amusement seekers. The fire-works will commence tonight at 8 o'clock with the glee club recital. A feature program has been arranged, including soul stirring selections by Meb Long, and illustrated lectures by 'Buck' Wimberly and 'Beany' Kinlaw respectfully. Raggedy rags and classical classics not to mention sceny scenarios will be presented.

After the recital there will be a dance in the gymnasium given by the Junior Order of Gimghouls Meb Long will be leader and Ed Reid and Johnie Jones will be assistants. It has been arranged to admit spectators to the gallery on both nights after 11 o'clock.

On Friday afternoon at 4:30, the Junior order of the Gorgon's Head will give an informal dance at their lodge. At 8 o'clock that evening the Club will present the Witching Hour by Augustus Thomas. This play has been carefully prepared by an excellent cast, and is expected to turn out one of the best dramatic productions ever seen here.

FOOTBALL

We feel that everything pertinent has already been said about the Thanksgiving game. Exactly a week has intervened between then and now, and during that time it has been discussed voluminously, verbally and in newspapers. North Carolina and extra-state papers, as well, have devoted columns to it.

There is nothing new that we can say about the game. Those who saw it knew, and those who heard the continuous report must heve felt that the team was putting its utmost into the fight, that every man was fill his position with all his ability. To a team of such parts we do all honor and wish that we were so competent.

PHYSIOLOGY

Editor Tar Heel.
Dear Sir:—

The Tar Heel in its last issue advocates that a "general physiology" be given in the college for the benefit of academic students who wish to "learn something of their physical make-up." I believe that a ruling of the trustees requires me to give instruction in the elements of physiology. Even if it were not so, it would be a matter for surprise that the college curriculum should not satisfy an obvious need.

As a matter of fact, the ground has been covered for many years in Zoology I-2. The fall term of this class is given up to the study of the structure, development, and working of the vertebrate body. And I may add that while in his physic life man departs widely from other organisms, in his physical make-up he is a vertebrate and does not differ radically from cats, frogs, and dogfishes—a conclusion which, if viewed intelligently, is not in the least humiliating.

Perhaps, however, the Tar Heel has in mind a course of lectures dealing largely with hygiene. Doubtless such a course would be helpful to many, in the same degree as are other purely "informational," intramural extension courses. If there is a real demand for such a course of lectures, it could probably be arranged for on a co-operative plan. H. V. WILSON

With the dropping of the curtain on football, we have a brief respite for rest and then the curtain rises on basketball. We note amid the players in this second act several faces reappearing from the first. We also hear it whispered among our fellow spectators that this part of the play will be much more successful than heretofore because the rehearsals started earlier.

This step on the part of the directors of the play is to be highly commended. It is a move which we are all glad to see. We understand it is the custom of the colleges which have the most sueccssful basketball teams to start practice early. It certainly looks plausible that the team first beginning practice stands the better chance to become proficient and therefore win. Even if some of the regular players were not able to take part in this early practice, they will profit by it in the long run. More will be demanded of them by a better developed second team.

From another point of view, as well, the coming basketball season looks promising. Last year's team has returned intact; none of the substitutes have remained away; and a number of good new men have reported for practice. No basketball enthusiast would hardly ask more. Nor has the University small reason to expect a good team. Unless something unforseen happens, we should have an altogether successful season.

her 20-yard line.

McDonald sprinted round right end for eight yards. Reid went outside, but Carolina was penalized for off-side. Carolina tried to smash the line but failed. A free fumble was recovered by J. Tayloe, but Long punted. The ball went to the 10-yard line, where Berkeley had to fall on it. Thurman immediately punted. The ball was fumbled by Long and Sparr got it on the 45-yard line. White on a fake run got eight yards through right tackle. Mayer made it a scant first down. Mayer tried one of his celebrated end runs from kick formation, but Homewood got him for a six-yard loss. Thurman punted out on the 15-yard line. McDonald was stopped by Sparr after a three yard gain. The Virginia forwards piled things up on a line play. Carolina kicked, Berkeley bringing the ball to the 30-yard line where Reid nailed him hard. Virginia drew a five-yard penalty. Mayer tried a forward pass, but Jim White was just too short to reach the ball. It would have been a clean touchdown had the flip gone to its destination. White threw a pass to Mayer, which went 22 yards, the ball being on the five-yard line. Four crashes failed to negotiate the distance and Carolina took the ball two yards from her goal. Carolina punted outside to her own 30-yard line.

Bunny Berkeley tried a long end run. Ramsay got him after a five-yard gain. Mayer tried the same thing, but Boshammer threw him for a five-yard loss. Virginia tried a forward pass, which Long interrupted and ran back 15 yards.

Tayloe made one yard and Mc. ripped off eight and one-half between left tackle and end. Carolina on the next play drew a penalty of five yards and the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Carolina tried one play in the second quarter and Long punted to Berkeley, who was downed on the Virginia 30-yard line by Homewood. Mayer was thrown for a five-yard loss by Ramsay. Thurman punted to Long who was tackled by White. Tayloe got five yards around left end, being stopped by White. MacDonald added three yards around right end. Long started out to make a pass, but nobody was at home and he tried to run. He then had to kick, Cowell getting Berkeley, after a 10-yard gain, on the 25-yard line.

Eddie Anderson got nine and one-half yards throught the Carolina right wing, McDonald getting him. Anderson clipped off four yards more. Carolina spilled the next play. Mayer skirted tackle for three yards. Anderson made twelve yards but Virginia was penalized five yards. On an end-round-end, White was downed by Boshammer for a two-yard gain. Virginia punted to Long, who was thrown in his tracks by Stillwell.

Carolina had the ball on the 23-yard line. McDonald made five on a shift and Long punted to Berkely, who was nailed in his tracks by Ramsay. Anderson and Sparr made eight yards. Dave Tayloe nailed Berkeley, who made two yards around right end for another first down. Mayer essayed a sweeping end run, but was thrown outside after an eight-yard gain. Cowell was knocked out by the tackle, throwing Mayer so hard that he dropped the ball. Anderson made one yard on an off-tackle play. He then gathered in six more in the same place. It was another first down with the ball on the 35-yard line. The first plunge failed, then Sparr got three yards. White made four on an end around play. Anderson ripped left tackle again, but Virginia was ofiside and was penalized five yards. White tried a drop kick, but failed to get the ball off the ground. It was blocked by his own men and recovered by Coleman.

Berkeley made an end run for five yards, but Virginia was penalized 15 yards for holding, White being guilty. McDonald got Mayer on an end run, but only after Buck had made five yards. Dave Tayloe spoiled a similar run around the opposite end. Dave Tayloe got a Virginia pass and ran it back to the center of the field, making 15 yards, being tackled by Mayer. Carolina made a pretty pass, Homewood getting the ball, but both teams were offside and the ball was brought back. McDonald failed to gain and Carolina kicked to Berkeley, who was taken off his feet by Ramsay who made a beautiful tackle. The half ended with the ball on Virginia's 20-yard line.

Second Half

Carolina kicked to Virginia in the second half. The ball was brought back to 30-yard line. On a double pass, Berkeley made five yards. Anderson made 20 yards around left wing, being downed by Long. Ramsay and Cowell smeared a line play. Homewood got Anderson on an attempted end run and Thurman tried a drop kick from the 40-yard line. It failed, but Carolina drew a penalty, which made a first down. Cowell got Mayer for a two-yard loss. Boshammer tripped Berkeley, but Bunny got five yards. Berkeley got off a beautiful pass to White, but the ball was brought back. Virginia tried another drop kick, which was as an miserable attempt as the others.

It was Carolina's ball on her own 20-yard line. McDonald made three yards and Long punted. Ramsay got Berkeley on the Virginia 45-yard line. Tayloe got White for a one-yard loss on end round. McDonald got Anderson for a two-yard loss. Thurman booted the ball clear over the line, it again going to Carolina on the 20-yard line. Tayloe tried a fake run, but Harris Coleman rode him and made him drop the ball, Virginia getting it 23 yards from the goal. Three line plunges got eight yards and then Anderson queezed out a first down. White made five yards, seven men tackling him. Ward replaced Moore and Stuart took G. Anderson's place. Anderson added one more and Mayer made a first down one yard from the goal. Anderson carried it across for the first score. Thurman kicked goal.

Tandy wrs replaced by Currie and Carolina kicked off, the ball being downed on the 37-yard line. White clipped off five yards on an end around, Boshammer and Ramsay getting him. Cowell was hurt for the second time. Grimes took his place. Virginia was forced to kick, but Carolina was penalized 15 yards for holding. Tayloe spilled Berkeley and Virginia drew a 15-yard penalty. Grimes broke through and got White for a loss. Homewood got Anderson for a slight loss and Thurman punted, the ball going out on the 37-yard line. Carolina fumbled on the first play and Coleman got the ball. Virginia drew a five-yard penalty for offside. Ramsay nailed White without a gain. Berkeley got five yards around left end on a triple pass. The period ended with the ball in Virginia's possession on the 25-yard line.

Fourth Quarter

Mayer started the fourth period with a 15-yard gain through the center of the line, Boshammer stopping him. Anderson made eight yards through the left wing, going off tackle. Hines replaced McDonald who was hurt. Sparr made it first down, two yards from the chalk. Mayer carried it over on the fourth plunge at the Tar Heel wall. Thurman punted out to Berkeley. He then booted it over the posts, bringing the total 14 to 0.

Reid was hurt in the last scrimmage and Parker took his place. He was greeted by Boshammer with a kiss. Carolina kicked off to Virgihia. The ball was carried to the 35-yard line. It took four plays to make first down. Three attempts brought the ball within one foot of the goal. "Pop" Lannigan came on on the field and it cost Virginia 15 yards. A forward pass, White to Mayer brought 15 yards, but it was Carolina's ball. The Tar Heels kicked, but the ball went outside on the 30-yard line.

Bunny Berkeley pulled the longest run of the game, making 30 yards around right end. Boshammer spilled Anderson for a four-yard loss. A drop kick by White was a fluke. It was Carolina's ball on her own 20-yard line.

The Tar Heels got penalized five yards on the first play. Long brought back the distance thru left guard. The next play was smeared and the game came to an end.

Summary

The line-up was as follows:

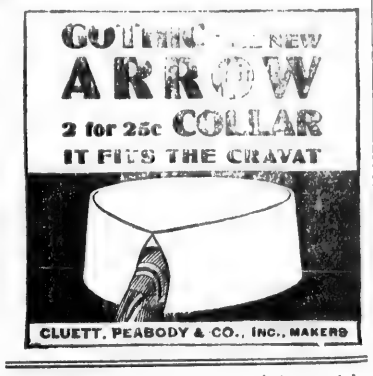
as an "unintentional fit of madness." "You can't get a European to tell you what this war is about," exclaimed the speaker, "they don't know!"



The speaker next described England's attitude in regard to the war. He said that England has not yet waked up, and that while he was there, a lack of enthusiasm was the most noticeable thing in England; that her artillery was antiquated and her men untrained in the arts of war, while for twenty-five years she has been discussing the German peril, and doing nothing bywhich she might be able to meet that Peril. He said, further, that Lloyd-George is now the strongest man in England; that before the outbreak of war, Lloyd-George was intensely hated by the aristocrats; that since the war began London has been almost on her knees to him. In London, Professor Sledd says you will still see great crowds, and everything is moving along just as if there was no war. He says that the boys are doing England's fighting while the men are staying at home.

In Paris, Professor Sledd beheld a different sight. There were no young men there; early in the morning the women, children, and old men gather in the churches to pray; the city is lying under a quiet and calm that can not be expelled. "The French people did not want the war," said the speaker, "and they realize that no matter which side comes out the victor France is the loser." If the allies win, France is looking for Englang to get the booty. The speaker further said that while in Frace, as in England, he never saw a sign of fear.

An Appreciation

We, the individual members of the football squads of 1914 and 1915, desire to offer our sincere thanks to Dr. R. B. Lawson for his invaluable services in training the squads of the last two years. We feel that his working among us, though without receiving or expecting any remuneration except the gratitude of the players and the satisfaction of helping Carolina win, has aided in making these two seasons the most successful in recent years. We desire our gratitude particularly for his work of the past season when luck seemed always against his efforts but when without his care, the team could not possibly have put up the fight it did on Thanksgiving day.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have.

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect Clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Dear Matilda,

The game being over, I can now write you again, now that things are sort of quiet once more. You know we got beat, but the Tar Heel has got the whole thing explained, and gives all the excuses better than I could, so I will just send you a copy.

I can't study a darn bit tonight, because everybody is talking and making so much noise you'd think another Virginia game was coming off, almost. I hear somebody yelling "skirts on the camp-u-u-s," so I guess I'd better go see what's the matter.

Oh, yes! I forgot. The dances begin tonight,—whoopee! Excuse me while I go up town and see them come in. (Not the dances, the girls).

Next year when I'm a sophmore, you watch me. I'm going to get Dad's swallow tail, (which you wear to dances as well as funerals down here), and part my hair in the middle, and then if anybody should want to know where I'm at, I can say "there's me" with the rest of them.

I see the girls have a new way to tell time, now. Almost all of them have watches on their stockings, but I never have found out how they run yet. It is mighty convenient, and I notice everybody keeps better posted on what time it is than they could if they had to tote a regular Waterbury around with them.

I got a ticket to the dance from the president of our class, for tomorrow night, but tonight I had to climb up to the window of the gymnasium. Before that, though, the Glee Club gave, or rather sold a few selections over in the Chapel. As all the skirts were there, I went to it, and just the fragrance of all those girls was worth the price of admission. They sure did smell sweet, and looked even more so, but I don't allow any of them could top you, my dear idle.

I didn't know what sporty professors we had, until I saw a thin one pulling off this here fancy open work dancing, and another rather elderly man doing winter dancing (the kind you do when you are cold). One old professor who looks like a Methodist deacon, backed around the hall as if he meant business, and drew 65 cents an hour for it. He dances more to the square inch than the whole rest of the gang put together. Each seemed to think the success of the dance depended on his efforts, and feeling that they were noted as "heavy" ladies' men and good time showers, they were all very busy holding up this reputation.

When the ostriches, (that is what they call fiddlists down here) started to sawing around and the fellow with a horn made out of sliding gas pipe swallowed about half of it, and they all up and swung their pardners, I just couldn't keep from dancing a jig on the window sill, where I was standing. When I was going at it pretty lively, I forgot and turned loose my hold, and my foot slipped, and down I went. It must have dislocated my ear, because from then on the music sounded like a buzz saw.

So I came on back to the room, and there wasn't anything else to do, so I thought I would finish this letter.

It is now finished, so
Goodby,
Hez.

Will YOU try a sensible cigarette?

Fatimas have a taste that wins most men on the first trial. That must be true. Otherwise, Fatimas would not be outselling every other cigarette costing over 5c.

But what keeps men so loyal to Fatimas is that Fatimas play fair in every way. They never taste "hot" and never leave a "sand paper tickle" or any "mean feeling" after continued smoking.

Fatimas are truly a sensible cigarette because —they are always cool and comfortable to the throat and tongue and —they leave one feeling tip-top even after a long smoking day.

—they are packed in a common-sense, inexpensive package. The value is in the cigarettes.

Their Turkish blend of all-pure tobaccos is combined in such a way as to make them always comfortably mild, yet rich in good tobacco-character.

MORE THAN HALF HUNDRED GIRLS ATTEND FALL DANCES HERE

Dances Given By Junior Orders and German Club Enjoyed By Large Number of Dancers

The Carolina fall dances, by far the most brilliant social events on the Hill during the fall session, were held Thursday and Friday of last week and were enjoyed by faculty, student body and more than half a hundred visiting girls. Fifty-eight couples were in the opening march Thursday night.

The Thursday night dance, the first of three dances, was given at the Bynum gymnasium by the Junior Order of Gimghouls. Meb Long was the leader of this dance with Ed Reid and Johnnie Jones as his assistants. Punch and sandwiches were served during the evening, and the dancers adjourned at one thirty. The gymnasium was decorated with evergreens and ribbons of red and black. Friday morning classes continued uninterrupted except by late arrivals on eight-thirtys and sleepers being awakened on twelve-thirtys.

Friday afternoon an informal dance was given by the Junior Order of Gorgon's Head at their lodge. The floor was crowded, but the dance was uuusually enjoyable. Autumn leaves and purple bunting formed attractive decorations. Throughout the dance sandwiches and punch were served.

The last dance was given Friday night by the German Club and was largely attended. It was led by L. A. Blue, Jr, with J. C. Cowan and R. C. Davis as assistants. The University colors were conspicuous among the decorations of pine and honeysuckle. Coffee, with sandwiches and punch was served during the evening.

Grainger's Orchestra of Wilmington furnished music for all the dances.

Following is a list of the visiting girls and the boys who invited them:

Raleigh—Misses Elizabeth Telfair with C. T. Smith; Katherine Sherwood and Eliza Leach with Fab Shipp; Lutabelle Spann with Sam Telfair; Josephine White with Tom Ruffin; Katherine Smith with R. E. Little; Mildred Holden with Sam Telfair; Julia Manning with Fab Shipp; Agnes Timberlake with William Monroe; Isabelle Brown with William Dewar; and Bessie Lumsden with Jessie Bowers.

Charlotte—Misses Annie Dewey Chambers with E. Y. Keesler; Mary Stuart Alexander and Annie Taliaferro with Francis Clarkson; Aileen Butt and Benetta Heath with Clyde Fore. Mrs. J. L. Chambers acted as chaperone for the Charlotte girls.

Greensboro—Misses Marion Jones with Banks Mebane and Margaret Adams with Robert Bryan. Mr. and Mrs. John Waldrop and Mrs. Sterling Jones accompanied the Greensboro girls.

Winston-Salem— Misses Lucy Hanes with Edwin Borden; Serena Dalton with Fab. Shipp; Ernestine Lott with Farrer Parker; Margaret Fletcher with Wilson Dalton; Katherine Graham with Julian Hart; Ida Wilkinson with William Wright; and Leona Lambertson with Tom Ruffin. Mrs. Wilkinson accompanied the girls from Winston.

Durham—Misses Claudia Lewis with Mebane Long; Margaret Thomas with Orrin Lloyd; Elise Lloyd with George Tandy; Douglas Hill with John Morehead; Louise White with Enoch Simmons; Ruth Fallon and Janet Mason with Mr. Small. Mrs. Thomas chaperoned the Durham girls.

Goldsboro–Misses Mary Dortch and Julia Borden with Emmett Robinson; Carroll Collier with Holmes Herty; Ethel Miller with Borden Cobb; and Louise Crawford with William Graves.

Wilson—Misses Gladys Smith William Whitaker; Virginia Davis with James Pou; and Lanie Hales with Claiborne Royall.

Wadesboro— Misses Shepherd Leak and Augusta Little with James Hardison.

Fayetteville—Misses Helen Dodson with Hoke Black; and Emma Sheets with Seddon Goode.

Mount Airy—Miss Mary Franklin Graves, the attractive house guest of Dr. Coker for the past two weeks, with Harry Cobb the opening night,

Gastonia—Miss Lois Torrence with Grimsley Taylor.

Salisbury—Miss Alice McKenzie with Francis Jordan.

Rocky Mount — Miss Shafer with Ichy Robbins,

Oxford — Miss Lucy Landis with James Taylor.

Wilmington—Miss Louise Wise with Robert Davis.

Rockingham—Miss Bruce Long with Charles Daniels.

Chapel Hill—Miss Gypsie Barton with Frank Pendergraft; Louise Crawford with William Graves; Louise Venable with John Huske; and others. Most of the ladies of the faculty attended the dances.

Hartsville, S. C.—Miss Margaret Lawton, who has been the house guest of Dr. Coker for the past two weeks.

Belton, S. C.—Misses Sarah Latimer with M. E. Robinson; Mary Jaeger with Frank Pendergraft.

Macon, Ga.—Miss Mary Coates with Bobo Tanner.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Miss Margaret Schmidt with John H. Jones.

South Boston, Va.—Miss Wirk Jordan with William Monroe.

Live Oaks, Fla.—Miss Haffre Barton with Fred Patterson.

ALL CLASS FOOTBALL TEAM IS SELECTED

Juniors Have 5 Men on Star Line-up; Seniors 5

Although the class football championship race was not run to the end, yet in the games that were played eleven men have shown that they are slightly superior to their rivals for all-class honors. Charles Daniel, coach of the four class teams, who should know better than anyone else the relative merits of the class players, has selected the all-star caste which follows.

The Junior eleven claims five of the places, the Senior five. The remaining one is given to the Freshman.

The line-up of the all class team is as follows:

Center, Holbrooke, of the Juniors.

Guards: Rymer, of the Seniors; and Joines, of the Juniors.

Tackles: Hart, of the Seniors; and Harris, of the Juniors.

End: Ranson, of the Juniors; and Wood, of the Seniors.

Quarterback: Coleman, of the Juniors.

Halfbacks: Huske, of the Seniors; and Patterson of the Seniors.

Fullback: Scales, of the Freshman.

"Selecting an all class team," writes Coach Daniel in defending and explaining his choice, "has proved a hard proposition this time, owing to the fact that the schedule was not played out.

"For the center position Holbrooke and Rymer stand out above all others. On account of his steadiness, I have selected the former for the position, Both were good on offensive and defensive, but Holbrooke has the place by being a slightly superior player.

"For guards Rymer and Joines have the call. Rymer, although he played center, could easily be shifted and would make a good man for the position. Both are big, husky, and strong, possessing plenty of speed.

"Harris and Hart are two tackles that could give any backfield trouble. Both, possessing weight and speed, can break up interference and pick out the man with the ball. Besides their ability on lineplays, they could be called on to carry the ball when needed.

"Ranson and Wood could easily take care of any thing that comes around the ends. Both are hard, sure tacklers and can catch passes.

"In the backfield I am sure that all will agree that Coleman, Huske, Patterson, and Scales would be the best combination possible. Coleman on account of his kicking, passing, and experience excels Lewis of the Seniors. Huske, Patterson, and Scales are all good alike on the defensive and offensive. Several members of the Junior team will, for some time, remember the game that Scales played against them.

Banks Mebane, Law '15, was on the Hill last week attending the dances.

WITCHING HOUR WELL PRESENTED BY CLUB

Coggin in Leading Role is Star of The Evening

Augustus Thomas' "The Witching Hour" was presented last Friday evening in Gerrard Hall with great success by the University Dramatic Club. Mr. McKie and his committee had worked faithfully, and the play came up to every expectation.

The acting Friday was, on the whole, of an unusally high order and was splendidly unified. The men played up to each other in fine fashion. "The Witching Hour" is the most difficult piece attempted by the Dramatic Club

BASKETBALL TEAM'S FIRST GAME DEC. 15

Plays the Durham Y. M. C. A. Probable Lineup.

On Wednesday, December 15, the varsity basketball team will play the Durham Y. M. C. A. team in the gym at 8 o'clock. On the following Sat. another game will be played with Durham at Durham. The Carolina team is showing up well and a good game will be played with the Y. M. C. A. bunch. The team has not been definitely decided upon so far, but it is probable that those who play in Wednesday's game will be chosen from the following line up:

WHATEVER THE EXPLANATION

When we consider how reprehensible we all are, it seems presumptuons in any of us to criticise others, but, after all, it is only by kindly criticism of each other that we make any advance.

Of all the various kinds of behavior, playfulness is certainly among the least censurable. Yet there are times when our frolicsome inclinations should be restrained. We should make a selection of times. The other day there was a woodpecker lying dead on the campus, its wire-like legs drawn up underneath it. No doubt, it had brought on its own death by pecking some dormitory roof at an unseasonable hour—there used to be such an early-rising bird whose field of matin activity was the Old East Building. Woodpecking is the natural thing for a woodpecker to do and praiseworthy employment for any bird; but a person engaging in this destructive work and caring at all for his personal safety or reputation should exercise some discrimination as to the time and place of his pecking. So it is with play. Not at all times is play relevant. For instance, such amusing pastimes as throwing programs in Gerrard Hall is altogether out of place except possibly when the audiences are composed only of students; but when ladies enter the doors, the practice automatically becomes inappropriate and should be discontinued. Anything so disconcerting to our guests as this conduct should be distasteful to us as well. At the presentation of "The Witching Hour" in Chapel last Friday evening, the throwing of programs from the balcony to the first floor and the resultant focusing of the upstairs spectators' attention on the person struck was somewhat disconcerting to the principal dancers. reached up to find a paper missile stuck in her hair. A person's manners are judged, to large extent, by his avoidance of such annoying pastimes. The men who threw these programs did not mean to be discourteous, but their conduct was, not unnaturally, misunderstood by those on whom it operated. By everyone not engaged in the sport, it was considered almost as discourteous as peanut throwing, and Pickwick manners, if we must recognize such a category, are not in order at Gerrard Hall entertainments.

This is an outcropping of the same genus of discourtesy that sometimes manifests itself at basketball games—the making of personal remarks and such ambiguous noises as might be interpreted by our guests, the opposing team, as hisses. This sport is engaged in almost entirely by new men—students who have been so short a time with us that they do not know us, do not know that the University sentiment condemns such spirit. This rudeness, it is to be hoped, will not occur this year as sometimes in the past. Everyone regrets that such a small number of students as practice these bad manners should be so potent in making the University appear to bad advantage. Two or three evidences of discourtesy on the part of even a small part of an audience comes unfortunately near stamping the character of the entire assembly, in the eyes of the victims.

Whatever is the explanation of this regrettable procedure, it will end, we feel sure, if the men guilty of it will only consider a moment. They will realize that even in its present mild form it has gone too far. Ill humor, if we really feel it, can be more forcibly vented; playfulness is certainly capable of less dangerous expression.

Dramatic Club at St. Mary's

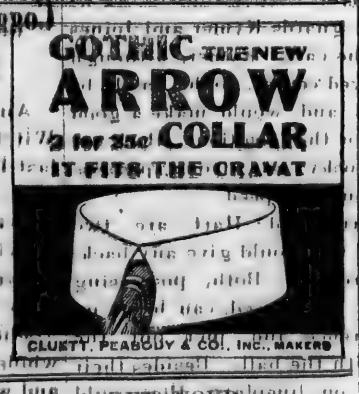
The Dramatic Club's trip to St. Mary's on Monday was one of the most successful and thoroughly enjoyable ever taken by the Club. The cast, thirteen in all, departed with "Red" and "Tank" at 2 p. m. Monday and arrived in Raleigh about four. At five there was a reception in the parlor where the boys were allowed to invite any girls they knew in the school. This lasted till 6:30 when the whole cast went to dinner in the large dining hall as Dr. Lay's guests. There was not much eating. But how could you expect it when there were two hundred girls all around you? At eight o'clock the play was presented in the St. Mary's Auditorium before an audience of four hundred girls from Meredith, St. Mary's and Peace. The play went off much more smoothly than before and seemed to be thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. After the performance the Club attended the dance at the Country Club which lasted till one o'clock.

Prof. L. A. Williams went to Jacksonville, N. C. Friday, Dec. 3, where he delivered an educational lecture. On Saturday, he spoke to the teachers of Onslow county.

DR. CROISSANT URGES SIMPLIFIED SPELLING

New Method More Sensible and Economic, Thruout

Dr. D. C. Croissant spoke in Gerrard Hall last Monday night to an interested audience on the subject of simplified spelling. He came as a representative of the "Simplified Spelling Board" of New York City. His lecture was interesting from beginning to end, being interspersed with many witty remarks.



Prof. Croissant showed that most of our words that have such peculiar and awkward spelling have come in general from some foreign tongue. For example, "though" and other words ending in "ough" are not truly English words, but have been adopted from the Dutch. Many silent letters are kept in words, according to Dr. Croissant, simply as a matter of convention.

The reasons urged by the speaker for the adoption of simplified spelling are briefly these: simplified spelling is supported by reason; it should be adopted as a matter of economy; and it is supported by authority. He argued that its adoption would be an advantage educationally, since there would then be a sensible connection between spelling and pronunciation; that it would save thousands of dollars in printing and writing; that it is supported by the six largest English dictionary editors, which, of course, includes Webster's, the Century, and the Standard.

Among the advocates of simplified spelling in the past, Dr. Croissant mentioned the great Noah Webster, himself, Benjamin Franklin, and Horace Mann, and it is the result of the advocation of simplified spelling that we do not now spell "pin" with an extra "ne," as "pinne," Other striking examples are: "gunne," "funne," "warre," "conferre" etc.

The chief reason why so many people are opposed to simplified spelling and the "only logical" said the speaker, "is that we do not want to change from the ways of our fathers."

M'G'R. RANSON CLAIMS JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Says Junior Football Team Has Finished First

The Junior class hereby makes formal claim for the class championship in football for the reason that it is to be decided on a purely percentage basis. The schedule was adopted by all the class managers before the season began and further a verbal agreement was made that the games should be played as scheduled.

The season is over with the following results:

	Won	Lost	Tied	Pct.
Freshmen	0	4	0	.000
Sophomores	1	1	1	.500
Juniors	3	1	0	.750
Seniors	2	0	1	1000

According to the percentage it would appear that the Seniors had won. But the Juniors claim the championship because the Sophomores and Seniors have each forfeited a game to them by failing to appear on the field on on scheduled days, and further on each of these days the Juniors were on the field waiting, ready and anxious to play.

The only excuse offered by the managers of either of those teams for not playing was, in each case, one of their men was off the Hill. This excuse should not be allowed to stand for the reason that the Juniors were forced to play a scheduled game with each of these teams while three of the best Junior players were off the Hill. Again, the Seniors did not notify the Juniors that they would not play until thirty minutes before time for the game to be called. The Juniors waited an hour on the field for them to appear.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have.

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect Clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

Freshman Debate

Last Saturday night the Di Society held its regular Fresh man debate. The question which read, "Resolved: That all state and county officers in North Carolina should be nominated by direct primary," was hotly contested on both sides, but the negative side finally got the hog's share. Mr. Clifton Eaton was awarded the medal for making the best speech, and Messrs. Hardee and Dalton got honorable mentions. The fact that the negative side won does not show that they put it all over their opponents. The debate had more pep in in than the average fresh-man debate, and all of the men showed that they had worked on the question. The speakers were: affirmative, Price, Roberts, Dalton, and W. C. Eaton; negative, Stewart, C. Eaton, Hardee, and Hunter.

RALEIGH VS WILMINGTON HERE SATURDAY

High Schools' Elevens to Play Off Old Tie

The Raleigh and Wilmington high school football teams will play in Chapel Hill on the University field Saturday afternoon, December 11, to decide the championship of Eastern North Carolina. This game is made necessary on account of the two teams failing to play it off December 4 when they battled in Wilmington to a 7 to 7 tie and darkness stopped the game. Raleigh and Wilmington are evenly matched and the prospects are for the hardest fought high school game ever staged on the Hill. Coaches Phillips, Carolina 1913, and Shaw, Davidson 1908, are putting their teams through grilling practice this week. Both teams are confident. The game will be called at 2:30 and an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

in recent years, and only actors of considerable talent would have been able to present it with any degree of success.

It is distinctly a one role play, that is, the entire success of the play depends on the strength of the man playing the role of Jack Brookfield, the professional gambler. This part is extremely difficult to sustain, because of its action throughout the entire play, and importance in many trying situations. Charlie Coggin in this role really did a wonderful piece of work. Thoroughly master of himself in every situation he interpreted the character in a truly remarkable way for an amateur. His work was thoroughly consistent throughout with no signs of a breakdown at any point.

Pitts and Wimberly showed great talent and finish in many scenes. The strained situation of the scarf pin episode in the first act was treated by Pitts in a masterly way.

Sidney Blackmer in the role of Frank Hardmuth, did excellent work in places, but his acting was not continuously consistent. He showed a little lack of practice. The same may be said of Gregory Graham in the role of Judge Prentice.

George Green as Judge Henderson and Tom Denning played extremely well in what were distinctly minor roles. What he did was largely impersonation very well done.

Bruce Webb as Mrs. Whipple was the star of the female roles.

CO-OPERATION IN N. C.

Gwaltney at N. C Club Urges Business Co-operation in State

"Co-operative Enterprises in North Carolina" was the subject of a paper read by Mr. L. P. Gwaltney of Alexander county at the regular meeting of the North Carolina Club in Peabody Building Monday night. Mr. Gwaltney gave statistics showing the inestimable value of co-operation in farming, buying, marketing, etc. As a model of co-operation in North Carolina he cited Catawba county and showed how the people of that county through a co-operative creamery now get 30 to 37 cents for butter that formerly sold for 15 to 20 cents.

The Farmers' Building and Loan Association, another co-operative enterprise, has met with immediate success. The North Carolina brand of the Farmers Union is the best in America. Besides these there are union warehouses, union merchandise stores, co-operative fertilizers, etc.

"But even then," said Mr. Gwaltney, "North Carolina is not realizing her full possibilities in this matter of co-operation. She needs to put forth greater effort toward the advancement of co-operation in farming, trucking, dairying and every other form of occupation in which the people of the State are today engaged."

Last week the class basketball teams got down to real practice. The old Commons Hall is being used for them to practice in. The Seniors and Sophs practice on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, while the Juniors and Freshmen take their turn on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday.

The Carolina Calendar for 1916 has been put on sale by the University Book Store at the Y. M. C. A., and those desiring them for Christmas may secure them there at the regular opening hours.

RALEIGH WINS EASTERN FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeats Wilmington Highs 9 to 0. Silverman Stars

Wilmington lost the high school football championship of the eastern part of the State here Saturday when Raleigh, after a hard fight, secured a drop kick and a touchdown in the last two quarters, making the final score 9 to 0. Despite the chilling hail which fell from the first to the fourth quarter, both teams fought fiercely and kept the gridiron hot with brilliant runs and long passes. Ikey Silverman, of Wilmington, was the star of the game, showing extraordinary speed and pluckiness. Wilmington's fighting spirit was admirable to the end. Even in the last few minutes Raleigh was forced to fight desperately to avert a possible tie.

In the fourth quarter Raleigh made her only touchdown. Faucette, Raleigh's fullback, received Wilmington's punt on his 30-yard line and, by a brilliant 65-yard run through the whole Wilmington team, brought the ball within five yards of Wilmington's goal posts. Champion went over the line for a touchdown on the first attempt. Mills failed to kick goal.

Mills, Champion, Faucette and Terrell for Raleigh did stellar work also.

Scholarships Awarded to U. N. C. Men

News was received latey from Harvard University that Willis Caldwell Furr of the class of 1915 and Douglas L. Rights, class of 1913 of the University of North Carolina, had been awarded respectively a Butterick Scholarship valued at three hundred dollars, and a Hopkins Share, valued at three hundred and fifty dollars. Y. M. C. A. HAS GREAT YEAR OF SERVICE

Institution is of Real Help and Inspiration to Campus and Community

A number of the various activities of the Y. M. C. A. have been presented from time to time in these columns and elsewhere, but in the following accounts practically all its departments are described that the question may be answered "What does the Y. M. C. A. do with the $2 fee? and "What does the Y. M. C. A. stand for ?"

Weekly Meetings

The desire of the Y. M. C. A. is to stand for the highest ideals of Christian manhood and the larger ideas of service; to help keep the standards high, to join in every good movement, to encourage and participate in the "Carolina" spirit; to link the surrounding community to the University and its members with ties of friendship formed thru acts of service; to stand for the larger brotherhood which knows no class distinctions; to be a big brother to the new man a true friend of the upper class man; to be an outlet for the ambitions of those who would serve; to encourage others to enlist their talents in this great idea. To this end meetings are held weekly for the discussion of these ideas by the faculty, students or outsiders. At such meetings every student is welcomed and at student meetings, free to express his opinions.

The Y. M. C. A. takes pride in the fact that its offers of service and cooperation with the various churches, church organizations and community organizations are so gladly accepted. It is glad, too, to ally itself with the Student Volunteer Movement and Ministerial Band.

Bible Study Department

Bible Study at the University of North Carolina has always been an important part of the campus life, but never has it gripped the students as a whole in the way it should. This fact has been due to many causes, chief among them being the lack of sufficient teachers, the inadaptability of the Bible Study books to the type of mind we find on our campus, and to the real problems of student life that connects them with the Bible. The enrollment in Bible Study has now passed the three hundred mark, while the attendance from Sunday to Sunday runs between 120 and 160 in the 22 organized groups that meet every Sunday at 12:30.

All the while, however, Bible Study at Carolina has stood as an outpost of the spirit here, has stood out as an ever ready means of promoting special interest in higher things, as a rallying point for the ideals of the campus. And it has performed its mission well. It does not attempt to take the place of the Sunday School in teaching merely the historical narrative in the Scriptures, but attempts to interpret student life in the light of the Old Testament and of Christian ideals, to lay down the facts on which a man may build a sure foundation, and to emphasize the principles which guarantee a pure life and highest service to God and one's fellowman.

Directories

One of the largest services the Y. M. C. A. performs for the campus community is the publication of the Student Directory which is of great usefulness to the students and townspeople as well. The Handbook published mainly for the new men is also presented by the Y. M. C. A. to help the new men learn something of the University spirit, campus, customs and ideals.

Self-Help Bureau.

This same spirit of helpfulness is demonstrated on the campus by the operation of a bureau where townspeople can find students to do work for them and the students who desire it can find work to pay part of their expenses. This bureau is in constant operation placing some job every day.

The Lost and Found Bureau follows right along this path in being a depository for all the things the honest find and a place of rejoicing to those who have been careless. Numbers of things of value are returned to students.

That the Y. M. C. A. building is a large factor on the campus is shown in the fact that tue reading room is never vacant except at meal times and after midnight. The game table is in constant use. Nor is their hardly a time that the meeting rooms on the second floor are not occupied for studying, for some county club meeting, some committee conference, or by the Tar Heel board which has its office in the building, or the Magazine which has a room devoted to its files and business office. The Y. M. C. A. building is the meeting ground of the campus, the convention hall of classes, clubs, and organizations.

Freshman Continuation Committee

The Freshman Continuation Committee, not yet passed into its Sophmoric stage, is only beginning to work out for itself a great student idea. It is in short to make the connection between High School compulsion and University freedom; to pilot High School boys into the paths that lead to educated manhood.

The process begins in the summer with a personal letter to each boy who is known to be planning to enter the University in the Fall. At least 35 members of this committee wrote letters this summer, with many responses that made friendships before introductions. The piloting began at the University station where the committee met the new students and welcomed them to the campus. A meeting was arranged for between these committeemen and every new student in groups of 8 to 10. The new men were told that they could find in their particular committeeman a friend who would be glad to help, advise and assist them in any and every way possible.

These 35 men were to see to it that the High School boys should now become University men, taking part in every activity on the campus for which they had any adaptability; to see that his group was connected up with campus life and college activities.

To develop an efficient system so far reaching takes time. It is having fine results already that justify its existence and demand its continuance.

Social Life

With regard to interest in the new men at the beginning of the year the Y. M. C. A. conducted "College Night" at which student speakers explained the work of the Literary Societies, the Publications, Athlethics, Musical Clubs, Dramatics and other forms of campus life. After this speaking the new men were invited to meet the faculty, young ladies of the town, and upper classmen at the library where refreshments were served.

Lyceum Courses

This year it was the desire of the Y. M. C. A. to give the students a higher type of attraction than the old Star Courses gave and so the "The Servant in The House" was brought here on a $250 guarantee, fulfilling well its purpose of presenting a higher ideal to the student body.

It was its pleasure and privilege, too, to have secured Mr. William Jennings Bryan to address the student body and University community. Mr. Bryan was so generous as to make the two addresses complimentary.

Negro Night School

For the first three years the Y. M. C. A., as a part of its social service program, has been conducting a night school for negro boys. Difficulties were encountered in establishing this school, in enlisting the interest of the negro boys and creating among them a desire to learn more. For the last two years, however, the attendance has been continually on the increase and genuine interest has been manifested.

The school is conducted five nights in the week, every Monday night, however, being turned over to debating. This debate night has as a usual thing been successful. A corps of twelve teachers composes the teaching staff. The enrollment has climbed from 45 last year to 65 this year, the attendance remaining proportionate.

Nights are sometimes given over to lectures and special entertainment in line with the general purpose of the school. Through it all the spirit of unselfish service on the part of the students

CAROLINA QUINT LOSES TO DURHAM Y. M. C. A.

Defeated in First Game of the Season 26 to 16

Carolina lost the first game of the basketball season here last night to the Durham Y. M. C. A. by the score of 26 to 16.

The Durham team took the lead in scoring from the first and kept it. Holcomb, Durham's left guard, shot six fouls, and Clay five field goals. For Carolina, Andrews, right forward, is credited with the largest number of points, three goals and two fouls.

The Durham quint showed excellent team work and ability in the art of shooting long distance goals. Captain Johnson, right guard, was the individual star of the game for Carolina. Andrews, Long, Tennant, and Davis also showed up well.

IS IT SO?

Most of us take the Y. M. C. A. for granted. We feel that it ought to be and hence it is. How it operates, how it is supported, that it is able to go on from year to year with its work, bothers many of us little. In short, we do not realize our responsibility toward it. All of us here on the campus receive the benefits of its work; we are all better off because of the many things it does, of the higher things it stands for. That the University is gaining a reputation as a healthy place is due in part to the continued work of the Y. M. C. A. Its work is known throughout the length and breadth of the the State and in sister states. We as individual members of the University community share this record, but do not assume any responsibility for the institutiou. We receive the handbook and directory, we sell our books at the Book Exchange, and go eagerly to the profit-sharing window; we attend helpful lectures by men such as Mott and Bryan; we meet at smokers and committees and county clubs in its building; we read its magazines and papers; sometimes we play a game there; we speak with pride of the number of self help students who partly pay their way through college, and seek our lost articles at the building; we read notices all over the campus painted at the Y. M. C. A. buildins; little do many of us feel that it is up tous to beare share of the burden; yet we gladly accept the services of this strictly student organization.

THE PURPOSE

This edition of the Tar Heel has not been got out for the purpose of eulogizing the workers in the Y. M. C. A. Its purpose is to show the students what the Y. M. C. A. is, what it does, what its purposes are and what results are obtained in its various departments. The Y. M. C. A. is a student organization and the students have a right to know what it is doing.

If after reading of the work of the Y. M. C. A., any of us feel a renewed interest or aroused enthusiasm, we should join in this work which bases its existence on the principle of service, helps hold the college standard high, jcins the community with the campus.

Pay your subscription when it is due. It is due NOW!

IF

Many people ask the question "Of what use is the Y. M. C. A.?" After reviewing the Y. M. C. A's. work in this issue it would be interesting to take a vote among these very people as to whether or not they would abolish the Y. M. C. A. Which brings up the question, "What would the campus be without the Y. M. C. A.?" Run over the activities described on other pages, take any one of them out of campus life and see if there would be any difference if the Y. M. C. A. were not here. Those of us who do not see the positive good it does, who do not feel the force of its work sufficiently to be interested in it, may be convinced by a negative review.

RALEIGH vs. CHARLOTTE

Champion Elevens of East, West Here Saturday

The third annual high school football game for the championship of North Carolina under the University committee on athletics will be staged on the Hill Saturday, December 18, at 2:30 o'clock. Charlotte High School will represent the Western part of the State while Raleigh will come up for the third time from the East. The records of the two teams predict a close game for Saturday. The Charlotte team has defeated Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Shelby, and Pineville. Raleigh has won over John Marshall, Va., Wilmington, High Point, and Warrenton.

Both teams are planning to bring down a crowd of supporters. Raleigh will run a special train to the Hill and Charlotte is trying to do the same thing.

Coaches Ritch and Phillips, both alumni of of the class of '13, are putting their teams through heavy practice this week, and are each confident of victory. An admission of 25 cents will be charged for the game.

STARS AND LETTERS GIVEN

Athletic Council Awards Nine Stars and Seven Letters.

The Athletic Council met last Wednesday night and awarded nine stars and seven letters to the members of the Carolina football team.

The following men received stars:

Parker, Reid, Dave Tayloe, Tandy, Cowell, F. Jones, Homewood, Ramsay and Wright.

Letters were awarded to the following:

Grimes, Boshamer, MacDonald Hines, J. Jayloe and Love. Sweaters were given this year to all men who received stars or letters.

CARRBORO NIGHT SCHGOL

Begun a Year Ago, Attendance Increases from 12 to 75

Last spring a Night School was organized at Carrboro by the Industrial Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of the University. It was started primarily for the benefit of the people who worked in the mills all day, and who consequently had no chance of securing any education whatever. It has enlarged its scope until now it not only teaches the illiterates, but is preparing pupils for the Chapel Hill High School. The attendance has increased from twelve to seventy-five. Furthermore, the Carrboro Night School has become a permanent institution.

Whatever good may come of this Night School the most important is the change of attitude of both the University students and the Carrboro people. The people of Carrboro have found that the Carolina students are entirely different creatures from what they expected. They seem to be surprised to find that the students sincerely wanted to work with them and help them learn more. The fifteen students who do this teaching are all pleased with their efforts. They receive no money for their work, but they are on their job every week, and are as happy a faculty as ever you saw. They have caught a higher vision of life. The whole situation is a bright and happy consummation of real Christian service.

U. N. C. BOOK EXCHANGE

To Save Students $1500 By End College Year

The University Book Exchange represents a new attempt on the part of the University to give the students financial aid. The real help it is giving may readily be seen when we consider the amount of business done and the amount paid back in dividends. The total amount of business so far amounts to $5,385.82. $538.58 has been returned. The total amount of business at the end of the college year will probably reach $15,000.00. This will mean that the Book Exchange has placed $1,500.00 in the hands of students which would have gone to the old Kluttz monopoly.

The Y. M. C. A. Book Exchange which handles used books has sold about $450.00 worth of books for students on a 5 per cent commission basis. That is, these men got $437.50 for their old books where the returns from Kluttz might have amounted to $350.00 to $375.00, and that the men who bought the books got them just as cheap. $1,600 is a considerable sum of money to save. As a pure financial proposition the Book Exchanges are the places to do your trading.

Carolina Debates G. Washington

The first debate of a two year contract between Carolina and George Washington University will be held in Gerrard Hall, Monday night, Dec. 20th. The query is: Resolved, That the Federal Government should own and operate all telegraph lines, constitutionality granted.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP.

Travel brings men out; if they are two gushing, it quiets them down, if too bashful and reticent it makes them more effusive. You learn how different folks do the same things; and there is nothing like a long stretch of watching all kinds of things pass by the window to make a man philosophical, unless it is the brass section of the orchestra or the quartette which happens to be rehearsing.

A Glee Club trip is a unique form of travel. Only a privileged 28 can go on it. You ride a special car, put up on people you never saw before, and if mealtime comes between stops, they allow you 30 cents. If you are a good business man, you can make at least 20 cents on the deal and make up for lost food the next place you stop. Buck Wimberly tried this in Greensboro, securing a complete rabbit dinner in a pasteboard box for 10 cents. So busily engaged was he in trying to find the rabbit, as he walked to and fro on the station platform that he did not notice the train as it pulled out. When he did it was almost out of the yards, but he scooted after it. About fifteen others, who had invested in business men's lunches or other things equally hard to eat fast joined the chase. Earl Harris had a mince pie and a chicken breast in his pocket, and most of the others had so much in their pockets or under their belts, that they couldn't make much headway on the train, and gave up. Dr. Abernethy, who is a friend of Doc. Cook, got free tickets on the next train, though, so we all got to Salisbury.

A good many took books along with the earnest intention of doing what you don't have to do at all. In other words, they thought they would get ahead so they could rest up after the trip. But Fate was against all such, in the form of Meb Long's accordeon and Bob Page's guitar. Meb claimed the thing wheezed, and tried to repair it with court plaster and chewing gum. Each time he tried it out, however, it sprang a leak somewhere else, so it kept him fixing and trying out a good part of the time.

Then Bob would begin singing Broadway Blues. After every ten verses he would stop and catch breath. That song is several hundred miles long. At Salem and at the Normal he almost monopolized the concert with it, and he would have if his memory had held out.

At Salem and at the Normal the program was rather slow in coming off. They have mirrors in every room, even the little rooms behind the stage, and each number had to be announced ten minutes ahead of time to give everybody a chance to admire himself in his full dress clothes before going on the stage. Preston Epps mussed his hair just before his solo was announced in Greensboro, and they had to postpone it until the last of the program to give him time to readjust the part on geometrical lines

Yes, that trip was great, we are experienced travelers now, and what it takes to make the voyage home next Wednesday we've got.

Soph Smoker Saturday

On Saturday night at 10 o'clock the Sophomore class will hold its smoker. Speakers from the faculty have been secured for this occasion, and refreshments have been ordered. It is hoped that a large crowd will be present. The time may seem slightly inconvenient, but it is to be held at 10 o'clock so that those men who belong to the literary societies may be able to get there

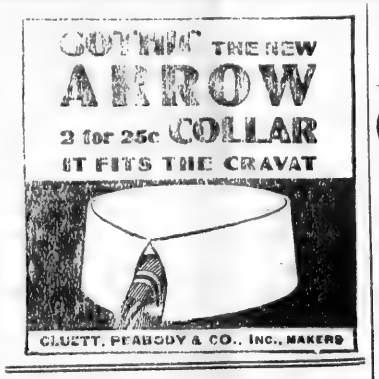
Class Basketball

All of the class basketball teams have started practice. The Freshmen and Sophomores have had the greater number of men out so far, and they seem likely to have very good teams. The Juniors also have a heavy team Theirs will probably be the heaviest of the class teams. Up to this time only three or four Seniors have reported. It would be impossible to play any of the class games before Christmas; but Coach Doak has planned to have some of them played off as soon after the holidays as possible. Some of the class teams have been "scrimmaging" the Chapel Hill High School team, which is showing up very well.

New Extension Bulletin.

"The Enlargement of the Navy" is the title of Bulletin number 14 recently issued by the University Extension Committee. Besides a detailed outline and bibliography it contains selected selected articles on both sides of the question of increasing our navy and is designed for the aid of those schools who enter the high school debating contest this spring.

Three three thousand copies have been printed and will be sent to the high schools of the state in a few days.



Phi Society Debate

The query for debate in the Phi Society Saturday night, Dec. 11, was: "Resolved that all post office officials in the United States should be put under the civil service system."

The affimative won. Mr. W. A. Marlowe made the best speech; Mr. Eldridge got an honorable mention.

Law Class Banquet

The anuual banquet of the two law classes will be held in Swain Hall Thursday night at 9 o'clock. Mr. R. O. Everett, of Durham, will be the principal speaker. The banquet will be attended by law students, alumni, and several members of the faculty.

WORK OF MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS

Y. M. C. A. Decreases Number of Illiterates from 16 to 4

If every community in North Carolina has been as active, interested, enthusiastic and earnest in tha moonlight school work as Chapel Hill and vicinity, it will not be long before every North Carolinian will have cause to feel proud when he glances down the percentage column of illiteracy of the different states. The good work has been done around Chapel Hill through the Y. M. C. A. of the University.

Five schools were conducted throughout the month of November, three nights in the week. There was a total enrollment at these schools of two hundred and sixty-three, with an average attendance of one hundred and sixty. Of this number sixteen were illiterates.

Over sixty of the students of the University participated in the work of teaching at the schools which were located at distances of from two and one-half to five miles in the country. The town aided greatly by carrying the students to these schools in automobiles. The Community Club of Chapel Hill furnished lamps for the schools and agreed to defray the expenses of automobiles when it was necessary to hire them.

Of the sixteen illiterates, twelve were taught to read and write to some extent. Five of them are now able to write fairly well, and one is quite a proficient reader, considering his opportunities. One lady, fifty-five years of age, was able to write a letter to her son, to whom she had only dictated letters in the past.

The majority of the people were not illiterates. They were taught to add and subtract, to divide and multiply; they were taught history, which otherwise they would never have known; they learned to spell words they would never have used correctly; phases of civil government were explained to them that had always been mysteries.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have.

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect Clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

who go out to teach and the real appreciation of those who are taught manifests the type of work being done—training the negro boys for better citizenship and service and giving to the student teachers a broader vision of the ideals of unselfish labor and of the opportunities for service in their own communities.

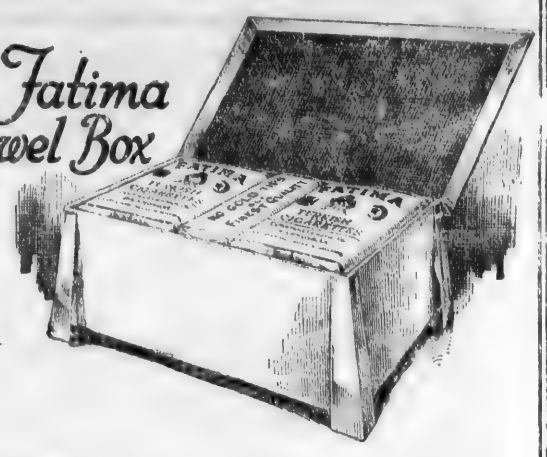
Janitor's Club

Among the recent ventures of the Y. M. C. A. into new fields are the University Janitor's Club and the "Knights of King Arthur." The Janitor's Club was organized with the purpose of Bible Study among the janitors and also attempts to inspire a desire among the students to keep cleaner and more sanitary rooms. The meetings of the club are Wednesday and Sunday mornings. Walls have been painted in places thru the efforts of the janitors and a hundred waste baskets have been placed in rooms hitherto paper-strewn.

The Knights of King Arthur is an organization of the small boys of the town, somewhat similar to the Boy Scouts, but including some younger members than the Boy Scout movement provides for. Learning the ideals of knighthood, forming the habit of chivalrous action and going on "Quests" in search of adventure in the woods and fields are among the activities of "K. O. K. A."

Barnett Fund

"The Barnett Fund," so well known among the students, is raised every year for the purpose of paying a part of the salary of Mr. Eugene E. Barnett who is general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Hang Chow, China, a city of 300,000 people. He is doing a great work there and Carolina takes a particular pleasure and feels it a great privilege to claim Barnett as her representative on the Foreign Field. A number of the large universities of America support men on the Foreign Field and Carolina is proud to be numbered among them.



Mr. Barnett was with us the 1st of November and all those who heard him know that he is doing a wonderful work out there, that every man at Carolina should be glad of the opportunity to take part in the conquest of heathen China, with Barnett on the firing line.

Rural Sunday Schools

In no department of the Y. M C. A. work do the boys find a more happy union of service and pleasure than in the Rural Sunday Schools work. Every Sunday 36 University students go out from the Y. M. C. A. in six different directions to meet with 250 people of Orange count for an hour of Bible Study. Two of these six Sunday Schools have been started recently by the Y. M. C. A., all of them depending to a large extent on the regular attendance of the boys. The results of this regular meeting of these University boys and the people of the county communities are beyond the bounds of estimation. The boys carry to the community the vigor, the progress, and the eagerness of the campus atmosphere. They bring back the stability, the earnestness and responsibility that is learned by direct contact with the "essentially hard and sour foundations of life." They link the community with the campus and carry the campus beyond its walls.

from the Secretary of the Divinity School says: "We are very glad to have such excellent representatives of the University of North Carolina in the Divinity School, and feel sure that you will be gratified at learning of their continued success in the pursuit of their studies."

This announcement, coming almost immediately after the award of places on the Editorial Staff of the Harvard Law Review to two young University graduates, Kenneth C. Royall, class of 1914, and W. M. Joyner, 1911, indicates that North Carolina is getting more than her share at Harvard this year.

The scholarships won by Messrs. Furr and Rights bring the total of scholarships won by University men in the graduate schools of the large eastern colleges this year to a total of nine. Among these nine are Frank P. Graham, who is specializing in history at Columbia; W. D. Pruen who is specializing in law at Harvard, and W. R. Taylor and L. N. Morgan who are taking English at the same institution.

CAROLINA TRACK SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

Contains Five Meets All With Southern Colleges

The Carolina track schedule has been announced by Manager Hackler. It consists of five meets two of which will take place in Chapel Hill. Carolina will open her season when she meets Clemson college early in April and will close it when she enters the S. I. A. A. meet, which will be held in Richmond about the first of May. The other two colleges that Carolina will meet are Washington & Lee and V. P. I., while the state meet will take place in Chapel Hill near the end of April.

The University track team has an unusual amount of good material this year. Among the men who won their letters either this year or last year are Captain Patterson, who runs the quarter mile; Smith, a 220-yard dash man Johnston, who runs the 100-yard dash; Homewood, a pole vaulter; Ramsay, a shot putter, and Wright, who broke the state broad jump record last year. Gannt, who did excellent work on the University of Virginia track team last year as a long distance runner, is at Carolina now and is expected to show up well in the spring. Little interest is shown in track activities on the Hill, because since Coach Cartmell left two years ago there has been no regular track coach at the university.

The track schedule for this season is as follows:

Clemson college at Clemson college, April 8th.

Washington & Lee at Chapel Hill, April 15.

V. P. I. at Blacksburg, April 22.

State meet at Chapel Hill, April 29.

S. I. A. A. at Richmond in May.

MARRY DURING HOLIDAYS

Chesley Sedberry Weds Miss Brigman of Rockingham

The biggest social surprise of the Christmas season to the students of the University, was the discovery on their return to the Hill that one of their number, Mr. Chesley Sedberry, an associate editor of the Tar Heel and a member of the class of '18 had married Miss Lottie Brigman of Rockingham. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride on Monday January 3 at 12 o'clock, after which the young couple went to Raleigh where they spent several days before coming to Chapel Hill. They have taken rooms at the University Inn, and Mr. Sedberry will continue to pursue his college work.

The Y. M. C. A. will have a discussion meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. The subject will be interesting.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE HAS 16 MORE GAMES

Five of These on the Hill; Only One Game with Virginia

The Carolina basketball schedule for this season, with the exception of the first two games with the Durham Y. M. C. A., which have been played, is as follows:

January 10, Elon College at Chapel Hill.

January 12, Statesville Y. M. C. A. at Chapel Hill.

January 15, Wake Forest at Raleigh.

February 3, Maryville (Tenn.) at Chapel Hill.

February 7, Virginia at Richmond.

February 8, V. P. I. at Roanoke, Va.

February 9, Roanoke College at Salem, Va.

February 10, Randolph-Macon at Bedford, Va.

February 11, Washington-Lee at Lexington, Va.

February 12, Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va.

February 16, Davidson at Chapel Hill.

February 19, open.

February 24, Guilford at Guilford.

February 25, Statesville Y. M. C. A. at Statesville.

February 26, Davidson at Statesville.

March 1, Guilford at Chapel Hill.

This schedule contains 16 games five of which are to be played on the Hill. The first one of these five comes on Monday, the tenth of this month.

CAROLINA TO MEET HARVARD

Harvard on Next Year's Football Schedule, and Probably Princeton

The University football team, in playing Harvard on October 14, takes a stand among the greater eastern colleges which, hitherto, has been closed to all Southern teams except Virginia. And in addition to playing Harvard, according to information received from graduate manager Woolen, a contract with Princeton will probably be closed by the end of the week. The schedule itself still lacks two or three games of being completed. Two weeks is the time set by the graduate manager for the announcement of a completed schedule.

To play Harvard on October 14 means, of course, that there will be no varsity game at Chapel Hill on University Day—October 13.

Among other colleges which Carolina will face on the gridiron next year are: Virginia, Georgia Tech., Wake Forest, V. M. I., Davidson and Richmond College. The management is trying now to arrange a game with the University of South Carolina.

The trip to Cambridge, Mass., where Carolina will meet Harvard on the latter's home grounds will be the longest single trip ever taken by a Carolina team,

THEIR HOLIDAY ACTIVITIES

How and Where The Faculty Spent Christmas

The Christmas holidays found members of the faculty of the University spending their vacation in various cities, some at their homes and others attending some special meeting or convention.

Doctors Foerster and Dargan attended a meeting of the Modern Language Association in Clevelane, O., at which meeting Mr. Dargan presented a paper on "The Irony of Swift."

Dr. W. M. Dey was in Norfolk, Va. visiting relatives.

Doctors J. M. Booker and H. V. P. Wilson were both in Baltimore, spending the holidays with relatives.

The University was well represented at the American Scientific Congress in Washington. Pres. Graham addressed the Educational Division, Dr. Herty was a speaker of the Chemical Division and Dr. Raper was one of the speakers of the Economical Division. Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton attended a meeting of the American Historical Association at Washington, D. C.

Representatives from the faculty were also in attendance at the meeting in New York of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Dr. Vernon Howell, Mr. C. T. Woolen, who was also in Boston, Mr. A. H, Patterson and Mr. F. P. Graham, now a student at Columbia University were at this meeting. Dr. C. H. Herty was elected representative for the 3rd district.

Dr. George Howe was in Princeton, N. J. to attend a meeting of the American Philological Association.

DR. HERTY HONORED

Re-elected President of The American Chemical Society

Dr. C. H. Herty has been re-elected President of the American Chemical Society. This is an unusual honor as it is not the custom of the society to reelect its president. During the past year Dr. Herty has been working for closer cooperation between the universities and the industries, and has urged the importance of national self-containedness in chemical industries.

For several years the Mason and Dixon line has seemed to be impassable, and Carolina has been forced to content itself with a northern trip to Washington, D. C., with Georgetown as its opponent.—News and Observer.

CAROLINA vs. ELON ON JANUARY 10th

Massey, Elon's Star Guard, Here. Tandy May Be in the Game

The Carolina basketball squad started training in earnest upon arrival on the Hill from the Christmas vacation. Yank Tandy, last year's center, and Massey, star guard on the Elon team last year, have reported to Coach Doak. The squad now numbers twenty. The scrub aggregation is much faster than that of any previous year and is giving the team the opportunity to play real ball.

The season really starts next Monday with the Elon quintette, which has been a strong opponent for several years. The probable lineup for Carolina will be as follows:

Forwards—Johnson, Scruggs, Long.

Center—Tandy, Long, Holding.

Guards—R. Tennent, Andrews, R. Davis.

PROFESSIONALISM DISCUSSED

N. C. A. A. Agitates Problem. University Men There

Many facts of interest to the world of college athletics were brought forth to public view when the National Collegiate Athletic Association met at the Hotel Astor, New York, Cecember 29th. After a morning spent in listening to he discussion of the ideals of college sport, the two hundred and more delegates spent the afternoon learning of the accomplishments in athletics throughout the lengih and breadth of the land. Reprrsentatives of 158 institutions were present, including Mr. Chas. T. Woolen, Dr. Vernon Howell and Professor C. H. Herty from Carolina.

The purpose of the meeting was set forth by Dean L. R. Briggs, of Harvard, who acted as president of the convention. It was, briefly, the betterment of intercollegiate athletics. Many addresses were made and opinions exchanged by professors from widely different sections of the country.

The chief talk was made by Ex-President William H. Taft as the representative from Yale, where he is professor of Law. Mr. Taft has always kept up an interest in athletics since his Harvard days, forty years aga.

PREPAREDNESS

The expenditure by the college physician of some fifteen or twenty dollars for printing and postage ought to result in the saving to the students of much more than that amount of money and considerable incidental discomfort. If these directions are followed, it is possible to prevent outbreaks of grippe here in Chapel Hill such as have occurred over the country. While the following out of these instructions may not necessarily mean success at examination time, still, a gross violation of them may incapacitate us altogether for the toils upon which we are about to enter, and while our contemporaries are passing off math with a gusto, we may be shaking with chills between infirmary sheets or holding thermometers between glowing lips. Thus we may find ourselves in arrears when our hours are counted up at the final reckoning time; we may not be sophomores or juniors, or may even fail to graduate, all because we overate or wore damp shoes.

While being careful of our own welfare, it is to our own interests to take some care for our neighbor's health—not to sneeze in too close proximity to him or place ourselves in juxtaposition to him when about to cough. Anyone practicing such atrocities, says a Greensboro editor in discussing the matter of cold contagion, should be met with assault, the attack depending, of course, upon the violence of the sneeze and the capacity of the man. In other words, the editor quoted advises everybody to shun sneezing companions, bad coughers disdain.

Wherefore, as the college physian adviseth, let us put on the breastplate of precaution, the girdle of goodsense, and, having shod our feet with waterproof sandals. fill our lamps, like the wise virgins, with oil—cod liver preferred—and await the coming of dry weather.

THE FIRST TWO WEEKS

Last year a Senior remarked that the examination period was to him a time of comparative leisure. Being asked for an explanation he replied that he prepared his work during the two weeks preceding the examination period. Though exaggerated, this statement was probably based on truth, because this Senior appeared to do no studying but yet made creditable grades.

The space between the reopening of college after Christmas and examinations can be a profitable period if we will make it such. Concentaated work at this time may mean success on a course which otherwise we might have little chance of passing. Again, even though we may need little preparation on a course, it will profit us to do that little during this period, in order that we may have more time to rest during examinations, and thus keep ourselves in better physical condition for those strenuous mental exercises. Right now is the time to start reviewing. If we get well in mind now, while we have leisure, the main outlines of our various courses, preparation immediately before the individual examinations will be comparatively rapid and easy. And what is to prevent our studying? Certainly everything is conducive to it. Inclement weather and insecure footing prevent our tarrying long outdoors. We are even protected against the distant, disturbing rattle of the electric piano by the fact that our windows are down and the drug store portals closed.

So if we be like the busy bee and improve our shining hours, examination period may not be the reign of terror after all.

MOMIYAMA PLEASED

Japanese Student Likes Life in Carolina

You have seen him, the "Fat Japanese," Mr. H. Momiyama, who came unheralded and now moves silently about the campus, observing closely and working diligently to overcome his deficiency in English. He is composed of sixty-four inches of congeniality and a hundred and eighty-five pounds of politeness. With a doff of the hat, he greets all with a pleasant smile and a courteous bow, whether freshman, senior or professor.

Before coming here Mr. Momiyama spent some time, and as he says much money, in California trying to get a grip on the English language, but claims that he has learned more at Carolina in three months than he did in two years in California.

When asked to make a comparison between California and North Carolina, Mr. Momiyama said: "California country fine, but North Carolina better. In California too much hot—too much fog. In North Carolina nice cool, all time just right. In California people not social like in North Carolina where all students fine, all professors great, all girls beautiful."

"How about the girls in California, are they not beautiful?"

"Yes, they—they all right."

Mr. Momiyama said that ever since Commodore Perry opened Japan's door to the outside world, all of his people looked upon American institutionss as ideal models for them to follow. While other countries have sent missionaries to Japan none of them, so far, have been able to weild as much influence there as the Americans. All institutions, such as factories, banks, railways, colleges and even the Government are, as much as possible, founded on the American principle. He said that while in form his Government was an imperial monarchy in reality it was a republic. To prove that America never gets too modern for Japan he sighted the fact that the referendum was a law in his country and said that the recall would soon be adopted.

"Japan, what is it?" he said was a question that all people were asking and one that Japan was trying to answer. All nations have had a hand in making Japan great, but America has labored the hardest for the result, and therefore Japan is grateful to America, and wants the Americans to know that all people in Japan are anxious that a very close and friendly relationship should exist between the two countries.

In order that the students may learn something about the industrial, educational and political changes that are taking place, and know, "Japan, what it is," today, Mr. Momiyama has donated to the library a collection of books on the subject. They are: Tohoku Imperial University, College of Agriculture of Imperial University, The Artisan School of Tokyo, The Red Cross Society of Japan, Fisheries of Japan, The City of Tokyo, Educational Charts and Maps of Japan, Information For Tourist, Business in Japan, Vital Statistics of Japan 1915, The Imperial Army, Japan As It Is, Kyoto Technical School. Relief Work in Japan, Medical Administration of the Japanese Empire, Outlines of Agriculture in Japan, Rural Life in Japan, Mining Industry in Japan, Imperial Government Railways, Japanese Wood Specimens.

CLASS QUINTS START UP

Sophs and Freshmen To Play First Game Tonight

Class basketball promises to be even more lively this year than it was last year. A definite schedule has been made out for the first half of the season. The schedule for the second half will follow later. The winner of the first round will play the winner of the second for the class championship. All games will be played in old Commons Hall with the exception of the final championship game, that will be played on the gym court.

It has been found necessary to adopt certain rules at the outset for the vital good of the league. Hithertofore class athletics have suffered seriously on account of confused schedules. Games have been postponed when there was no reason for delay. The managers of the various teams now must be ready to play on the schedule date or forfeit the game. The eligibility rule made by the Greater Council is still in vogue. No man who has played in two varsity games is eligible for class, but varsity scrubs who have not

WEEKLY CALENDAR REGULAR

Tar Heel To Print One Every Week; Cooperation Necessary

More than a year ago the Tar Heel printed every week a calendar of things to happen during the next week. This week the Tar Heel has attempted to revive a good old custom, by printing such a calendar. "The What's to Happen and When" calendar will appear regularly hereafter.

For this calendar to be complete the Tar Heel in this department must have the cooperation of the students and of the University in general. A good way to make public your county club meeting, High School club meeting, class basketball or baseball game, and enterainments or lectures on or off the campus, is to have a notice of it put in the "What's to Happen and When" calendar.

Either tell Hermas Stephenson or any member of the Tar Heel Board, what it is and when it is to happen, or drop a notice of it in the Tar Heel Box in the Y. M. C. A. Building.

The Tar Heel will appreciate information from any one concerning any coming event which will be of interest to the student body or to even a small part of it.

Concluded from fourth page strong as to lead to abuses and vicious extremes, he did not think either college or intercollege athletics ought to be given up.

Professor Corwin spoke to the point upon the subject of professionalism. He said:

In the first place it encourages the development of a few for the entertainment of many, which is undemocratic and illogical. It kills the spirit and goes back to the gladiatorial idea, eliminating from athletics all notion of recreation and physical development.

The incentive to victory is perfectly legitimate and should be present. Competition is the spice of athletic life. The game for the game's sake would be tame and a less perfect reflection of life, without the desire to excel or the will to win.

Professor Herty was chosen as representative of the third district of the N. C. A. A. for the ensuing year.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have.

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect Clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

On another page of this issue will be found mention of the various prizes offered for literary accomplishments. Those who aspire that way may find some encouragement and help in the following—

Anybody can write a story about college life. If he has not attended college, so much the better. His imagination is the less trammeled. A few simple rules must be observed, however.

1. All heroes are named Jack, Stanley, or Dick.

2. All college men wear sweaters always, and smoke short, flat-bowled pipes.

3. There is always a "Fatty," who is a funny fellow.

4. Any four college men make up a quartette which can sing "Merhileeee we ro-hull alonung" at any time.

5. All college men are wooing a girl named Dorothy or Betty or Helen, who is "sweet and pure as an angel."

6. All college men address one another as "old hoss."

7. College men never study, but spend their time in tossing repartee back and forth.

8. All college rooms are adorned with pennants and pictures of actresses (with or without their costumes.)

9. All college students call their fathers "Pater," and speak of "the honor of the dear old school" in a husky voice.

10. Volumes of Kipling or Service, and Henry W. Grady's speech may be found on any college student's bookshelf.

11. A great many Juniors are engaged, but most Seniors are woman haters. The stage of falling for chorus girls usually plays out after the Sophomore year.

We are indebted to the Harvard Lampoon for these pointers. That paper is fortunate in possessing an excellent jokesmith, who achieved his literary fame after having taken a correspondence course in motion picture writing. We believe they should have such a course here. In that way, the Pickwick and the two new movies could be used by the University as laboratories.

We cannot go to press without making comment upon the changed attitude which is noticeable among the students and some of the younger and better looking of the faculty, since the holidays. The light of expectancy and hope beams upon many faces.

Already the dreams of one of them have been realized, and that encourages the rest of us in feeling that we may yet reap the fruits of the leap year. Yet while we feel that, (1) etiam celeritas in desiderio, mora est, still we should remember that (2) mora omnis ingrata est, sed facit sapientiam, if we are constrained to wait four years for another chance.

1. In desire, swiftness itself is delay.

2. Delay is always painful, but we are wiser for it.

Dr. E. C. Branson spoke in Elizabeth City Saturday, December 11, at County Progress Day and in Manteo, N. C., on December 13.

Dr. E. C. Branson will address the United Daughters of the Confederacy at Goldsboro on January 19th. His subject is "Robert E. Lee."

Your steady cigarette must suit your own taste, of course.

Fatimas may or may not do that—you can't tell until you try them.

But in addition to the right taste you want "COMFORT" too—comfort for the throat and tongue and no "mean" feeling after smoking. You want a SENSIBLE cigarette.

Test any other cigarette in the world alongside of Fatimas and you'll find that Fatimas are the most "comfortable" and "sensible" cigarette that you ever smoked.

COMMISSION ON RACE PROBLEMS MEETS HERE

Noted Southern Educators Assemble on Hill

The University Commission for the Study of Negro Problems in the South met here Wednesday in Professor Branson's office. Eleven professors from Southern educational institutions were present.

The purposes of this commission are to meet in certain centers and have thoughtful men discuss race problems of the South, to promote a sympathetic study of race problems in the South, especially among students, and to make up a body of constructive thought about race problems.

Meetings of the commission have been held in Montgomery, Nashville, Richmond, Memphis and Durham. At the meeting in Chapel Hill no long papers were read, but short discussions and suggestions were made bearing upon the need to study the negro and give him instruction, and the financial exploitation of negroes by unscrupulous white men. Other problems were also touched upon.

The professors here who were called upon to say a few words were L. A. Williams, H. M. Chase, J. G. D. Hamilton, L. R. Wilson, N. W. Walker, A. Henderson, M. C. S. Noble, and M. H. Stacy.

The following are the professors on the committee who were present at the meeting: Jas. F. Dillard, from Charlottesville; W. M. Huntley, V. M. I.; Dr. Morse, University of S. C.; Dr. Pharr, University of Florida; Dr. DeLoach, University of Georgia; E. C. Branson, University of N. C.; Prof. Scroggs, University of Louisiana; Prof. W. S. Sutton (chairman), Texas; Dean Hoskins, Tennessee; Dr. D. Y. Thomas, Arkansas; and Dean Doyster, University of Alabama.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

State Championship Progressing; Teams Meet Here in March

As the basketball season progresses interest is being shown in the state highschool championship to be held this year. It is expected that about fifty schools will enter. Those already entered are Raleigh, Durham, Wilmington, Winston-Salem, Asheville, Spencer, Belmont, Lexington, Clayton, Cary, Matthews, Chapel Hill, and Unionville. The strongest team from the East will meet the champions of the West here sometime during the first of March. A cup will be awarded to the winner.

Some of Mr. Taft's remarks will be interesting:

"On the prevailing great question of summer baseball, I am inclined to be temperate, but I have little patience with the muckerism evil. The trend of the times is against rowdyism, but it has not been eliminated." He continued by saying that although the desire to win may become so

CLASS BASKETBALL

Freshmen Lead League Juniors at Tail End

FIRST SERIES NEARLY OVER

Freshmen Beat Sophs and Juniors; Seniors Lose to Sophs, Win From J's

The standing of the class basketball teams at present is as follows:

	won	lost	per.
Freshmen	2	0	1.000
Seniors	1	1	.500
Sophomores	1	1	.500
Juniors	0	2	.000

There are two more games to be played in the first half of the series -Sophomores vs. Juniors and Freshmen vs. Seniors

Freshmen Defeat Sophomores

The Freshmen defeated the Sophomores in basketball last Saturday by the score of 16 to 11. The game from start to finish was full of excitement and ginger. Fitzsimmons and Cuthbertson for the Freshmen deserved special credit for the victory of their team. Fitzsimmons shot three goals, while Cuthbertson pocketed the ball two times. Armstrong was the big noise on the Sophomore team, shooting three of their field goals. Tennent also put up a good game.

During the first half the ball see-sawed up and down the field practically the whole time. Only three goals were made during this period, and when the half ended the Sophomores were in the lead 4-2. However the Freshmen broke loose in the latter part of the second half and were able to pile up enough points to enable them 16 to 11.

The Freshmen have a very strong team and play together well. For the whole second half they showed the grit which enabled them to win. The Sophs also showed a hard fighting spirit. Below is the line-up:

Fresh	position	Sophs
	center
Fitzsimmons		Perry
	right forward
Jewett		Tennent
	left forward
Shepherd		Armstrong
	right guard
Clarvoe, Hutchinson		Gwyn
	left guard
Cuthbertson		Bryant

Field goals: Fitzsimmons 3, Cuthbertson 2, Shepherd 2, Armstrong 3, Tennent 1.

Foul goals: Cuthbertson 2, Armstrong 3.

Seniors Defeat Juniors

The Seniors won from the Juniors Monday in a very close game. Starting to work in the second half with the odds 10 to 4 against them the Juniors started to piling up points until the whistle was blown with the Seniors only one point to the good, the final score being 14 to 13 in favor of

FULLER SISTERS COMING

Three English Women Sing Folk Songs Here Feb. 1

Dorothy, Rosalind, and Cynthia Fuller, of Dorset, England, who have been touring the United States are going to sing the folk-songs of Ireland, Scotland, and England in Gerrard Hall, on Feb. 1. The Misses Fuller have sung to many cultivated audiences throughout the country, including those at Harvard, Bryn Mawr, Columbia, Smith, New England Conservatory of Music and at the White House. By a stroke of good fortune this attraction has been secured for the University and the recital will be the unique and memorable musical event of the year.

The Fullers appear in early Victorian costume with the quaint hoop skirts and the airs and graces of that period. And they really sing the old English ballads and folk-songs in just the way they should be sung, accompanied by the playing of Miss Cynthia Fuller on an Irish harp.

They maintain a straightforward objectiveness necessary to folk music and their gestures and dance steps seem perfectly spontaneous and never studied. With the Misses Fuller the important thing is to get the song sung distinctly, simply and joyously. The humor, pathos, and dramatic and poetic quality of the old folk songs are right on the surface where no one can miss them; and because they are songs of country folk who had no thought or consciousness of art, they have that sincerity which disarms criticism.

The singing of the Misses Fuller has had the effect of reviving interest in the old ballads and has attracted the attention and praise of all the prominent papers and and magazines in America.

This is the second attraction presented by the lyceum department of the Y. M. C. A. taking the place of the old Star Courses. It is hoped that this higher type entertainment, on a plane with The Servant in The House, will be sufficiently appreciated and supported by the University community to justify the continuance of this program next year.

WHAT'S TO HAPPEN AND WHEN

Sunday—January 16th—Regular services in churches. At 12:30 discussion at the Sigma Chi house led by Rev. Moss. At 3 o'clock Masonic meeting at Presbyterian church.

Monday—January 17th—Chapel. President Graham.

Tuesday—January 18th—At 7 o'clock—Discussion in Y. M. C. A. on "Examinations" led by Robert House.

Wednesday—Jan 19th—At 10 o'clock-Reign of Terror begins.

January 27, 28, 29—The first series of spring lectures for 1916 will be delivered by Mr. E. A. Loew, of Oxford, England.

MEMORIAL TO PROF. BAIN

Next Philological Journal to Be in Memory of Him

The January number of Studies in Philology, the quarterly journal of the Philologial Club of the University, will be the Bain Memorial number. This journal, the only one of its kind in the South, already enjoys an excellent reputation among scholars both of this country and Europe. The Bain Memorial number promises to be one of the most interesting ever issued. The contributions to this number from scholars well known in their fields of work will deal with either questions of classical scholarship or comparative syntax; yet there will be quite a variety in the material as shown by the titles of some of the contributions. The contributors to this number were all associated with Prof. Bain during his lifetime either as colleagues, fellow students or as pupils and this fact lends additional interest to their articles.

Prof. W. P. Tent, of Columbia, who was associated with Prof. Bain at Sewanee, will discuss Translations of Horace's Odes. As a preface to his article Prof. Trent writes a graceful sketch of some early impressions of Dr. Bain. Prof. C. F. Smith of Wisconsin will give a critical commentary on a passage from Thucydides. Prof. James F. Royster, formerly of the faculty of the University and now a member of faculty of the University of Texas, will deal with the causative verb. Other contributors, whose articles are all on questions of classical scholarship or syntax are: Prof. B. L. Gildersleeve, of Johns Hopkins; Prof. Bocock, of Georgia; Prof. S. H. Chamberlayn, of South Carolina; and Dr. George Howe and Dr. Henry of the University faculty.

INTERESTING LECTURES COMING IN SPRING

Loew, Woodbridge, McClellan and Perry speakers

The spring lectures for 1916 will be delivered by a group of the best known speakers, taken as a whole, that have ever visited the University during one term, and they promise a greater and more interesting variety of subjects than any body of Carolina students have ever had the opportunity of hearing before.

The first series will be given January 27, 28 and 29 by Mr. E. A. Loew, of Oxford University, England, before the Philological Club and the advanced students in languages. Other students who are interested in the subjects are invited to attend. They are: 1. "A Recently Discovered Manuscript of Pliny the Younger." 2. "Ancient Book-Making." 3. "How the Classics Came Down to Us."

The McNair Lectures, which seek a reconciliation between Science and Religion, will be delivered on March 3, 4, and 5 by Professor F. E. Woodbridge, Dean of the Graduate School and Professor of Philosophy at Columbia University. His general subject will be, "The Purpose of History," under the following subheads: 1. "From History to Philosophy." 2. "Pluralism of History." 3. "Evolution and Progress."

The Weil Lectures on American Citizenship, that were delivered last year by Ex-President Taft, will be given this year by Professor George Brinton Mc-

U. N. C. 51-STATESVILLE 14

Carolina Quint Scores 22 Points in Last 10 Min.

The Statesville Y. M. C. A. aggregation went down in defeat Thursday night before "Chick" Doak's clockwork quintet to the score of 51 to 14. As usual the team began to play about the last ten minutes of the game piling up about 22 points in that time.

In spite of the fast finish the game was unusually slow and marked in the early part by Carolina missing "crips" and Statesville shooting "snakes." At the end of the first half the score stood 19 to 9 in favor of Carolina. Yank Tandy put 4 field goals to his credit during that period.

The second half started off in the same slow fashion but ended in a fine exhibition of fast team work and goal shooting for Carolina. Meb Long found the basket in the second half and added 8 field goals to the score. Tennent and Andrews again held their forwards to a standstill allowing only three goals totalled, while they themselves added to the count. Johnston played a star game in working the ball up the field.

Line up.

Carolina		Statesville
Johnston	R. F.	Wakefield
Long	L. F.	Kimball
Tandy	C.	Grey
Tennent	R. G.	Brady
Andrew	L. G.	Orr

Summary: Field goals, Carolina: Johnston 2, Long 9, Tandy 6, Tennent 3, Andrews 4. Statesville: Wakefield 2, Kimball 1, Grey 1, Brady 1.

Foul goals: Carolina: Long 1 out of 4, Andrews 2 out of 3.

GOOCH'S CAFE TO BE MOVED

"The Carolina Smoke Shop" to Be Opened in Old Athletic Store

The new buildings on Front Street are nearing completion. The building next to the corner of the old Athletic Store will be used by Mr. Stroud for a garage.

The building next to this one will be a moving picture show, operated by Lindsey and Stroud. The name will be, "The Tar Heel Theatre" and will have all the modern improvements and a balcony which will be a great improvement on the old Pickwick.

The next building will be occupied by Gooch's Cafe which will be moved from from the brick store below the Holiday Studio. Next comes another moving picture show which will be operated by Mr. S. J. Brockwell. It will be called "The Pickwick" and all the furnishings will be up to date. There will be a fire-proof room for the machine and the ventilation system will be complete.

The big brick store going up next to the Bank of Chapel Hill is being built by The Chapel Hill Realty Co. and will be occupied by the E. A. Brown Furniture Co., which has been located next to Stroud and Tilley's store.

On June 1st the Carolina Drug Store will be moved out of the way and work will be begun on a new brick building which will be occupied by the Carolina Drug Co.

Feb. 15th "The Carolina Smoke Shop" will be opened up in the old Athletic Store. Its owner, Mr. A. G. Webb is in Baltimore at the present time buying new fixtures.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

"We cannot lay too much emphasis on the fact that as administrators of the welfare of the University, our chief concern is to conserve and steadily to increase the strength of the faculty. Every change made in the staff, however small the position affected, and however temporary the change, is important, because it is a change in the fundamental source of the institution's vitality. It means a gain or a loss at the heart of its life. The work of a university has no worth except as its faculty are workers of worth. Although the ability, energy, and ideals of the members of the faculty vary as they do in the members of any other profession, and although, in spite of this variation, uniformitory of salary in the various grades is essential, it is no less essential that men of unusual distinction be recognized and encouraged, and rewarded in every possible way by the faculty and the governing board. No price is too great to pay for the services of a great teacher, and no democratic commonwealth is rich enough in men nor poor enough in means to part with a great teacher at any price."

The "pre-med" group—those taking one year of science preporatory to taking up medicine—will disappear this year, as two years of college work will be required hereafter.

"The question involved constantly shapes itself to this point: how genuinely great, and how widely serviceable does state policy in North Carolina consider it actually and practically desirable for the University of the State to become?

The plan adopted last year for a more intelligent selection and correlation of studies seems to be working well. To supplement this system of specialized study, and to stimulate scholarship of a higher and a broader type, the faculty has adopted two distinctions to be awarded at commencement to be known as Honors or Highest Honors. 'Instead of the prescription of a certain number of courses, the student is given wide independent reading and investigation, and at the end of his college course an examination covering the whole field. It is not expected that a large number of students will read for Honors, but the best students will do so, and since the system aims at transferring the emphasis from the course to the subject, thus also transferring the responsibility from the lecturer to the student, outside reading of an intensive nature, in term-time and out, will be immensely stimulated.....It will be the object of the faculty to arouse in the students the feeling that Honors at graduation are the greatest academic distinction attainable..... Care will be taken, also to keep reading for Honors free from the narrowness incident to 'grinding.' This may be done through study groups, conducted by students outside of class, in the society of older students in the same field, and members of the faculty,..... through the encouragement of a high level of thought and conversation; through the relation, for example, of literature to art and music, or the ancient classics, English, French, or German literature. The plan will dispose of certain difficulties felt, though not always consciously, by ambitious students, which lead them to emphasize unduly extra-curriculum activities... The administration of the reading for Honors is vested in each division in a committee on degrees with distinction, to have authority to prescribe the requirements, and to provide tutorial assistance.

"Whatever may be said for the value of intercollegiate sports and 'big' games—and a great deal may be truly said in their support—the main truth is that the chief concern of college administration should be toward an intelligent and deeply interested effort to make the intra-mural sports of the studeuts more vigorous and more inclusive.

—THE PRESIDENT.

"During this year I have made a study of the records of the three upper classes, both collectively and by groups, and I herewith submit the results of this investigation. The average grade of these three classes for the entire college was 3.18; the average grade of the Senior class was 2.80; the average grade of the Junior class was 2.60, and from this class twelve men were elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa Society; the average grade of the Sophomore class was 3.46.

—DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS.

"I again earnestly direct your attention to the need of lengthening the course of study leading to the degree of LL. B. In my report of last year I said: "All the leading law schools in the country have made this change (from a two years to a three years course). A number of weaker schools not able, from the size of the faculty, to provide a three years course have divided the work in their catalogues so as to give it the appearance of a three years course. Since the three-year law course has become the general standard the two-year schools are under a serious disadvantage. To keep abreast of progress in legal education, to place our degree on a parity with the degree which is now recognized as the standard, it is imperative that another year be added to our curriculum for the degree of Bachelor of Laws."

—DEAN OF LAW SCHOOL.

HOLD Y. M. C. A. MEETINGS

Francis Miller Comes to Hill First Week in February

On Feb. 4th, 5th, and 6th, Mr. Francis Miller of New York City, a member of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., will be in Chapel Hill for a series of student meetings conducted by the University Y. M. C. A. Mr. Miller is remembered in Chapel Hill as a member of the Mott Campaign, and better yet as a young man of charming personality and convincing earnestness.

Mr. Miller is a graduate of Wasnington and Lee University and while there was the most popular student on the campus. His work in the past three years has been among the preparatory schools of the eastern part of the United States.

He comes to Chapel Hill as a young man with a message for young men. He comes with an earnestness that is convincing and will be of great help to the University in adding a real and lasting stimulus to its moral and religious life.

Mr. Miller will address the student body on Friday evening, Feb. 4th, and again on Sunday, Feb. 6th. At other times during these few days he will speak to informal groups in the dormitories and fraternity halls. He will be welcomed by a number of warm friends.

SOUTH AMERICAN CLUB

To Have Latin-American Ambassadors as Guests

A number of students interested in South America gathered together last October and organized the Latin-American Club of the University of North Carolina with D. E. Eagle, President; C. C. Miller, Secretary and Dr. Pierson of the History Department, Advisor. The purpose of the Club is to study South American peoples, countries and commerce. The membership of the Club is composed of the students and Faculty of the University who are interested in South America.

With the increasing interest in Latin-American trade, the pertinent discussion of Pan-American Unionism and the ever present Monroe Doctrine, the Latin-American Club was but a natural outgrowth of the interest being evidenced in these things by the large number of students in Spanish and the large class in Latin-American History.

During the Spring the Club has already planned to have as its guests ambassadors of Latin-American countries, representatives from the executive committee of the Pan-American Union and other Latin-American specialists, among them being Mr. C. L. Chandler of the Southern Railway.

Among other objects of the organization is a movement to interest Latin-American students in attending the University; to assist University students who desire to go to South America to secure the proper opportunity, and to promote in so far as they are able, a spirit of friendliness, through better understanding, between the peoples of these two great continents.

Letters have been received by the Club from Mr. Fairfax Harrison, President of the Southern Railway, expressing his pleasure upon hearing of its organization. The Club has the approval and encouragement of the Faculty and Administration.

The meetings of the organization take place every two weeks on Wednesday night at 6:45 in the Y. M. C. A. Papers are presented on various aspects of South American life, geography and trade. The meetings are then thrown open for discussion by the members. Any one who is interested in Latin America will be gladly welcomed as a member, while the meetings are open to the University Community.

the Seniors.

During the first half the Seniors had things their way. Hazel Patterson got away with a very good shot, which seemed to start the Senior ball to rolling. However, things changed in the second half when Squires for the Juniors got his eye on the basket. It is probable that if there had been five more minutes of play the Juniors would have won the game.

Pell deserves credit for six of the fourteen points of the Seniors. Squires for the Juniors also shot three goals.

The lineup was as follows:

Seniors	Position	Juniors
Cowan		Marsh
	Center
Squires		Fred Patterson
	R. Forward
Harrell		Hazel Patterson
	L. Forward
Kendrick		Pell
	R. Guard
Isley, Deveraux		Shuford
	L. Guard

Field goals: Pell 3, H. Patterson 2, F. Patterson 1, Cowan 1, Squires 3, Kendrick1 1, Isley 1.
Foul goals: Kendrick 3.
Referee: Doak.

Freshmen Defeat Juniors

In a one sided basketball game Wednesday the Freshmen walked over the Juniors by the score of 24 to 7. Not once were the Freshmen in danger, and they were able to work the Juniors as they wished. In the first half Shepherd for the Freshman ran amuck and did serious damage to the Juniors before he could be stopped. His playing was the feature of the game. 14 of the 24 points are to be accredited to him. The score at the end of the first half stood 16 to 0. However, in the next half Squires for the Juniors was able to get three field goals, and this with a foul goal from Kendrick gave the Juniors their 7 points.

The Freshmen showed that they have a squad of men who are fast and work together. They were good also on passing. Jewett for the Freshmen played a good game, getting 4 goals. Squires was the mainstay of the Juniors, shooting 6 of their 7 points.

The line up was:

Freshmen	Position	Juniors
Fitzsimmons		Marsh
	Center
Shepherd		Kendrick
	R. Forward
Jewett		Squires
	L. Forward
Clarvoe		Deveraux
	R. Guard
Hutchinson		Isley, Watkins

Field goals: Shepherd 7, Jewett 4, Clarvoe 1, Squires 3.
Foul goals: Kendrick 1

Sophomores Defeat Seniors

In a fast and rough basketball game Friday afternoon the Sophomores more than doubled the score on the Seniors. By passing well and scoring some nifty shots the Sophs were able to hold the upper classmen to 11 points while they romped off with 24. One Ray Armstrong was the particular star of the game, shooting four field goals and one foul goal for the Sophs.

At the end of the first half the score stood 11 to 7 in favor of the Sophomores. By playing together and by accurate shooting they were able to net 13 points during the last part of the game. Tennent and Lynch for the Sophomores also put up good games.

Below is the line-up:

Sophs	Position	Seniors
	Center
Lynch		Blue
	Right Forward
Tennent		Patterson, F.
	Left Forward
Armstrong		Cowan
	Right Guard
Gwyn		Parker
	Left Guard
Bryant		Pell

Substitutions: Neiman for Gwynn, Royall for Parker, Shuford for Pell, Pike for Blue.

Field goals: Armstrong 4, Tennent 3, Lynch 3, Bryant 1, Blue 2, Patterson 1, Pell 1.

Foul goals: Armstrong 1, Cowan 3, Lynch 1.

CAROLINA DEFEATS ELON 31-10

Tar Heels Strong on Defense and Goal Shooting

Carolina trounced the Elon quintette last Monday night in a contest featured by excellent team work and clever shooting on the part of the winners. The score at the end of the first half favored Carolina 11 to 5 and the final score stood 31 to 10.

The first half was somewhat slow and lacked the pep displayed in the second half. Carolina scored 10 field goals and a foul in the second half. Johnson exhibited a beautiful game during the last part scoring four of the ten field goals. Tennent and Andrews starred at guard, holding the Elon forward to no goals and scoring 3 apiece themselves.

The line-up was:

Carolina	position	Elon
Johnson	r. f.	Bradford J.
Long	l. f.	Hardcastle
Tandy	c.	Bradford R.
Tennent R.	r. g.	Morrison
Andrews	l. g.	Sorrels

Summary: Field goals—Carolina Johnson 5, Long 3, Tandy 4, Tennent 2, Andrews 1. Elon—Bradford R. 3, Morrison 1.

Foul goals—Long 1 out of 2. Hardcastle 2 out of 3, Bradford R. 0 out of 2.

Substiutions—Carolina, C. Holden for Tandy, R. Davis for Andrews.

Referee—Clay of Durham Y. M. C. A.

Score keepers—Watkins and Fleming.

Score—Carolina 31; Elon 10.

This Matter Stands THIS WAY

When you go to your Tailor to order a Suit of Clothes you're governed by his idea of what sort of a Suit you should have.

Few men know for themselves what's what.

After your Suit or Overcoat is made you can tell whether or not you like it.

But if you don't like it, you kind 'o feel you have to take it, anyway.

That's not very pleasant.

Now, then—what we want to say to you, Men, is this:—

We make a study of Men's Clothing—study the details—study everything that will in any way tend to the production of perfect clothes for all sorts of Men.

Then we have the Clothes built by the best Tailors in the Land. Men who understand their business.

We'll astonish Men who have never been here for Clothes with the high class of tailoring in our ready-to-wear garments.

And you don't have to take any garment that is not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

OVERCOATS $15, $18.50 to $25

DRESSING ROOM GOSSIP

The following poem was composed by "Buzz" Tennent on a history lecture. It was written on the back of an old quiz book, which Buzz was preserving as a curio, because of the figures "98" written across the front of it in blue pencil. Buzz says the book was the source of inspiration which made possible this "versatile" gem (as he calls it). Here it it is:—

Half a week, half a week, half a week onward,
Then to Math I exams go the three hundred.
Theirs is a sorry lot
They who have failed to spot,
For they no doubt will not
Make half a hundred.

Bum as this is, we print it out of respect to Buzz, since it is the first publishable contribution he has submitted in quite a while.

Along with this spell of warm weather and rain, conductive to the sprouting of young ideas, several other harbingers of spring and exams are to be noticed about the campus and town. In the drug stores, the hot chocolate has given place to the black cow and the dope. Meb long has gotten out his accordian, and Slob Jones has been rounding his quartette into harmony. Chief Long had to order him to desist from harmonizing on the streets the other night. when the charms of the music held four hundred students enthralled, to the utter congestion of traffic on the street between Durham and Hillsboro, whatever the name of it is.

Another very significant fact is the constant inquiry upon the tongues of freshmen who haven't already found out, as to the whereabouts of Babbie Welch's room. Bobbie claims credit for passing more men in first math than any two instructors in the department.

The large number of nervous wrecks at the infirmary may be a sign of what is to come, although Dr. Mangum says it is merely the tail end of an epidemic hitting Chapel Hill.

Going up town in these troubulous timesis rendered entirely unsafe by the large army of clothing and necktie agents, who under the guise of buying you a drink, entice you into a drug store, whence it is almost impossible to emerge with your liabilities intact. The agent has a skillful accomplice lurking there who makes you feel like a cheap skate if you don't order at least two suits and a Palm Beach, which you never knew you needed until you went in the store.

Mr. "Mack" informs us that the post office is doing an unusual business just now. In Chapel Hill when a young man's fancy lightly turns, etc. the post office is the only avenue of overflow.

"In Smith of Raleigh we have perhaps the best high school end of several seasons. Only in his tackling does he outshine Cochran of Charlotte. Crayton's punting was the best this season. He was a steady man upon whom Captain Pharr could rely when his goal was in danger. Gant of Wilmington did some good work, so he has been given given an end there being no place in the backfield. As tackles Haynes and Norwood of Raleigh would make a good pair. Ritch and Johnson are also good men.

At guard Elliott is the best man in the ring. The others are fair. We have in Terrell or Raleigh a finished high school center. Rhodes is good but not in Terrell's class. At quarter Champion of Raleigh would be captain and is the best back of the season. Pharr has a good head but is rather slow. Pruitt of Charlotte is a good line man. Hotchkiss of Raleigh is given second on account of his weight. Silverman and Faucette make a good pair of backs. Templeton would be on the first team but for his lack of experience. Wilson is a good man at half or quarter. He will make a good man next year. Mills of Raleigh would have made quarter on the first squad had he played in a sufficient number of games.

"It must be borne in mind the difficulty under which the committee has selected the all-State team. Not only were we forced to pick the team from those schools we saw in action, Raleigh, Charlotte, and Wilmington, but we were not able to see but just a limited number of games by these teams. So we may have seen some players at their worst; others at their best, thus not judging a man by the work he had done throughout the season. But at least we have given an accurate decision of the work of the high school players during the climax of the season.

Even a King can't dictate what you should like or not like

If it so happened that Fatimas were originally "Made and blended for the King of Whatiz"—would that fact prove that you were going to like Fatimas best?
It would not.
A man's taste is his own. A cigarette that might delight some old potentate's palate would not necessarily please you.
That's why we leave Fatimas up to your taste.
But there is something more than good taste that is mighty important to you.
No matter how good tasting a cigarette may be—it can only be the SENSIBLE cigarette for you if it is comfortable, too.
Its pure tobacco must be cool and comfortable to your throat at all times. And it must leave you feeling fine and fit at the end of a hard-smoking day.
Will it do all that?
Then, it is the sensible cigarette for YOU.

There are thousands and thousands of men who believe that Fatima is the most sensible cigarette there is.
Try Fatimas yourself. You may discover—as these thousands of other men have—that Fatimas have just the cool, mellow taste that you've been longing for in a cigarette.
You may find that Fatimas have the kind of mildness which allows you to smoke more of them than you might of other cigarettes.
You may find that Fatimas offer you a little more satisfaction in every puff than you ever before found in any other cigarette.
Buy your first package of Fatimas and test them today.

THE FULLER SISTERS SING OLD FOLK-SONGS

Presnet Original and Delightful Entertainment

In their quaint, early Victorian costumes, the Misses Fuller captivated the audience in Gerrard Hall last Tuesday night the minute they appeared on the stage; and with the rendering of their program of English Ballads and Folk-songs they soon created a great bond of sympathy between themselves and the delighted audience. Nothing like their performance has ever before been given in Chapel Hill and nothing has ever been appreciated more. They made their audience feel the appeal and charm that the old songs, sprung from the very hearts of the people, have.

In their execution of these folk-songs there was none of the conscious posing of the drawingroom artist. Every number was rendered with an ease and simplicity that adds to the atmosphere of the past which they created. Their enunciation was perfect. Without any of the affectations of a poseur artist they simply sang the old folk-songs making the audience thoroughly feel the spirit of the numbers they rendered.

As to theme and place of origin their program was quite varied. The themes of the songs show the feeling of the simpler folk of the soil toward the various events of life. There were songs of work of the fields, laments of battle and war that took away so many of their number and simple romances of happy lovers. "Blackbirds and thrushes," one of their songs of Battle Long Ago was a strong protest against the loss of life in war told in a simple rustic song. "The Flowers of the Forest," a lament of the women for lovers and husbands killed in war, was one of the most effective numbers of their program. "Mowing the Barley," a Somerset romance showing the necessity of boldness in love, was one of the most popular of their songs. "O No, John," a humorous love song for three parts received great applause. By request they sang the "Lykewake Dirge" an old dirge from the north of England. This song was one of the most effective and interesting numbers of the program.

Their entire program, rendered with the accompaniment of an Irish harp, was given with a simplicity and lack of affectation that gave the real atmosphere of the past.

The ballads and songs which compose their program have been collected from all parts of England and Scotland. The Fuller sisters have collected some of them themselves by going among the people so that they may know just how these songs are sung. They know that folk-songs reveal the true feelings of the people, and they put forth every effort to render the songs they have collected with their true atmosphere. The result is that they have given us a very unusual but thoroughly enjoyable and interesting program which brings back the spirit and feeling of the people of long ago.
